

JACQUELINE JONES HOMECOMING QUEEN

CONNIE KAMARUNAS, JANE OBITZ TO REIGN AS ROYAL PRINCESSES

The Homecoming Queen will have two lovely Wilkes coed Princesses as part of her royal court tomorrow at the coronation ceremonies in Kingston Stadium.

The judges that selected the Queen also chose Miss Constance Kamarunas and Miss Jane Obitz to assist and accompany the Queen in her reign over the Homecoming festivities.

The Princesses will ride in the motorcade that leaves Chase Hall tomorrow at 1:30 and travels through the business section of the city to the football stadium. A host of student paraders are expected to join the caravan.

Princess Connie

Miss Kamarunas came to Wilkes in 1952 from Scranton where she attended Scranton Central High School. She was a member of the art staff on the student publication "Impressions".

In the fall of '52, Connie enrolled at Wilkes as an art student. Her work under Mr. O'Toole was known about the campus for its distinctiveness, and all had seen her posters and work on the Art bulletin board signed affectionately, "Connie K."

She is no stranger to beauty and personality titles having been named the "Colonel's Queen" at the Letterman Dance last year. She was also a candidate in the Cinderella contest.

Connie has changed her major to Commerce and Finance. As a dormitory student she is a member of the Inter-Dorm Council and the campus sorority, Theta Delta Rho.

Princess Jane

Miss Obitz is a day student from South Wilkes-Barre. She attended Meyers High School and has been extremely active in student affairs throughout her school days. At Meyers she was vice-president of the senior class, had the lead in the senior play, and was a member of the Modern Choir.

Princess Jane completed a two-year course at Keystone Junior College where she was active in cheerleading and basketball. She also attended Oberlin College then transferred to Wilkes as an Elementary Education major.

Her impressionable smile and flaming red hair have made her as distinctive as any of the landmarks at Wilkes College. Jane is a girl everyone seems to know.

Her performances in Cue 'n' Curtain plays have always been excellent. Last year student critics judged Jane's performance in "Girl Crazy" one of the best. During the Christmas assembly program last year Jane gave a stirring reading of a Christmas message.

The prospective teacher is a member of the Education Club and also a member of the Theta Delta Rho sorority.

SOPHS TO SELL FLOWERS AT HOMECOMING GAME

The Sophomore Class will be on the job at tomorrow's game selling colorful chrysanthemums to lend a festive, real collegiate air to the big homecoming game.

Chrysanthemums, the traditional flowers of football games everywhere, will be decorated with Wilkes' own blue and gold, and will be on sale for only seventy-five cents.

This will be the second consecutive year that the flowers will be available to everyone attending the game. David Vann initiated the idea last year.

The Sophs hope everyone will take advantage of this once-a-year opportunity, wear a pretty flower, cheer on the Colonels, and, incidentally of course, help the Sophs financially.

Coronation Tomorrow At WC Bridgeport Game; Two Princesses Elected

Miss Jacqueline Jones was selected as Wilkes College's second Homecoming Queen in balloting Tuesday afternoon by five student judges and three faculty members.

Seven lovely Wilkes coeds entered the final judging and Miss Jones amassed the greatest number of points in the special Homecoming Queen selection. Chosen as Princesses to the Queen were Miss Connie Kamarunas and Miss Jane Obitz.

The 20 year old junior, an elementary education major, will travel to the football stadium, as the feature attraction, in a caravan of new open-top cars and paraders. The official coronation will take place at the half-time of the Wilkes-Bridgeport football game. Last year's Queen, Gloria Dran, will relinquish the crown to Dr. Eugene Farley who will crown Miss Jones this year's Queen.

The Beacon will present the Queen and her Princesses with engraved gold and silver bracelets respectively, through the courtesy of the Meyer's Jewelry Store. The court will also be presented flowers by the Alumni Association.

Miss Jones is a native of Kingston and a graduate of Kingston High School. She entered Wilkes in 1953, for the reason that many local students come to the "Community College" — "It is a small, highly-rated college, convenient for me to attend while living at home."

She is a member of the campus sorority, Theta Delta Rho, and she was a candidate for Cinderella in May, 1955.

Alumni Aids Beacon
This year the Alumni Association has taken an active part in the arrangements for selecting and crowning the Homecoming Queen. The title was first bestowed on a Wilkes coed last year when the Beacon editors formulated all plans for the Homecoming royalty.

An honor guard of four naval reservists from the local armory will escort the Queen and her Princesses through most of the ceremonies of the day. The court and honor guard will be guests at the Alumni cocktail party in the Hotel Sterling tomorrow night.

In case of inclement weather, the Queen will be crowned at the Alumni Cocktail Party tomorrow night at 8:30.

FACULTY COFFEE HOUR
Wilkes Faculty Women will hold a "Coffee Hour" for students and faculty on Wednesday, November 16. The affair will be held from 3 to 5 P.M. on the second floor of the Cafeteria.

This will offer an opportunity for students to meet instructors outside the classrooms, get acquainted with new people, and chat with friends. Do come and enjoy a social hour.

Jacqueline Jones

CARAVAN TO OPEN PRE-GAME CEREMONIES

The Beacon's second Homecoming Queen will be driven in a motor caravan to her coronation tomorrow at Kingston Stadium. The procession will pass through the heart of down-town Wilkes-Barre on the way to the football field.

Students desiring to drive in the caravan will meet at Chase Hall with decorated autos at 1 o'clock tomorrow. The Queen and the Princesses, riding in open cars, will lead the procession.

The caravan will leave Chase Hall to proceed south on South River Street, turn left and move across East South Street to South Main Street. At Main Street the Queen and her attendants will turn north to Public Square from which the caravan will proceed to Kingston Stadium.

Campus Face Liftings Greet Grads Who 'Left Too Soon'

By ED McCAFFERTY

"May all her sons bring lasting fame to her immortal name" — so goes the Drinking Song. The Wilkes alumni have done just this and we, the students of Wilkes, congratulate them on their achievements, but on the other hand, we must sympathize with them. They graduated too soon — that is, too soon to enjoy the progress made on campus which we now enjoy.

