Hahnemann Accepts Seventeen Students From Wilkes

Seventeen students who at the end of June completed their second undergraduate year in the innovative six-year Wilkes-Hahnemann Cooperative Medical Education Program have been notified that they have been accepted for early admission to the Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia.

The program, which was initiated in September 1972, calls for an intensive six-year program of study that enables the successful candidates to receive simultaneously their undergraduate baccalaureate degree and a Doctor of Medicine.

The announcement of those selected to enter the second (two-year) phase of the six-year program was made jointly by Atty. Frank Townend, president of the program's Policy Committee, and Dr. Anthony J. Turchetti, acting executive director and clinical coordinator of the Wilkes-Hahnemann Program.

The 17 named to go on to further study at the medical college in Philadelphia are: John Azain, Wilkes-Barre; Kathleen Barnhart, Philadelphia; Edward Boyer, Morristown; Jeanne Cullinan, Willow Grove; Michael Ferraro, Forty Fort; Ellen Field, Drexel Hill; James Guzek, Dunmore; Susan Krischunis, Luzerne; Thomas Lenns, Scranton; Maureen Maguire, Bear

Three of the principals who pioneered the creation of the innovative Wilkes-Hahnemann six-year cooperative medical education program in family medicine are shown at one of the meetings which were held in Wilkes-Barre, Washington, Philadelphia, and Harrisburg. Left to right, Dr. Ralph Rozelle, Wilkes College; Dr. Wilbur Oaks, Chief of Medicine at Hahnemann; and Representative Daniel J. Flood.

Creek; Bonita Metzger, Wilkes-Barre; Patricia Morris, Palisades Park, N. J.; Cynthia Patterson, Towanda; Deborah Pincofski, West Nanticoke; Janet Polansky, Pittston; Cynthia Solomon, Ashley; Doug Trostle, Adamstown.

At the time of the announcement it was pointed out that the initial plan under which the accelerated program was developed to provide more physicians in family medicine considered the fact that all those who completed the first two-year phase would not be admitted to Hahnemann.

Dr. Turchetti emphasized in his announcement of the 17 accepted that those who were not selected will have the opportunity to continue a pre-medical course and apply for early admission at the end of the third year and for regular admission after the normal four-year pre-medical degree program.

Nearly 100 began the highly competitive and academically tough program two years ago. That number had been gradually reduced for various reasons to less than 40 by the end of the third semester when the group entered the final portion of the first two-year phase that led to the climatic selection of the 17.

Alumnus Aids In Obtaining Grant

"This is one of the big ways in which the alumni can help the college," pointed out Art Hoover '55, director of alumni relations, recently as Wilkes College became a recipient of a $1500 grant from the Consolidated Cigar Corporation, a division of Gulf and Western company.

The big help that Hoover was referring to was provided by Atty. Jeffrey Gallet '64, a New York City lawyer, who actively pursued the grant.

"It is through alumni like Jeff Gallet who we must count on to meet our financial goals," cited Hoover.

Army, Joe assumed the reigns as wrestling and baseball coach at Tampa University in 1972 where he is presently engaged with making the Florida team a winner.

Tom Kelly Honored By Alumni

Thomas F. Kelly '69, director of development at the college, was recently the honored recipient of the "Alumni Appreciation Award" for his five years of distinguished service at Wilkes.

Tom will leave the college in August to study for his Ph.D. in Higher Education with a minor in economics at Cornell University. "We are going to miss Tom," chimed alumni relations director, Art Hoover, "He joined Wilkes right after graduation in 1969 and did a yeoman job in raising needed funds for the college, especially in the flood recovery period which followed the aftermath of Hurricane Agnes."

According to Hoover, "the Alumni Appreciation Award was established by the executive committee of the alumni association to honor those alumni who have distinguished themselves through college and association activities at Wilkes."

Kelly, a native of Forty Fort, assumed the task as director of evening and summer school upon graduation in 1969. At the commencement ceremonies he was awarded the "Dean's Cup," for the highest academic average for male graduates, and the "Outstanding Graduate Award."

Later moving to the development office in 1971, Tom served as assistant to the chancellor, the late Dr. Eugene S. Farley, before being named director of development in the spring of 1972.

Tom holds an M.A. in Economics from Lehigh University. Coinciding with his administrative duties, Kelly was also an instructor in the Economics Department. He is married to the former Nancy-Kay Ritz.

In brief ceremonies Art Hoover '55, director of alumni relations, is shown at right presenting the "Alumni Appreciation Award" to Tom Kelly '69, director of development, who will be leaving Wilkes in August.

President's Baccalaureate Message Highlights Commencement

This year's commencement took on extra meaning for Wilkes College President Francis J. Michellini as he found himself addressing the same class that he greeted as freshmen when he assumed the college presidency in the fall of 1970.

Dr. Michellini's Baccalaureate message and commencement address by Dr. Ruth Patrick, internationally known ecologist, shared the spotlight at the college's 27th annual commencement, Sunday, May 26, at the 109th Armory, Kingston.

