PARENTS' DAY—Wilkes College will hold its 12th Annual Parents' Day on Saturday, October 19, with a full schedule of events planned for hundreds who will come from the community as well as surrounding states.

12th Annual Parents' Day Scheduled For Saturday

The Wilkes College 12th Annual Parents' Day will be held on Saturday, October 19, according to Arthur Hoover, director of student activities.

This yearly event is sponsored to give parents an opportunity to visit the Wilkes-Barre campus, become better acquainted with the historical significance of Wilkes, tour the classrooms and dormitories, and enjoy the traditional atmosphere of which the students, faculty and administration are an integral part.

The day's events will begin at 9 a.m. with registration in the dining hall lobby. Tours of the campus will be conducted every 15 minutes by student guides. Faculty members will be in the area to meet with the parents.

An open house of all buildings will be held until 5 p.m.

A women's field hockey game, Wilkes vs. Misericordia at Ralston Field, at 10:30 a.m., will give the parents the opportunity to observe the players and expose to the parents only a minute part of the extracurricular activities at Wilkes.

An 11:30 a.m. luncheon will be held in the gymnasium. President Francis J. Michelini will address the luncheon. Musical entertainment will be provided by the Wilkes College Jazz Band.

Wilkes will meet Ithaca in gridiron action at Ralston Field at 1:30 p.m.

A "Post-Game Huddle," an informal get-together of parents, students, faculty and administration will be held at the athletic field at 4

Thomas Hrynkiw, Class of '63, international concert pianist and winner of the coveted Geneva International Gold Competition Award, will present a solo concert at the Center for the Performing Arts at 8 p.m. as part of the college's Concert and Lecture Series.

Following the Parents' Day events, the Wilkes College Department of Music will present the Wilkes College Chorus Concert on Sunday, October 20, at 3:30 p.m. in the Center for the Performing Arts.

Because of the favorable response which Parents' Day has received through the years, it has been placed on the Wilkes College social calendar as an annual affair.

Hrynkiw To Present Solo Concert At CPA

The Wilkes College Concert and Lecture Series will present Thomas Hrynkiw, Class of 1963, an international concert pianist and winner of the Geneva International Gold Competition Award, in a solo concert on Saturday, October 19, at 8 p.m. in the Center for the Performing Arts.

Hrynkiw received his M.A. degree from the Manhattan School of Music, where he was given the school's highest honor, The Harold Bauer Award.

During 1967 he gave a series of recitals at Manhattan College, winning The Frank Huntington Beebe Award.

In 1962, he won the National Music Teacher's Competition, studying under Ann Liva, member of the Wilkes College Music Department. He has appeared in the Tchaikovsky Concerto with Leonard Stokowski, conducting; the Niagara Falls, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton and Binghamton Philharmonics and the Orchestra of the Philadelphia Musical Academy.

Hrynkiw began his musical studies at age eight. He made his first orchestral appearance at 13. He played violin and viola in local orchestras and began conducting a youth orchestra at 16, performing in Carnegie Recital Hall.

In 1963, he toured the U.S. with the Schola Cantorum, and made appearances on WFUV Radio, N.Y. and at the Museum of the City of

New York.

During the summer of 1967 Hrynkiw toured Pennsylvania and New York with the Balihry Trio.

He was also the unanimous choice as winner of the Hour of Music Competition.

Participating for two seasons as guest artist in the Newport Music Festival as chamber music player and soloist, Hrynkiw has toured the Caribbean as a member of The New American Trio.

He has recently played in the "Eighth Music Festival at Sea," touring Central and South America, and has recorded the piano music of Glinka for the Musical Heritage Society.

Funds allotted to Student Government were not cut in the budget for the 1974-75 academic year. The budget for this year was approved at a meeting of the Wilkes College Board of Trustees last Friday.

Approval of the budget came amid reports of a possible cut in the Student Government funds destined for student activities. According to the reports, the budget cut could have been as much as $1,500.

The reports set off fears that money allotted to the four classes and to clubs would be cut. This was because the approved Student Government budget stipulated that cuts in funding would first be made in money given to the classes and clubs since they received more funds this year.

Several Student Government Representatives, especially those representing the classes, were in opposition to such action. They believe that the classes and clubs are the main outlets for social activities other than the Concert and Lecture program.

Opponents to cutting the funds of the classes and clubs suggested that a cut be made in the funds allotted to other organizations such as the Beacon and Amnicola. Since no budget cut was made, there is no longer a problem.

Concert Cancellation, Lack Of Communication Discussed At Meeting

Renaissance did not perform at Mansfield State College on Monday night. That information was made known Tuesday as Student Government and the Concert Committee acted to clarify reports that Renaissance performed at other schools despite the cancellation of their concert here.

It was reported over the weekend that Renaissance had performed at Rutgers University last Thursday night and that the group was to perform at Mansfield State College on Monday night.

The reports reached some Student Government Representatives and an informal meeting was held between them and Stew Feeney on Monday afternoon.

Glen Misner, chairman of the Concert Committee, telephoned both Rutgers University and Mansfield State College on Monday to verify the reports. Mansfield State reported that the concert scheduled for that school was cancelled. Rutgers reported that their concert is scheduled for October 24.

The cancellation of the concert was discussed at the meeting and Stew Feeney explained why it was cancelled. He also reported to the Student Government Representatives present that most of the money used for the concert was recovered.

The booking agency for Renaissance contacted the Concert Committee about two weeks ago and stated that Annie Haslam, lead singer of the group was ill and in the hospital. They stated that the group was not going to perform at its other concerts due to her illness.

The agency requested that the group be allowed out of the contract with Wilkes. The Concert Committee agreed and the Homecoming Concert was cancelled.

Monies used to set up the concert were returned to the All College

Weekend Fund. Rumors that the committee could not get out of the contracts for lighting and sound systems were discounted by Stew Feeney.

He stated that when the concert was cancelled, the contracts for lighting and sound systems were also cancelled and the money returned. It is reported that some Student Government representatives are asking for an accounting of the affair.

Total expenditure for the concert was $105 according to Stew Feeney. That money was used for the printing of tickets and posters.

It was also reported that 80 tickets were sold and about 25 tickets have been refunded so far. A complaint was voiced that those who were to refund money in the Student Union Building last Friday were not present. It was explained that this was the result of an oversight and that tickets are being refunded.

The possibility of getting Rod McKean to perform in the CPA was also discussed at the meeting. It was stated that the school board obtain the performer for $3,000, but that would be for a performance before a limited audience due to the seating capacity of the CPA.

The events of Homecoming Weekend were also discussed and the widespread dissatisfaction of students was aired. Many students were disappointed with the weekend and its lack of activities on Saturday night and on Sunday. Student Government Representative Bob Spinelli summed it up when he said that the "weekend didn't provide enough activity."