Members of the alumni may wonder how they are all going to squeeze into the cafeteria to attend the dorm dance. But since we now have a beautiful, brand-new, greatly expanded cafeteria, this presents no problem. The cafeteria, most popular of campus faceliftings, is a two-storied, red brick building forty-two feet long, paralleling the walk from the cafeteria entrance to Kirby Hall. Its interior boasts huge round cherry tables, knotty pine panelling, modern wallpaper, and large picture windows. It not only provides the students with a place to chow up, but it gives the fellows a chance to gawk at the feminine populus while they are all under one roof. It also serves as the unofficial meeting place for campus chatterboxes.

New Dorm

A new men's dorm, Daniel Roberts Warner Hall, has increased the number of dorms to six and the number of buildings on campus to twenty-five. The building was purchased by the College and was remodeled so as to include ten bedrooms and three baths. It is the unbiased opinion of residents of Warner Hall that theirs is the best dorm on campus (Sterling and McClintock excluded).

In back of Warner Hall is the new faculty parking lot which accommodates some twenty-five cars and which will be landscaped presently.

So, if any Wilkes grad re-enters Wilkes College (to get in on what he missed by graduating too early) or joins the faculty, he will have a new dorm or new parking lot in which to park himself or his car, respectively.

Frosh Move Bookstore

In a blaze of glory and service the Frosh worked side by side on October 27 to move the bookstore to its present location; this being the last of the current changes on campus so far this year. The bookstore is now located in Harding Hall, in the rooms used as the kitchen and luncheonette of last year's snack bar.

When asked what she thought of the new bookstore, Millie Gittens, bookstore head, burst out it, "It's wonderful!" Millie said that the other day she thought the bookstore was on fire, but upon investigating she found that it was just the warm, pure sunlight streaming through clean, wide windows. Having all this sunshine is something new to Millie as she had spent eight long years accustomed to seeing shafts of dust-cluttered light fall through the barred windows of the "dungeon" under Chase Hall.

Extremely happy with the new bookstore, Millie noted that the students are also pleased because now they browse around the larger store and often sit down and take a load off their feet. Millie added that the bookstore is doing better business in its new location because more people have bought more articles which were unable to be displayed before.

These physical additions (which the alumni will see when they tour the campus tomorrow) plus the friendliness of Wilkes students (which was always here) combine to make Wilkes "the jewel of jewels of all the schools" as further goes the College Drinking Song.

STUDENTS, FACULTY ACTIVE IN EDUCATION WEEK CONFERENCES

The Wilkes College Education Department is participating in a number of conferences, and panel discussions both on the campus and in the community, as part of Education week which runs November 6-12.

Last Wednesday and Thursday, Dr. Eugene Hammer and Mr. John P. Whitby attended the 5th annual conference of the Pennsylvania Education Association, Department of Higher Education in Boiling Springs, Pa. The topic of the conference was "New Frontiers of Knowledge". On Thursday, Dr. Hammer also attended the Annual Conference of the Northeastern District of the PSEA in Scranton.

On Friday, Dr. Hammer was present at the District Department of Higher Education meeting in Scranton and was elected president of that organization. Other officers include: Vice-President, Dr. Adam Drayer of King's; and Secretary, Dr. Lawrence Lennon of Scranton University. Ten students, led by Glenn Phethean, represented Wilkes at a sectional meeting of the same conference. A discussion was held concerning the possibilities of organizing a district chapter of the Future Teachers of America. Phethean was elected temporary chairman of a committee selected to draw up a constitution.

A panel discussion was presented by Glenn Phethean, Jim Jones, and Carl Van Dyke last Monday at Scranton Central High School and the Scranton Rotary Club. The trio attempted to discuss various facets of the teaching profession.

The Assembly this week presented by the Education Club and the IRC was also a reflection of attempt to promote interest in public education. The first part of the program consisted of a radio skit entitled "It Takes Time". The skit concerned the relation between parents and education and stressed the necessity of co-operation between home and school. The second part of the program consisted of a film showing education of an international basis — "That All May Learn". Participating in the Assembly program were: Glenn Phethean, Neil Turtel, Nancy Morris, Carl Zolskoski, Jeanette Perrins, Jim Jones, and Jessie Roderick.

And finally, in collaboration with the national White House Conference on Education instituted by President Eisenhower, a very successful Luzerne County White House Conference sponsored by the AIDS was held on the Wilkes campus last Tuesday afternoon and evening.

'NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH'

The College's Cue 'n' Curtain members are still at work painting sets for next week's production of "Nothing But The Truth". With the actors rehearsing every night, the acting club's problem now is whipping the physical properties for the play into final shape.

"Nothing But The Truth" is slated to go on the boards before the College and the general public next Friday and Saturday nights. The play will be previewed to high school audiences on the previous

Alumni Judge Displays Tonite; Awards at Game

Homecoming displays erected this week on the Wilkes campus will be judged by the Alumni at 7:30 tonight. The displays will be judged on originality, appropriateness, and neatness. A trophy will be awarded to the winning club or dormitory during half-time at the football game tomorrow.

Should the trophy be won by the same organization for three successive years, it will become the permanent property of that organization.

Members of the Alumni Judging Committee are: Attorney Elmer J. Harris, Roberta Siwa, Dr. Shad Jones, Miriam Long, Joseph Trosko, Arthur Hoover, Dolores Shiner, and Elmo Kamini.

The Economics Club, winner last year, have on display a Wilkes Colonel on a black horse. The Colonel is carrying a shield and a spear. Their slogan is "Smite the Knight" (Bridgeport's knick-name being "Purple Knights") done in Old English script.

Decorating Chase Lawn is the Biology Club's display. Shown here is a Colonel with a hypodermic needle. He is busily engaged in unseating a "Purple Knight" from his horse.

