President's Message

To the class of 2011:

Congratulaions to you!

The world awaits your talent and ambition. You'll experience a much "flatter" world than your parents encountered as they reached adulthood. Societies and economies intertwine like never before in our history.

You have demonstrated the intellect and tenacity to earn your degree. We're proud of you and your accomplishments. We hope you employ the knowledge and experiences you've gained at Wilkes to make this world a better place, whether in big ways or small ways.

I hope as you prepare to move on, you'll take some time to reflect on and thank those who have contributed to your college experience: the factulty-mentors and staff who've steered you through WIlkes; parents, scholorship donors and others who may have helped financially; and the friends and family who offered guidance and support.

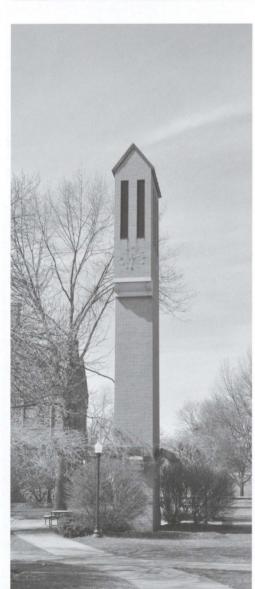

Remember that through your baccalaureate studies at Wilkes come to a close, the need for learning has not. You'll encounter new people, new technology and new challenges throughout life. Whether formal or not, the need for eductaion never ends.

I urge you to stay cnnected with WIlkes, wherever life takes you. The Alumni Association is here for you, working to keep you in touch with friends and faculty, and looks forward to wlecoming you. And as you attain levels of success, we hope you'll remember your university and seek ways to give future generations the same access to an outstanding education as you've enjoyed.

My wife, Patty, and I join in wishing you well as you venture into life. Savor the journey!

Sincerly,

Tim Gilmour President

No matter what, Gle was always smiling!

It was with a heavy heart that the university bid farewell to one of its long time family members Glenn Gambini. Mr. Gambini passed away February 21, 2011 due to complications resulting from a stroke. Throughout the course of his more than thirty years as a food service employee for Wilkes, Glenn touched the lives of tens of thousands of students, staff, and faculty members. The memories of some of these university members were shared at a Memorial service that Wilkes held in honor of Glenn on March 1, 2011. Many agreed that it would be the smile that Glenn had on his face every day that will be remembered the most. For so many reasons, Glenn Gambini will never be forgotten and for his more than thirty years of service to Wilkes University, he is and always will be a true Colonel.

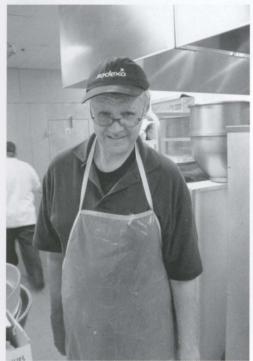

So many people gathered to celebrate Glenn's life and share stories.

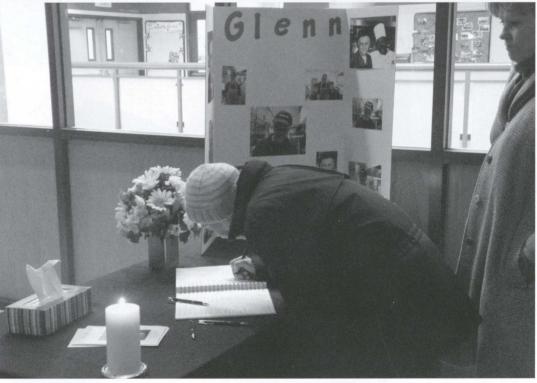

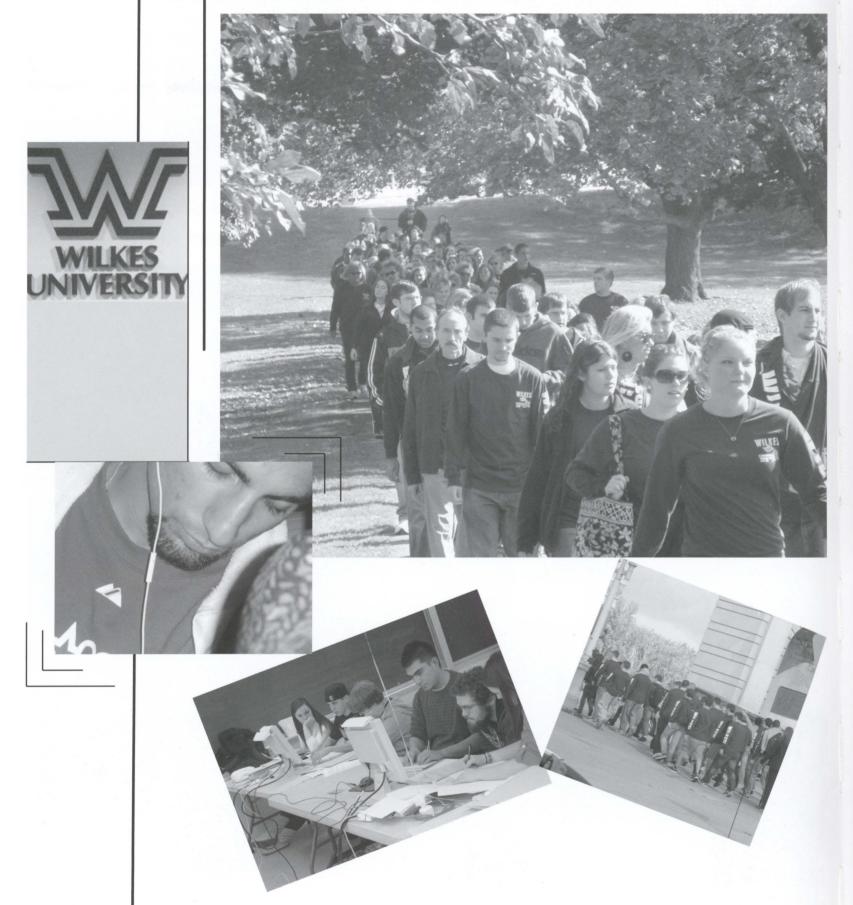

No matter what, Glenn was always smiling!

Hackers: ACM Competition

Each school year Wilkes University not only competes in the ACM computer programming competition but also operates as a host site for twenty to twenty-five other teams from other schools, the 2010-2011 school year was no different. This year's team of Ed Zulkoski, Dakota Cole, and Ricky Lashock coached by Dr. Ronald Pryor represented Wilkes University in this international competition. Students from the Math and Computer Science Club helped prepare and run the competition as well as facilitating the needs of the students and coaches from the other teams. Every team was eager to win because the winners of this competition, as well as its counterparts in other countries, go on to compete in the final competition in China.

Here's a word from the Champ!

Ever since I was a little kid, I have wanted to be a Guinness World Record holder. The only thing stopping me was that I had to find what it was that I could do for a record. This idea had sat in the back of my mind for years until recently. I had been looking up Guitar Hero videos on Youtube and saw a video for the longest Guitar Hero marathon world record by a group of people in Finland. Curious, I clicked the video and watched the time-lapse of the entire 24 hours. Watching this, I thought to myself that 24 hours is not really that long of a time. I started to research the record more as I began to think that I may have finally found a record that I could break.

Jump ahead to the beginning of 2010. I had been making preparations to break this record. Guinness had sent me the rules and said that the current record was 24 hours and 2 minutes. They told me that I could have a ten minute break for every hour that I played. They told me what evidence I had to supply to verify the record and I received permission from Wilkes to have the event on campus. All I had to do at this point was wait for the scheduled date to come. The first weekend in February arrived. I had finished all my classes on Friday and began to make my preparations. After a few technical difficulties, the show was on the road. My support from friends was great at the beginning of the event; however, during the wee hours of the night I had very little support at the event. At around the 18th hour, I hit a wall of exhaustion. I became very tired and felt extremely run down and was on the brink of passing out. I decided at this point to accept defeat and stop, looking out for my best interest. I was very disappointed and ashamed that I was unsuccessful; especially after all of the hype I created. This made me realize that playing Guitar Hero for at least 24 hours was much more challenging than it appeared. I felt defeated and I knew that I could not let this record win. I knew I would try again; it was just a matter of when I was ready to do it again.

Fast forward again, this time to September 2010. Over the summer I had been thinking about the record. I decided that I was ready for another attempt at the record. This time the date was set to be September 25th. I woke up Saturday morning and felt very anxious and even a little nervous. I did not want to let down my supporters and more importantly myself a second time. I already knew that my support this time around would be much better. My friend Jeremy would be there for the entire event and my family was going to come from home to support me as well. Even at the very late hours I had great support. I definitely contribute this added support to me being able to break the record. Once I got to hour 18, I began to struggle again. Luckily, my friends there as support would not let me quit and told me to keep going. As morning came, I knew that I was only a few hours from the record. My family had showed up and boosted my energy. The colonel also decided to make a surprise visit for some support. As I neared the record, I was almost out of energy. Fortunately, I was filled with adrenaline at this point. I began to power through. I got to the point where I set a new record and according to my friends, there were approximately 40 people there cheering me on. I had a great feeling of empowerment and I continued to play. Only once I had broken the old record by an entire hour did I feel comfortable stopping. I was ecstatic that I had finally done it and that many of my close friends and my family were there to witness it. I was also very happy because I was able to raise over 100 dollars for charity for the American Cancer Society. This leaves one thing left for me to do, and that is to take a picture holding that Guinness World Record certificate that I will hopefully have very soon. Lastly, I wanted to thank everyone for the support and donations. I could not have done it without your support and I will never forget that.

