

FINAL TRIBUTE IS PAID DR. EUGENE S. FARLEY

Dr. Eugene Shedden Farley

Funeral Services Held At His Farm

Dr. Eugene Shedden Farley, 74, first president of Wilkes College and an outstanding community leader, was paid final tribute yesterday at 10:30 a.m. at his farm in Beaumont.

Dr. Farley died suddenly on Monday afternoon from a heart attack.

Widely known as a result of his 34 years in higher education, Dr. Farley held the position of president for 10 years at Bucknell University Junior College. When Wilkes College became chartered in 1947 as an independent liberal arts co-educational institution, Dr. Farley was inaugurated as its first president and continued to hold this position for 24 years.

Dr. Farley served more than three decades as president; moreover, he established the reputation of an outstanding community leader in the Wilkes-Barre area. Retiring in June, 1970, he then accepted the position as the first chancellor of Wilkes College. A year later he retired from all active service at the college to devote his efforts to community endeavors and personal writing.

In 1972, the Wilkes College Board of Trustees honored Dr. Farley by naming him president-emertis.

Born September 29, 1899, in Phoenixville, he graduated from Swarthmore High School and later earned his Bachelor of Science degree in 1921 from Pennsylvania State University. From the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Farley received his master degree in 1927 and, in 1932, earned his Doctor of Philosophy degree.

His professional experience included teaching in Germantown Academy (1922-25); instructor in education at the University of Pennsylvania (1927-29); and director of research for the Newark, N.J., Board of Education (1929-36). He then came to Bucknell University Junior College. He was also a Harrison Scholar and Fellow at University of Pennsylvania from 1925 to 1927.

Besides holding honorary degrees from Alliance and Lafayette Colleges, Dr. Farley was an Army veteran of World War I and belonged to the Society of Friends Church. He was past president of these professional societies: American Association of Junior Colleges, Middle States Association Junior Colleges, Foundation for Independent Colleges, Commission for Independent Colleges.

Farley served on the boards of Wyoming Valley Hospital, Greater Wilkes-Barre Industrial Fund, Inc., Osterhout Library, Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, and Pennsylvania

Tributes To 'First Man' of Wilkes College

Tributes were received this week following the death of Wilkes College's first president, Dr. Eugene S. Farley. The following thoughts were issued by key college people:

THOMAS KILEY, chairman of Wilkes College Board of Trustees:

"A giant has left us.

"The stature which Wilkes College enjoys in the academic world today is due in large measure to the genius individual — Dr. Eugene S. Farley.

"It has been my happy experience to have worked with this rare individual in a number of capacities over the years. His sudden passing places a burden on all who follow, that the college to which he gave so much should continue as an institution of learning dedicated to the moral, intellectual and social development of the student and the improvement of the community which it serves.

"His death is a tragic loss to the Valley and the principles for which he stood."

DR. FRANCIS J. MICHELINI, Wilkes College president:

"It was with the deepest sorrow that the entire Wilkes College community heard of the death of Dr. Eugene S. Farley, the first president of this institution and the man whose vision affected so many thousands of lives in the entire social and economic life of the Wyoming Valley.

"He was an unusual man, who came to this Valley in the midst of the depression as the director of Bucknell University Junior College. His leadership and vision of what higher education could mean to the young people of this community, what an institution of higher education could mean to the cultural and economic revitalization of an area that had suffered the decline of a single industry, led him to accept responsibilities far beyond those required of most men.

"He dedicated his whole life to the betterment of all the people of the Valley.

"Personally, he was my constant source of inspiration and learning. I came to Wilkes

College as a young man fresh out of graduate school and I have spent my entire professional life in close working association with one of the finest people it has ever been anyone's privilege to work with and know.

"He will live on in the hearts and minds of the thousands of people whose lives he influenced."

PETER JADELIS, president of Student Government:

"A sense of loss and remorse permeates the campus of Wilkes College today upon hearing of the death of Dr. Eugene S. Farley, founder of Wilkes College.

"Dr. Farley was a dedicated educator who spent his entire life nurturing Wilkes College with the care of a father. Many of the students of today may not know Dr. Farley personally, but alumni of only a few short years ago will remember his daily presence on campus. Dr. Farley's influence on the college is inestimable. It may be very true to say that without the efforts of Dr. Farley there may not have been the Wilkes College we know today.

"The student body extends its heartfelt sympathy to Dr. Farley's family, with the hope that the affection and respect that was felt by all the people who knew him will help ease their grief."

LEE AUERBACH, president of Inter-Dormitory Council:

"When a man spends his life building an institution and the institution stands, and the man falls, how do we judge a man's work? Need we judge a man's deeds? Dr. Farley spent his life building Wilkes College and the institution which remains is dedicated to his work and to his memory.

"A sports enthusiast, an educator, an administrator and most important a gentleman are

Editorially Speaking

Words Of A Great Man

The most fitting editorial that could be written at this trying time is one by Dr. Eugene Farley, himself.

Dr. Farley gave the following advice on looking at a college education. These are truly the words of a great man.

"Within the past 50 years, more changes have occurred in the world than have heretofore occurred in the past 1000 years. During the next 50 years you will see changes that will, in all likelihood, be far greater than those of the past 50 years. One of your great tasks will be to adjust your thinking to this new world so that you may participate constructively in the unknown problems that will confront you.

"You cannot live productively in this emerging world by adhering to long-accepted practices. If you are to live creatively, it will be necessary for you to gain a full awareness of what is taking place about you. Only with such understanding can you hope to adapt yourself to a changing society, and only through understanding can you hope to direct the forces of science and technology so that institutions can be modified to adequately meet the needs of men in time of change. Unless your generation makes up its mind that our structures of production and government will serve men, these organizations may become so rigid as to obstruct the development of essential services.

"If you are to meet the challenges of the future, you will require great vision, dedicated effort and personal involvement. Whereas my generation and others have been frequently blamed for the problems that exist today, I would suggest that these are the products of man's intelligence, ingenuity and stupidity. Science and technology have changed our world but our minds have not changed as rapidly as has our way of life. Your challenge will be to sustain the ideals upon which our civilization is based and to preserve the best of our institutions while abandoning those segments of our institutions which are not relevant to the emerging conditions.

"Men have never been confronted by greater challenges. It is only man's ingenuity, concern and dedication that can resolve these challenges.

"And you are 'man.'"

