Class of 2012, you and I have something in common: We both graduated this year and are entering the next phase of our lives. If you're like me, it's difficult to leave Wilkes because it is such a special place. And yet it is time to move on to new things.

When I graduated from college, I wondered, "How will this work out for me?" It was a scary time, venturing off into the unknown. The life I'd known at college – the life that I thought was so wonderful – was suddenly over. I found that it was important to think about that time as a beginning instead of an ending. Though times are tough economically, I urge all of you to see this as a time of great opportunity to think about what your passions are and pursue them. I am doing that myself as I retire.

While you were at Wilkes, you might have found a new direction and succeeded at things you never thought possible before you came to the University. Now it's time to celebrate your accomplishments such as earning a degree, an acceptance to graduate school or landing a first job in your chosen field. It's also important to spend some time appreciating the relationships you've formed with faculty and with your fellow students.

I'm doing much the same thing as I begin the next phase of my life. The accomplishments I'm celebrating are ones I've helped to make happen while leading this University. The most visible one is the new science building that will offer great new facilities for students and faculty. During my time at Wilkes, we've also earned honors, such as the grant from the Howard Hughes Medical Institute and grants to our faculty from prestigious organizations like the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes of Health. There have been additions to our academic programs – such as the Sidhu School of Business and Leadership, four master's degree programs and two doctoral degrees. We even showed that we could muster an Army of Colonels when the community needed it after the September 2011 floods. For me, there is so much to celebrate and be thankful for – just as there is for all of you.

As I retire as president, it's time for me to decide what I'll be doing in the next phase of my life. I want to continue my professional involvement as a consultant and perhaps write a book. But I also remind myself of something that I want to share with you: be comfortable with uncertainty. Even as you contemplate the future and make plans for the next chapter in your life, it's important to keep your heart open to possibilities that haven't yet presented themselves. Experience has taught me that those unforeseen challenges can offer some of the greatest opportunities of our lives.

Good luck to each and every one of you.

Tim Gilmour

Creating of the foundation for the 75,000 square foot building that will wrap around Stark Learning Center onto the greenway between Annette Evans Alumni House and Conyngham Hall

The building plans to stand 4 stories tall with 15 feet between the floor and ceiling. The design of the building came from SaylorGregg and will cost the University approximately $35 million

10-15% of the roof will be a greenery. A place for vegetation to grow and provide students with hands on experience. To hadle the run-off water a swale rain garden will be created and used as a teaching tool

Courtyard, gardens, solar panels, informal meeting areas, departmental meeting rooms, wider hallways, advanced laboratories, and research areas are only some of the new features we expect to see

Cross Country

The Colonels men's and women's cross country teams opened up this year in Kirby Park where they hosted Misericordia. The women triumphed with a close win while the men suffered a defeat. They then continued on to compete together at the Cougar Classic. Dan Lykens lead for the men's team where he finished in 54th place, while Michelle Wakeley led for the women's team and finished in an impressive 6th place overall. 7th place was secured by both the men and women at the Messiah Invitational where Wakeley achieved the fifth best time in school history in the 6k with 24:51. At the MAC championships the men finished eighth out of 14 teams and the women finished tenth out of 13. This allowed them to compete at the NCAA Division III Mideast Regionals where the Colonels finished 38th of 47 and the Lady Colonels finished 41st of 47. From all of her hard work this year Wakeley was named MAC Scholar Athlete of the Year.

The Lady Colonels were selected to finish seventh in the conference voted on from the coaches. Wilkes picked up their first win against Arcadia who they shut out 1-0. Their next win, 2-0, against Delaware Valley College, wouldn't come until after a couple of tough losses. With another win against Desales it put the Colonels 2-2 in the Freedom play. Field hockey's only senior Lindsey Davenport, our goalie, was recognized during senior night, while also chalking up another win against Misericordia. Lauren Pawling was named to the 2011 Freedom Conference first team as a midfielder, while Davenport made the second team selection.