The exercises had originally been scheduled for Ralston Field but the 559 graduating seniors and 76 masters' students had to receive their degrees indoors when unexpected showers prevailed.

Other keynotes of the 1974 commencement found honorary degrees being conferred upon Dr. Patrick and the Rev. Dr. Jule Ayers. The Rev. Ayers, a long-time friend of the college, and pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was cited for the "recognition of his dedicated service to his faith, to his community, to young people, and to his fellow man regardless of race, creed, or color. His courage, conviction, and forthright approach in dealing with real life situations have earned the respect of all who know him."

Among the special tributes paid to distinguished members of the class was the "Outstanding Graduate of the Year" award, presented by Art Hoover '55, director of alumni relations, to Peter Jadelis '74, who served as SG president during the 1973-74 school year.

Dr. Michellini's Address

I am honored to share with you, this final ceremony marking your commencement from Wilkes College. I am emotionally moved for two basic reasons: first — the recognition that this marks the first commencement ever held at Wilkes where its founding father, Dr. Eugene Farley, is not present. Although the memory of him is not as sharp or clear to you as to many others of us here, you should recognize that your educational opportunity was made possible by the vision and sacrifice of Dr. Farley and the many men and women who supported him in that vision.

The second reason is more personal. Four years ago, I welcomed you as freshmen. That was my first official act as president of Wilkes College after succeeding Dr. Farley. You and I shared many hopes and dreams that day. Four years later we can all say we never came close to imagining the challenges that would face us. Many did not meet those challenges and are not here. Many met them and made difficult choices that directed their lives in other pathways. Some have died — like Bobby McBride — and in their untimely deaths showed us all our mortality and taught the lesson of the need for faith in man's immortality. We did not dream of many of the challenges that were presented and were met. The flood of June 1972 posed questions of the very survival of your college. No institution had ever suffered such destruction as was visited upon this college and its community. All of this area here, to the very tops of those bleachers was under water just two years ago. Survival? Not just survival — but a renaissance of spirit resulted from that disaster. More was learned about the human spirit, the limited value of material possessions when weighed against the human values of love, compassion, unselfishness and friendships. You students — our faculty — our administrators — our staff personnel — all struggled, and worked to bring your college back to continue its mission. Support came from all over the United States — friends, companies, alumni — and in 89 days — and these 12 and 14 hour work days, every day — dormitories were open — academic buildings functioning — and your education continued. So our four years together have been a series of challenges — in the classroom — yes — but also in the lessons and trials that are part of life. These should have emphasized for us all the marks of an educated man — that the faculty formulated and adopted many years ago as the goals they set for their efforts — what Wilkes College hopes to achieve in the educational mission. Let me review these for you and ask you to consider in retrospect what understanding and commitment you have made to becoming "an educated man."

An educated man . . .

- . . . seeks truth, for without truth there can be no understanding;
- . . . possesses vision, for he knows that vision precedes all great attainments;
- . . . is aware of the diversity of ideas and beliefs that exist among men;
- . . . has faith in the power of ideals to shape the lives of men;
- . . . knows that man's progress requires intellectual vigor, moral courage, and physical endurance;
- . . . cultivates inner resources and spiritual strength, for they enrich his daily living and sustain him in times of crisis;
- . . . has ethical standards by which he lives;
- . . . respects the religious convictions of all men;
- . . . participates constructively in the social, economic, cultural, and political life of the community;
- . . . communicates ideas in a manner that assures understanding, for understanding unites men in their search for truth.

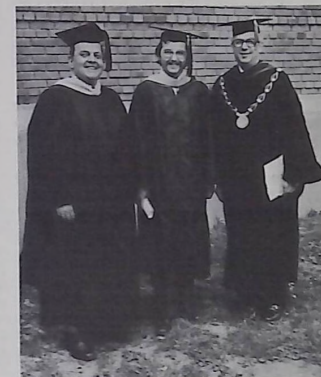

If these ideals expressed as statements have meaning to you — then certainly your years at Wilkes have charted new directions for your life.

The baccalaureate is traditionally a spiritual charge — an emphasis placed on our acknowledgement of the values that transcend scholarship and grades — values which in truth are the goals we seek in education.

In these four years we shared challenges to integrity, to authority — experienced the slanders and lies that bring pain — but also we shared the fun — the successful achievements — the joy of a heartfelt "thank you," and the awareness and confidence that the final joy comes from the ability to live with yourself in peace and with personal integrity. Nothing else matters if you can count on that faith in yourself to meet challenges the future may bring — just as we have shared and met the many challenges of the past four years. God bless you all.

Spring Teams Enjoy Banner Season

To say that spring just merely sprung would be putting it mildly as far as the Colonel spring sports program is concerned.

Although void of any titles the Wilkes lacrosse, baseball, and tennis teams enjoyed jubilant campaigns while the golf squad gave promise of things to come.

Second youngest of the Blue and Gold's varsity program, the Colonel stickmen reeled off eight straight victories before a 9-4 setback to Bucknell cost them the Middle Atlantic Conference title.