Diwali, which means "festival of lights", is an important five-day festival in Hinduism, Jainism, and Sikhism. For Hindus, Diwali is one of the most important festivals of the year and is celebrated in families by performing traditional activities together in their homes. Students performed special dances, sang songs, and prepared delicious food to share. Everyone got to get into Diwali by clearing the middle of the Ballroom for a dancefloor, where everyone was encouraged to participate!

Commencement

The 2010-2011 commencement day was a day of pride and joy for the graduating students of Wilkes University. More than seven hundred students of the Undergraduate, Graduate, and Pharmacy persuasions walked across the stage at the Mohegan Sun arena on Saturday May 21, 2011. They were cheered on by the more than a thousand friends and family members that came to watch the ceremony. This year's student speaker Anthony Dorunda was given the honor and the privilege of standing in front of the crowd and describing what graduation and his four years at Wilkes meant to him. Several students received awards for academic excellence and contributions to the school and a few took their Oath of Admission into the United States Air force. All told, Commencement day is a day that will never be forgotten by the graduates and their friends and family.

Slowly rebuilding a strong and committed team has been a challenge, but this year showed promising results. The women finished the Delaware Valley Invitational 10th out of 18, while the boys finished 17th out of 22. There was room for improvement which they clearly demonstrated at the Falcon/Mule Classic, the girls team finished 3rd out of 10, and the boys finished 5th out of 9 teams. Back to Delaware Valley in order to compete for the MAC Championships in such a short season. The girls were steady finishing 9th out of 15 teams, while the boys completed their season finishing 14th of 15. Michelle Wakeley, Kara Engle, Olivia Waszkiewicz and Laura Nulton, Wilkes top three finishers, had times fast enough to enter into Wilkes top-10 times. Matt Buono was the top men's finisher for Wilkes as he beat and now holds the school record for the 8k; Austin Loukas also completed a time fast enough to become a top-10 Wilkes time. At the NCAA Regionals Michelle Wakeley finished 56th overall of 299 runners. Austin Loukas and Devoni Novak were named to the MAC Sportsmanship teams.

The coaches within the league think the Wilkes Colonels should finish their season 4th in the MAC. With a brand new turf field and the season opener in jeopardy of being lost, the win was saved thanks to an interception from Greg Nielsen with 43 seconds remaining on the clock, allowing the Colonels to gather their first win against Waynesburg. The homecoming game was scheduled against Albright. With 35 seconds remaining, Kevin Gerhart picked off a pass to set up for a game winning 30 yard field goal, which gave the Colonels the comeback win of 38-35. Gerhart was then named MAC defensive player of the week. With another comeback win against Leabanon Valley to clinch a win 35-28 in overtime Wilkes coach Frank Sheptock becomes Wilkes's all-time wins leader. Alex George, a freshmen, third string quarterback, was responsible for this win as he threw two scores and ran for another, and on top of that completed a two-point conversion. George and Tate Moore-Jacobs were both named Player of the Week; later in the season Zach Tivald also received this honor. Wilkes won the Mayor Cup this year defeating Kings 21-17. The Colonels ended their season playing Moravian in the ECAC Southeast Bowl Game where they lost 26-14. Even so, Gerhart, Chris Horn, and Tate Moore-Jacobs received First Team All-Middle Conference; Jordan D'Emilio and Anthony Dorunda were named to the second team; Joe Lemoncelli was named to the MAC Sportsmanship team.

Golf has a main season during the spring but they aren't afraid to take a couple swings during the fall. Case in point, Bobby Hillibush shot a 74 at the Susquehanna Fall Invitational which was enough for him to medal. Sean Madden a senior who is also a football player for the Colonels deserves special mention for being a two sport athlete in two sports completely opposite from each other while excelling in both. Matt Kachurak, a freshmen, shot a low 72, which is tied for the 8th lowest score in school history, in a tri-match against the University of Scranton and FDU. Wilkes placed second at the Misericordia Invitational as well as ninth overall at the Susquehanna Invitational. After day one of the 62nd annual MAC Championships hosted at Hershey, Wilkes headed into day two in fifth place. They ended the tournament with fourth and Kachurak being named to Second Team All-Freedom Conference; Hillibush was named to the MAC Sportsmanship team.

Clarke Freeman won Player of the Week for his efforts in South Carolina during Spring Break. The courts were covered in snow, which caused many postponed and rescheduled matches for the team this year. Wilkes defeated rival Kings 8-1 in their first conference opener. After winning his first match from the number one position Evan Katz took home Player of the Week. Last year it was a breath taker watching who would move on from the conference between Wilkes and Manhattanville. This year the Colonels dominated the competition finishing 8-1. Weston McCollum sealed his first Player of the Week award for the season. After again defeating Kings and Manhattanville during the Freedom Conference the Men's Tennis Team won their fourth straight Freedom Conference Title. With their NCAA birth the team traveled to Gambler, Ohio where they fell to Ohio Northern. Jeremy Nolt and Katz were named All-Freedom Conference first team; McCollum and Freeman were named to the second team; Alex Makos was named to the Sportsmanship team.

Who would have expected the Wilkes Women's Tennis team to sweep all 9 brackets (3 doubles and 6 singles) during the MAC Individual Championships? The team clearly showed strong potential for the upcoming Spring season. In Hilton Head, South Carolina the Colonel's returned home with a 3-0 record. They suffered a close first lost to D-2 Bloomsburg Huskies making their record 7-1. On senior day Michelle Knight and Victoria Bybel played to clinch a 9-0 sweep of Misericordia. After going undefeated in the Freedom Conference during the regular season the defeated Eastern and Misericordia again to advance to the NCAA Championships. Stationed in Pittsburgh playing Ithaca they advanced with a 5-3 decision before falling to No. 8 Washington and Lee University. Throughout the season Bybel, Alexis Donnor, Ally Kristofco, and Melanie Nolt (4x) were named Conference Players of the Week. Nolt was also named Freedom Conference Player of the Year as well as Wilkes Female Athlete. Katrina Lynn was named to the MAC Sportsmanship Team.

Marissa Harrison broke the Wilkes University career kills record of 1,209 held by Alicia Vieselmeyer from 2005, she was also named Player of the Week that week. They participated in a campaign to help raise money for a boy named Arthur who is battling lymphoma, the campaign was known as "Cured by Fall." They also started an inaugural alumni game which was held on Saturday October 9th, and is the beginning of a new tradition the ladies hope to continue. It's required to stay in shape all year around to be a Wilkes Wrestler as they have a small season in the fall and a main season in the spring. The team started off being ranked 24th for preseason by the NWCA. Nathan White, Myzar Mendoza, and Dustin Stough all took home titles at first Monarch Invitational. Anthony Dattolo was named Outstanding Wrester as Wilkes finished first of 13 schools. Dattolo and Chirs Smith became ranked top 10 in their weight classes. For the first time in school history, Wilkes traveled to National Duals in Iowa where Wilkes moved up to being ranked 17th in the Nation, Dattolo won his weight class and becomes ranked 6th individually. Matt Transue took first place at the Messiah Open and the team moves to 15th place. Against Scranton University Wilkes was able to rack up 5 pins coming from Anthony Peterson, Jared Brownmiller, Phil Racciato, Kris Krawchuk, Transue, and Jon Slack. Heading into the Metropolitan Conference Championships ranked 13th, Dattolo cames out with a win and heads to the NCAA Championships. Dattolo walks away earning All-American status as well as Wilkes's Male Athlete of the Year; Ben Marich was named to the National Wrestling Coaches Association Division III Scholar and All-American teams.

Editor's Note:

As Editor-in-Chief of the 2010-2011 Amnicola Yearbook, I would like to extend my thanks to the following members of the faculty, staff, and student body who helped to make this year's book a success:

To Jamie Miller: I would say that you have learned a lot in your two years of being our year book adviser. You kept the coffee away from Guba and I, took care of the numbers, and helped us be us. Of course blaming Jesse when anything went wrong was probably the best lesson that I could have taught you. That being said, the yearbook would not have been the same without you. You got us anything that we needed including a few free lunches when we needed them the most. Thanks for trusting us with the keys to the $30,000 yearbook this year.

To my assistant editors: Michael Guba and Nora Skochinsky: Guba you know that we have officially seen it all, from thw moments when all is well, to the moments when we go "what happened to all of the football photos!" As with the four yearbooks that we worked on together prior to this one, it has been an honor to call you my right hand man. With the exception of the white spaces in the middle, all of the work that you have done for this book cannot be described in words. Nora, without you, Guba and I would not have been able to keep from yelling at each other and the situations at hand. You truly are the volume meter that keeps two high strung personalities in tone. Thank you so much for picking up the slack when Guba and I needed you to the most.

To the rest of my staff that locked themselves in the office to finish the book before finals with only meals and wiffle ball breaks to keep you cool: James, Jesse, and Jason; it was a pleasure to work alongside of you guys and I am looking forward to seeing what you guys come out with next year.