At Weckesser Dorm flags of foreign students' countries are being flown. There are signs saying "Welcome Home Alumni" in English and other languages.

PARKING STICKERS AVAILABLE NEXT WEEK

Parking stickers will be available in the BEACON office after Monday.

The stickers, issued in line with the BEACON's agreement with the City of Wilkes-Barre, will be available to Chemistry and Biology students with 3-hour laboratory classes. Stickers will also be issued to those students with Accounting laboratories named on Beacon lists thus far.

Lists of students with Engineering laboratory classes have not yet been received, will permit issuance and checking of stickers to engineering students when obtained.

Stickers will entitle parking students to consideration in the South River Street parking area only. The area covers most of the river side of the street between Northampton and South Streets.

On Wednesday, November 16, Naval Office procurement officers will be at Hollenback Hall to interview '55 graduates for the Navy's officer program.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES ALL-COLLEGE DANCE, ACTIVITIES POLICY

By HELEN M. KRACHENFELS

The Student Council held its first bi-monthly supper meeting on the second floor of the cafeteria last Wednesday evening.

The annual All College Dance, a traditionally popular event will be held on Friday evening, November 25 (the night after Thanksgiving.) Council President Bob Lynch appointed the following committees to work on arrangements:

Music: Sam Lowe, Cliff Brothers, Virginia Brehm.

Refreshments: Dave Schoenfeld, Pat Bedeski, Cliff Brothers, Dick Carpenter.

Decorations: Chet Miller, Larry Amdur, Bob Lynch, Don Reynolds, John Scandale.

Invitations: Nancy Morris, Judy Bodkin, Virginia Brehm, Helen Krachenfels.

Treasurer Chet Miller reported to the Council the outcome of the meeting held last week with the Administration concerning the budget. The only appropriation of which the Administrative Council did not approve was that for the Manuscript. John Bucholtz, editor of the Manuscript, attended the Wednesday night Student Council meeting with a revised request of $435. The staff of the magazine found that this reduction was possible after a different printing firm was contacted. Bucholtz added that in order to stimulate interest in submitting material for the Manuscript this year, a contest will be held, with a $25 Savings Bond to be given as a prize for the best article submitted. The Council voted unanimously that the revised request be approved.

The third important item discussed was the matter of the Student Activities Policy. The matter was brought to the Council's attention because of a conflict of two activities planned for last Saturday night: the Economics Club dance and a Biology Club outing. Throughout the lengthy discussion on this matter, two points were brought to the fore: the existing policy has not been followed, and it is the job of the Student Council to improve the enforcement of the policy. It was finally decided that a letter be sent to all club presidents, reminding them of the provisions in the Constitution of the Student Body which deals with the holding of social events, and informing them that if the policy is not strictly adhered to in the future, the Student Council will take definite action against the offending club, to the extent of withdrawal of recognition.

IRC, Education Clubs Present Assembly Skit

The Education Club and the I.R.C. have joined forces to present a program to the Wilkes College Assembly on Tuesday.

Glenn Phethean and Dick Murray, president of the Education Club and I.R.C. respectively, have announced that the program will consist of two parts. The first part of the cooperative program will be a short film on the United Nations, and the second part will be a short skit enacted by members of both clubs.

Dormitories Sponsor Open House Sport Dance in College Cafeteria; Students, Grads Invited; All Free

The Inter-Dormitory Council will sponsor a dance and coke party following the Homecoming game tomorrow afternoon. The affair will be held on the second floor of the cafeteria, immediately after the Bridgeport game.

Free refreshments will be featured at the dorm open house and the music will be provided by all the best bands — via records.

It is the hope of the council that both students and alumni will get together from the conclusion of the game until about six o'clock. Attire worn at the game will be appropriate.

Irwin Kaye, President of the council, has appointed Anita Cherkas as General Chairman of the event. She will be assisted by Carolyn Selecky and Jim Moser.

This weekend will be a busy one socially at Wilkes, and the Inter-Dormitory Dance will be one of the final events. Don't forget, everything is free, so let's see you there, wrapping up the Homecoming weekend in fine style.

INFORMAL 'WARM-UP', FOOTBALL, COCKTAILS TOP GRAD ACTIVITIES

The Homecoming schedule opens this year with the judging of Homecoming displays by an Alumni committee today. Later tonight the graduates will get together and renew acquaintances at an informal warm-up party at the Kingston House.

Activities start early tomorrow with a breakfast meeting at 9:00 for the Lettermen Alumni who are organizing a new Alumni organization, the Ol' Colonels. The purpose of the meeting is to ratify the new constitution and all Alumni Lettermen and Wilkes students who are lettermen are invited.

At 10:00 A.M., the Alumni council will hold a closed meeting for officers and the leaders of Wilkes Alumni chapters who will plan the year's events and discuss general business.

Alumni will get together at a luncheon meeting at 11:30 to approve the slate of officers for next year or nominate other candidates from the floor.

The Homecoming game, Wilkes vs. Bridgeport, begins at 2:30 at Kingston Stadium. The program planned for half-time features the awarding of the trophy for the best Homecoming display and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

The final event of the weekend is an informal cocktail party, buffet supper, and dance at the Hotel Sterling.

EDITORIALS

Hello, Folks — and Welcome

This is by way of welcoming the College's Alumni back to the area, and extending our greetings and good wishes to them. Usually we look with a slightly doubtful eye on so-called "college sentiment", but we do think that anyone who can successfully struggle through four or perhaps more years of the standards here deserves some form of favorable mention, even if it's nothing more than a cordial welcome.

WHAT ABOUT TOMORROW?

As we just mentioned, the Alumni are in town for the College's annual Homecoming Festivities. Part of the celebration embraces tomorrow afternoon's football game with Bridgeport, at the halftime ceremonies of which the Beacon's second annual Homecoming Queen will be crowned.