The lack of communication between students and between members of Student Government was also a topic of discussion at the meeting. It was agreed that perhaps if communication were improved, less disagreements would arise and more could be accomplished by Student Government and other student organizations.

It was suggested that the executive councils of each of the classes hold more class meetings to discuss any complaints or suggestions the students may have. It was also mentioned that suggestion boxes be placed around campus.

Editorially Speaking

Improper Planning

The past weekend should have been chock-full of activities. The truth is not so. This year's Homecoming weekend just didn't quite make it. There was an obvious lack of activities for undergraduates once the football game ended on Saturday afternoon.

There seems to be a valid reason for the cancellation of the concert, but what about the other activities? What happened to the sock hop? It seems that those in charge of Homecoming should have arranged more activities or had alternate activities available.

There was one event which was held and proved to be one of the most successful events of its type. That was the Undergraduate Dinner Dance on Friday night. We hope that next year's Homecoming Weekend will be better planned.

Communication Gap

The fact that a communication gap exists between students here at Wilkes was discussed at a recent meeting between the president of Student Government and several Student Government Representatives. They also noted that a communication gap exists between those people representing the students.

It is unfortunate that this gap exists and all of us must search for ways to bridge it. Those attending the meeting came up with some valuable ideas such as having more class meetings for discussion and setting up suggestion boxes around campus.

Perhaps one of the best ways to eliminate the communication gap between those representing the students is for them to get to know each other a bit better. Once they really meet each other and see that they can sit down and discuss things, the organizations of which they are a part will run smoother and will accomplish more.

The Readers' Voice

Students Object To Spanish Trip Credit

To the Editor:

A sheet was recently distributed to some classes in the foreign language department recruiting students for an interim program designed to satisfy the language requirement. This program was supposed to perform in 23 days, including travel overseas and other diversions, an equivalent function to that fulfilled by a full-semester three-credit course at the college. A preliminary price assessment approaches $800 for the program.

Our objections to this sort of suggestion are strong and fully justified. First of all, there would be an inextricable tendency for stratification on an economic scale; that is, students who could not afford this luxury would have to suffer through the normal routine in order to fulfill the requirement. This is as unfair as it would be to give students in a quantitative course the option of buying an $800 calculator or a $2 slide rule, with corresponding disparity in student efficiency. No course at Wilkes should be open only to rich students.

Secondly, we doubt that an equivalent quality of instruction could be achieved in a brief, hectic tour situation as opposed to the standard one semester course.

Finally, even if a one semester course could be condensed to three weeks, why not hold such a course right on the Wilkes campus charging the normal college tuition? This would reduce extrinsic distractions and economic stratification, according some measure of fairness to the proceedings.

We recommend that such programs be severely restricted as a matter of college policy.

Very truly yours,

Student Likes Couple Praises Our Lord

Dear Editor,

It has been approximately three weeks since the system of bus tokens was introduced to the college. Those three weeks have been just great! Getting up in the morning and searching for quarters with half shut eyes is no longer a problem. Now, just slip out two tokens, save five cents on each, and out you go. Thanks Commuter Council, especially Mike Stambaugh and Joe Suchocki who listened to the pleas of reduced rates last semester. You guys are really helping the commuting students who travel by bus (tokens) and by car (Park and Lock stickers).

We really appreciate you!

A Letter

PARENTAL CONCERN—The following letter is to a Wilkes freshman dormitory student. The Beacon has permission for its use.

Tuesday, October 8th

Dearest:

We received your letter last night. We had gotten home late as we were looking and test-riding the Mercury Monarch. Daddy read your letter out loud while I started dinner. Lance just beamed when he heard his name mentioned.

After dinner we went to the Oldsmobile place. They gave us a price on a car coming in without a defogger on the back window. I had wanted it (you know, the coils on the back window) but they tried to talk us out of it. We are very mixed up. The Mercury would be about $350 cheaper (with the defogger) but Daddy still feels the Olds is more car. Each dealer is trying to get a 24-hour sale for his low price. We are going to get a white car with red top and interior no matter which car.

Glad to hear you are getting along fine in school. We all wish you luck on the exams. I am going to send you money. Get a shirt if it is cold (for the dance) and I am sure it must be getting cold there. I sure wish you had your winter coat. You can carry your suit jacket and change at the dance, if it is cold.

And now an English lesson. All proper names are capitalized. (You wrote david, english, pirates, etc.) Currently has two r's. The word for "you are" is "you're, the ' taking the place of the a; not "your" which means belonging to you.

Watch these little things when you write your thesis. Careless punctuation can make a bad impression on your reader even though what you are saying is worth while.

I want you to know I am very proud of you for making such a good effort. Someone once said, "It's not failure that is a disgrace, but never having tried." Or something to that effect as I am not quoting verbatim. (Verbatim means word for word.) Say, you're the one in college; you should be teaching me.

Give us a call and be sure to have a good time at the dance. Am enclosing $10.

Love from us all.

Wilkes Alumnus Views Future In Advertising, Not Teaching

BY SANDY AKROMAS

What happens to those students who graduate with a B.A. degree in English from Wilkes College? Those who are lucky enough find a teaching position and others, for example, work in a candy section of the department store or similar types of jobs.

Nancy Sologovitch, a 1972 alumnus, began working in the boy's department of the Boston Store.

"Upon graduation, I looked around for a teaching position in the valley, but nothing was available," explained Nancy.

After a two-month period, Nancy was offered a job in the advertising office. The personnel director asked her if she would be interested, even though she did not have any formal education or experience in the field.

"I told the vice-president, who interviewed me, that I did not know the mechanics of advertising, but would give it a try anyway. In the long run, it proved to be more interesting than selling boy's clothes," replied Nancy.

Her first assignment in the advertising field, oddly enough, was sending letters from Santa Claus to the children who had written to him.

"I really lucked out getting this job since I never knew about these kinds of jobs," stated Nancy.

After working in the Boston Store for six months, she received a call from Wyoming Seminary. The school offered her a teaching position, but she turned it down.

"I liked my job and the people I worked with. I refused to give it up for teaching, so I recommended some of my friends for the job. They were all turned down," recalled Nancy.

Doing the advertising for the two area Boston Stores takes a great deal of time and ideas, even though both stores are small.

Included in Nancy's line of work are: lay-outs of the ads, copy for radio and TV commercials, arranging shows for the teen board and making periodical trips to New York to check on the latest fashions.

Another facet of advertising is acting on the various TV commercials. Nancy has done several commercials for Sapolin Paint and the Boston Store products.

"It's a very rewarding experience to see my work in print or on TV, especially when people compliment on the ideas — some of which I think of 3 o'clock in the morning," she explained.

"Like every other job there are the good and bad aspects of it. When the buyers supply information 15 minutes before the deadline, it is very hard to be creative on the ad. Also, deadlines are troublesome.

"I guess the biggest disappointment is when I do an ad I like and someone higher does not hold the same opinion. I do what I like and what appeals to me," she replied.

