IT'S Coming!!! Butler, Sterling Party Has Macabre Theme

by Wayne Thomas

"IT'S Coming!" Posters heralding the mystery-shrouded surprise which will appear at Butler Hall next Saturday are currently attracting attention around campus. The residents of Butler and Sterling are transforming Butler Hall into a mythical Castle of Otranto. Merle Benisch and Al Jones are general chairmen of the House of Horrors.

The entire proceeds from the party, which is being sponsored co-operatively by Butler and Sterling Halls will be placed in the College Development Fund. Admission fee will be only fifty cents. This gives all students an opportunity to help these dormitories aid the college and have an enjoyable evening at the same time.

Highlight of the evening will be the unveiling of a surprise known as "IT". Students attending the affair will find an atmosphere of secrecy surrounding the hall.

An added attraction will be two orchestras who will provide music for continuous dancing from nine to twelve. Two campus groups, the Mary Jean Quartet and the Dynamics will entertain.

Bob Washburn and Maryann Myer will be in charge of hanging cobwebs, Jules Heller is music chairman, and Robert Bearley and Vicki Bershad have charge of publicity. Other committee chairmen are Jennie Morgan and Jay Keller, refreshments; Sandy Biber and Paul Bleifer tickets.

S.G. Approves Club Constitutions, Conference Funds

Student Government, at Tuesday's meeting, granted funds to the Biology and Chemistry Clubs in order that those organizations may attend the Eastern Colleges Science Conference at Hunter College, New York. The Conference will be held late next month.

In other action, the group also voted on a number of constitutions submitted for approval. Accepted were the constitutions of the Accounting Club, the Class of 1963, the Amateur Radio Club, and the Collegians. Cue 'n' Curtain's document was approved following revisions as requested by Student Government.

A report was given regarding the briefs prepared by the Government which were submitted to the Court of Appeals. The brief explains Student Government's punitive action against the I.C.G.

The Court met yesterday to decide whether the action, revoking half of I.C.G.'s share of Intercollegiate Conference Funds, was within the power of Student Government.

Mike Bianco, regular chairman of the Court, has disqualified himself because he is also president of ICG and has been replaced on the bench by Allyn Jones. The judges are members of both faculty and student body.

Student Government, regardless of the Court's findings, will still have final say in the matter, for the Student Constitution provides that the Government may override the Court's decision with a two-third's vote.

IT'S COMING!

Murray to Head Albany M.G.A.

Group Represents India
At CCUN Conclave
by Ralph Price

The Middle Atlantic Model United Nations General Assembly will be held at the Albany State Teachers College in Albany, New York on April 8-10. The C.C.U.N. members who are on the Wilkes delegation to the assembly are the following: Evelyn Godleski, head of the delegation; Lou-Ella Meringolo, Vince Capo, George Watson, Don Murray, Sandy Biber, Bianca Moscato, Allen Luster, Mary Realmuto, and the alternate, Owen Francis.

The Wilkes delegation will be representing India in the assembly. Two of the contingent will be candidates for official position. Vince Capo is to be a candidate for vice-president of the assembly, and George Watson is a candidate for the Continuations Committee of which Wilkes has three members. Don Murray will preside as president of the Albany assembly. He was elected to that position last year. Mr. and Mrs. Pinkowski will serve as advisors to the Wilkes group.

This year, unlike any other year, the New England colleges will join the Middle Atlantic colleges in the conference. As yet, Albany State has not procured a guest speaker. They hope, however, that Governor Rockefeller of New York will make the introduction.

Also on the C.C.U.N. agenda is a state C.C.U.N. convention which would host all the C.C.U.N. organizations in the state. This convention would be held on May 7 at Wilkes. The I.C.G. has expressed the possibility of their co-sponsorship of the event; however, the convention is still in the planning stages.

Bob Clark Featured Guest At Jaycee Luncheon

by Jim Jackiewicz

Next Friday at 12:30, the Bob Clark Day luncheon will be held at Hotel Sterling. Clark, national president of the Jaycees, will be the guest speaker.

March 28 has been proclaimed Bob Clark Day by Mayor Slattery locally, and by Governor Lawrence on a statewide scale. Guests at the luncheon will be Morgan Doughton, candidate for national president of the Jaycees; Harry Light, president of the Pennsylvania Jaycees; and the mayors of Wilkes-Barre and Scranton.