New Names To Buildings

by Fran Polakowski

If you were a student at Wilkes last year, or a freshman here in Incoming Freshmen Weekend, you may be wondering whatever happened to some of the buildings on campus.

Due to Labor and Industry, certain buildings did not meet with their requirements and it would be too costly to update the buildings.

As a result, the men from Slocum are now in 262 South River, which has taken on the new name of Slocum Hall. Slocum at one time was a girls dorm, but when the men moved into it, a tradition seemed to have developed. All the synonyms that go along with rousing, good-time, fun-loving, go into the name of Slocum.

The women from Doane are now in Sullivan Hall, but the name Doane Hall will be perpetuated at 56 West River. At one time in the college's history, Dr. Doane was the physician for the students. More important is Mrs. Gertrude Doane, who currently resides in Florida. Mrs. Doane was Dean of Women here at Wilkes. To quote Dean Lampe, "Gertrude Doane possessed all the positive attributes that go with the name of woman."

The women from 76 West South Street have been scattered amongst the various women's dorms, but the building will be retained, most probably as an office building. The college purchased the other half of the building from Attorney and Mrs. George Fenner. The building will now be called Daniel Roberts Hall.

The dormitory at 36 West River is now Waller Hall, in honor of Attorney Charles Waller, former chairman of the board at Wilkes. His widow, Mrs. Waller, resides at 40 West River, and has long shared an interest in the college as did her husband.

Among the names of other building changes are the New Mens Dorm to Pickering Hall, after Colonel Pickering. Bruch, or 252 South River, to Ashley Hall, and the Education building to Zebulon Butler Hall, an early settler and very important person to the area.

Finally, Dr. Farley's house will now be the Annette Evans Alumni and Faculty Building. Annette Evans left the college her property, but due to the flood, her house suffered irreparable damage. Al

NEWS•VIEWS•THINGS

In One Man's Opinion

by Rich Colandrea

It's been a fine administration so far for President Nixon and his side-kick, Spiro T. Agnew.

What will happen next? One can't say for sure what will happen as a result of Watergate. The Press last week found out a little more information about Tricky's side-kick, Spiro T.

According to a Maryland political figure, the Agnews have for years received gifts of food from a friend who is a wealthy, politically active, supermarket executive. Several Maryland sources have named them the "Agnew food baskets."

These deliveries were not denied by Agnew's office or by the donor, Joseph A. Rash, vice president of Food Fair Stores Inc., the nation's third largest supermarket chain.

Mr. Rash says, "Look, we're friends. Good friends! It's a love affair."

One significance of the disclosure might lie in suggestions by lawyers that the Vice President might invoke the food gifts should he ever be brought to trial on allegations that he accepted bribes or kickbacks from contractors. No way, not our vice president; he's too honest — too honest like our president. Mr. Rash said that Mr. Agnew "has never had enough money." That's too bad. If he never had any money, you can imagine how much the poverty-ridden people in this country have.

One of Agnew's friends in a New York Times article last week said that Agnew has led a very austere life, as far as luxuries are concerned. That's hard to understand. Just because this man Rash and his friends feel sorry for Agnew because they think he has lived an austere life, they give him food. Is that the only reason?

Just for the record, Agnew's salary as governor of Maryland from 1967 to 1969 was $25,000, about the same income he received during the prior four years as Baltimore County executive. As vice president since 1969, he has been paid $62,000 a year, plus $10,000 annual expense account. Many of his friends are millionaires.

One Agnew friend put it, "His wealthy friends want to bend over backwards to satisfy their friend, who is making a sacrifice for public service."

It is hinted that if Agnew is brought to trial on charges of accepting bribes or kickbacks from Maryland lawyers, his lawyers will say he is not a healthy man, as a defense.

CBS news said that the Agnews had been granted a "special celebrity discount" rate while living for four and a half years until last June in a three-room apartment in Washington's Sheraton Park Hotel, owned by the T.T. Sheraton Corporation.

Molotov Cocktails

Question: If you are the one out of two males between the ages of 40 and 60 who has silent coronary disease (about six million Americans), is it dangerous for you to consume two ounces or more of alcohol at a cocktail party?

Answer: Yes, according to Dr. Myrvin Ellestad, a leading cardiologist and head of the Clinical Physiology Department at the Long Beach, California, Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Ellestad's findings were recently reported in "Parade," and according to the report, he has debunked the myth that alcohol is good for the heart.

Ellestad states one drink may prove lethal for some people with abnormal hearts; more than three drinks in one hour over a period of years may well lead to heart failure. Heavy drinkers (five to 10 drinks a day) could permanently damage their heart muscles and develop alcoholic myocardiitis, which is a weakening of the heart contractions that can result in heart failure. This condition frequently is difficult to diagnose, according to Ellestad. "Patients may go on damaging their hearts for years thinking that the progressive breathlessness, fatigue and premature aging are due to being out of condition or slightly overweight."

Increasing Brew

Luzerne County is improving its reputation — in beer consumption. The sales of the local beer distributors had quite a head on them.

The State Liquor Control Board, for example, shows that beer distributors in Luzerne County purchased from Pennsylvania and out-of-state breweries 74,470,882 bottles and/or cans of beer. This figure is compared to the 61,359,584 cans and bottles downed during the year prior.

Harrisburg even came up with what the most popular container was — the pint. The pint won with 65,595,240, followed by the half-pint, which numbered 7,143,299 cans and bottles purchased by county beer distributors, and finally the quart size, with 1,732,243 of the 32-ounce jugs purchased during the 12-month span.

In addition to the bottles, 52,930 quarter-barrels and 112,104 half-barrels were purchased.

In the state as a whole, beer distributors handled more than two billion cans or bottles, an all-time high. Cheers.

Car Book

"There are more than 14,000 parts in the modern motor car, and if anyone tells you he can identify the use and shape of each, either you are speaking to a mechanical genius, or more likely, someone over-confident," says Bob Fendell, president of the International Motor Press Association.

"Accidents resulting from worn shocks, bad brakes, poor wheel alignment and the like can often be prevented by a simple spot check," he explained. "It's all a matter of knowing what to look for, and a driver need not be a resident mechanic for that."

To provide motorists with information on how a car works, Mr. Fendell has authored a 24-page, clearly written, illustrated booklet entitled, "Everything You Need To Know About Cars."