The young lady in question, Jacqueline Jones, was selected earlier this week by a board of faculty members considered as outside objective experts, together with the Beacon editorial staff and the Alumni Secretary. We trust the students will help the Alumni have a successful Homecoming by turning out for this last home ball game. The Beacon has done and is doing what has been meted out as its part, as have the Alumni, and it would help if the College also continued to do its part as in the past.

There are various other reasons for going to the game besides the cherished hope that we'll foul up the ceremonies. Among other things, football is recognized today as a legitimate form of entertainment and recreation. Too, it would probably also help the yearbook photographer to have a better background for his pictures than the usual blank rows of empty seats.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

They tell us that a few honest liberals and sincere supporters of the honor system may have been in some way offended by our editorial of last week. We tried to explain that we were not in opposition to honor systems per se, but to the particular one offered in assembly last week. We still have an open mind on the subject, are willing to be shown. And if we did inadvertently offend the sincere, it goes without saying that they have our apologies.

Indeed, part of the purpose of our editorial was to protect those who favor a system (to say nothing of the rest of our readers) from falling prey to an honor plan that was, to us, unworkable.

When we attacked this plan, we did not by any stretch of the imagination wish to indicate that it was offered in anything but good faith. What caused our protests was the inconsistency of a group which had not, apparently, been able to agree, even amidst itself, just what the basis of the proffered system was to be.

When offered at first, the plan was to have had no means for punishing or reporting violators. Then one of the honor advocates grudgingly admitted under pressure from the audience that, if the situation got too bad, "something would have to be done." The "Honor Council" proposed in the offered plan would merely report on the "workability and continuation" of the system. In short, the very advocates of the system, when they explained that the system would probably be dropped if the Council's reports proved adverse, themselves admitted the plan's unworkability.

And the remark later to the effect that "even if all the system does is to keep the cheating down to the present level, why not accept it" again admitted the high probability of failure of the plan.

In other words, these faults in the proposed type of honor system were not brought out by attacks or questions of us or by those who would have to bear the responsibility if the system were instituted, but by those who offered the plan themselves.

HASTE AND THE REST OF US

Those who would institute their own particular brand of system here at the College have a right to their plans and opinions. We would be, of course, about the last quarter from which to expect or receive any attack on such unquestioned rights. We argue, when we feel it necessary, against plans and opinions, not against the right to them. We may legitimately argue against the plans and opinions, as well as the manner in which they are presented, and in this case it is such presentation as well as plan and opinion which concern us. We cannot help but be disturbed by the frantic, almost fanatic rapidity with which the advocates of the system under consideration rush to thrust their views upon their fellow-students.

There is, it seems, a sense of "rush, rush, rush," "quick, quick, quick," "hurry, hurry, hurry," about the way the whole thing has shoved at the students while at full tilt so to speak that gives us pause. This haste disturbs us. Somehow, it feels vaguely unnatural. One wonders why these planners and opinion-formers are in such a rush to throw their half-formed concepts before us, why they are not content to let the rest of us go quietly about our business.

WHO'S THE INTERESTED PARTY HERE?

Yet for all their fuss and feathers, the promoters of this questionable system do not seem, so far, to be particularly convincing to the people who'd be saddled with their system if it were instituted — the students. Perhaps the best comment on their arguments is that they weren't able to hold the students at the very assembly at which the plans and arguments were presented.

Wilkes students, normally attentive to even one of the dullest speakers, no matter how over-long he spoke, implicitly gave one of the most expressive opinions of the system and the arguments for it without speaking a word. They simply watched the clock, and when the time came they clapped their hats on their heads and went off in search, presumably, of something more substantial for their stomachs than had been feeding their minds for an hour past.

WISDOM OF WILKES

By NANCY FREY, SAM MINES

Question: How would you suggest that Pennsylvania raise money in its controversial tax program?

MARVIN KURLANCHEEK, junior, biology major: "I suggest that the legislature tighten up on unnecessary spending. Contractors who, perhaps, are intimate with a prominent politician can see their way clear to enormous profits. It's the old inflationary spiral which must be snipped in the bud. I'm quite certain that people would not mind paying a reasonable graduated income tax, provided graft was eliminated."

LEONARD MULCAHY, sophomore, accounting major: "The best type of a tax would be one in which every person contributes. With this in mind I feel that a tax proportional to a person's income will achieve the desired results whereas the use of a luxury tax or any other type of a tax would hit some people hard and others not at all."

BARBARA FEDERER, freshman, secretarial studies: "Since some form of taxation is imperative, I would favor the sales tax rather than a state income tax."

HOWARD GROSS, senior, accounting major: "A good way for Pennsylvania to raise money by way of taxes would be to tolerate gambling, and to tax the proceeds heavily."

FRANK PUSCELA, junior, commerce and finance major: "By imposing a graduated income tax on individuals, but not on industries — this would be the only method by which the high debt the state is now in could be equally distributed."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Nov. 7, 1955

Dear Editor:

Last Tuesday, during assembly, I asked the question: "If we take as our basic premise that man is honest, why are we going to institute an honor system? Would it be for the prestige that would accrue to Wilkes, or would it be a question of morality?"

I am not against the honor system, per se. But it should be understood that man is instinctively aware of good or evil. He knows the penalties of cheating in an examination: he is only cheating himself. Now if a normally honest person made a mistake, what would be the consequences? In any course other than biology, which is marked on a curve, the actions of the person in question would have no bearing upon his fellow students. Now the logical question arises: How can we as human beings judge our fellows? Should social ostracization be evoked? I hardly think so! Aren't we all human and therefore prone to error?

An honor system would undoubtedly prove beneficial to the student and faculty. But it must be a system of liberality, based upon mutual respect.

Sincerely,
Marvin Kurlancheek

The DEAN'S CORNER

By George Elliot
Acting Dean of Men
WELCOME HOME, ALUMNI!

I'm not sure whether I approve entirely of Alumni Home-Coming Weekends. It seems to me that after all the festivities are over there is a compelling tendency for us teachers to gaze critically and mournfully into the mirror. This compelling tendency has little or nothing to do with the weekend festivities themselves.