Handling arrangements for the affair are: Frank Steck, general chairman; George Reynolds, tickets and name cards; John Mulhall, proclamation; Ira Himmel, correspondence and invitations; and John Matthey, publicity.

Drama Group Lists Casts for Presentation

by Ralph Price

The Cue 'n' Curtain is presenting a series of scenes from various plays on April 5, 6, 7, and 8 at 8:00 p.m. in Chase Theater. These scenes will be presented in a "telescope style." This means that the various scenes will be presented in a manner which will preserve a logical sequence of events. Also, more people will have a chance to hold parts in the presentation.

The following are the scenes to be presented and the players in each: Winterset by Maxwell Anderson, with Mio played by Steve Robertson and Miriamne by Virginia Lyons.

Fund Drive Realizes 91% of Goal

Last report session of the college's "Three-Phase Development" campaign was held Monday night in Hotel Sterling. A grand total of $249,306 was reached.

Combined Choruses Take Honors In Eisteddfod Song Competition

Members of the Collegians and the Girls' Chorus combined to win first prize in last Saturday's Eisteddfod competition for the second consecutive year. The group was awarded top honors for its performance of Handel's "And the Glory of the Lord," first chorus in the monumental oratorio, The Messiah.

The Eisteddfod is a traditional Welsh talent festival. This year's local affair was the 71st "Cynon-fardd" Eisteddfod, held at Edwards Memorial Congregational Church, Edwardsville, Pa. It was billed as one of the largest of its kind in the country and drew entrants from far and wide.

Wilkes students took individual honors in two areas. Soprano Rhea Politis won $20 first prize in the soprano solo competition. Singers in that contest performed Benjamin Spross' "Will O' The Wisp."

Mickey Wheeler won an identical award in the tenor solo division with his rendition of John Masefield's "Roadways," set to music by Densmore.

The chorus competition is traditionally the highlight of Eisteddfod activities. The Wilkes group's championship was challenged by the "Anthrathones," from Wyoming and a group formed from church choirs from the West Side.

Collegians' director Bill Peters conducted the campus singers and Girls' Chorus director Janet Cornell was accompanist.

Before the group went on stage for its prize-winning performance, it was discovered that the number of singers exceeded the 60-voice maximum and a confused nose-counting was necessary. The hard decision to cut the dozen extra was made with minutes to spare.

For their efforts, the two Wilkes choruses split a $250 jackpot, the first prize sum. In Eisteddfod competition, only first prize is awarded to choruses, all others are automatically out of the money.

The Changeling by Thomas Middleton will have De Flores played by Steve Cooney and Beatrice by Sue Vaughn. Our Town by Thornton Wilder — Joel Harrison as George, Elinore Nielson as Smily, and Stuart Swett as the Stage Manager.

In Ferenc Molnar's play, Liliom, the title role will be played by Merrit Wheeler with Nancy Carrol as Juli, Rosemarie Hug as Marie and Sandy Ungar as Mr. Muskat. St. Joan by George Bernard Shaw will

by Mary Frances Barone

At the last meeting of the newly formed Accounting club, elections for future officers took place. The results of this election placed Fred Pello, junior, as the club's first president. He will be supported by Bill Morris, vice-president; Frank Kline, treasurer; and Bill Van Fossen, secretary. All officers are members of the Junior Class, with the exception of sophomore Frank Kline.

In addition to the elections, various committees have been formed to plan for future meetings. Tentative plans include a guest speaker who will tell of the duties and obligations of a Certified Public Accountant. The club also intends to visit several firms where accounting procedures can be explained and exhibited to them.

In connection with the club's planned activities, two films furnished by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants will be shown. The club will also provide for students a collection of accounting magazines and papers including The Wall Street Journal, and several other prominent business publications.

The seniors sponsoring the Accounting Club have agreed to set up a file of reports concerning their internships with the various companies visited. This information will be available to students interested in the field of accounting.

have Mary Frances Swigert performing as Joan. Henrik Ibsen's play, Hedda Gabler, Bernadine Zapotowski will play Hedda, Robert Stuart Evans will be George, and Romelle Gomha as Thea.