What advice does Nancy give to future English majors? They should not be discouraged if they cannot secure a teaching job because there are many other rewarding jobs with openings available to them. They just have to look in other fields.

Panel Scheduled

A panel discussion of the "Proposed Luzerne County Charter" will take place on Thursday, October 17, at 8 p.m., at the Jewish Community Center, South River Street.

Moderator for the panel will be Tom Bigler, news director of WBRE-TV. Members of the panel include, Tom Cooney, chairman of the Luzerne County Government Study Commission; Madge Benovitz, board member of the committee for the charter; and Frank Harrison, board member of the committee for the charter.

The presentation is sponsored by the Adult Education Committee of the Jewish Community Center in conjunction with the League of Women Voters of the Wilkes-Barre area, Hadassah and the Council of Jewish Women, in an attempt to better acquaint the community with the workings of the city government. Refreshments will be served.

The schedule of the Registered Nurse Challenge Examination has been announced according to Mrs. Ruth McHenry, chairman of the Wilkes College Department of Nursing, and Mrs. Elizabeth Rarig, member of the nursing faculty.

For the 1974 Fall semester, the testing times for the individual courses are: Nursing 101, Monday, November 4, at 9 a.m.; Nursing 201, Thursday, November 7, at 9 a.m.; and Nursing 200, Monday, November 4, at 1 p.m.

The 1975 Spring semester examination schedule is planned on these dates: Nursing 203, Monday, January 6; Nursing 101 and 201, in the first week of March; Nursing 102 and 202, in the fourth week of March; Nursing 203, in the first week of June; and Nursing 204, in the fourth week of June.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Rarig at the Department of Nursing, Wilkes College.

Military Is Most Admired According To Survey

The military is doing a better job of serving the country than any other major institution, according to a survey conducted during October and November, 1973, by the Institute for Social Research. Colleges, universities and religious organizations ranked close behind — with the President, the federal government and labor unions ranking lowest.

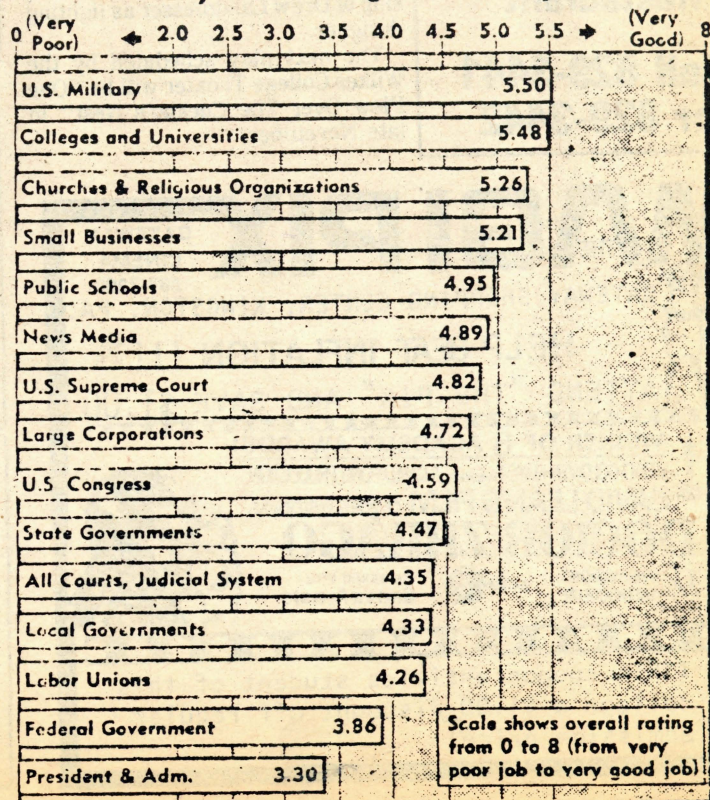

The Institute, located in Ann Arbor, Michigan, asked a representative sampling of 1,444 Americans to rate how good a job each of 15 major institutions was doing for the country. The results are shown in the graph below.

The exceptionally high rating given the military may be a sign that the military's prestige is recovering from the unpopularity it had during the Vietnam War, according to Willard Rodgers, one of the directors of the survey.

Other survey questions showed the people want much of the influence of big business and labor unions cut back and more power invested in Congress, the Supreme Court and local and state governments.

They would also like some reduction in the influence of the news media, the President and the federal government.

Band And Chorus Concert Set By Music Department For Weekend Festivities

BY LISA WAZNIK

The Wilkes College Department of Music will present band and chorus concerts in conjunction with Parents' Weekend festivities. This will mark the first concerts of the season for both musical organizations. The concerts are open free to the public.

The Wilkes College Concert Band, under the direction of Raymond Nutaitis, will present a concert on Friday evening October 18 at 8:30, in the Dorothy Dickson Darte Center for the Performing Arts. The program is varied, featuring music of American and British composers. Also many transcriptions of folk music and musical comedy will be played.

Included in the program is the "Overture" to Candide (1955) by Leonard Bernstein, and "Dirge for the Band" (1964), which was composed by Robert Starer in memory of John F. Kennedy. Two more recent compositions that will be performed are "Symphony No. 3 for Band" (1961) by Vittorio Giannini and "The Leaves are Falling" (1966) by Warren Benson. Also included is "Spoon River, An American Folk Song" (1932) by Percy Grainger. Concluding the program for the evening will be two selections by Ralph Vaughn Williams, "Folk Song Suite" (1924) and the encore piece "Flourish for Wind Band" (1939).

The Wilkes College Chorus will be performing Sunday afternoon October 20, at 3:30 in the Dorothy Dickson Darte Center for the Performing Arts. Miss Janice Pedersen, a new member of the Wilkes College Department of Music, will be conducting a widely varied and distinctive concert.

The first piece "Glory Be to God" by Sergei Rachmaninov is one of 15 pieces composed by him in 1916 for the Combined Prayer Service or All Night Vigil of the Russian Orthodox Church. This service combines the vespers and matins for the nights of vigil preceding the great holidays. The second set of songs is the choral dances from "Gloriana" by Benjamin Britten. The opera "Gloriana" was composed in 1953 and dedicated to Elizabeth II at the time of her coronation.

The second part of the program is done by the Small Ensemble. Both numbers are by Johannes Brahms. The first is "Liebeslieder Waltzes," the texts taken from Daumer's Polydora, a collection of Russian, Polish, and Magyar folk poetry. Love, as the translated title says, is the feeling which has inspired the joy and rapture in these. The second piece, "Vier Lieder," done by a quartet is taken from a larger collection entitled "Twelve Songs" and Romances.

"The Tambourine" and "A Gypsy's Life" by Robert Schumann depict a folk style characteristic of the gypsy. The final part of the concert starts with an American folk song of the southern mountain region entitled "He's Gone Away" arranged by Shaw and Parker. It is a moving piece not only of love's sorrow, but also of love's hope.