It explains everything from what happens when a driver steps on the gas to when and why the tires roll. It not only details the workings of the carburetor, fuel pump, cooling system and exhaust system, but the steering and suspension system as well, all in non-technical language.

For quick reference, "Instate Reply," a backcover special, provides a reprise of safety tips culled from the entire booklet. Copies of "Everything You Need To Know About Cars" are available at $1 per copy by writing to Perilli Performance Bureau, 600 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

IT'LL PAY TWO WAYS!

As the daylight hours diminish and the nights grow longer (and colder), the demands on fuel supplies accelerate. This provides us with the opportunity to help conserve our energy supplies by reducing our normal use, both at home and at work.

By setting the furnace temperature control a few degrees lower while you are home, and down to 65 degrees upon retiring, some fuel can be saved. Using the washing machine, dryer and dishwasher with maximum loads saves electric power.

Make it a habit to turn on only those lights needed for immediate use, and turn off the radio or TV when you are not actively viewing or listening.

Promote the use of car pools in your neighborhood for picking up children at school, the Y, the club, or when you go to work. It not only saves gas and money, but saves your time as well.

These are a few of many ways you can save on energy this fall and winter. They will result in actual dollar savings as well.

Good News Pleasing To Hear

"We complain about the news media reporting only the bad news, but we do next to nothing to make sure that good news gets reported, and let's be honest, there are some good things happening in our country today," said Thomas B. Adams, chairman of the board, Campbell-Ewald Company, in a keynote address to the Association of National Advertisers-Radio Advertising Bureau Radio Workshop held recently in New York City.

"Good Things Happening"

He pointed out that: "More people are employed in the United States today than ever before in our history."

"The average income of the American family today is $12,990, up from $11,000 in 1970."

"Sixty-four per cent of all dwelling units in the U.S. are occupied by owners, a 50 per cent increase since 1940."

"In our country, it takes a worker only one hour to earn enough money to buy a specific meal for a family of four."

The Situation Abroad

"In West Germany and Britain, that meal requires more than two hours of work, and in Italy, almost five hours are needed."

"It would take an average American less than a week's pay to buy a refrigerator, and it would take a Russian a month."

"It would take an American 720 the trillion-dollar mark in total hours to get up enough money to buy output, and that is more than the a small car, while it would take a combined output of Western Europe and Russian 5,716 hours of work."

"And in Russia, a worker would have to work 10 times as many hours as the average American in order to buy a TV set."

Middle-Class Nation

"What these figures indicate," sums up Mr. Adams, "is that Americans today are rapidly becoming more and more a this, let me say a good word for middle-class nation, with roughly perhaps one of the most misunderstood concepts of our category. Swelling that body is the nation," he added. "The profit so-called blue collar worker, who has moved up to a higher plateau of financial influence."

"With 7 per cent of the world's land area, and 6 per cent of its population, the United States accounts for one third of the world's production of goods and services. We have passed

Vital Ingredient

"While there are many reasons for this, let me say a good word for the free enterprise philosophy."

He said that, "The business of our nation would grind to a screeching halt if we abandoned the profit system, or strangle it any more with excessive controls."

Energy Program Increasing

The national Association of Manufacturers has commended the White House for acting realistically to avert an energy shortage this winter by relaxation of pricing and environmental restrictions.

NAM President E. Douglas Kenna expressed satisfaction that Assistant to the President, John A. Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office, has based the government's energy program on the realization that the energy crisis solution must be found by considering sensible pricing and environmental factors.

Mr. Kenna pledged NAM cooperation with the Administration, and pointed out that industry consumes 40 per cent of the nation's energy in providing the goods, services and employment which represent the base of the nation's high standard of living.

Mr. Kenna said action to permit fuel prices to reflect increased costs and to recognize the need for reasonable profits will certainly create a better climate for additional imports of petroleum

Each company must consider the program," said Mr. Kenna, "we are have on production, employment, advising NAM's companies to study the national tax base, and hence on their individual production situation the entire national economy and tions and to send Governor Love standard of living, he said."

specific comments on energy allocation." These regulations, said Mr. Kenna, will affect who gets how much of what fuel and at what price, and this may well determine whether a manufacturer can keep operating this winter.

Drivers under 25 years of age hold 18.7 per cent of the driver licenses in the country, according to The Travelers Insurance Companies, but were involved in 29.5 per cent of 1972's highway fatalities.

RUN JOHN RUN

Your favorite late night TV host, Johnny Carson, probably turned as red from embarrassment as the traffic light he ran.

The case of the people of Nevada versus The Tonight Show's host, Johnny Carson, has closed with the comedian's payment of a $45 ticket for running a red light.

Municipal Court Judge Seymore Brown ordered a warrant for Carson's arrest because the citation had not been paid nor had anyone appeared in court on Carson's behalf. Carson was charged August 26, after a three-car accident involving the entertainer's rented car.

Court officials said that a check from Carson's attorney arrived, settling the matter. It can happen to the best of them.

Clubs Recruit Members

Students at Wilkes College are strongly encouraged to participate in campus clubs and organizations as part of their overall education.

One of the highlights of the early days of the Fall Semester is "Campus Organization Day," which results in approximately 25 key organizations and clubs setting up outdoor displays and recruiting tables to explain their purposes and give students an opportunity to sign up as members.

Shown are four of the organizations which gained many new members during the special day held during the week.

U.S. Senator Thomas F. Eagleton Leaves Lasting Impression On Area

by Jim Torbik

Senator Thomas F. Eagleton, Democratic senator from Missouri, left a lasting impression on nearly everyone who listened to him speak Thursday night at the CPA. It might be added that the overflow crowd watching the controversial figure was the largest ever to view a Concert and Lecture series figure in the CPA.

"He surely is impressive," was one of the remarks heard outside the CPA after the two-hour event. Another consensus statement was, "He surely knows how to handle himself." All of the complimentary remarks are a tribute to Eagleton's outstanding crowd. He did say, however, that it was Anderson's revelation that "was the straw that broke the camel's back," as far as he was concerned. If you remember, Anderson revealed that Eagleton had undergone psychiatric care and was also once caught on a drunk driving charge. Both of these charges were instrumental in Eagleton's dismissal as the Democratic VP candidate in 1972.

One of the Senator's most amazing characteristics is the ability to answer a direct question with a direct answer. The questions he faced ranged from strip mining in our region to the touchy Watergate situation.

Senator Eagleton also displayed his keen sense of humor throughout the evening. One of the people in the audience asked the Senator, "Do you think you were wise in accepting the position of vice-president on the Democratic ticket?" and the gray-haired, crafty politician neatly answered, "No one would have been wise in accepting a post on the 1972 Democratic ticket!"

In a more serious tone, Eagleton called Watergate a "national tragedy," but added that any thought of impeachment would be a "wretched, devasive act." Also on the subject of impeachment, he stated, "I hate to ever think of this coming about."

The Missourian was not bitter when talking about Jack Anderson to the press before his speech to the said he will vote in favor of Kissinger's appointment.

Dean Edward Baltruchitis, advisor to the Concert and Lecture series, stated afterwards, "What a great way to start off our year." The Senator was feted at a reception afterwards at McClintock Hall.

Parents Weekend changed to November 9 - 10 - 11 due to Yom Kippur.

26th Annual Homecoming Set

First call has been issued to the more than 9,500 members of the Wilkes College Alumni Association to return to campus on October 12-14, when the college stages its 26th Annual Homecoming Weekend.

Nearly 3,000 of the young and old grads reside in the Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties area.

Rick Simonson '69, general chairman, and Art Hoover '55, director of Alumni Affairs, report that planning has already been completed for a full slate of activities.

Kicking off the weekend menu of events is the judging of campus displays by an alumni committee comprised of Sandra Bloomberg '71 and Matt Kopetchny '69.

Later, at 9 p.m., the grads move on to the Hotel Sterling where a revised "Homecoming Huddle" will get the alumni tuned up for Saturday's athletic events.

Some of the features of the informal "Homecoming Huddle" include refreshments, pep rally, songfest and films of last year's Wilkes-Upsala grid encounter. Coordinating the festivities are J.J. Jarzenbowicz '59, Joe McGraw '69, Marcella Vinovrski '70 and Joann Wargo '72.

Saturday morning has been set aside for a "Majors Meeting," which will give the alumni a chance to meet informally with faculty from their old area of majors.

Also sharing the Saturday morning limelight is a soccer match, pairing the Colonel booters of Thomas Rokita versus Stevens Tech. Starting time is 11 a.m.

Always the feature event of the Homecoming Weekend, this year's pigskin battle between the Vikings of Upsala College is expected to be a crucial fray in the Middle Atlantic Conference championship race. Action at Ralston Field is slated for a 1:30 start.

In conjunction with the football tilt, alumni will also get a chance to see the Wilkes cross-country team in action against Rider. The 4.7-mile race will start and end at Ralston Field.

National Alumni President Reese

Jones '56 and Rick Simonson '69 will participate in halftime activities which present the new Homecoming queen and her court of princesses.

Following the game, the schedule turns to the Artillery Park practice field, where alumni can recall today's events at a "Fifth Quarter" gathering. Refreshments will be available. Directing the new evening are Garf Jones '72, Bill Dongas and Pat Ratchford '73.

An optional smorgasbord at Hotel Sterling will fill the 6:30 p.m. time slot. It will be a reunion year for members of the 1938, 1948, 1953, 1958, 1963 and graduating classes.

The busy Saturday table activity concludes at 9:30 with the "Homecoming Dance" in the lobby of Hotel Sterling. Taking care of details are John Kennedy Virginia Thomas '69, Kathy Skv '71, Carl Urbanski '57 and J. Weltman '61.

Rounding out the Homecoming schedule is a Sunday Ecumenical Service at the Center for the Performing Arts.

Reverend George Conway, captain of the 1969 football team, current chaplain and teacher of religion at the Hotchkiss School, Connecticut, will officiate.

A coffee hour will follow at Commons. Serving on the committee are Barbara Barski '72, Rick Simonson '69.

The regular club meetings will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 11 a.m. in Kirby Hall, room 108.

Refreshments and entertainment are also on the agenda.

Student Government

BY Chuck Riechers

Student Government was presented with a unique fund request by Judo Club President Fred Murty at Tuesday's meeting. Normally a fund request is submitted to Student Government which has a listing prior to the request of that clubs advisor, officers and possesses the club constitution. Momentarily, SG thought that it didn't have a list of the officers. Actually, Fred was the officer, the criterion which enabled him to receive funds for attending a number of judo meets on behalf of the Judo Club.

SG approved funds for three additional purposes. The Women's Athletic Association received funds from the Special Projects Fund to transport the cheerleaders and majorettes to away football games.

The Philosophy Club was granted funds to pay for two lecturers, Dr. Hillary Buttman and Dr. McDermott. Theta Delta Rho received funds to hold their annual Golden Agers Christmas Party.

A popular campus custom has been to tack posters on trees and paneling. Please refrain from doing this since tacks damage these items; it is frowned upon and no longer necessary. Dr. Michelini recently ordered some extra bulletin boards to alleviate this problem.

Tickets will be on sale Monday, October 8, through Friday, October 12, in the CPA, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for the Homecoming Concert. Featuring John Harford and Earl Scruggs, the concert will be held Sunday evening, October 14 at 8 p.m. in the gym. The group "Museum" will perform at the Treadway Inn Homecoming Dinner Dance, Saturday, October 13.

Communications Bettered With Addition of Books

by Chuck Riechers

An innovative communication breakthrough was established by IDC with the introduction of a dorm notebook. These notebooks were distributed to and signed for by dorm representatives to IDC. The notebooks contain all the information considered useful to a dorm representative. It contains standard information such as the IDC constitution or copies of current information such as new proposals, minutes of meetings and all of it is immediately available to representatives or their constituents.

Notebooks were designed as an attempt to counteract a lack of effective communication which has been a recurring problem to IDC. IDC is currently considering distributing advertising packets on campus. These packets contain advertisements from participating companies and may be distributed on campus twice per year at a commission rate of 25 cents per packet. IDC hopes to use the money gained in this manner to renovate Church Hall and use it as a Student Union.

Furniture from the lounge of the New Men's Dorm will furnish the Student Center. The furniture will be transferred about October 1-15. At present few items are in the lounge and it would be helpful if those dorm students responsible would please remove that furniture from their rooms and return it to the lounge areas. IDC doesn't want to search for the furniture but it has indicated that it will search if necessary.

IDC is planning a Skit Night during which the dorms will present a skit. Dorms wishing to participate will compete to obtain a dorm prize. The skits will be judged and a prize given to the dorm with the best production. Subjects for skits may include any aspect of campus life including dorm life, the campus,

Millers Mutual Insurance Company.

Farley had done extensive writing for educational periodicals between 1933 and 1964.

Two weeks ago, Dr. Farley played host at a picnic at his farm, held for the incoming Freshman Class of Wilkes College. The picnic has been an annual orientation week affair for many years.

He is survived by sons, Robert C. and Dr. Eugene S., Jr., and daughter, Mrs. Ethel Farley Douglass. His wife, Eleanor Coates Farley, died eight years ago.

The funeral was held from Nulton Funeral Home, Beaumont.

Music Students Ready To Teach

The student teachers are working under the guidance of Professor Edwin Johnson, who has them working in their particular category of music education.

They are currently attending classroom briefings that extend from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and in addition, they will make five visits of day-long length to the schools in which they will teach before they actually move into regular assignments on a full-scale basis on October 15.

Wilkes Debate Union To Be Revived This Year

by Floyd Miller

Remember the Wilkes 1970 debate team? How about last year's team? How about the 1971 team? You say you don't? Well, I don't see how you could, anyway. There were none those years. As a matter of fact, the last team I have record of (culling through old Beacons) is the '66-'67 team under Dr. James Berg.

Between 1949 and 1967, however, Wilkes was regarded as one of the better debate teams in the nation, the supply and use of energy in this country. Yes, Wilkes was No. 1 in the entire country, not just college division. Such teams as Villanova, Scranton, Temple, King's, Penn, Lehigh, Connecticut, Army, Fordham, Dartmouth, Princeton and even Harvard bowed to Wilkes debaters in the '50s.

The coach, Dr. Arthur Kruger, was a noted author on debate and invented the "Kruger scale," used to rate the dependability of debate judges. One of Dr. Kruger's debaters, Nick Flannery, later coached a strong Penn team. Dr. Lord later took over, but Wilkes was not to regain its position again, and the team just faded in the late '60s.

This year Wilkes begins a program to rebuild a debate team to challenge the best again. It will take time (even Dr. Kruger's team was not an overnight sensation), but it can be done.

Mr. Bradford Kinney, the new coach, has fantastic expectations for the team, noting that King's still has a marvelous team as it did in the 50s. He hopes to equal or surpass them, a stepping stone to national position.

Mr. Kinney also notes the fantastic influence of Dr. Kaska in getting the program underway, citing the cooperation of the administration.

With the team, he hopes to hold demonstration debates at local high schools and to host tournaments here at the college. So far, the team has invitations to tournaments at Pittsburgh, Annapolis, Georgetown University, C.W. Post, University of Miami (Fla.), Florida State, Emory, University of South Carolina, Bloomsburg, Susquehanna, Shippensburg, and Washington and Jefferson. There is also an invitation to the National Novice Tournament in Louisville, Kentucky. The topic for this year is "Resolved: That the Federal Government should control debate union is advised that Mr. Kinney's office is in the Chase Theatre.

CC Will Hold Opinion Poll

The Wilkes College Commuter Council held its first meeting on Thursday, September 13, at Shawnee Hall to discuss their activities for the upcoming 1973-74 academic school year.

Foremost on the Council's agenda is the Commuter Student Opinion Poll. Every commuting student will receive one to voice their opinions on problems confronting them as commuters.

Because parking facilities are non-existent around the college, President Mike Stambaugh has arranged a meeting with Mr. Pat McFadden, the Parking Authority representative for Park and Lock, Wilkes-Barre. Stambaugh will try to see if some kind of agreement can be reached which may help alleviate the parking situation.

In process are plans to hold the Commuter Council-IDC Christmas Party at Pocono Downs on December 7.

A list of Commuter Council members was recently passed out to all students in the Commons. Representatives from the senior class are: Charles Aquilina, Terry Roccograndi, Maureen Britt and Darryl Kucynski. Junior class members are: Mike Stambaugh, Marilyn Olejnik, Joe Suchocki, Cynthia Lenahan and Carol Drahus. Sophomore representatives are: Jackie Pickering, Mike Marino, Don Klaproth and Walter Koytek.

Carol Zambetti was appointed temporary representative to the Commuter Council from the junior class until elections are held by the class for a permanent representative.

Jackie Pickering is the Council's representative to the Steering Committee in conjunction with the Cherry Blossom Festival.

"The Hainnabs are behind you all the way," is the Council's sports slogan which will appear in all the football programs this season.

Commuter Council meets every Thursday at 6 p.m. in Shawnee Hall. All interested commuting students are invited to attend.

Kinney Named Debate Leader

At Wilkes this year, a Student Debate Union will be formed. At its helm will be Mr. Bradford Kinney, a new addition to the English Department.

Originally from Grove City, Penna., Mr. Kinney comes to Wilkes with a B.A. in History of Government and Speech and Drama (a double major) from Florida Southern College. He also has an M.A. in Theatre from the University of Indiana and is currently working on his A.P.D. in Rhetoric and Public Address at Pittsburgh, under a teaching fellowship.

He taught for a year at Florida Southern College, and was the Director of Debate for four years at Appalachia State University in North Carolina.

Mr. Kinney feels that Wilkes is a fantastic little college with an interested student body that will work. He prefers to teach at a smaller college such as Wilkes because of the closeness to the students. His views on the campus are equally favorable, and he noted that the old buildings make the campus rather impressive.

About debating, Mr. Kinney feels that it is vital to a student during and after college. As he says, "I would rather see a student vent frustrations verbally than pick up a brick, and I feel that debate is an avenue to achieve this."

only words that retain the feeling of Dr. Farley in our hearts and our minds. We remember the man in Weckesser, the picnics at Fair-Lea and the warm hand shake of a man who loved life, loved people and who was loved by all.

"If we all dedicated our lives to the goals and ideals that led Dr. Farley's life, we all would live for the better.

"As Dr. Farley addressed his life to the educational advancement of the valley and the sum of human development in the area, with his passing we reflect on his personal qualities and achievements and attempt to build our lives to respect and honor his."

MICHAEL STAMBAUGH, president of Wilkes College Commuter Council:

"The passing of a noble man leaves an aching void in the hearts and spirits of those who knew and loved him.

"The Commuter Council wishes to express their deepest sorrow for the passing of a noble man, Dr. Eugene S. Farley."

ARTHUR J. HOOVER, director of alumni relations and student activities:

"One of Dr. Farley's greatest joys was his opportunity to renew acquaintances with former students and alumni — and his influence was felt by thousands of Bucknell and Wilkes alumni who referred to him affectionately as "the Old Man" and "the Great White Father."

"Having worked most closely with him during his two years as Chancellor, I recall vividly the satisfaction he showed every time I walked across the hall into his office and told him of an alumnus who had just received a promotion, an alumnus who was getting married, an alumnus who had become a proud parent. He considered all alumni as close friends and a vital part of the Wilkes College family.

"And probably the most meaningful feeling for Dr. Farley which has been expressed consistently by former students is that although one may not have always agreed with him, he just naturally won your respect, admiration and loyalty."

DAVID K. BICKEL, JR., who worked with Dr. Farley on founding radio station WCLH:

"It had been no special day — September 17, 1973, except for the silent passing of a Quaker. He was more than a Quaker, he was a font of inspiration, a mental giant, a doer of impossible deeds, a wielder of an unholy sword — he was a silent Leviathan of a man. I did not know him well — if I did, I could not be so dispassionate or impersonal. He was a man who did what he so often dreamed. He created an educational institution where none existed before, nor likely could exist.

"Through his efforts and pleadings, he fired the hearts of many influential men who aspired to help make his dream a reality. In fifteen short years he took a conglomeration of homes, a handful of faculty, and a sparse group of students and made a college that could give back to the community the benefit of an education for its youth, which could never before have been achieved.

"Through his determination he beat into shape, bricked and mortared, planned and gained support for his life-long goal of imparting an education to a valley he loved and respected so dearly. He was a firm father image unseen on the modern campuses of today, unheard of in the halls of the modern university. More than that, he was a man: a most fallible man. He made mistakes as do all men. But unlike the common man, he aspired to goals thought untenable by many, and foolish by some — unlike common men he succeeded where they would not even try. He, along with his very capable and understanding wife, worked with their entire mental and physical vigor to meet the high goals they set for themselves.

"He made many enemies. Yet even his enemies recognized the total commitment to excellence he attempted to impart. His deeds are too numerous, his biography too lengthy, his life — far too short. Friend or enemy must respect this Quaker for what he was and always will be in their memories; in all he has left as gifts to those minds and hearts which strive to gain wisdom through understanding of their fellow man.

"A Quaker silently passed today and left behind him echos which will long reverberate as examples in the minds of all men who aspire to reach their dreams — to aid their world.

A report was also confirmed that an executive of the Westinghouse Corporation gave Agnew a television set when he was governor in 1967. The executives were said to have been aware of Mr. Agnew's fondness for viewing sports broadcasts, particularly the Baltimore Colts. Maybe they thought Agnew didn't own a TV set.

Mr. Rash, according to federal campaign finance reports, contributed $2,700 in 1972 to the Nixon-Agnew ticket through the Maryland Democrats for Nixon. Other Food Fair executives gave $4,000 to the 1972 Republican campaign.

NOTICE

"Any freshman who missed all or part of the Freshman Testing Program must report to the Center for the Performing Arts at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, September 29. All freshmen must take these tests."

There were 55,700 traffic deaths in 1972 and more than 4,850,000 injuries. This, according to The Travelers Insurance Companies, is up from 54,000 deaths and 4,700,000 injuries recorded the previous year.

It seems funny that Mr. Agnew is so poor and Food Fair is so generous. Why doesn't Rash donate the food to the poverty- and malnutrition-stricken people in this country? Maybe one hand washes the other?

One never really knows what goes on between the officials they elect locally, or in this case, nationally. One has to have faith in the man he pushes the ballot for.

A further investigation will probably follow. If it is a kickback, then Agnew's head would be on the chopping block. It seems a bit strange that Agnew has received these "gifts" from such generous people. Comments welcome.

Miami Dolphins Put Win Streak On The Line

LSU Breaks Into Top Ten

by Paul Domowitch

Well, the first big week of college football is out of the way, and with its passing came the usual amount of upsets, surprises and 66-0 drubbings. One of the upsets that will cause a minute change in the Beacon top 10 was LSU gliding their way past highly rated Colorado, 17-6.

Anyone who can recall last week's edition of the college newspaper knows that I picked the Buffaloes to win easily, but even the best of us are apt to be in error once in a while. Overall, we picked 18 of last week's games correctly, in opposition to four miscues and one tie. That deadlock, of course, was the Pitt-Georgia game. Everyone expected the Panthers to take a severe drubbing, but we have great respect for new head Coach Johnny Majors and thought the game would be close. There were a few alterations in the Beacon top 10 this week, but nothing major.

USC held on to its number one ranking by getting by Arkansas, 17-0. Ohio State and Michigan remained in number two and three spots by beating Minnesota and Iowa, respectively. OSU showed a tremendous wealth of talent by beating the Gophers, 56-7. The Wolverines of Coach Bo Schembeckler routed Iowa, 31-7.

Idle Nebraska held on to its number four ranking, while Penn State proved why it is the fifth best team in the nation by trouncing Stanford, 20-7, in a nationally televised contest. Notre Dame, who in their season this Saturday, remained in the number seven slot. Three new teams charged into the top 10 this week by virtue of some big wins and a few upsets.

LSU replaced Arizona State as the number eight team by downing Colorado, 17-6. The Crimson Tide of Alabama broke in at number nine this week by virtue of their 66-0 massacre of mediocre California. Rounding out the top 10 is Tennessee, who fought off a tough fight eleven to come up victorious, 17-10.

Here's how they look from a glance:

1. USC
2. Ohio State
3. Michigan
4. Nebraska
5. Penn State
6. Texas
7. Notre Dame
8. LSU
9. Alabama
10. Tennessee

And now, this week's big encounters:

MICHIGAN v. STANFORD

Coach Bo Schembeckler claims this is the best Michigan team he has ever coached, and he just might be right. He has one of the best quarterbacks in the nation guiding the offense in senior Dennis Franklin. Doing the bulk of the running for the Wolverines is fullback Ed Shuttlesworth, who is just too strong for the Stanford defense to handle.

Defensive backs Dave Elliot and Tom Drake will be all over Mike Boryla's receiving targets and rover Geoff Steger and end Don Eaton are going to give the Cardinal running attack nightmares.

Beacon sees it: MICHIGAN 28 — STANFORD 10.

NEBRASKA v. N. C. STATE

Nebraska showed that they are for real when they handled highly rated UCLA rather easily a few weeks ago, and now they're ready for number two.

The North Carolina State squad has six All-ACC All-Stars back, but they lack the consistency that it takes to knock off the Cornhuskers.

Nebraska will go with either David Humm or Steve Runty, who proved fine capabilities against UCLA, directing the attack, and will unleash a torrid running attack led by sophomore sensation Tony Davis and Maury Dankroger.

Final score: NEBRASKA 35 — N. C. STATE 10.

BOOTERS OPPOSING UPSALA

The Wilkes College varsity soccer team is celebrating its 25th anniversary this fall.

Blue and Gold booter mentor Tom Rokita would like nothing better than to toast the "Silver" birthday with a successful season.

Since entering the intercollegiate wars in 1949, the Colonel soccer team has posted an all-time 85-128-28 record. The booters have produced a total of 10 winning campaigns under Coaches Bob Partridge (1949-54), John Reese (1955-56), Jim Ferris (1957-65), Jim Neddoff (1966-69) and Tom Rokita (1970-present).

To accomplish his goal, Coach Rokita will rely upon the talents of 10 lettermen.

Leading candidates for the halfback slots are Gary Mocho, junior, Mountainside, N.J.; Marty Pobutkiewicz, senior, Trenton, N.J.; Tom Burns, junior, Harrison, N.J.; and Mark Davies, Whitehouse Station, N.J.

Strongpoint of the soccer squad will come at fullback, where Gerry Blade, junior, Philadelphia; Tom Trost, sophomore, Philadelphia; and Roger Danbury, senior, Trenton, N.J., deliver a solid punch.

Chief concern for Rokita is the goalie position, where no less than three players are vying to fill the crucial gap. Battling for the job are Steve Chaldorff, sophomore, Dover, N.J.; Don Mock, junior, Baltimore, Md.; and Bob Dwyer, junior, Bergenfield, N.J.

Mock is making his debut in soccer after starring in the nets for the Colonel lacrosse squad the last two seasons.

Wilkes will lift the lid on their 1973 schedule Saturday afternoon, traveling to E. Orange, N.J., for a contest with Upsala College.

Opposing Oakland

Un-blacked out football had its first trial run this past weekend in the NFL and from the looks of things, it may have been a tremendous mistake on the part of Congress.

It was reported that there were 49,000 empty seats scattered throughout the NFL ball parks Sunday, compared to 29,000 all of last season. I have a feeling that when Congress reviews the situation at the end of the season, they may have second thoughts about the blackout bill.

The action on the field was not affected, however, as the pros proved that this could be a truly exciting season.

This corner did not do all that well in our weekly prognostications, guessing correctly on nine games but committing error on four others. Our goal this season . . . a 14-0 week.

Denver surprised everyone Sunday by soundly trouncing Cincinnati 28-10. The Broncos have a real good shot at the AFC West title.

Our other three miscues involved Chicago's close 20-17 defeat by Dallas, O.J. Simpson and the Buffalo Bills' running roughshod over the New England Patriots 31-13, and Los Angeles' downing Kansas City 23-13.

A look at this week's games:

MIAMI AT OAKLAND

The Dolphins are coming off of a 21-13 victory over the San Francisco 49er's while Oakland lost a tough one to Minnesota, 24-16. The momentum will swing in the same direction this week as Miami will go on to win number 19 in a row.

BEACON FINAL: MIAMI 10, OAKLAND 7.

CLEVELAND AT PITTSBURGH

The two Central Division contenders battle it out in what could be the game of the week. The Browns are a very capable team, mixing the pass and the run into a very potent offense. Unfortunately, they must go against one of the toughest all-around defenses in the league and will come out on the short end against Fanco, Frenchy, and the rest of the gang in Steel City.

I SEE IT: PITTSBURGH 20, CLEVELAND 10.

Other key games this week:

Atlanta 21	Los Angeles 17
Buffalo 35	San Diego 33
Green Bay 27	Detroit 17
Cincinnati 30	Houston 3
Kansas City 28	New England 0
Minnesota 18	Chicago 17
N.Y. Jets 24	Baltimore 21
N.Y. Giants 42	Philadelphia 3
Denver 14	San Francisco 3
Washington 35	St. Louis 7
Dallas 27	New Orleans 10

ZAVOY CAPTURES (From Page 8)

Coach Pawlush has nothing but tremendous praise for yearling Zavoy and Woods, and feels that the two boys will be pushing each other all year, the end result being tremendous times.

Pawlush considers Zavoy a real stallion and feels he or Woods will break the Colonel cross country record of 25:55 some time this year.

The Colonel harriers will open their season this afternoon against the University of Scranton in a home encounter at Ralston Field.

BEACON SPORTS

Grid Colonels Open Season This Saturday

by Paul Domowitch

The Wilkes College football squad will kick off their 1973 grid season this Saturday, with an encounter against the University of Susquehanna Crusaders.

The Crusaders hope to better last season's 3-6 record, and with 24 lettermen back, they will be a more than worthy opponent for the Colonels of Coach Roland Schmidt.

Despite losing versatile halfback, Bob Veach, Coach Him Hazlett will have a strong offensive backfield led by veterans Randy Kissinger and Dave Dagle.

Quarterback is another strong-point of the Crusader attack, with North Carolina State transfer, John Bird, battling holdovers Mike Buterbaugh and Keith Green.

Chuck Suppon

Their defensive backfield is also experienced, led by 5'9", 165-pound Mike Fabian. Also adding strength to the Susquehanna secondary are lettermen John Hanawalt, Pete Rambo, Frank Stroik and Greg Wise.

Transfer Tom Jeffrey teams up with junior Mike Kennedy to give Susquehanna strength at the defensive end positions.

In looking at the Crusaders critically, their offensive interior line is weak, and despite having veteran running backs, they lack the breakaway threat that is a necessity in college football today.

Another vulnerable position in the Susquehanna attack is linebacker. Here they lack both experience and depth.

The Crusaders will operate basically out of a pro-set offense and use a 5-2 defense, putting emphasis on stopping the run.

The Colonels will be counting on their dynamic running attack against Susquehanna. Junior Andy Check and sophomore Fred Lohman will probably get the starting but Coach Schmidt will rely on juniors John Baron and Rodney Smith, and freshman Mickey Calabrese quite heavily during the contest.

Smith looked exceptionally good in last Saturday's scrimmage against Muhlenburg College. He took a screen pass from quarterback Greg Snyder and maneuvered his way 50 yards down the sideline for a touchdown.

Snyder, Chuck Suppon and junior John Waskowsky alternated at the quarterback position, and it looks like Suppon will get the starting nod against Susquehanna if he is healthy. He was hit quite hard by a few Muhlenburg defenders on one play in Saturday's scrimmage and injured his back.

The Colonels are using a unique flare in their offensive attack this season. They are again working out of a pro-set formation, but they split the tight end out, giving them three wide receivers.

These Colonel seniors will begin their final season under the wing of Coach Rollie Schmidt on Saturday afternoon. They will play an important part in the success of the Blue and Gold this year.

Kneeling, left to right, are: Tom Panetta, offensive center; Andy Check, offensive running back; Craig Dea, defensive linebacker; Rich Lorenzen, co-captain and offensive tackle; and Dave Check, defensive halfback. Standing, left to right, are: Steve "Shank" Adamchak, defensive tackle; Rich Lack, defensive linebacker; Grandinetti, co-captain and defensive tackle; Jim Rodda, defensive end; John Collins, offensive end; and Butler, defensive linebacker. Absent from photo is Joe Pavill, a defensive tackle.

Abraham looked very good last Saturday, hauling down big gainers in heavy traffic. He has an excellent set of hands.

One of the areas that the Colonels looked weak was the defensive secondary. They have tremendous talent back there, but against Muhlenburg they were continually getting beaten on play-action passes.

Overall though, the Blue and Gold gridders looked ready for serious play. If they can avoid making costly turnovers against the Crusaders, they should win handily.

Featuring Richard Lack

Rich Lack, 6-0, 200-pound linebacker from Saugerties, N.Y., will begin his fourth varsity season of football under Coach Rollie Schmidt at Wilkes College. The amazing part, Lack has accumulated statistics in his first three years that would satisfy most gridders for a career.

Lack, who serves as a resident assistant in his dorm and president of the senior class besides his football antics, has garnered three football letters under Coach Schmidt to go along with his nine monograms won while at Saugerties High School.

As for Lack's defensive ability, the statistics speak for themselves. Despite being hampered by slight injuries throughout his collegiate career, Lack has been one of the leading tacklers ever to don the Blue and Gold. Last year as a junior, Rich ranked third on the squad in tackles, grabbing 89 total hits — including 52 solo tackles. The inside linebacker placed second on the team in interceptions with three.

The co-captain was part of a stingy Colonel defense last year which allowed the opposition but 103 points or 9.5 markers a contest. In the first and fourth quarters, the "Big D" gave up only 40 combined points — an amazing statistic.

Coach Schmidt calls Lack "one of the keys to our defense." The Colonel mentor adds, "Rich gives us 100 per cent all the time. His sure tackling and headiness is an asset to our program."

Rich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lack, 207 Washington Ave., Saugerties, N.Y. He is a business administration major. —Torbik—

Zavoy Captures 15th In Meet

Mark Zavoy, a talented freshman on the Blue and Gold cross country team, came home with a fantastic 15th place finish in the 1st annual Lebanon Valley Invitational meet last Saturday.

Over eighty harriers competed in the event which covered a 4.7 mile course. The spirited Zavoy, a former Coughlin High School standout, was clocked in 26.20 time, which should really put a smile on Coach George Pawlusch's face when he swells on the coming season.

As a scholastic runner, Mark was one of the finest cross country men in Wyoming Valley and during the spring he competed as a half-miler

Jere Woods, another Colonel runner, finished a very respectable 28th in the Lebanon Valley meet.

That Mohammed Ali - Kenny Norton fight last Monday night has got to be one of the finest professional prize fights of this decade. It reiterated the fact that a good boxing match can stimulate as much or even more excitement than a lot of football and basketball games.

Ali, who trained harder for this fight than probably any other one in his career, took charge the first four rounds. He continually kept on the move, staying away from Norton's crushing body punches. The middle stage of the fight belonged to Norton though, as he continually cornered 32-year-old Ali, staggering him with a flurry of rights.

It seemed to me that both boxers had a chance to end the fight with a knockout, but neither of the two could muster enough energy to finish each other.

Any knowledgeable fight fan viewing the action could tell that the 11th round would decide the match. Ali must have realized this, because he came out of his corner punching and moving like he never had before, knowing full well that a loss to Norton would probably be the end of the fight for the former heavyweight champ of the world.

Despite losing, Kenny Norton proved that in another year or two he could be the best in his class.

Don Maynard, who just last year passed Ray Berry to become number one pass receiver in the history of professional football, recently traded to the St. Louis Cardinals by the New York Jets.

I've stood in awe of Maynard's ability since watching him play with the hapless New York Titans of the American Football League back in 1960.

It's kind of sad to see Don leave the team he has spent 14 years of his life with, but the Jets have a flock of fine young receivers, and Maynard wanted to see some playing time, so off he went to St. Louis.

Those young receivers I spoke of just could be a major cog in the machine, if the New Yorkers hope to outlast Miami in the Eastern Division of the AFC. They are jet-like tight end Richard Caster and wide receiver Jerome Barkum, Eddie Bell, Margene Adkins and David Knight.

Knight, a rookie from William and Mary, was battling Maynard for the final receiving berth, and apparently impressed the coaching staff with his speed and fine paid of hands.

One of the greatest mysteries in Major League baseball this year has to be the New York Yankees. Anyone who read my story on the big league last semester knows that I forecasted the AL East title for the Yanks. with good reason. After a slow start, the Bombers took over the top and held it for nearly a month during June and July. They had tremendous offensive potential with big hitters like Bobby Murcer, Thurmon Munson, and Matty Alou (no longer with them), Roy White and Greg Nettles. And their pitching was fantastic. Add to that a fantastic bullpen led by All-Star pitcher Sparky Lyle and two other hurling acquisitions in "Sudden" McDowell and Pat Dobson, and you have a nucleus for a winner.

Going into the All-Star break, the boys from the Bronx held a comfortable three-game lead over trailing Baltimore, Detroit and Boston. And then it hit. As quickly as they had risen, that is how fast they were falling. The pitching was horrendous, and the offense couldn't come up with the clutch hits that they needed.

They turned to their last hope...SPARKY. But the tobacco-chewing fireman was as cool as a mountain-grown cucumber, and such was the fate of the descendants of the Babe.