For days our hair seems just a little bit thinner than it was the week before. A few facial lines have mysteriously been added. We never noticed what might pass as a double chin before. The mild plumpness we managed to ignore last week is now a well-established and obvious pot.

One reason for this saddening re-evaluation of ourselves is the shocking changes which have taken place in our graduates of a few years past. I don't mean to imply necessarily that they have deteriorated or that they are over the well-known hill. But what happened to the robust, carefree youth of yesteryears?

The former campus play-boy is now the respected Reverend Jones. The sleek athlete is now the well-rounded businessman; somewhat on the jowly side too. The mild and meek student of former days is now the divorced father of thirteen children. "The girl I would most like to elope with" is now the sedate matron who seems to have P.T.A. tottooned all over her. The once glib politician is now the harassed and silent husband. All the still-active alumni wolves seem suddenly to notice the long latent attractions of the former Miss Nothing.

One thing I will be awed about for weeks to come is the "success story" graduate, who I vaguely remember slouching and yawning in my eight o'clock economics class years ago. It was a little difficult to recognize him with his eyes open. Now, however, he treats me with just the slightest air of condescension as he explains the current economic state of the union — from the businessman's point of view, that is.

In spite of these mild distractions there is something wonderful, and satisfying and memorable about these occasions. A graduate never really leaves his school behind; there is always something of the college in him, and something of him still remains at the campus. There is something just a little bit sad too as we have occasion to try to relive some of the good old days. For a little while then, "Welcome Home, John and Bill and Mary and Louise and all of you!" Your satisfaction and joy at being here is only topped by our satisfaction and joy at seeing you all once again.

Touring the Clubs

S.A.M. — The Society for the Advancement of Management is headed on campus by Len Mucahy; it is a junior chapter of the nationwide S.A.M. Members from both the engineering and business fields meet periodically with the Senior chapter in the Hotel Sterling and the Hotel Jermyn in Scranton. At the latter location the organization decided on Monday night to sponsor a talk on campus by the president of the Nicholson Corporation.

CUE 'N' CURTAIN — With the current three-act comedy "Nothing But The Truth" not yet by the boards, the actors under the leadership of Paul Schiffer are already thinking in terms of the Wilkes spectacular, "Bloomer Girl".

TDR — President Bernice Thomas announced that the recent wiener roast was a success and the sorority is beginning to formulate plans for its annual Christmas donations to the local under-privileged children.

EDUCATION — Glenn Phethean president of the Ed Club and temporary chairman of a newly formed district Future Teachers of America announced the club's plans to hold a series of talks on education in foreign lands. The many foreign students at Wilkes will lead the discussions.

CHEMISTRY — November 17 has been set as the tentative date for a talk to be held in the Lecture Hall by a yet announced official from the chemical industry. Other activities that will probably occur in December are field trips to the Corning Glass Works in New York State, and a tour of the local Hessler Laundry Co., where the chemistry of dry cleaning will be studied.

HISTORY — George Silewski announced that the very active History Club is now making ready for a sport dance to be held in the near future. Also on the club calendar is a trip to the historic battlefield at Gettysburg.

PSYCH-SOC — Dave Fischel announced the club wiener roast will be held on November 20. Plans are also being formulated for a field trip. Last year's trip to Retreat Hospital was informative and interesting. This year non-members will be invited to take the field trip with the club.

BIO — Dr. Alvin Prapiewski will speak to the club on the Tuesday

Some people's writings are a jungle of verbage thrown together with a Sahara of thought.

John Linkowski (about a philosophy book): "Look! It's a bird! It's a plane! It's Fredrick Wilhem Nietzsche!"

Nine Seniors Play Final Tilt For Booters at Philadelphia

When the soccer team travels to Philadelphia tomorrow to play Philadelphia Textile Institute, nine seniors who have been responsible for winning seasons for the past three years will be making their last appearance in the Blue and Gold of the soccer team.

Most of the nine boys have formed the nucleus of a Colonel team that brought Wilkes its first soccer wins as well as winning seasons.

PARKER PETRILAK will wind up a long and brilliant career in Wilkes' sports by tending the goal for the last time. Petrila holds the distinction of being the only four-letter man in Wilkes history. He holds monograms in football, basketball and baseball as well as soccer.

JIM FERRIS will doff his soccer suit after tomorrow's game and join the basketball squad for the 1955-56 campaign. A fine all-around athlete, Ferris was voted Beacon Athlete of the Year last year.

YOUNSU KOO is one of the foreign boys who came along just at the same time that Bob Partidge was developing the current squad and fit in nicely. Younsu was voted to the Tri-State All-Star team last year and has been a winner of Athlete of the Week honors. A terminal student in engineering, he will continue his studies elsewhere. He holds the all-time scoring record with eight goals.

CARL VAN DYKE, like Ferris, will join the basketball team next week. He paces the team in scoring with seven goals and has figured prominently in All-American nominations doled out by officials and rival coaches.

GLENN PHETHEAN and JOE POPPLE, the two fullbacks, both hail from West Pittston and play side by side on the soccer field. Phethean was the first Athlete of the Week this year and has been outstanding. Popple is noted for his strong kicking foot. They form the finest fullback team in Wilkes history.

SAM SHUGAR leaves the soccer team after the Textile game, but will head right for coach John Reese's grappling squad. Sam has been a steady performer all year despite a raft of injuries.

HANK DEIBEL has been an under-rated performer who has come into his own in recent weeks. He is the most dangerous man on the team on corner kicks, and four of his boots have been converted into scores this year. He will leave a big hole at outside right.

FRED BOOTE got a starting assignment in mid-season and immediately made a hit. Playing inside, he has been one of the scrappiest performers on the squad and made his first goal of the year a winning tally against Elizabethtown.

All nine boys will be in the start-in lineup against the foreign star-studded Philadelphia Textile team tomorrow. The Colonels dumped this team last year and will be looking for a repeat in this tilt.