The last composition is the final chorus from "The Peaceable Kingdom," a sequence of sacred choruses from the book of the prophet Isaiah. "Ye Shall have a Song" by Randall Thompson has its text taken from Isaiah 36:29.

Play Production Highly Praised

BY DANA JAMIOLKOWSKI

The Wilkes College presentation of Ibsen's "Ghosts," concluded Homecoming Weekend with outstanding performances.

The portrayal of Mrs. Alving by Agnes Cummings was excellent. Her consistent expression and emotion kept the audience alive.

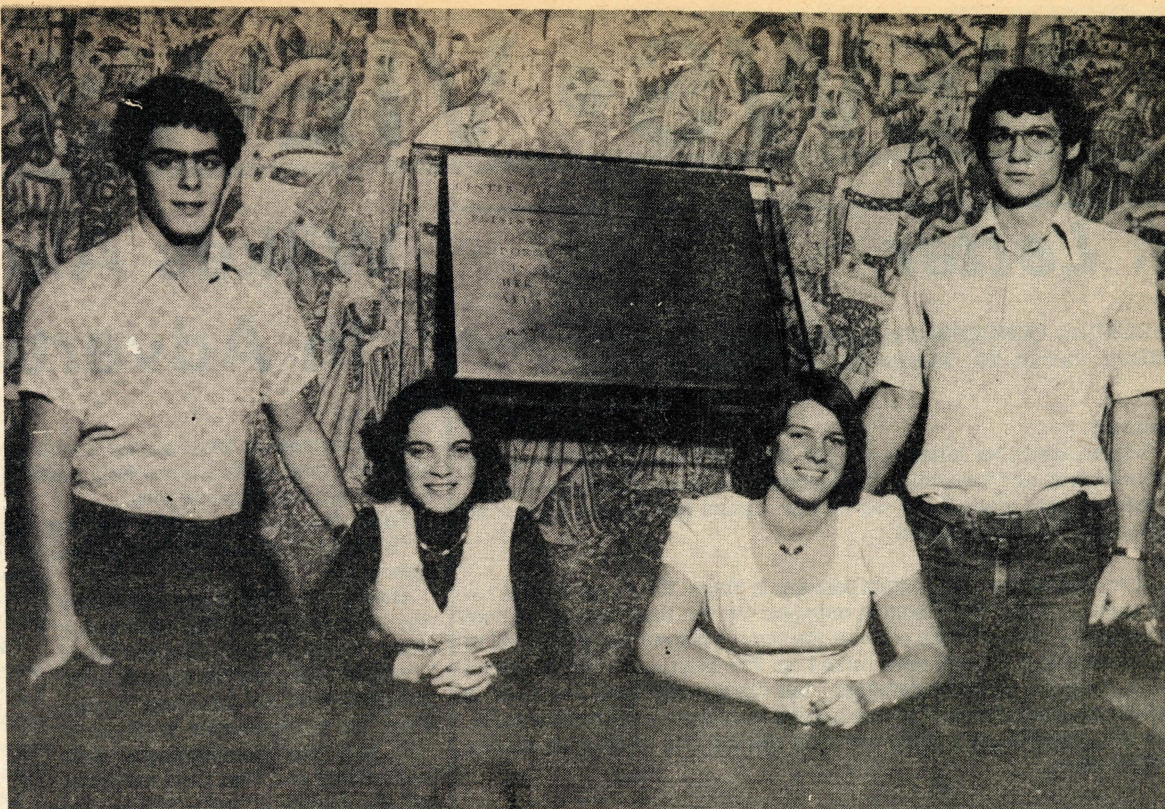

William Boronow as Pastor Manders, Edward Wallison as Oswald and Randy Smith as Engstrand overcame the viewers with laughter.

Regina, played by Kit McCarty, kept the gentlemen's interest in her alive on and off stage.

The drama was complex, with underlying meanings and symbolism.

The scenery designed by Klaus Holm added to the mood of the play's theme, accented by the workmanship of Drew Landmesser as lighting designer.

The next play scheduled by the Wilkes College Theater will be "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest" in late November.

Members of the Wilkes Human Services Committee are involved in various projects which benefit the college and the community, but their main objective is to help their fellow man on an individual basis.

Members of the Executive Council include: T. Grant Phillips, Vice-Chairman, Massapaqua, N.Y.; Jan Cohen, Recording Secretary, Holmdel, N.J.; Gail MacIntyre, Corresponding Secretary, Broomall, Pa.; and Andy Falkowski, Treasurer, Stanton, N.J. Absent when the picture was taken was Dave Davies, Chairman, Wilkes-Barre.

Human Services Committee Takes Time To Help People

BY GRANT PHILLIPS

Last year over 350 pints of blood were collected for the Greater Northeastern Pennsylvania blood drive area. The March of Dimes Walk-a-Thon collected $2,500 for this organization. A young girl was helped in her efforts to overcome a crippling disease. Over 100 local happenings were covered by trained first aid people. The list continues, but the new list of future plans is bigger than the list of past accomplishments.

A group of college students who collectively call themselves the Human Services Committee work on these projects. The HSC is a college and community service organization that has one goal in mind: helping others who are in need.

Formed in 1972 by Rich Mendelsohn, the Human Services Committee got off to a good start. They collected blood and did community services. This year, headed by Dave Davies of Wilkes-Barre, the Committee has many projects in mind.

Wilkes College Blood Donor Day is

EARN UP TO $1200 a school year hanging posters on campus in spare time. Send name, address, phone and school to: Coordinator of Campus Representatives, P.O. Box 1384, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48106 scheduled for Tuesday, October 29 from 8:30 to 3:30. The patterning of a little girl is under way and the Walk-a-Thon is being planned. There is a pending agreement between the HSC and the Explorer scouts to help expand the scope of the Committee. Mark Letavish and his First Aid Squad will again be giving the community of Plymouth a small squad of ambulance personnel as well as cover the sports events.

Contrary to popular belief, the Human Services Committee is not a biology major or Wilkes-Hahnemann club. It is an organization for any person who wishes to donate a small amount of time to help others. The HSC is for people who think that Wilkes is boring and want to do something with their time.

As Dave Davies says, "Everyone spends quite a bit of time serving themselves. It's a rewarding change to be able to help someone other than yourself. The benefits can't be measured in dollars and cents, but maybe that's why they are so valuable."

The type of people that like that change is the type of people who belong to the HSC. Whether they help save a life in an ambulance or give out sandwiches to people that have just given blood, they have accomplished the same thing. The people who do this work get a good feeling inside, for they help to retain the gift of life.

The committee is also a social organization. To get away from the rigors of college life the HSC is planning a canoe trip in the spring. The carnival during Spring Weekend is also a time to have fun and at the same time provide a service to the community.