FERGUSON AT BLOOMSBURG

Maynard Ferguson, trumpet artist, and his band, will appear at Bloomsburg State College March 23, from 8:30 to 11 p.m. The con-

by Jay Olexy

The College's "Three Phase Development Drive" came within $21,000 of reaching its $270,000 goal, according to the report given at the final dinner meeting held Tuesday evening at the Hotel Sterling. At that time an added $69,287 was pledged, bringing the grand total to $249,306 or 91 per cent of the goal.

At Tuesday's meeting, a pledged contribution of $1500 was given on behalf of the Wilkes student body by Gordon Roberts. An added contribution of $50 was made by the Collegians who entertained at the meeting.

John Matthey and Steve Robertson, co-chairmen for student participation in the drive, urge everyone who is planning to contribute to the development drive to make their pledges to: John Matthey, seniors; Christopher Loesch, juniors; Al Kishel, sophomores; and Conrad Wagner, freshmen. Pledges will also be taken in the Development Office, third floor, Chase Hall, until 5 p.m. today. A contribution of any amount will be appreciated to help make the drive a success.

Dave Vann to Speak

by Steve Cooney

Mr. David Vann, recent graduate of the college, will be guest speaker at next Tuesday's assembly. Mr. Vann recently completed a year's study at the University of Rhodes in South Africa and a lecture tour throughout that nation. His assembly speech will cover some of the experiences he had in the Union of South Africa.

While at Wilkes Mr. Vann was primarily responsible for the formation of the Collegiate Council on the United Nations on campus, and he also served as president of that organization. On the national level, Mr. Vann served one term as Secretary-General of the C.C.U.N., Director of the Middle Atlantic division, and Vice-President in charge of Programming.

Upon graduation from Wilkes in 1958, Mr. Vann was awarded a fellowship by Rotary International to study Economics at Rhodes University. While in South Africa he organized the first model General Assembly in that country, and he traveled 33,000 miles discussing and lecturing on the United Nations and on American life.

cert will be held in Centennial Gymnasium, admission will be $1.50. Students who wish to attend can purchase tickets at the door.

Get-Well Wishes

The staff of the Beacon joins with faculty, students, and administration in extending get-well wishes to Eleanor Farley, wife of the College president, who is a patient at Wilkes-Barre's General Hospital. Mrs. Farley suffered from a coronary attack last Friday and spent several days under oxygen for relief of her condition. Our latest reports reveal that she is resting comfortably and that her condition is improving.

Many students and organizations have sent cards and flowers. Others wishing to do so may address them to Mrs. Farley in care of the General Hospital.

The gracious First Lady of the College has been a favorite with Wilkes people for over a quarter of a century, with her ready smile and pleasant disposition. She is always prepared, and happy, to have visitors at her home. Students as well as faculty and administration personnel always receive a warm welcome and seldom does one leave the Farley residence without having enjoyed her famous spiced tea.

We all join in wishing Mrs. Farley a speedy and complete recovery.

Student Donations Help Campaign

Student contributions to the Three-Phase Development Drive are currently in the neighborhood of $2000, a very nice neighborhood to be in. This response came in the short space of less than two weeks and has been sparked by several noteworthy contributions from the students.

Reports have reached our editorial desk that the men of Butler Hall have been responsible for something in the vicinity of $600 and they expect that to go up when the proceeds of their "House of Horrors" gimmick are totalled. The Butlerites will share the honors of that donation with the girls from Sterling Hall, co-sponsors of the "IT" affair next Saturday night.

The Collegians have also recorded a $50 gift in addition to personal pledges made by some of the individual singers in that group.

The outlook for eventual realization of the entire $270,000 seems good, since many distant alumni of the College have been contacted by mail and their cards have not yet been returned. It is estimated that even if only a small percentage of these outstanding cards are returned with minimal pledges, the remaining nine per cent of the goal will be met.

A Dangerous Situation

The Court of Appeals began reviewing briefs of the Student Government-I.C.G. controversy yesterday. We would strongly urge that all students take careful note of the proceedings and become familiar with the case. The Student Constitution is getting its first real test and the outcome will affect every student as well as each organization.

For the "sea lawyers" on campus, we suggest a check of the student Handbook which contains a reprint of the Constitution outlining Student Government's powers and areas in which those powers are in effect, as well as explaining the Court of Appeals and its role.