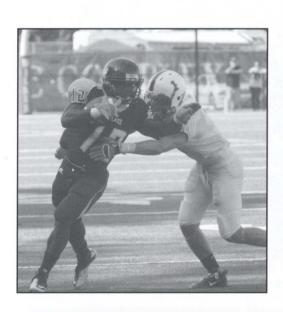

Football

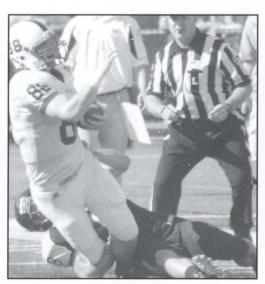

Wilkes was expected to finish third overall this season within the MAC. They started off on a positive note by having sophomore, Tate Moore-Jacobs, named a Preseason All-American. Todd Eagles, wide receiver, was named to the MAC Honor Roll after his performance in a tough loss against Susquehanna University. Throughout the rest of the season to follow fellow players; Moore-Jacobs (2), Zach Tivald (2), Rob Houseknecht, Andrew Regan were also named to the Honor Roll. The new football stadium was named in honor of our legendary football coach Rollie Schmidt, who had the third-longest winning streak in collegiate football history with a record of 32 straight games. In the same day as the renaming, the Colonels defeated Widener 35-27 and Alex George was named MAC Offensive Player of the Week. They finished out the season strong on senior day with a strong win over Stevenson. Wilkes was proud to name six to the All-MAC football teams. Tivald, Ben Webb, Moore-Jacobs, received first team All-Middle Atlantic Conference. Eagles, Houseknecht, and Regan were named to the second team.

The men's golf team kicked off their fall season with a tri-match at Misericordia. Matt Kachurak Wilkes's top shooter tied for second with shooting 75. They finished the fall season at the Elizabethtown Fall Classic where they finished 16th place overall. For the opening home match against Kings and Scranton at the Huntsville Golf Club, they succeed in defeating rival Kings before falling short to Scranton. To finish out the season they prepared to compete at the Mid-Atlantic Conference. The top five competitors consisted of Anthony Gagliostro, Jeremy Nolt, Darren Mensch, Michael Daubert, and Jon Rohrbach after one day of shooting they were in seventh place. Which was where they would ultimately finish after the second day. Anthony Gagliostro led Wilkes finishing 24th overall, shooting a 176.

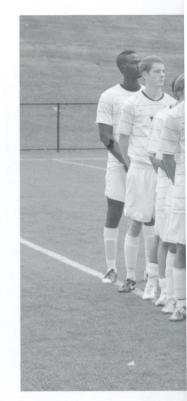

Men's Soccer

With the start of a new season the Wilkes Men's Soccer was picked to finish sixth in the preseason poll. After a rough start against Rosemont they sprung back to clinch a win against Gwynedd-Mercy. After tough competition the Colonels accepted a tough defeat agasint #17 Muhlenberg. Eric McAnena shot the game winner against Penn College and Michael Turner did the same against Baptist Bible. With a mixture of wins and losses throughout the rest of the season they concluded with an over-all record of 6-11, 2-5 in Freedom Conference play. TJ Brandt, playing midfielder, was named to the All-Freedom Second Team.

The Lady Colonels were chosen to finish third in the Preseason Poll. After Katy Fissel's game winning goal against Widener she was named Conference Player of the Week. The same well goalie Sam Lindo earned Defender of the Week. The women's soccer team isn't just about playing a sport. They could be found lending a hand to help those who struggled after the flood. They also held a pink jersey auction to raise money to benefit the American Cancer Society where $1492 was raised. After a 0-0, 2 overtime tie against FDU, they rose against DeSales 4-1. Jana Martin was named Player of the Week for scoring 4 goals and 1 assist in one week, while Lindo was named Goalie of the Week. Ashley Graham had her first hat trick this season to beat Delaware Valley 4-1. Fissel and Lyndsay Ellis were named to the All-Freedom Conference First Team and Erin Donnelly earned Second Team All-Conference honors. Fissel also was named to the second team honors of the NSCAA All-Mid-Atlantic team while Ellis made the third team. Ellis also was named to the ECAC All-Star team and Fissel to the second team.

Volleyball

Wilkes introduced Meredith Alexis as the new Women's Volleyball Head Coach. They were voted to finish sixth overall in the Preseason Conference poll. The season started at a Moravian Invitational where after two days finished up 1 and 3. The season started off rough for the Colonels losing in tournaments and dual matches. They almost took out rival King's after taking the first 2 sets before losing 2-3. Wilkes took down Hilbert College in a straight 3 sets. It was a close match against Delaware Valley College. Wilkes took the loss at 2-3 but Senior Kate McGurk led with 34 assists and 21 digs. To end the season Wilkes Colonel's took a win against Manhattanville College.

The Preseason Polls predicted that Wilkes Basketball would finish up fourth in the conference. The team posted huge wins against PSU defeating Hazleton and Harrisburg to start the season and Wilkes-Barre later on. Paul Huch was named Freedom Player of the Week after posting 24 rebounds the second most in school history for a single game. Freshmen, Jordan Wilson was name Player of the Week after an impressive 26 points in 26 minutes against Misericordia. Huch hit a career high of 29 points against Marywood in a cross country challenge finale. Kendall Hinze and Matt Mullins were named Freedom Players of the week after outstanding performances. The Colonels overcame Eastern to advance to Freedom Championship Finale before falling to Misericordia. Huch Scholar Athlete of the year and named to Cosida Academic All District 4 First Team, Wilson ECAC South Rookie and Freshman of the year.

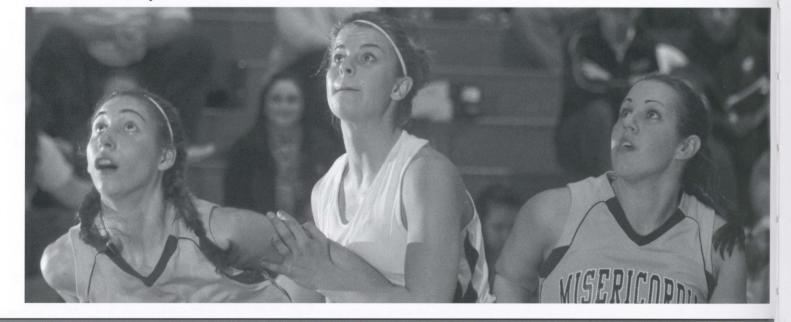

Women's Basketball

Wilkes picked up new head coach Chris Heery to start the 11-12 season. The Lady Colonels were picked to finish eighth this season. They started off the season strong taking wins against PSU Hazleton and Wilkes-Barre, and Keystone. In the Blue Jay Classic, the ladies dropped a close 2 overtime lost to PSU Harrisburg. Megan Kazmerski dropped a career high 27 points in a loss against Manhattanville. Finally they took a win against Cedar Crest ending a 9 game losing streak. It was a tough end of the season as they couldn't pull out another win. Whitney Connolly was the sole senior on the team. In March Allison Walsh was featured in a sports documentary about the Dunmore-Mid Valley girls' basketball rivalry.

Before the season began Coach Jon Laudenslager was named to the 2011 Cardinal Athletic Hall of Fame. Ryan Wilson and Anthony Dattolo took Individual Titles leading off at the King's Invitational helping to lead the team to first. Wikes moved from being ranked Nationally from 12 to 11. In the Messiah Petrofes Dattolo and Myzar Mendoza were crowned first. Dattolo collected his 100th win, to become the fifth in school history, defeating Messiah's Ty Kanouff. Wilkes experienced high success in the Messiah Open with six champions: Michael Fleck, Jeff Peterson, Matt Ellery, Nathan White, Dustin Stough, and Matt Transue. Fleck finished the season earning Metropolitan Rookie of the Year. Dattolo earned his second straight Metropolitan Title; and finished runner-up at the NCAA Championships earning him All-American Honors as well as Wilkes Male Athlete of the Year. Shane Everett and Tyler Lauchaire were named to the Division III Scholar and All-American teams.

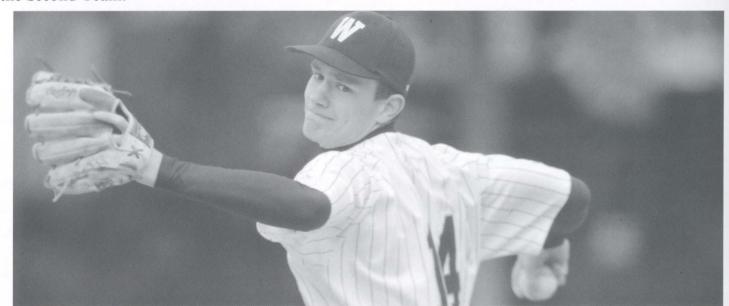

Baseball

The coaches in the Freedom conference ranked the Wilkes Colonels to finish sixth this season. Wilkes took big wins against PSU Wilkes-Barre, Marywood, and Eastern. After two ninth inning rallies the men fell to Penn College and FDU-Florham. The biggest comeback though came against Manhattanville, where Wilkes was trailing by ten runs in the seventh inning. Scott Skammer led off in a rally that gave them the win at 13-11. On April 4, 2012 Matt Ruch clinched the all-time hitting record at 186 against Misericordia. The season ended in the Freedom Finale against Delaware Valley. M. Ruch was named MAC Spring Scholar Athlete. Stephen Ruch was selected to First Team All-Freedom; Carmen Lopresto and Dan Pisanchyn were named to the Second Team.

To start the season Wilkes was given the spot to finish seventh. The Middle Atlantic Conference split as the Women's Lacrosse team joined the Freedom Conference. They started off the season strong posting a tight win in overtime against Sweet Briar 15-14 and a win against Trinity Washington 17-0 with 12 Colonel's scoring. The women were 6 and 0 before they suffered their first loss in conference play to Eastern. Gabby Ford and Keri Meerholz lead Wilkes in a win against Lancaster Bible College improving them to 7-4 overall. Ford was named to the All-Freedom Conference second team. With the completion of this season she reached her 100th goal, 3rd in alltime points, assists, and groundballs with two more years to go.

After completing two opening tournaments at Scranton and Muhlenberg Wilkes defeated Lycoming 8-1 in preparation for the MAC Individual Tournament. Zach Telijohann, Steven Wilson, Brendon Blachowski, and Evan Katz took gold for doubles play in brackets 2 and 3. At spring break the Colonel's captured wins against John Carroll, Susquehanna and PSU-Behrend before falling to Bridgewater. They took strong wins against Eastern, Misericordia, Moravian, rival Manhattanville and Kings; there was a close win against Scranton 5-4. Alex Makos was named Freedom Player of the Week after dominating wins against FDU-Florham. With second wins over FDU and they captured their fifth straight Conference Title under coach Chris Leicht. In the first round of NCAA Regionals they faced Stevens Institute of Technoogy. Makos was named to the All-Freedom Conference first team with Steven Wilson who also earned Rookie of the Year. Telijohann and Freeman were named to the second team. Chris Leicht was named Coach of the Year.

On spring break the Colonels took wins over John Carroll, Moravian, Bridgewater, and Susquehanna. They were ranked 18th having an undefeated season at 16-0 overall, 4-0 in conference play. With defeating FDU-Florham and Misericordia in the finals, the Colonels claimed their sixth straight Freedom Conference Title. In the first round of NCAA Regionals they suffered a loss to Suny Geneseo, a rematch from two years prior. Throughout the season Player of the Week Honors went out to Melanie Nolt, Kristofco, Donner, and Katie Lynn. Mitchell was named MAC Spring Scholar. First team All-Conference went out to Lynn, Kristofco, and Nolt who also claimed Freedom Player of the Year and Wilkes Female Athlete of the Year. Donner and Mitchell earned second team. Chris Leight was named Coach of the Year.

The Lady Colonels were chosen to finish seventh in the Freedom Conference this year. Over Spring Break they posted strong wins over York College and John Jay College. With the season underway the Colonels split games in their first Conference matchup against Eastern. With a rain date scheduled, Wilkes took another split in Freedom play against FDU-Florham. They weren't done the Colonels also had close splits against Lycoming and PSU Hazleton before taking both games from Baptist Bible. Alysha Bixler was our strong pitcher who helped pull out another split against Scranton. In their final game of the season the Colonels took a game from Marywood. Laykin Hughes was named to the All-Freedom Conference first team as a pitcher, and Bixler was named to the second team as an outfielder.

In an effort to explore this amazing diversity on campus, the Center for Global Diversity hosts many programs such as International night and Global Coffee Hour. The mainstay of the Global Diversity department, Global coffee hour is a weekly event that gives International and American students the opportunity to spend time together and learn about each other's cultures in a safe and open environment. At global coffee hour, students enjoy snacks and coffee while playing games and discussing their cultures with one another. The purpose of our organization is to provide college students with an opportunity to continue their journey of Hindu beliefs, values and daily rituals while away from home. It also opens up a new path to network among fellow college students through monthly prayer gatherings, outings and religious festivities. Interestingly, our club is affiliated with an established non-profit organization, BAPS. Founded on the pillars of practical spirituality, BAPS reaches out to address many of the spiritual, moral and social challenges and issues we face in our world. Its strength lies in the purity of its nature and purpose. BAPS strives to care for the world by caring for societies, families and individuals. This is done by individual attention, through elevating projects for all. Highlights

This year's homecoming was filled with good spirits. The morning started off with a parade down South Franklin Street. There were varous students and alumni featured in the parade as well as local businesses. The weather for the weekend was perfect and the football game had a great turnout. Daniel McLoughlin and Christa Filipkowski were crowned Homecoming King and Queen during halftime.

COLOR WARS

Students Celebrate Holi

Last spring, you may have walked across the Greenway and noticed a group of people running around and throwing colors at each other. You may have thought this was peculiar, right? Well, this is completely normal in parts of India during this time of year, because they were celebrating Holi. Every year, Hindus celebrate the festival of Holi, best known in the West as The Festival of Colors. Like most events in the Hindu calendar, this festival has many purposes, both religious and social. It is by far the least religious holiday, but still one of the most exhilarating celebrations. Holi celebrates the arrival of spring, originally to commemorate the abundant harvests from the fertile land. In modern times, Holi has become a tradition to just celebrate during the onset of spring. Although its social significance has been altered over time, its religious purpose remains intact—it honors events present in Hindu mythology. The days looming to Holi are buzzing with excitement and joy. The event takes place over a period of two days; on the first day, which is Holi, participants hold a bonfire (Holi means fire) to honor the death of a demon in Hindu mythology, and on the following day, known as Dhuletti (dhoo-let-tea), colored powder is thrown at each other to celebrate spring.

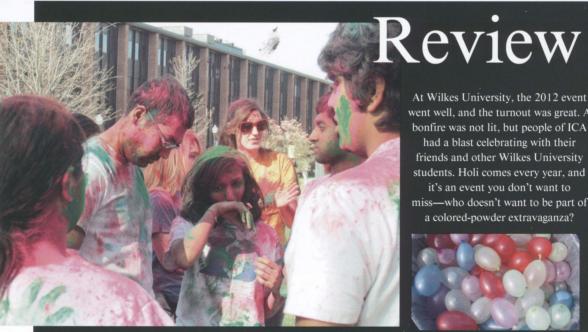

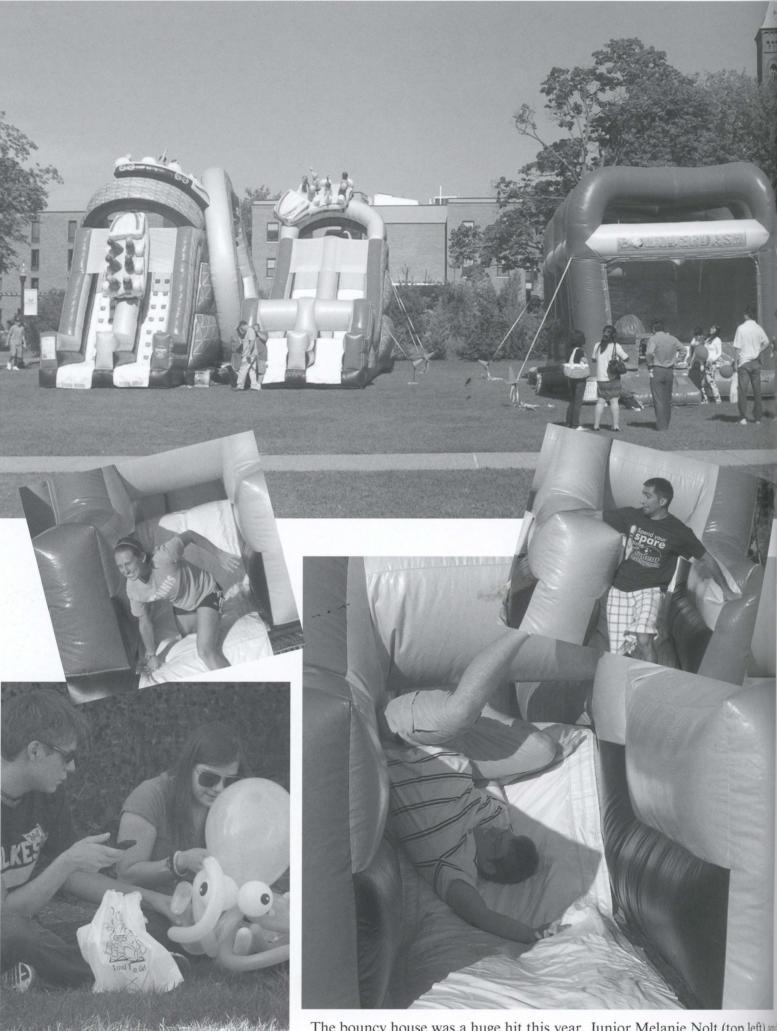

At Wilkes University, the 2012 event went well, and the turnout was great. A bonfire was not lit, but people of ICA had a blast celebrating with their friends and other Wilkes University students. Holi comes every year, and it's an event you don't want to a colored-powder extravaganza?

2011-2012 Season

Wilkes University Theater department had yet another successful season. They continued their tradition of presenting four show in an academic year.

This season kicked off with Almost, Maine a two act play about a small New England town that gets hit with the lovebug. It tells the tales of various couples falling in and out of love and all the trials and tribulations that follow.

In November, W.U.T. performed a spectacular rendition of The Who's Tommy, a rock musical based off the famous 1969 album.

The spring season included Little Women The Musical, a heartwarming take on the classic story, and Amadaus, a fictional account of Wolfgang Amadaus Mozart. The Theater department's hard work paid off and each show had a great turnout.

What was the most challenging part of being in a production?

"It's difficult being in a production and keeping up with classwork. If you don't set appropriate amounts of time for each, it is easy to fall behind and become overwhelmed." -Nicole Weaver, Sophmore

"Definitely time management. Being a freshman and being a production, you have to learn really quick how to make your time matter." -Mandy Thomas, Freshman

Do the traditions with W.U.T. change or remain the same over the years?

"They evolve as the company changes. The traditions we had in my freshmen year were dramatically changed and long gone by the time I was a senior. It's kind of unfortunate because some of them were really fun." -Casey Gow, Senior 101

Spotlight Doncer

We spoke with Junior Pharmacy major Meribeth Derkach to get the scoop on the ins and outs of the life of a dancer.

-What was the theme of this year's recital?

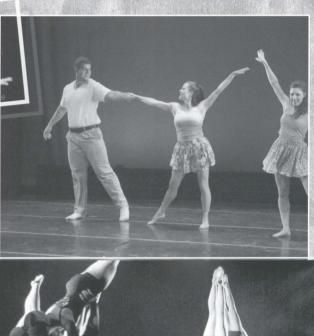

"The theme last year was focused on the end of the world and had general dark undertones to it. Lynne Mariani's modern piece revolved around the world ending in 2012 and used a very intense instrumental piece. Usually the theme is based around one of the pieces that will have the most impact on the audience emotionally.

-How many hours a week do you dedicate to dancing?

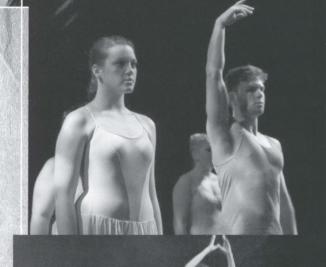

"Each class I was taking involved three hours of rehearsal in class and I was in Jazz and Modern so that is 6 hours of class time. I also learned a dance choreographed by Kris Cross that she taught to a few select dancers that met for an hour a week. On top of that I was in four dance composition pieces that students choreograph. Those required one hour a week as well. So on average I was in the studio for 11 hours a week.

What is the most rewarding part of being a dancer?

"Being on stage in front of an audience. Just like singing you have to hit every note perfectly, in dance every move with precision. But perfection is hard to achieve so my main goal is to light up the stage. I love to perform and project my emotions to the audience whether it is happiness, sadness, lust, anger or anything in between. No matter what is going on in my life at that moment, from that time I step on stage to the time I step off my mind goes to another place and takes me on the best emotional journey I've ever had.

Nickelodeon's Cartoons

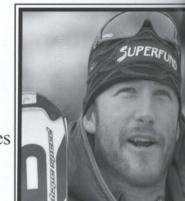

A Minersville, PA native, Drebitko picked up skiing when he was five years old. It originally started out as a family sport. But racing was found within his blood passed down from his father. Skiing only became serious when he left baseball at Wilkes in 2011, to pursue competition. For years Jon would only ski four to six times a year as a hobby. In the last two years though this increased substantially to four to six times per week! A benefit of this was the opportunity to travel. Some of the farthest slopes were Salt Lake City, Utah; Copper, Colorado; Killington, VT; and Okemo, VT. Jon's favorite slope is Solitude in Salt Lake City. No wonder, it's one of his favorites, it's ranked #3 for Best Powder and has an annual snowfall of 500 inches. With over 2,500 acres to ski on and 64+ runs it has ample opportunities for long days on the slopes. Skiing is not a sport that is easy to fund. He easily spends thousands of dollars to cover equipment, gas, entry and organizational fees, and travel per year. That's why Drebitko applied at Sno Mountain to become one of their ski instructors and pace setters. According to Professional Ski Instructors of America (PSIA) he is ranked level out of 3. With more training and experience he will move quickly through the ranks. Working at Sno Mountain has its advantages, it allows him to ski for free and receive pro forum discounts from certain retailers. In his free time Jon loves to still play baseball and swing a bat. He also enjoys taking his dog for walks on the mountain and of course watching skiing whenever it's on TV. John Teller is Jon's favorite ski cross racer but his all-time favorites are Bode Miller

(pictured) and Lindsey Vonn all of who compete on the US team. Drebitko knows the true definition when it comes to speed. He's been clocked between 65 to 75 mph during a skicross race on some of the international courses. Normally the speed reached depends on the type and/or discipline of the race. Jon had the chance to qualify for the USASA Nationals Competition; which was hosted in April 2012 at slopes in Copper Colorado. At Nationals he met competitors and coaches who shared the same skiing passion and were willing to exchange ideas on techniques. For most of the year Jon found himself ranked at #1 for the USASA for most of year and therefore entered Nationals at 3rd. He ended the season crossing the finish at 6th after crashing in his second heat. Drebitko is following him dreams of being a competition skier, who knows maybe he'll be the next Shaun White.

RELAY FOR LIFE 2012

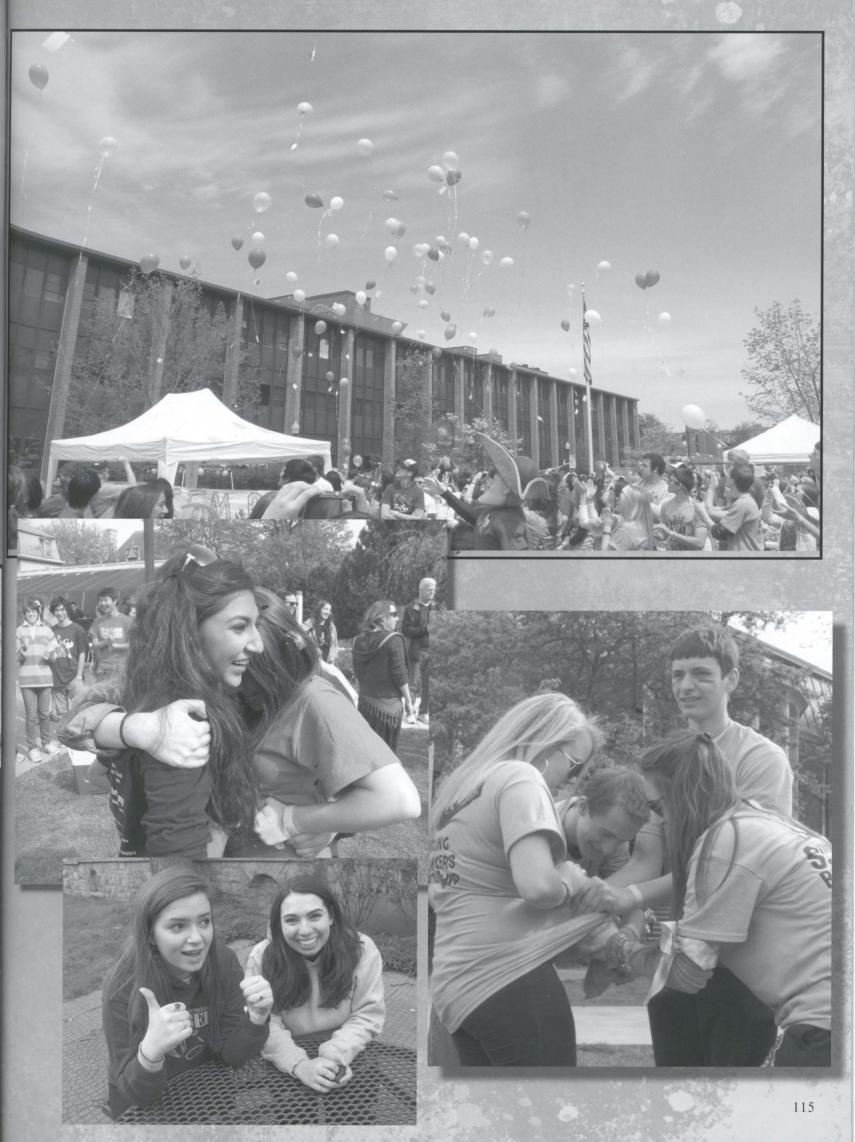

What Is Relay

According to their website, Relay for Life is a worldwide organization that raises awareness about cancer. There are over 4 million people in over 20 countries that take part in raising money for this phenomenal group. During a Relay, participants celebrate survivors of cancer, remember the ones we've lost, and fight back to prevent future losses from the disease. Each year Wilkes students create teams to raise money for the event and stay up for 24 hours participating in activities revolving around a certain theme. Students relived their childhood memories with a board game theme.

Every year, Wilkes Student Development puts together a week's worth of fun and games. The Student Union Building is transformed into a Casino that features games like Bingo, Horse Racing, Black Jack, and Poker. Students collect chips to turn into raffle tickets. Prizes this year included lpads, a Macbook Pro and $1000 shopping spree at King of Prussia.

Every year IRHC hosts a cake challenge worthy of being on the Food Network. This year's theme required contestants to create a cake that looks like a different kind of food. Some of the submissions included a T.V. dinner, a slab of bacon, and a pizza pie. The winning cake was a breakfast feast including pancakes, bacon, eggs and a cup of joe.

but most importantly graduating class of 2012

It is with great honor that I welcome you to the 65th annual Wilkes University Spring Commencement Ceremony!

Today I am challenged to find words to articulate the gravity of this moment. To express in a short address, the significance of a success that took us years to achieve. To do this, I'd like to begin with a story regarding another published opportunity that I recently experienced.

It was just another beautiful sunny day in the city of Wilkes-Barre...no I'm sorry, that is inaccurate. Please let me start over...It was just another cold, gray and rainy day in Wilkes-Barre and the campus was abuzz with families and incoming freshmen eager to start college life. I was sitting on a Q&A panel with 9 other students when a parent directed a question to the group "Why Wilkes?" My answer came easily and without batting an eye, I told her exactly what I tell everyone else who asks, "I love Wilkes because of the tight knit campus community. It's small enough the each student can be treated as an individual instead of just a number."

Choosing the place for your college education is never easy. But when we elected to attend Wilkes University, we were dealt a lucky hand. Lucky in the sense that we were becoming part of a campus family that cherished our success before they even learned our names... During our time here, each of us has experienced a unique opportunity that might not exist for members of a larger student body. Whether you played a sport, conducted research, studied abroad, lead an organization, or just made life long friends...we all have found strength somewhere and built identificate will propel us into the future.

This campus family enjoys a passionate sense of unity and history. Lessons born of past generations have been handed down to newer students building a foundation of love and support that will carry us through even the most challenging of circumstance. For example, at the start of our senior year we were greeted by an earthquake, a hurricane, a tropical storm, flooding and a citywide evacuation. In an effort to rebuild, our university banded togeth and conducted one of the largest community service projects that this city has ever seen. It is that intimacy between student body, administration and faculty that makes projects of this magnitude possible. Wilkes Pride helped us risk above, come together and push on. Each experience taught us resilience, empathy, and repeatedly demonstrated the strength that an Army of Colonels can muster, while still recognizing the impact and enthusiasm of each individual.

Today Wilkes Pride stays with us as we say good-bye. Over the past 4 years our professors, our friends, and the entire community have prepared us for what lies ahead. So as you cross this stage today and take responsibility into your own hands; I challenge you to apply the lessons you've learned here. Be resilient, have empathy, and don't let the "real world" turn you into just a "number," for you are a significant individual, marching amongst an army of colonels.

As Editor –in-Chief of the Amnicola yearbook, I am proud to say that the 2011-2012 school year has been one of our most successful. It is with that sentiment that I would like to give my sincerest thanks to all of the members of the Amnicola staff that helped to make this year's yearbook another great success in the Wilkes University legacy.

First, I would like to thank our faculty advisor Jamie Miller. Jamie, it is fair to say that without you this yearbook would not exist. You took on the arduous tasks of balancing the budget and basically dealing with the administrative tasks that no one else wanted to do. Most of all, anytime one of us had an idea, you did anything within your power to facilitate us.

To Jesse Villella: Jesse, to say that you exceeded my expectations of you this year would be a huge understatement. I will admit that I was unsure of how you would perform this year as an editor. However, you ended up becoming the right-hand-man and friend that I really needed. You always supported me one hundred percent and for that I cannot thank you enough.

To Melanie Nolt: Mel, you took on so many roles this year. You put yourself in charge of not only all of the copy in this book, but also the budget, as well as personally contacting anybody that could possibly help us make this book better. On top of all of this, you came up with personally engineered special projects that had never been done the yearbook before. It is this creativity, passion, and drive that you not only displayed yourself but inspired in myself and the rest of the staff that made this book possible.

To everybody else that helped with this book: Cora, Jasmine, Nipa, and Bobby you all brought so many ideas and talents to the table this year. It is all of your creativity and hard work that made this book possible. Thank you all so much for sticking with me and the yearbook this entire year. I hope that you all bring the same passion and ambition to the yearbook staff next year.

Thank you and good luck everybody!