Despite the derailment, the Blue and Gold finished with a 9-1 record and registered all their victories by at least six points. Talk of the nation was sophomore Bill Winter who emerged as the top point producer in the land with 83 points.

While coach Chuck Mattel takes a year of leave to study at RPI, Jon Hobrock, a member of the Psychology department will guide the lacrosse team next spring.

Happiness was also to be found in Artillery Park where only a split in three doubleheaders cost the Blue and Gold their third MAC crown. Otherwise the diamondmen of Gene Domzalski enjoyed a 12-5 season. Eleven of Domzalski's varsity players were sophomores which should give promise of things to come.

Propelling the baseballers to success were pitchers Paul Hughes and Jim Stehle.

Hughes, a junior, who will captain next year's edition, tossed to a respectable 6-2 record while fanning 53 batters in 53 innings. Paul, a control artist, logged a 1.67 earned run average.

Making a brilliant collegiate debut was freshman lefty Stehle, who blazed the ball for 69 strikeouts in 45 frames for a 13.8 average per game. The big southpaw was 3-2 in the won-loss column and among era leaders in the country with a 1.00 production.

Colonels also answered with the bat, swatting the ball for a .365 team batting average. So impressive was Wilkes hitting that all nine starters broke the .300 barrier.

Turning the trick were Dave Trethaway, so. (.439); Mark Omolecki, jr. (.413); Steve Leskiw, so. (.412); Dave Paolinelli, so. (.370); Chuck Suppon, so. (.419); Marty Pobutkiewicz, sr. (.350); Jack Keller, so. (.327); Greg Snyder, so. (.315); and Jim Hoover, so. (.302).

Refusing to wither, the Wilkes tennis team played tough and registered a 7-2 record after a 2-5 showing in 1973.

Paced by senior Bob Derbin (7-2) and freshman Judd Davis (8-1) the Blue and Gold upset team after team, four by close 5-4 margins. In the end it was a 5-4 loss to Albright which cost the Colonels their best season of all time.

Women's varsity tennis under the direction of Sandra Bloomberg was 1-2 in its second season while the golfers of Rollie Schmidt looked forward to the future with a 2-12. Underclassmen dominated both squads.

WILKES SPORTS SHORTS

Colonel wrestlers have applied for admission into the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association (EIWA) for the coming 1974-75 year . . . if admitted the Blue and Gold would probably move from NCAA III to NCAA I (University Division) status in the mat sport . . . Seniors Terry Blaum and Bill Horan, both graduates of Wilkes-Barre Coughlin High School, have been chosen to co-captain the 1974 Wilkes football team . . . Marty Pobutkiewicz '74, a recent May graduate, was chosen as the second baseman on the NCAA District II all-star baseball team . . . Colonel basketball team will participate in the Sacred Heart Basketball Tournament at Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 3-5, 1975 . . . Excitement is being generated for the Wilkesmen's appearance in the second annual Penn State Wrestling Tournament, Dec. 6-7 at University Park . . . Some of the other teams competing in the eight-team field include Oklahoma, Clarion, Bloomsburg, Lock Haven, Purdue, Slippery Rock, and host Penn State . . . Big dates on the home wrestling calendar are Lehigh (Dec. 3), Navy (Dec. 14), Arizona (Jan. 10), and Hofstra (Feb. 8) . . . Sophomore attack Bill Winter and junior midfielder Vince Krill were chosen to the 1974 MAC All-Star lacrosse team . . . Freshman pitcher Jim Stehle, sophomore catcher Dave Paolinelli, and sophomore outfielder Dave Trethaway received MAC All-Star baseball stature . . . Colonels Nov. 16th football date with Albright will be a part of 24th Annual Pretzel Bowl activities in Reading . . . The grid tilt is sponsored by the Rajah Temple . . . Lacrosse star Winter led the entire nation in scoring with an average of 8.2 points per contest according to a United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association release . . . Wilkes physical educational faculty member Sandy Bloomberg has been chosen as first president of the newly formed Northeastern Pennsylvania Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Association . . . Other charter members include Marywood, Keystone, Baptist Bible, Misericordia, Kings, Scranton, and Luzerne County Community College . . . League will compete in hockey, basketball, and tennis . . . Ten Wilkes male varsity sports sported a combined 76-64-1 winning record during the 1973-74 school year . . . MAC Northern Division begins seven-team round robin competition this fall with Albright, Susquehanna, Lycoming, Juniata, Upsala, and Delaware Valley to play each other once . . . Colonel grid season opens with an explosion on Sept. 21 when defending Lambert bowl crownholder, C. W. Post (10-1 last year) invades Ralston Field . . . Rollie Schmidt starts his 12th coaching season with a 62-32-1 record . . . Soccer team begins its 26th season of varsity play and fifth under the tutelage of Tom Rokita '68 . . . Booters are led by All-MAC senior lineman Stellos Patsiokas, who set a new team record with 18 goals last annum.

Following the presentation, Fred Pacolitch '74, a recent music graduate, rendered various Broadway selections. Fred is remembered for his role of "Tevey" in the recent Wilkes-Kiwanis "Fiddler On the Roof" musical.