The I.C.G. claims that Student Government has wrongfully deprived it of use of funds to which the club is entitled. The Government counters with I.C.G.'s failure to comply with stated policies concerning procedure for affairs on the social calendar.

The funds under consideration are in the Intercollegiate Conference treasury, money under the supervision of Student Government for distribution to duly constituted groups wishing to attend out-of-town events pertinent to the interest of qualifying organizations. This is not to be confused with the Student Activities Fund, distributed to such organizations as the Amnicola, Beacon, or others for their year's operation. The I.C.G. receives no money from this source.

Whatever the outcome of this dispute, we see a dangerous situation developing. A weak governing body will be of little use, one too powerful can — under radical hands — destroy all that years of careful planning have developed. Either condition could result from the present controversy.

No student will be without an opinion when the case is settled. The logical place to air said opinions is in the "Letters to the Editor" column of this paper. The time to stand up and be counted is now. Public opinion is the ground from which progress is harvested. Don't let your plot of that ground lie fallow.

Student Tour Unveiled

An International Student Tour to Washington, D.C., and Virginia, April 10-16 is being sponsored by the Committee on Friendly Relations Among Foreign Students. The trip will include a visit to Washington, Charlottesville, and Monticello. Persons participating in the activities will stay with families in the Shenandoah Valley.

Anyone interested in this tour can get an application from Dean Cole. Cost of the six-day trip will be $30.00. The tour will be limited to 44 persons.

Language Department Presents "Fidelio" Film At Stark Next Week

by Leona A. Baiera

A German film entitled Fidelio will be presented by the modern language department Wednesday afternoon from four to six in Stark 116, and Thursday from 11 to 1.

Fidelio, Beethoven's only opera, has been brought to the screen in a magnificent motion picture which represents the full realization of his theme.

The setting of the film centers in eighteenth century Spain. The star, Claude Nollier, plays with overwhelming intensity the faithful and blessed woman who as Fidelio, also known as Leonore, a noble lady of Seville, bears the torch of freedom to her husband's dungeon. Her husband, Florestan, languishes in an unknown prison as a political prisoner.

The film Fidelio is not just a reproduction of a stage performance. In its scope of production, its settings, its imaginative and stirring unity of acting, music, and singing, it is an original and brilliant cinematographic formulation springing directly from Beethoven's masterpieces and serving the idea of Fidelio with full and beautiful impact.

Marcia Davenport, the music critic and biographer, has paid tribute to the opera Fidelio in these memorable words: "A simple story of indomitable courage and the will to freedom was symbolic to Beethoven of his own long fight to free himself from the intolerable limitations of life. . . . Through this music he wrung from life the freedom of immortality. Therein he frees us all from imprisonment in our mundane selves."

Jazz Concert Tickets On Sale in Chase Theater

Tickets are now available for the Louis Armstrong Jazz Concert on April 30. Students are requested to purchase their tickets early as those not sold on campus will be sent to other schools. The limited number of tickets that have been printed are all that will be sold.

Any students who signed up for tickets can pick them up in the ticket office in Chase Theater. Those desiring tickets who haven't ordered them yet can purchase them from almost any junior or at various record shops where the tickets will be sold to the public in the near future.

'Cyrano' is Tonight's Film

by Cynthia Hagley

The Manuscript Film Society will present the third movie in this season's selection, Cyrano de Bergerac, tonight at 7 o'clock in Stark 116.

This film is based on a classic novel and stars Jose Ferrer. It tells the story of a French author and duelist who was blessed with a monstrously large nose. This piece of anatomy gets him in and out of many duels and love affairs.

Intermission during this adventurous saga will provide refreshments. Individual tickets for the performance will be sold for 60 cents at the door.

There Is An Answer

by Michael Bianco and Gordon Roberts

ARE POLITICIANS GOING TO DESTROY THE WORLD?

1960 is the year of choice. Men must choose the man who will be the thirty-fourth President of the United States. 1960 is also the year of choice for many people around the world; the choice is totalitarianism or democracy as the leader of the free world.