A win tomorrow would assure the booters of the best season in Wilkes history. The record now stands at four wins, three ties, and three losses.

BOWLING REGISTRATIONS IN PUBLIC RELATIONS

Further registrations for the intramural bowling program may be made only at the public relations office. Late registrants get their name on a team by contacting Jonni Falk in P.R.

List of teams and schedules will be circulated late next week.

Girls are reminded that they too are eligible to compete. Previous experience is not necessary and is frowned upon in some quarters. About 20 girls have already registered for this popular Sunday evening pastime.

POLLEY EXTENDS THANKS FOR SOCCER TEAM GIFT

Dave Polley, soccer star who was lost for the season three weeks ago, would like to express his thanks to the members of the soccer team for presenting him with a gift while he was in the hospital.

Dave returned from the hospital this week but has not as yet returned to classes. He would also like to express appreciation to those who visited him during his hospital stay.

ANSWER TO INQUIRY

An inquiry from another college arrived in the public relations office this week which contained a loaded question. The letter asked if there was any truth to the rumor that Wilkes College was going to drop football due to lack of interest and finances.

We would like to go on record as saying that there is no truth to this rumor. Nor do we know how the story started to circulate. But before we all go overboard, let's examine the facts.

About six years ago, Wilkes put teams on the field which created quite a reputation for cold, single-wing efficiency. Most of these teams was composed of World War II veterans. They were bigger and more experienced than the 19-20 year olds manning today's gridirons. As a matter of fact, several of them were our boyhood heroes on local high school teams.

There has been no such flood of veterans onto college campuses following the Korean War. The average draftee in the K-war was in the 21-25 age bracket and had either completed his college education (students were exempted) or else he had a good job to go back to. Those who decided to go to college did not go to play football. Most of the athletes had already had a crack at college sports.

FOOTBALL BACK TO NORMAL

Thus, we can say that football has achieved some sort of normalcy since the World War II boom. Most schools have had their share of ups and downs and just to prove that Wilkes is no exception, we are down — but so are the University of Pennsylvania, Northwestern and even Texas. You can't be a winner every year.

The policy of the administration concerning football is not one of de-emphasis, but one of sanity. We encourage football, but we require that football players meet the standards of the college. This corner doesn't believe that any football player has ever been turned away from the school if he measured up to its standards. Nor do we solicit gridders to come to Wilkes. We are a small college and only so many scholarships can be given out. Instead of being given to athletes, they are issued for leadership. If a person receiving such a grant happens to be an athlete, he still must meet the requirements specified.

WE HAVE IT, IF THEY WANT IT

Football has never been a money-making proposition on this campus. It is given a budget every year like any other school activity and must try to stay within this budget. A deficit is expected. Nobody is pressuring the public to see our games. If it wants to come it is welcome.

We think that the let-down is indicative of today's youth, rather than the school or its policies. Take a look at high school football. G.A.R., once considered a pushover, is riding a crest. Once powerful teams, like Kingston and Nanticoke, are far below par. We can remember when it took three cuts to get the Kingston squad down to where the coaches could start hand-picking the material they wanted. Now, they are lucky if 50 boys come out for the sport.

Swoyerville continues to put out top-notch teams with a minimum of manpower. But it is the exception because it has a peculiar breed of boy there — peculiar today because they want to play football — and YonKondy does it all by himself.

How is the high school condition reflected at Wilkes? Despite the fact that the student body is higher in numbers than ever, Russ Picton took only 23 men to Hofstra last week. There are some good boys among that 23, but they can't do it alone. Actually, interest in sports among males has reached a low point — even to where John Reese had to advertise for a manager — once a highly prized position which was fought over.

HIGH SCHOOL BELOW PAR

Last year's high school seniors are this year's freshmen at Wilkes — and last year was probably the worst year for high school football in Valley history. The good teams were fair and the bad teams were poorer. Naturally, the better players fell prey to the big-time scouts. However, things are bound to take a turn for the better and the overflow of players will find their way to Wilkes to become good small college gridders.

The temporary swing away from sports can't continue because of the very nature of youth. It will tire of new interests and turn back to the old favorites — football, baseball and such.

Yet, there is a touch of irony in the inquiry which started this mess. It came from a school which just last year was lamenting its gridiron fate and pleading for the administration to dig up a few "honest-to-goodness" football players.

KERNEL KWICKIES

A pat on the shoulder to the loyal fans who journeyed to Hofstra last Friday and then sat through the wind and rain for a few hours. Wish we had more like you. . . . DAVE POLLEY faked us out by coming home from the hospital Monday. Glad to have him back. . . . A note of thanks to GLENN PHETHEAN who covered last week's soccer game during our absence and did an excellent job. His first try, too. . . . Also, thanks to CHET MILLER for helping him. . . . RUSS PICTON eagerly awaiting a chance to go hunting. . . . Ditto JACK CURTIS. . . . Anybody have any good hunting yarns? . . . Trophy awards will be made to the individual leaders in the intramural bowling league. . . . Homecoming Day will give the student body a chance to see several of the former Colonel stars who will be in the stands watching. . . . It is not true that several of the faculty members who have signed up for bowling will correct exam papers while bowling against students. It was rumored that one instructor did this in the past.

Formal Hoop Drills Begin Under Davis

With four of last year's starting five back, Ed Davis opened formal drills this week for his first Wilkes College basketball team.

Of the four, only Joe Jablonski is in uniform at present. John Bresnahan, Carl Van Dyke and Jim Ferris are still spending their spare moments in soccer suits and will not be available until early next week.

There are 21 players now working out under Davis' direction at night practice sessions. Night practice will continue until Davis finishes a tour as assistant grid coach at Plymouth.

Among the 21 candidates are 15 freshmen, four sophomores and two seniors, but six others are expected out after the end of soccer and football seasons.