The question now is whether you feel you have done enough for your fellow man. If you do, and don't wish to do any more, you are not welcome in the HSC. But if you like to help and want to share a small bit of your time to benefit others, the HSC needs you. Come to a meeting and see what you think. Better yet, get involved in one of the activities and see how you feel. It will be a good feeling for sure.

FRESHMEN LIFE—Generally speaking, Freshman year is a period of adjustment.

For most, it is the first time they've ever been away from home and completely on their own. For others it is just a few minutes from home.

However, for all it is a new experience coming into contact with a diverse group of people with different concepts and ideas.

This new life that the freshman leads takes on many forms. One of those forms is the everyday class schedule that is followed to get one a step closer to the goal of a degree.

Electronic Sculpture At Sordoni

"A light sculpturist is one who needs a knowledge of engineering principles in addition to a knowledge of design principles." Walter F. Groer, whose electronic sculpture work is on display in the Sordoni Art Gallery, is such a person.

The unique exhibition of luminetic objects went on display Saturday, October 12 and will be exhibited until November 1. The official exhibition hours of the Sordoni Art Gallery are: Sunday thru Friday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mr. Groer is an Associate Professor of Metalcrafts and an Associate Head of the Department of Art at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He received his bachelor of science degree in Art Education from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania in 1950, his Master of Education from the University of Pittsburgh in 1953 and his Ph.D. in Art Education from Pittsburgh 15 years later.

In addition to his college degrees, Mr. Groer has also studied painting with Sam Rosenberg and Ben Shahn and enameling with Charles Jeffries. He has exhibited and received awards for painting, drawing, serigraphs, jewelry and luminetic works on a local, state and national level over a 24-year period.

Freshman Express Anxiety But Adapt To Environment

BY FRAN POLAKOWSKI

Anxiety, anticipation, excitement all fill the lives of freshmen as they embark on their new college career.

From the awkwardness of finding ones' way around the campus to the assertiveness of "knowing all" after only a week, the class of 1978 have generally adapted well to their new environment.

In a recent interview with some of the members of the freshmen class answers given to questions were similar whether the answer came from male, female, dorm or commuter.

All of the interviewers answered that they were looking forward to college, to a new start with new faces.

Some admitted they were apprehensive in the beginning and it took a few days for adjusting, but now they feel comfortable and fit right into the general scheme of things.

A common feeling among the freshmen interviewed is that they really don't feel there is a class difference. Generally, everyone treats everyone on an equal plane.

When asked what problems, if any, they had to adjust to, the freshmen gave such answers as "the whole thing was new to me, I was scared and confused, but after a few days I hadn't any problem." One confessed that it is hard adjusting to the cheating that goes on. "I thought that part would stay behind in high school and I was very disappointed with what I see and find it one of my major problems to cope with here."

As far as changes, none could be thought of at the moment. For the most part they were satisfied with the school and the people. One Hahnemann candidate said, "I was disappointed with the biology and chemistry classes; I picked a small college for the purpose of getting a more individualized training." However, he had no other complaints.

From the viewpoint of a commuter she said, "I chose Wilkes for the purpose of its proximity to home and I have no complaints. I've found both day and dorm students to be cooperative and friendly."

The reason for the choice of Wilkes was varied but all wanted a small college atmosphere in which they were an individual and not just another number. "I liked the way they thought of me as being someone important. All summer I received mail from the college giving a personal touch that they really cared who I was."

From an anxiety, anticipated-ridden week before their arrival to the Wilkes' campus to a "fitting-into-place" feeling, the class of 1978 have truly become one of the "family."

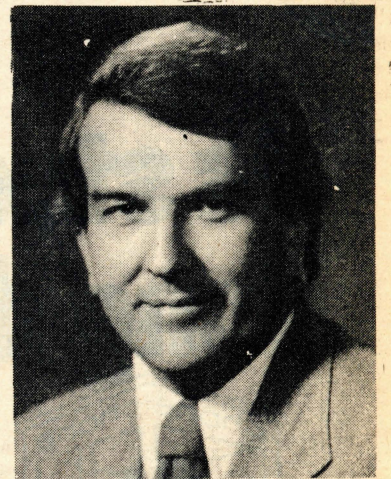

Historical Association Selects Faculty Member

A member of the Wilkes College faculty has been selected to present a paper to the 43rd Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Historical Association. The meeting will be held on October 25, 1974, at Westminster College in New Wilmington, Pa.

Dr. John W. Furlow, an assistant professor in the political science and history departments at Wilkes, will speak on: "Cornelia Bryce Pinchot: Social Feminism in Pennsylvania in the 1920's and 1930's." Cornelia Bryce Pinchot was the wife of Gifford Pinchot who was twice governor of Pennsylvania, and she herself was a prominent figure in Pennsylvania politics.

The Pennsylvania Historical Association is the only state-wide historical society now active in the Commonwealth. This association, in cooperation with local, county, and regional historical associations and agencies, seeks to advance the study of Pennsylvania's heritage. The association endeavors not only to stimulate scholarly activity in Pennsylvania history, but also arouse popular interest in all aspects of the subject.

Dr. Furlow is also a member of the American Historical Association, Organization of American Historians, American Association of University Professors, and the Concluding the week on Friday, the Colonels head to Elizabethtown, where they battle the E-Town Bluejays and Messiah College.

"Our middle men are going to tell the story," Pawlusch related. "Steve Standiford and Dave Kowalek have been improving but either Barry Wildoner or Ed Bosha must move up and close the gap between our number four and five men."

Drug Officials Seek Users And Pushers

"We go after large amounts of drugs." This statement expresses the philosophy of Lieutenant Chippey of the Wilkes-Barre Police Department and his staff. Chippey directs the local drug law enforcement effort.

Chippey recently spoke at an Interdormitory Council sponsored lecture in the Student Union building. He said that most marijuana users are in the 19-25 age group. The youngest known users are in the fifth grade.

Chippey's drug law enforcement efforts stem from his awareness that drugs are illegal and harmful. Due to the limited amount of available time, the size of the police force and the drug problem Chippey concentrates law enforcement efforts on the big users and pushers. Small users are largely ignored.

Marijuana is potentially dangerous because it reacts differently to different individuals. Also it is psychologically but not physically addicting. More research is needed to determine if marijuana is physically harmful. Sometimes marijuana leads to the use of more dangerous drugs.

The price of marijuana averages "$20 an ounce." Police pressure, supply and local demand are cost determinants. Possession of 30 grams or more is punishable as a felony. A $1000 fine, one year imprisonment and/or both can be levied. Under 30 grams constitutes a misdemeanor. A $500 fine and 30 days imprisonment can be used as punishment.

Permission is not needed from Wilkes prior to a campus drug raid. The Wilkes-Barre Police usually inform campus officials prior to a drug raid. Those within seven feet of the drug source are liable for prosecution.