As election time draws near in America, more and more virulent attacks are being exchanged by the presidential candidates in an attempt to defame the opposition candidate. Name calling is not the answer; we need a regeneration of loyal spirit inside of the government, outside of the government, in the loftiest places and in the lowliest if we are to meet the force of totalitarianism fully prepared.

The politicians obviously have failed to apply a vital factor in our government. If "honest" in the absolute sense of the word was applied by the public office holder, he would find that he is one of those involved in organized dishonesty or self-exploitation by the several at the expense of the nation.

Absolute honesty applied to the political field would reveal much. We would see that greed is not confined to any class nor is selfishness a rare character of those who can have a little or much more material things than others. We would find that people who blame everybody else for the present situation are really at fault themselves.

The politician would go on to admit that he covers up the truth by telling the American people only those things which will look politically favorable and that we never permit a word of self-criticism emanate from our midst lest it tarnish our pattern of perfection and self-praise. Instead of frankly admitting mistakes, we will go to extremes in order to pass off errors and imperfections. On the other hand, we might find the opposition leveling criticisms merely to win an argument and not because he wants better government and equitable legislation for the people. A minority faction should place the interests of the nation before the interest of the party.

History has shown that government itself, whether Republican or Democratic, is not free from the desire to exploit exercise of political preference, from handing out jobs for political favors, or from handing out favors that are not essential for good government but are very necessary for political reasons. The politician admits that his actions are controlled by his fear of losing power and not by his deepest convictions.

Why is it that people do not rebel more strongly against all that politics has done and still does to cripple democracies of our time? The answer to this question is one which all of us are reluctant to admit, an answer which should penetrate to the very heart of Americans everywhere. It is an admission that selfishness has so blinded politicians and the people alike that the football of religion has slipped in a world torn with bitterness and passions.

Take the time necessary to analyze the issues of the coming election, realizing that the politicians can destroy the world if the people allow corruption and dishonesty to permeate our country. This is the year of choice and men can choose now because "there's still time, brother."

ARNOLD

Lockerroom Chatter

by RAY YANCHUS, Sports Editor

Although John Reese's matmen came up with their fourth consecutive Middle Atlantic Conference championship two weeks ago at Lebanon Valley, the price of victory seems to have been a paradox with the choosing of an outstanding wrestler for the tournament.

Dick Stauffer at 130 pounds and Marv Antinnes at 177 pounds, who were both undefeated during regular season matches, quickly showed the fans and the coaches present how they had built up their records. The two men emerged as champions in their classes at the end of the two day event as a result of sensational performances against top performers.

With Stauffer handling what many felt was the toughest weight class and Antinnes scoring the highest point total in the tourney, the two Colonel wrestlers established themselves as leading contenders for the coveted award at the conclusion of the two days of "grunt and groan" antics. However, the paradox unfolds to its fullest extent at this point, for with two tremendous performances by both Wilkesmen, they split the vote of the judges who picked the Outstanding Wrestler. It was ironical that both Stauffer and Antinnes drew 5 votes apiece out of the total votes cast and that Lycoming's Harry Romig emerged as the Outstanding Wrestler with a total of six.

It can be seen here that the two Colonel grapplers outscored the one Lycoming candidate, however, only one man wins, and that was the price that Wilkes and her two champions paid because they were so good in the Tourney.

MORGAN ADDS COLOR

The entire story concerning the outstanding wrestler award cannot be left at that without mentioning the tremendous performance staged by Wilkes' captain, Joe Morgan, as he met Romig in the finals of the 137-pound class. It was the consensus of many fans and reporters present at the tournament that it was the drive, determination, and all-around hustle shown by Morgan in the bout that presented the Lycoming wrestler with the opportunity to put forth his best effort. The final score of the match was 6-1 but it does not describe the action that took place on the mat during the nine minutes of wrestling. Morgan was all over the mat trying every trick he had learned in four years of varsity wrestling and his efforts made for the most exciting bout of the evening. Another point not made known concerning the bout was that Morgan had his man in plenty of trouble as he flung him around for a takedown and then gave up two points and a possible three as Romig showed signs of being hurt and Morgan released his hold and lost the points.

So this is a belated salute to the departing captain of the matmen not only for his competitive spirit shown in the recent tournament but also for his contribution to the Wilkes sports scene for the past four years.

Wilkes Matmen Seeking Another Title

Shown above are the members of Coach John Reese's wrestling team which finished the season unbeaten, but once tied in eight matches, and then took their fourth consecutive MAC title at Lebanon Valley College two weeks ago.

The matmen will go after another title tonight as they go against the best in the small college ranks in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Tournament, which is being held at Lock Haven, Pa. Twenty-six schools are entered in the tourney with Mankato State College of Minnesota, last year's champion, heading the list.

Wilkes will feature a new face in its squad. Jack Richards of Forty Fort will compete at 123-pounds as Brooke Yeager drops to 115. Bob Herman, not shown in the above photo and who placed fourth in the MAC tourney will wrestle in the 191-pound class.

Softball Season Ready to Start, Rosters Sought

John Reese, Director of Athletics, has announced that plans are now in progress for the coming intramural softball season. The league is expected to get underway as soon as the weather breaks, possibly immediately following Easter vacation.

Mr. Reese has issued a call for team captains who will enter a squad in the competition to start getting their rosters together and turned in to his office on the second floor of Chase Hall. They may be left at the gym, if desired.

Teams are limited to 15 players and a player will be limited to playing for one team only.

A student director is needed to manage the affairs of the league. Compensation will be allowed for the work put in by the director.

Umpires will also be needed to officiate the contests and they too will be paid for their services.

Anyone interested in assuming the duties as the student director or in umpiring for the games is asked to contact Mr. Reese as soon as possible.

Gutterdusters, Smashers Sweep To Take First, Second Places

by John Nork

Five-hundred series were a dime-a-dozen Sunday night as the bowlers were either improving their forms or were showing the effects of the Senior Dinner-Dance. Each team had at least one man representing them in the special 500 circle with three teams placing two men on the list.

The teams, especially the Gutterdusters and the Smashers, showed massiveness and strength Sunday as they cleaned up their contenders, 4-0. The unlucky losers were the Blitzkriegs and the Flatballs. In the other contest the persistent Pinbusters continued their climb in the standings by defeating the Kingpins, 3-1.

John Sapiego, a big gun in the Smashers' splendid showing this half, rolled a 191-545 to lead his victorious Smashers in their 4-0 bombing of the Blitzkriegs. His teammate, Marshall Brooks, pitched in with a 182-540. Bill Watkins and Bob Hewitt of the Blitzkriegs are still stunned by the blow but gave it all they had Sunday, rolling a 177-512 and 202-503. It might be of interest to note that the Smashers were working with a 14 point handicap which was the deciding factor for 3 of the 4 points.

The Gutterdusters turned off the black lights of last week's defeat as the six members of the squad flooded the J.C.C. with bright eyes and smiling faces as a result of their 4-0 sweep of the Flatballs. Dan Lewis led the happy brigade with a whopping 232-595.

Dick Myers, who has more than a clean sweep victory to smile about — namely his wife and teammate Lois, came in second, with a 182-487.

Turning to the depressed but not yet defeated Flatballs, Tom 'Dewey' Evans didn't have to pull any strings to obtain his 203-526 score in leading his losing Flatballs. Jerry Chisarick, the man with the smile that lasts a while, followed with a 179-477.

Emil Petrasek led the Pinbusters with a 200-554. Dave Sokira regaining his old form, aided the Pinbusters with a 202-549. Nanticoke's Adam Gajewski smashed a 192-515 for his losing Kingpins. The Polish whiz, Tom Dyslewski, was second to Gajewski with a 194-504.

Smashers — Sapiego 191-545, Brooks 182-540, Bernie Radecki 182-446, Bob Licato 157-419, Mark Adelson 153-390.

Blitzkriegs — Watkins 177-512, Hewitt 202-503, Ed Stofko 184-486, Dave Gozdiskowski 164-461, Jim Stephens 138-390.

Gutterdusters — Lewis 232-595, Myers 182-487, Lois Myers 157-460, Bernie Shupp 163-440, Carl Borr 117-198, John Rentschler 122.

Flatballs — Evans 203-526, Chisarick 179-477, John Matthey 147-388, Dick Barber 159-381, Ann Legeti 109-215.

Pinbusters — Petrasek 200-554, Sokira 202-549, Bob Barovich 157-434, Roger Cease 159-317, Tony Doknovitch 172-303, Jim Bogden 141-281.

Kingpins — Gajewski 192-515, Dyslewski 194-504, Jules Heller 178-462, Jerry Kulesa 150-425, Joe Drozdowski 140-256, Arlene Kuss 98.

CLASS PROJECT

King's Production of "Hamlet" Reviewed by Dr. Chapman's Class

by Dr. Chapman's Shakespeare class (Eng. 215)

If The King's Players recent production of Hamlet were to be described in one word, that word would have to be excellent. One could not come away from the performance without admiring the group for attempting a production of such magnitude and praising them for the end result.

The sound effects, lighting, and costumes added great dimensions to the overall performance, but most important of all was the staging. The fluid use of the stage and playing area was indeed superb. The entire production ran just the way an Elizabethan play should run, and as a playing machine, the timing and movements were precise and well directed.

Last but far from least was the acting, which, in general, was delightful. Gertrude was excellent. Polonius was the happiest event of the play, and Hamlet's acting was much better than anyone might expect from a college performer. Claudius rather missed the mark in the earlier part of the play, but later he convinced everyone of his ability, and therefore he also deserves a note of praise.

Perhaps the most disturbing members of the principal cast were Horatio and Laertes, who indeed detracted from the continuity of the performance. Horatio, it seemed, did not really understand what he was saying, which probably was the reason for his poor enactment. Ophelia made a splendid appearance, and she played her mad scene with great ability.

Members of the supporting cast at times weakened the production. Fine performances were turned in by the ghost of Hamlet's father, the player queen, and Osric. Having identical twins play the roles of Rozencrantz and Guildenstern added much amusement to the show.

Hamlet, the most important character, deserves further analysis. His performance was, as mentioned earlier, brilliant, but there were a few minor flaws in his overall presentation. Hamlet projected his voice in a single volume throughout the production with no variation. This tended to reduce the sensitive qualities of the Danish prince. He also rushed through many important lines which deserved more stress and time.

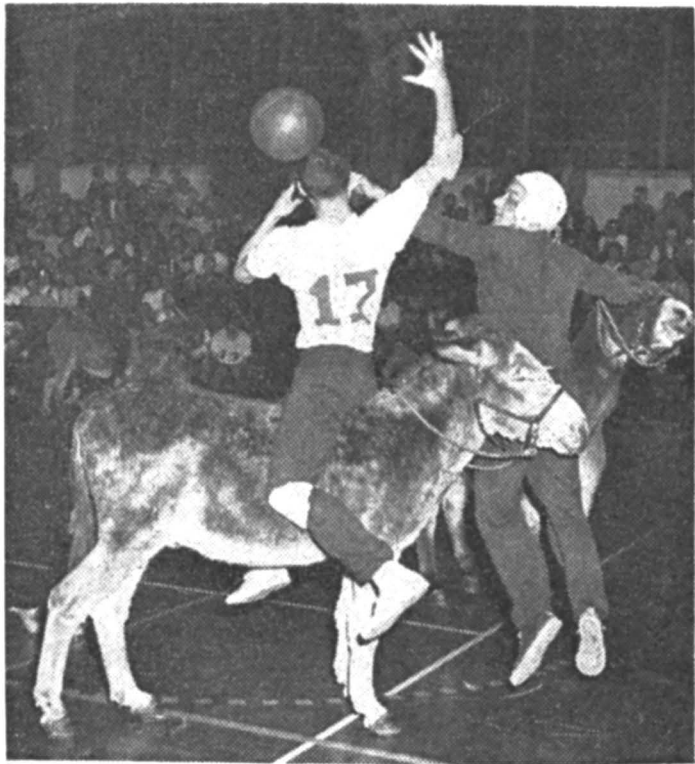

It was indeed evident that much time and labor was spent on the production, and the result was a delightful and rewarding performance.

Cast Members

Members of the cast were: Claudius, Timothy Maloney; Hamlet, Edward Geist; Polonius, Mark Malinauskas; Horatio, Joseph Lepore; Laertes, Charles Mihalik; Rosenkrantz and Guildenstern, Frank and Jose Gonzalez; Gertrude, Joan Funke; Ophelia, Sylvia Romanoski; Player Queen, Agnes Walsh; Ghost of King Hamlet, Hugh Mundy; Osric, John Pisaneschi.

Other members of the cast were Lawrence Masgay, Thomas Vizioli, Robert Nowicki, Joseph Rauscher, Robert Zavada, Frank McNelis, Jerome Krefski, James Pagotto, Bernard Grzyb, Paul Schwork, Mary Scassellati and Carolyn Barrett. Mr. Carl E. Wagner was director of the production.

WHO'S BACKWARD

LEGGO, DR. MIKE — As a scientist who should know better, Dr. Michellini seems to have mistaken Al Dobrowalski's head for a basketball in last week's hilarious donkey basketball game. The "Dubber," who either doesn't know which is the front or or doesn't care, seems to be a man who likes to see where he's been rather than where he's going as he rides donkey backwards. Such "mistakes" by the Faculty Flashes were effective as they rang up an 18-16 overtime win over the Student Stars.

Amnicola - TDR Sponsor 'Irish Swing'

by Gloria Zaludek

Instead of traveling to Ireland for the Sweepstakes this year, students will assemble at the gym tonight and become eligible to win the surprise grand prize.

Members of the Amnicola staff and Theta Delta Rho are co-sponsoring tonight's dance — the Irish Sweepstakes Swing. The Statesmen will furnish the dance music, aiding in this production of Wilkes' approximation of the Irish Sweepstakes.

Miss Marita Zoolkowski, Millie Gittins, and Mr. Chapline will chaperone the dance, which will last from nine to twelve.

Co-chairmen of the affair are Beverly Butler and Frank Edwards. Assisting committee heads are: publicity, Gwen Gould; refreshments, Beverly Major; tickets, Doris Gademian; invitations, Betsy Turbridge and Pat Krull; decorations, Carol Thomas; entertainment, Joan Leggetts; and incharge of posters, Emily Roat.

Extracurricular Program To Undergo Evaluation

In the coming weeks the members of Mr. Pinkowski's extracurricular activities class will circulate among the student body armed with a list of searching questions.

This survey is designed to evaluate the effectiveness of the extracurricular activities program on campus. General interest in this survey should be forthcoming because every student is charged a fee in his tuition bill to maintain this program.

The evaluation will be made in terms of the effectiveness of the program in terms of stated administration goals, goals and functions of campus organizations, and the fulfillment of the needs of the students.

Present agenda calls for questions dealing with three general areas of extracurricular activity; the academic clubs, service clubs, and recreational clubs. It is expected that the athletic program will come under scrutiny at a later date.

Inquiry into the activities of the academic clubs will attempt to determine if they supplement classroom activity and provide for intellectual growth, both objectives of this type club.

In the area of the service clubs questions will be designed to determine whether the service clubs on campus really offer service and, if so, to whom. Also, the question of whether the service club offers opportunity to its members for the enjoyment of voluntary giving of time and service.

Social and recreational clubs will be investigated on the basis of their function as outlets for social relaxation and provision for the development of social skills through the interrelationship with others.

Results of this survey, when completed, will be available to the administration and to any interested party.

I.C.G. to Attend Mock Convention At Marywood Sunday

by Frances Olack

The regional convention of chapters of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government which was to be held last week at Marywood College was postponed until next Sunday. All members of the Wilkes Chapter of ICG are expected to attend.

This convention will adopt the tone of a mock national presidential nominating convention. Various committees will discuss topics of national interest including foreign affairs, labor and industry, agriculture, natural resources, finance and taxes, commerce, and civil rights.

The ICG has made available to students the records of the House of Representatives and Senate proceedings of the State of Pennsylvania. These records can be found in the reference room of the library and include minutes of meetings and names and other pertinent data concerning senators and representatives.

Officers of the club are: Art Evans, president; Charles Billings, vice-president; Pat Shovlin, treasurer; Betsy Hoeschele, secretary; and Michael Bianco, permanent chairman. Faculty adviser is Mr. Arthur Hoover.

Country Dance Workshop

Mr. Richard Chapline has issued invitations to his Country Dance workshop, held every Thursday evening at Gies Hall A, Room 101.

The sessions are designed to teach a variety of forms of folk dancing and are open to the community as well as to students. Dancing begins at 8 p.m. Accompaniment for the workshop is provided by the genial manageress of the Bookstore, Millie Gittins.