Besides Bresnahan, Ferris and Van Dyke, Joe Popple will also exchange his soccer uniform for a basketball suit, and Cliff Brautigan and Jarell Cashmere will exchange football cleats for sneakers.

Jablonski Heads Drills

Informal drills were held last week under the direction of Joe Jablonski. However, the practices under the eyes of Davis will decide the formation of the team which will open a 23-game schedule on December 2 with Ithaca providing the opposition at the campus gym.

Freshmen candidates for the squad are: Reggie Trzeskowski, Walter Angielski, Harold Smith, Dave Gowen, Bob Mason, John Gendall, Bob Rahl, Tom Ruggiero, Pete Strojney, Frank Pavlick, John Tokach, Max Friedlander, Jerry Esterman, Jack Golden, and Dave Shales, 6-8 center.

Sophomores are: Ed Birnbaum, Bob Sokol, Don Domzalski and Elmer Snider. The other senior is Ed Troutman, a veteran of last year's squad.

While the returning lettermen are not exceptionally tall, they form the nucleus of a fast-break team which should be able to give the tough schedule a good battle. Shales will get a good look by Davis as he could supply the answer to the Colonel height problem.

DIRECTORS NEEDED FOR VOLLEYBALL, PING-PONG

Student directors are still needed for the volleyball and ping-pong tournaments which are slated to start immediately after the Thanksgiving recess, John Reese announced today.

Anybody interested in helping out these intramural programs should contact Reese in his gym office as soon as possible. Student directors are needed to help in the formation of rosters and schedules. The title "Student Director" is conferred upon those who volunteer.

Formal Grappling Drills to Start; Frosh Look Good

Formal wrestling practice for the 1955-56 edition of the Colonel grapplers will start Monday, according to an announcement by John Reese, wrestling mentor.

Informal practice which started a week ago reached a new intensity late this week with the arrival of equipment which had been ordered.

While the several veterans who are back from last year have been joined by some new prospects from local high schools, Reese stressed a need for additional candidates. The grappler coach emphasized the fact that all boys are not available for every meet due to scheduling, weight and injury difficulties. He invites any boy interested in the sport to join the team Monday.

Frosh Look Good

Reese, although still busy with the soccer team, has been pleased with the showing of several freshmen who have been working out in the informal drills.

Kingston High is represented by two top prospects in Bill Adams

Bowling Team Lists To be Published During Next Week

Over 90 people have registered for the intramural bowling program thus necessitating the formation of a waiting list.

Only six alleys will be available to the College for the bowling program this means that only 12 teams could be formed. The teams will be divided into two six-team leagues which will bowl on alternate Sundays.

Those people who have not been placed on bowling teams at the start of the season will replace absentees as the season progresses.

Team rosters will be posted on bulletin boards early next week. Due to defacing of roster forms, some names could not be read. Others were probably put on as jokes. We suggest that you read the list closely and then inquire in public relations as to why you are not on a team or how you may get on one.

If your name is listed with a team and you do not want to bowl, please contact Jonni Falk immediately so that you may be scratched. This is the only way that the overflow of those who want to bowl may get on teams.

It has been decided to postpone the opening of the kegling season until after Thanksgiving. The Center alleys will not open until the 14th and the league would not be able to function during Thanksgiving recess anyway.

Please observe the rules and help to make the league as good as it was last year.

X-RAY UNIT HERE MONDAY

The State Mobile X-ray unit will visit the campus on November 14 — this coming Monday.

Students are reminded that it is a requirement of the College that all have chest X-rays taken. It takes but a few minutes to check one's health.

and Bill Yenelavage. Jim Ward and Keith Williams, Coughlin; Ray Saba, G.A.R.; and Walt Glogowski, Plymouth, are others who have previous experience.

Two veterans of last year's team who are busily getting into condition are Bob Morgan and Dave Thomas both of whom should be standouts this year.

Reese expects Sam Shugar and Ed Masonis to join the team next week following the completion of soccer. Neil Dadurka will shed his football uniform and return to wrestling the following week.

The first meet is scheduled for December 14 at Swarthmore with the toughest meet of the season coming three days later when the grapplers meet Hofstra.

Gridders Hope to Present Alumni With 'Welcome Back to WC' Victory; Experts Expect High-Scoring Game

Russ Picton's rambling gridders return home tomorrow for the annual Homecoming Day at the College to meet Bridgeport in what will be the second and last home game for the gridders this year.

The Colonel's will be endeavoring to present the alumni and student body with a homecoming day gift with their second win of the current campaign after dropping five tilts.

The Colonels will be placing the brunt of their hopes for a win in the capable hands of little Ronnie Rescigno, workhorse left halfback. Rescigno was the shining light again in the loss to Hofstra last weekend.

Bridgeport in Good Shape

The University of Bridgeport team is in the best shape of the season, according to reports from ex-grid coach George Ralston who is studying for his doctorate at Columbia.

While Bridgeport has been bowling over all opponents, coach 'Kay' Kondratovich is very pleased with his club's fight and hustle.

The Bridgeport backfield is composed of halfbacks Bob Mark, Johnny Carr, Charlie Pike and dangerous Ed 'Rebel' Hall. These men alternate with Hall being rated as the best of the quartet.

The fullback slot will be held down by either Joe Marrucci or Jerry McDougall. The quarterback position will be placed in the capable hands of sophomore Steve Butkowski.

High Score Expected

Howie Gross, Art Tambur, Dave Panzitta and Rescigno will be called upon to oppose the Bridgeport quartet in what could turn out to be the highest scoring game of the year.

The line, though weak on reserves, will be in the best shape of the year with Cliff Brautigan available for full-time duty at tackle. Jarell Cashmere, Neil Dadurka, Bob Masonis, Joe Wilk, Glenn Carey and Bill Farish will compose the remainder of the line.

Appearing for the last time before the student body in Blue and Gold uniforms will be: Jarell Cashmere, end; Joe Wilk, Cliff Brautigan, tackles; Bob Masonis, guard; Captain Glen Carey, center; and Howie Gross, quarterback.