Heroin is dangerous when the percentage of heroin in a dose is changed. A person accustomed to five per cent heroin is dead if a 25 per cent dose is taken. Those who snort heroin damage nasal membranes. Mainlining collapses the veins. In addition, heroin is physically addictive and addicts often endanger others in attempts to maintain the habit.

LSD causes chromosomal breakdown. Some will do weird and dangerous things while tripping on LSD. For this reason one out of a group will remain straight while the rest trip. Barbituates and alcohol is a deadly combination.

Chippey does not favor the legalization of marijuana. Even though marijuana is about as dangerous as alcohol, Chippey feels "they are both bad" and does not want two social evils legalized.

A new drug law is on the books. Drug law violators may after the first offense have their records expunged if within one year they have no new violations. The law applies only to first time offenders.

The Wilkes-Barre Police have a "mobile crime lab." It is equipped with "three video tape recorders," a "metal detector" and a "magnet." Pictures and voices can be shown in court as evidence. Metal particles on a cigarette pack can be detected and 75 pounds of metal can be dredged from a river with the magnet. This is one of the examples of the sophisticated equipment used in law enforcement.

Bohn Wins Contest

Mark W. Bohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bohn, 153 South Main Street, Mountaintop, Pa., won the first place in the State Competition Public Speaking Contest, held at the Downingtown Inn, Downingtown, Pa. on October 4, 1974.

Mark captured the Local Council Competition taking in Luzerne and Wyoming Counties on September 16.

He is a freshman at Wilkes College in the Wilkes-Hahnemann Medical Program.

Is stealing a long distance call worth a criminal record?

The use of phoney credit cards, electronic devices or any other means to avoid paying for phone calls is against the law. It's stealing—pure and simple.

In this state, conviction for making fraudulent phone calls may result in:

- A fine of up to $15,000
- Up to seven years in jail
- Restitution for the total cost of the fraud
- Court costs
- A permanent criminal record

One more thing: modern electronic computer systems are being used to track down offenders.

The penalties may seem harsh. But the cold fact remains that the law does not look on phone fraud as a lark.

Sports Chatter

By Paul Domowitch

Reflections

He lay there motionless. The once boisterous crowd became silent as the ambulance drove onto the field. A few minutes later, Juniata's Mike Hanselman, a big, strong defensive tackle was put into the emergency vehicle on a stretcher and carted to the hospital.

As we sat there in the pressbox, a similar scene came to our mind. It has been almost two years since Bobby McBride, a once vibrant, scrappy performer for the Wilkes College grid team died as a result of head injuries suffered in a contest against King's Point. Fortunately for Hanselman however, he only suffered a bruised neck and will be able to play another day. But for Bobby McBride, there are no tomorrows, and for those who knew him and loved him, there are only memories, and thoughts of what could have been.

Football is a dangerous game, no one will argue that point. But so is any other aspect of life, and those that play the game realize the risks involved. Bobby McBride and Mike Hanselman could have played tennis or basketball instead, but they loved the grid sport, and chose to compete.

What is the point of all this you ask? It is twofold; to point out the danger of football would be one perhaps, but more importantly, to reflect on that sad day two seasons ago. This year's squad has an opportunity to win their first Middle Atlantic Conference championship in five years, and even much more. They have the potential to be a great team and revel in the glory that goes with victory. Bobby McBride never got that chance. He too had the potential to be great; a great human being. But fate cut that potential short. When the Colonels take to the field this Saturday afternoon, the memory of McBride will hover over Ralston Field. Somewhere, the spirit of the dead Colonel is rooting for his former teammates to win it all; to accomplish what he himself never did. Ithaca will not be easily beaten. They are a tough, determined squad. But the Wilkesmen will have an added advantage; the past. The Blue Bombers will have to contend with 12 players out there on the gridiron Saturday; eleven of coach Rollie Schmidt's best from 1974, and the memory of a twelfth, who never saw his dream come true. Win one for Bobby boys!

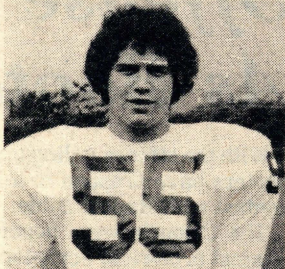

The Colonels put it all together last weekend against Juniata. What was expected to be a nip and tuck battle, turned into a Wilkes rout, with the Blue and Gold pulling away from the Indians, 30-9. The offense was picture-perfect, and the defense was awesome. Billy Horan, Mickey Calabrese, and Joe Dettmore all missed the Juniata contest with injuries, but hopefully will be healthy for Saturday. Paul Wengen was Horan's replacement at the one wide receiver position and made some important receptions early in the game.

With "the Breeze" out, Rodney Smith played almost the entire game Saturday and responded well. He gained 85-yards rushing on the afternoon, and almost broke a few others for some long gainers. Dettmore's replacement at the one wide-receiver position and made some important starting debut for the Colonels.

Another freshman who has got some future ahead of him is Tony Couto. The Colonels have had a history of great linebackers; Brinley Varchol, P.J. Kane, and Frank Galicki to name a few. And we think Couto has the potential to become the best of the best.

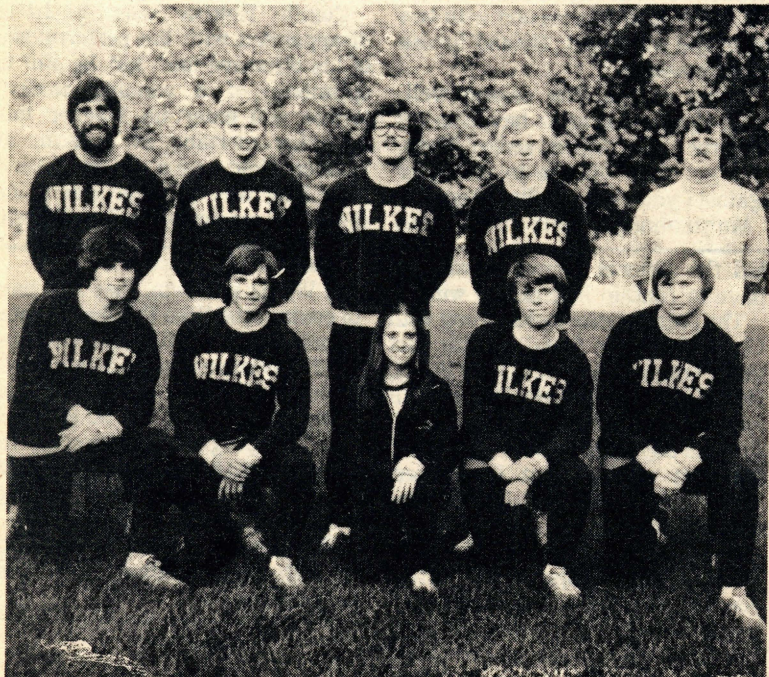

Against the Indians, Tony had eight first hits, blocked an extra-point attempt, and also blocked a punt, which teammate Terry Blaum fell on in the endzone for a touchdown.

Before he hangs up his spikes, Tony is going to make quite a name for himself.

IM GRID SCHEDULE

Today, 4 p.m. Howlers v. Purple Gang; Oct. 21, 4 p.m. Slocum v. Webster; Oct. 22, 4 p.m. Rowe's Boats v. Dirksen; Oct. 23, 4 p.m. Butler v. Webster II; Oct. 24, 4 p.m. Rams v. Roosevelt.

Rams Pounce Purple Gang To Remain Undefeated

Rich Cronauer threw for two touchdowns and ran for another as the powerful Rams defeated the tough Purple Gang 26-6, in a battle for the top spot in the Eastern Division of the Intramural Football League last Friday afternoon at Artillery Park.

The victory by the Rams set up yet another battle of unbeaten, when they take on the Roosevelt Roughriders next Thursday. The Rams are 3-0.

With Cronauer picking apart the Purple Gang secondary at will, the Rams scored the first time they had the ball. Mike Ellis caught two passes for substantial yardage, and then with a 3rd down and five situation from the six-yard line, Cronauer, behind the blocking of center Bob Montgomery and Jack Keller took it in by himself. Cronauer also scored the PAT.

The Purple Gang offense, which had been nearly unstoppable the previous Monday in their opener, had very little success against the big Ram "D," and could not get moving until late in the first half, when quarterback John Rajel hit tight end Gerry Bavitz on a ten-yard scoring pass.

The Rams came right back in the second half however, and marched 70 yards on 12 plays, with Cronauer finding split end Bill Kalish in the corner of the end zone from 15 yards out. Kalish, who was covered well, made a miraculous catch of the Cronauer aerial after it had been batted out of his hands by a Purple Gang defender.

With four minutes to go in the game, the Ram defense held the Purple Gang after they gambled on fourth and five from their own 20. Two plays later, halfback Mike Ellis ran a slant off-tackle, and rambled untouched into the endzone, for the Ram's third score of the afternoon, to put the game out of reach.

The victors added an insurance touchdown with less than a minute to go, when halfback Ellis caught another Cronauer aerial; this one from 25 yards out.

In other contests, Webster House bounced back from a loss at the hands of Webster II to edge the Space Raiders 18-12.

Dave Sheridan was the hero for Webster as he caught a 35-yard scoring pass, and ran for another.

The Space Raiders tied the contest up early in the vesper half on a touchdown pass to Al Baron, but the defense couldn't contain Webster, and tight end John Lack caught a Joe Germaine aerial in the endzone for the winning tally.

In other action, Priapus House won a close one over Slocum, 12-7. Boad and Thompson both ran for touchdowns for the victors, while Finley scored the lone tally for Slocum.

Wilkes Tied For The Top Spot In Conference Grid Standings

By virtue of their victories this past weekend, both Wilkes and Albright remain deadlocked for the Middle Atlantic Conference, Northern Division lead. The Colonels of course, trounced Juniata College 30-9 to remain unbeaten in conference play, while Albright won a squeaker over Susquehanna, 14-9 last Saturday night in Reading.

The Lions are 4-0 in the MAC, with wins over Lycoming, 16-0, Upsala, 42-0, Delaware Valley, 37-13, and the Susquehanna victory. Coach Roland Schmidt's Colonels on the other hand, have beaten Lycoming, 20-14, and Juniata last week.

With the loss to Wilkes, Juniata dropped to third place in the standings, with 2-1 conference log. The Indians will have another tough one this Saturday afternoon, when Albright travels to Huntingdon to take on the Central Pennsylvania institution.

While Albright and Juniata battle it out this weekend, Wilkes will be idle from Middle Atlantic Conference play and will take on Ithaca College. The Blue and Gold resume with their conference rivals the next weekend though, traveling to Selinsgrove, Pa. to take on Susquehanna. Also, remaining on the Wilkesmen's schedule are Upsala on November 2, Delaware Valley on November 9, and Albright in the season finale for both squads on the 16th of November. That contest will take place in Reading.

The Lions have only Juniata and Wilkes left, while Juniata must face hapless Upsala on October 26, and Delaware Valley on November 2.

For Juniata, a loss to Albright this weekend, would mathematically eliminate them from championship laurels. If Albright loses, Wilkes will have a big edge, with only Upsala and Del Val in their way before the showdown with the Lions.

The current MAC standings look like this:

Albright	4-0	1.000
Wilkes	2-0	1.000
Juniata	2-1	.666
Delaware Val.	1-1	.500
Susquehanna	0-2	.000
Upsala	0-2	.000
Lycoming	0-3	.000

Girls Whip 'Miseri' Behind Play Of Long

BY DOTTY MARTIN

The Wilkes field hockey team enjoyed a fine week as they downed the Highlanders of Misericordia College, 2-0, on Saturday and finished in a 1-1 tie against a previously undefeated Bloomsburg team on Thursday.

The Colonelettes are now hustling more than in the beginning of their season and are playing together as a team, cooperating with each other.

Offensive captain Ellen Schwartz scored the initial goal against Misericordia when she was awarded the first penalty shot Wilkes has had this year. Ellen flicked the ball nicely to the upper left hand side of the goal cage for the score. Penny Bianconi was credited with the second goal on a beautiful assist from Margaret Pelepkio.

The Misericordia girls have been termed a much improved team, but Wilkes hustled well and the offense was given many opportunities to score.

Goalie Nancy Roberts, an important part of the Colonelette defense this year, did not see much action as the blue and gold defense kept the ball away from the opponent's scoring circle. However, Miss Roberts did have a few key saves. Diane Jones played an excellent defensive game with some fine interceptions and the Highlanders had only about six shots at goal.

Coach Gay Meyers was pleased with the way the whole team hustled and particularly impressed with the aggressiveness of Barb Long. Miss Long had some beautiful dodges and break-aways as she rushed the goal hard throughout the entire contest.

On Thursday at Bloomsburg State College, Barb was credited with a beautiful pass to Penny Bianconi who scored the only Colonelette goal. Both teams were pretty evenly matched in this contest, with a lot of hustle, attack, and good defense on both sides of the field.

The Colonelette defense must be credited with an outstanding game as they showed how determined they were in the last 15 minutes of the game. Coach Meyers stated that she was proud of the determination and pleased with the team's 100 per cent effort right to the last second of the game.

Wilkes had some beautiful fast break situations set up once again by the good wing play of Barb Long. Seniors Marivita Saleski and Ellen Schwartz were also rushing hard, but the Bloomsburg defense proved strong at crucial moments.

The Colonelettes will travel to Mansfield State College this afternoon and will return home on Saturday to meet the Misericordia Highlanders for the second time around.

The Misericordia game, designated as Parent's Day, is scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. and should prove to be an interesting clash. Come out and support the team — fans are always welcome at hockey games!

(Answers on p. 6)

BY BOB DAVIS

The powerful Ithaca Blue Bombers, who have won their first five contests going away, and who are currently number one in the Lambert Bowl balloting, tangle with the Wilkes gridders this Saturday at Ralston Field.

A victory over the Blue Bombers would give the Colonels of coach Roland Schmidt a big boost in their quest for the Lambert Bowl.

Ithaca, under the direction of Coach Jim Butterfield, has won the last five meetings in the series, which dates back to 1949. The five-game winning trend began in 1969, when the Bombers squeaked out a 13-7 victory, snapping the Colonel's phenomenal 32-game winning streak. The New Yorkers lead the series 9-7.

This Saturday's contest has a great tradition of hotly contested games behind it. The first meeting was all Wilkes though, with coach George Ralston's 1949 Colonels powdering the Ithacans 29-7.

The big key to Ithaca's success this season has been the work of their incredible offense. Working out of the "I" formation after using the wishbone the past two years, coach Butterfield's boys have been averaging an astounding 500-yards a contest. Highlighting the offense has been the running of fullback Dave Remick, and the passing of quarterback Jerry Boyes to flanker Tim Nunn.

Remick, a 5'10, 185-pound senior has been averaging nearly six yards a crack with the ball this annum, and has a run of 53 yards to his credit.

Boyes A Threat

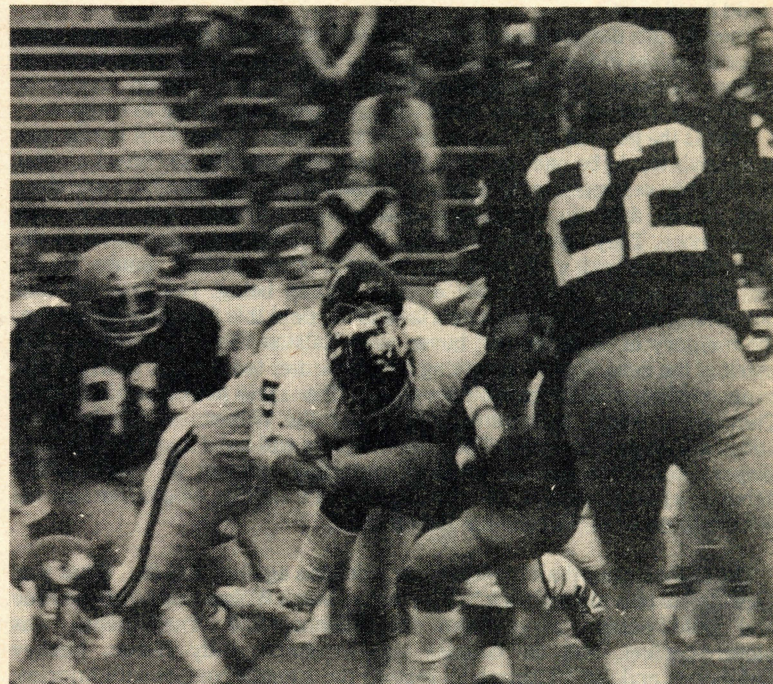

Quarterback Boyes, 6'2, 180, whose running skill is only exceeded by his passing ability, has a 5.3 running average, and has completed 24 of 40 passing attempts for almost 600 yards and seven touchdowns going into last week's encounter with Springfield, which the Bombers won 52-35.

When he puts it up in the air, his favorite target is 6'3, 190 pound split end Bill Bryant, who has already hauled in 16 aerials, for 409-yards and five scores. Flanker Nunn could be the secret to victory Saturday if he breaks loose. A triple threat, Nunn can pass, run and catch. On the ground, he is averaging 7.7 yards a lug.

Two Big Guards

Up front, the Ithacans have two huge guards who can open up gaping holes for Remick and company. Steve Deinhardt, a 6'2, 215 pound right guard, who was Ithaca's top offensive lineman last season, teams up with 5'9, 210 pound Mike Demetrios to provide plenty of daylight for their backs.

On defense, the Bombers utilize a 4-3-4 setup. The ends, George Tortoler (6'0, 240), and Jim Szczyrba (6'2, 215) are both quick and powerful, and have a number of quarterback sacks to their credit, already this season. Tackle Larry Czarnecki (6'2, 250) is another big

Offense Unproductive As Booters Drop 2nd

With the offense failing to produce the needed spark, coach Tom Rokita's booters have dropped to a 1-2-1 season record, not including yesterday's contest with Baptist Bible.

The Colonels were hopeful of picking up a big victory last Saturday against arch-rival Scranton, but the Royals did a superb defensive job on Wilkes' leading scorer, Stellos Patsiokas. In all, Stellos managed just a few shots at the nets the entire afternoon.

Despite being blanked last week, Patsiokas still leads the squad in scoring with five goals. George Bene Hoane, the other big offensive threat for coach Rokita is second with two goals and one assist. Roland Igneze has two assists.

Wilkes started the season well, tying Upsala 2-2, after having a 2-0 halftime lead wiped away. Then, they got their offense in full gear against Lycoming, shelling them 3-1.

Muhlenberg, their next foe, lad the Colonel forward wall will have to contain in order to win.

The pass defense looks strong with Chuck Kroll, an ICAC all-star last year, teaming up with Gary Bucci, Ron King, and Ralph Dintino, all returning starters from last year. If there is any weakness on the Ithaca team, it would be at linebacker, where coach Butterfield has two rookies starting.

Overall, the Ithacans have a potent offense, capable of hurting you with the run or the pass, and a tough defense. The defense however, has given up a great deal of points this year and we may see one of the highest scoring contests in Colonel history. Another asset the Blue Bombers possess is the punting of Bob Hunter, who is kicking them for a 39.7 average thus far.

Good As Any We've Faced

Ithaca is as good as any squad Wilkes will or has played this year, proved a little more difficult however, and blasted the booters 6-2. Scranton gave the Colonels their second loss in a row last weekend.

Coach Rokita was a little disappointed with the performance of his offensive unit, but he still is optimistic of a winning season. Wilkes will entertain Wagner this Saturday morning at 11 a.m. at Ralston Field, and a win here could go a long way in determining the rest of the season for the Rokitamens.

including C.W. Post.

If Wilkes is to win, they will have to contain the Blue Bomber running attack early, while the Blue and Gold offense puts a few points on the scoreboard. If they can do that, half of the battle is won. The other half . . .

stopping Boyes through the airways, will be no easy task though. The Colonels will definitely be high for this one, but not high enough.

From here, it looks like Ithaca by 10, with Wilkes battling them down to the wire.

NOTICE

Tickets are now on sale for the bus trip to Selinsgrove next Saturday to see Wilkes battle Susquehanna. Cost for the trip is $3.25, and they can be obtained from Mr. Art Hoover in his office on the third floor of Weckesser Hall. The bus will leave at ten in the morning and return immediately following the game.