Butler Hall Downs Weckesser, 20-13, As Weinberger, Lind Spark Rally

By CLIFF KOBLAND

The unlucky and winless Weckesser Hall football team lost another close one this past Tuesday by a score of 20-13, in the only intramural game played.

Weckesser led at half-time by a 13-0 margin. Neil Turtel took a Gary Weingartner pass for the first score. Weingartner

Hofstra Nips Colonels 13 - 6 in Rainstorm

Hofstra's Flying Dutchmen made two first period scores stand up as they registered a 13 to 6 decision over Coach Russ Picton's always-threatening Colonels in rain-splattered Long Island, Saturday.

Ronnie Rescigno scored the first of two Colonel tallies in the fourth period on a one-yard plunge following a poor Dutchmen's kick on the 11. The second score, which came on Ronnie Rescigno's dive from the 3, was nullified by an off-side penalty.

This was one of numerous Colonel threats which proved fruitless throughout the afternoon particularly in the third period when the Colonel encampment was entrenched in their opponents' backyard but with nil effect against a seemingly impregnable Dutchmen defense.

Don Pollian, Hofstra's quarterback, proved to be the straw that broke the camel's back as he completed a one-man show tallying both first period T.D.'s on runs of 79 and 44 yards.

While Pollian was running, the Colonels added another casualty to their long list as quarterback Howie Gross retired with a leg injury to bring on Freshman Andy Molitoris, who completed a splendid job.

Booters Take Fourth; Dump Gettysburg, 2-1

Nick Giordano and Fred Boote scored goals in the first and third periods to provide the power for the Colonels' fourth triumph of the '55 season by a 2 to 1 count against a fighting Gettysburg eleven at Gettysburg Saturday.

Gettysburg scored early, in the first athletic engagement of all time between the two schools, when then went around end for the conversion. In the second quarter, Weckesser scored again on a pass play. This time Weingartner hit end Bill Duffy for the score. The conversion was missed and at the half it was 13-0 in favor of Weckesser.

Fumbles Costly

Costly fumbles in the second half led to the downfall of Weckesser. Twice on kickoffs during the second half Weckesser's Turtel fumbled and twice Butler recovered. Both of these misplays led directly to Butler scores.

Mickey Weinberger bucked up the middle in the third period after a Weckesser fumble was recovered by Butler. Jerry Lind scored later in the same period on a pass play and with the conversion missed the score stood 13-13 at the end of 3 quarters of play. The game stood tied till only a minute remained to play. But finally Butler's power began to show and Weinberger scored again, going straight up the middle.

FROSH GIORDANO 'PLAYER OF WEEK'

It is unusual when a freshman nails down "Athlete of the Week" honors, but anybody who has been watching the soccer team all year would have told you sooner or later, Nick Giordano was going to get it.

He was elected by the sports men and team coaches for his fine play against Gettysburg Saturday, but he could have been picked anytime in the past year.

He really found himself after being vetted from inside to outside and promptly responded by scoring five goals in the last half.

Up until the Elizabeth when he made the team seemed to be having a hard time acclimating himself to soccer.

He came to this country three years ago and attended Kingston High School despite the fact that he couldn't speak a word of English.

Nick Giordano

Two years later, he graduated from KHS and can now speak English fluently.

John Reese, booter coach, rates him as the finest soccer prospect in the history of the school — despite the fact that there have been a few boys by the name of Kazimi, Koo and Ferris around for a while.

Nick got his first two goals against a tough Elizabethtown College team and added singletons against Trenton, East Stroudsburg, and Gettysburg. He scored the winning goal against Trenton.

With three more soccer seasons ahead of him, Nick has a good chance to break every record in the sport at Wilkes.

Nick says that his parents are due to join him in America next year and that his younger brother will make an even better player.

2nd Annual 'Big Band Blast' Tonite

Two Combos Play Until 1 A.M.; No Intermission is New Feature; Proceeds Go to Modern Workshop

The Wilkes College Band sets the stage for a gala Homecoming Weekend by bringing the second annual 'Big Band Blast' to the campus tonite.

Two five-piece combos will furnish 4 solid hours of modern dance music in one of the most unusual programs sponsored here in many years, it was announced by dance chairman Ralph Harrison.

Believing that many dances are forced into a 'cooling off period' by the usual intermission, at a time when the dance, the conversation, and the party atmosphere are merely beginning to gain momentum, the band members have decided to eliminate intermission tonite by booking two separate music-making combos.

At 9 the first set of musicians will take the band stand. This combo features: Ruth Remley, piano; Bill Figart, trumpet; Bob Zajkowski, bass; Gino Marchetti on the drums; and an unannounced guitarist. Band director Bob Moran will 'ride along' on the trombone.

At the time most dances would see the musicians taking a 20-minute pause, a second combo featuring Ann Faust, piano; Lenny Sabalesky, sax; Bob Lynch trumpet; Paul Schiffer, drums and vocals; Ralph Harrison, bass; will keep the musical ball rolling. The energetic Mr. Moran will again do trombone work with this second group.

Proceeds from the affair will go to the Modern Music Workshop, which has been working the past few years without the funds needed to purchase arrangements and other supplies that all bands need.

Last year the Workshop presented one hour of popular music at an assembly program. It was one of the most talked about, and appreciated assemblies of the year.

Contribution tickets are available on campus for 50 cents from the ticket committee: Joe Risso, Dom Domzalski, and Bob Zajkowski.

Other committees are: refreshments, Janet Jones, Marilyn Carl, and Mary Lou Chickson; publicity, Ann Faust, Bill James, and Carroll Davenport.

Frosh Appoint Council For Efficient Planning

It would be a mess if the three hundred and fifty members of the freshman class argued back and forth over an issue without having someone first give the issue some thought.

The Freshman Council, the administrative body of the freshman class, has been organized for this purpose. The council is composed of the elected officers of the class in addition to the following representatives who were appointed from various fields of study by the class officers:
