To Ethic or Not Too Ethic

The decision of Student Government at its meeting Monday to hold joint elections today for both Student Government President, SG representatives and class officers was clearly unconstitutional and unethical...

It is unconstitutional because the SG constitution now in effect specifically provides in Article V, Section 2, that the presidential election shall take place after the class and SG representative elections...

It was unethical because Student Government violated its own commitment to adhere to the constitution. Such a commitment was made by SG members upon their assumption of office.

A new SG constitution will be adopted sometime next year, not this year as originally planned. Perhaps SG's basic fault is twofold: the original April 1 date for completion of the new constitution was recognizably an unreasonable deadline...

The picture, however, cannot be painted completely black. We sympathize with and recognize the fact that, although finding itself in such an awkward predicament, SG's intentions were sincerely motivated for purposes of practicality and the assurance of a stimulating SG election...

We hope, however, that the members of next year's Student Government will see fit to adhere to the constitution and not to set it aside merely because it becomes inconvenient.

If it has faults, a constitution should be either amended or replaced, not ignored.

Letters To The Editor

Kelly vs. Wender (1968)

Dear Editor: Any candidate aspiring to the office of Student Government president must propose objectives for which he will strive. Because I sincerely seek election to this office, I want to explain what I will attempt to accomplish, if I am elected.

- 1. First we will revise and edit the proposed constitution and strive for ratification as soon as possible. 2. Until ratification we will implement an organizational change in SG by involving many of the fresh ideas conceived during the constitutional convention. 3. SG will contribute to improve communication and respect between the student body and the Administration by assuming more student responsibility in accordance with the 'delegation of powers' policy of the Administrative Council.

Dear Editor: In electing a Student Government President, the decision should be centered on the qualifications and proposed policies of the candidates. The purpose of this communication is, therefore, to familiarize you with my qualifications, and to describe my reasons for seeking the office of Student Government President.

With these qualifications in mind, I plan to direct the attention of Student Government toward student interests rather than social events. By doing so, emphasis can be oriented toward projects pertaining more directly to the goals of Student Government.

Dear Editor: We have been moved (if that's the word) to say something about last week's (4/26/68) Beacon critique of the current art exhibition in the Conyngham Annex Gallery. This review, though it had 'style' of a kind, compensated for this quality - one rather uncharacteristic of the Beacon - by lacking all sense.

It is admirable that the Beacon has undertaken to review and criticize the fine arts. The rather consistent inadequacy of its past efforts in this area only serves to point up the difficulty of this task, especially when attempted by reviewers of inadequate sensibility.

We have noticed that the reviews are unsigned; in view of their quality, this is a wise policy. The paper has profited immensely over the waning Beacon of last year, with the exception of one area - review and criticism. 5. SG will work to ignite student interest in the concert and lecture series through increased publicity and involvement.

6. SG will attempt to improve the quality of social activities:
A. Short-range basis: one large, experienced S.G. Committee to handle all S.G.-sponsored events.
B. Long-Range basis: S.G.-Administrative Council concerted to research social activities and make suggestions for improvement.

In attempting to accomplish these programs (if elected) I sincerely pledge my interest, my initiative, and most of all, my integrity.

Tenure change considered

Approximately six weeks ago Dr. Wiley designated a special four-man faculty committee to investigate the principles of faculty reappointment and permanent employment after a certain number of years of service as an academic institution presented the Wilkes College Faculty Handbook. The three proposals were submitted briefly at a faculty meeting on April 30 to be considered further at a later faculty meeting on May 14.

Item one expressed the necessity for a constant communication with the members of his department, and keep each member informed of his standing in the department and his progress toward advancement.

Item two suggests that, if the College chooses not to implement the proposed tenure is hesitant about instituting a professor permanent employment on his two and one-half year trial period, a so-called "buffer year" or "probationary" period of one year may be used. Such a postponement would make the College "to complete its are considering appointing an ombudsman. Many students, faculty, and members of the Administration were asked if they thought there was a place for an ombudsman on the Wilkes campus. The general consensus was that there is no need for such a position here. Most felt that, as a result of the numerically small student faculty, Administration ratio, and the close association among all, the student is able to deal with the Administration with little difficulty. To the person directly responsible for solving his problem.

A few students, when questioned, felt that there was a definite need for an ombudsman on campus, but generally these were the students who, as yet, have had no direct association with any member of the Administration. Rarely did a student say that he felt the Administration was an awe-inspiring, unapproachable group. Most stated that, unless they were in the Dean's office for disciplinary reasons, they always felt welcome and usually had their problem taken care of.

Dr. Farley said that a number of years ago he knew every student's name, address and major. But, as a result of the general expansion of the College community, this is no longer possible. He also stated that it is one of the purposes of the College to foster a close relationship among the students, faculty and Administration. The Administration doors are open to any student for praise, problem, or just general discussion. The problem confronting students of the megaversity where the ombudsman is in use, that of not even knowing who the Administrative Council members are, much less knowing how to locate them, is not a problem facing Wilkes students.

There is a definite place for an ombudsman in some areas of American life and the realization of this need is growing rapidly. The concept of our senate came from Rome, our speaker from the British House of Commons, and our doctrine of the separation of powers from the French philosophers. Americans could do worse than to borrow the concept of the Swedish ombudsman.

The ombudsman concept has spread to the megaversity. The Stony Brook campus of the State University of New York has three faculty ombudsman offices and also on behalf of a part-time basis. Following similar faculty disturbances, San Jose State College in California appointed a full-time ombudsman. Dozens of others in its early stages selected include University of California at Berkeley, UCLA, and Pennsylvania State University in Detroit.

Petitioners Praised

Dear Editor:
Reading the New York Times of April 28, we were glad to see yet another indication that the conscience of America is not dead; the four-page declaration by student body presidents and campus newspaper editors at more than 500 American colleges and universities.

The signers of this declaration protested the Johnson Administration's disastrous war in Viet Nam, quoting among others — Martin Luther King ("The war we are fighting is unjust and immoral"), Senator Albert Gore ("We are destroying the country we profess to be saving. We are damaging our relations with most other nations of the world.")

The former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Hon. M. S. Eccles ("We have killed, wounded or burned more than one million children. . . . No wonder the great majority of the people do not consider us their saviors, but hate us and want us to get out of their country.")

Volter Lippman ("There is a growing sense of guilt. The American people are becoming revolted and ashamed. . . . This is the most unpopular war in American history. It is also the war which most deeply affronts the American conscience.")

General Shoup, retired commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps and a Congressional Medal of Honor winner ("We've told sea-truths and lies to our young people for so long that they're finally revolted. . . .")

A persons associated with Wilkes College in various capacities, we are taking this opportunity to say that we were proud to find the College represented in this declaration, this refusal of the crime of silence, by the signature of the editor of its student paper, 97 members of the student body and faculty.)

Paranoid Republicans on Guard

Dear Editor:
I don't carry a card of any Party (not even the Malwou Congress Party) so my interests are non-partisan. I am a subject of His Excellency Dr. Banda's Malawi, so the only interest I have in American politics is foreign aid and occasional splashes of time out in this world of wars. But I read the letter (Illiteracy Noted) in last week's Beacon with amusement.

If I were an American I'd be a member of the Republican Party, for its lack of humour to laugh at itself amused me. Its perfunctory posture and ever watchful eye for enemies—real and imaginable—inspire me, and its ignorance of whether it is the lower or higher case makes me comfortable (where wisdom is folly it is bliss to be ignorant).

I hope my radical friends in the Democratic Party who are so capable of confusing and misleading information and alert people like the Republicans will excuse me.

Fick, Zakowski post shutouts

After two shutout victories over the weekend, 3-0 over Stevens Tech and 4-0 over Ursinus, the Colonels baseball team's log read 7-4.

In Saturday's contest, Joe Zakowski racked up his second one-hitter of the campaign. Zakowski collected eight strikeouts enroute to his masterpiece. The southpaw from Hanover strayed Delaware Valley in the season's opener, also holding them to one base knock.

The Tech men committed five errors in the nine-inning affair which opened the door for Coach Rellie Schmidt's squad. The Colonels bats were cracking all afternoon as the locals collected 10 hits, four good for extra bases. Carl Cook led the hitting parade with two hits in three official times at bat. The high-scoring game afforded Coach Schmidt the opportunity to juggle his lineup, as 15 Colonels saw action.

On Monday, the Colonels traveled to Collegeville and conquered the Bears by a 4-0 count. The strong arm of Charlie Fick held the host team to four hits in racking up his second win of the season.

Shortstop Pat Salantri opened the scoring in the first inning by slugging a home run over the left field fence. Fick and Ursinus' starting pitcher Steve Spind were locked in a pitching duel until the sixth when the locals collected their second score. Carl Cook knocked in the run with a slapping double to right field. Mike Williams and John Ladomirak came through with hits in the eighth to push two more runs across the plate.

Joe Wrenn continued his base-stealing, collecting his eighth and ninth of the season.

The Colonels return to their home field tomorrow afternoon when they face the Red Devils of Dickinson College in Middle Atlantic Conference action.

The College golfers, under the tutelage of Coach William Farnes, finished sixteenth in the recent Middle Atlantic Conference golf championships at the Williamsport Country Club on May 6. Lycoming College served as host to the 32 competing colleges and universities.

The Colonels finished with a total of 671 points, placing them in the middle of the final standings.

The best total score turned in by the Colonels was a 162 by Walt Anushko. Ray McDonald finished the 36-hole play with a 169 after posting a second round score of 79. Veteran Carlye Robinson also finished with a 169.

The College was honored when it was selected to host the 1969 tournament. The Iron Temple Country Club will be the site of the event which Coach Farnes expects 35 or more teams to enter.

The Colonels defer travel to Reading this afternoon to do battle with the highly-touted Albright Lions. The local squad will be gunning for its third win of the season.

169 score, while freshman Dennis Pugh carried a 171 score.

The medalist honors went to Sherman Keeney of Temple. Keeney finished in a four-way tie for second place in last year's affair and is undefeated in play this year. Frank Engle of Haverford, last year's defending champion, was upset as he was seeded number one in the tournament and lost only three games to sweep five matches. The upset he played his usual well-rounded game.

Temple swept to the team title, edging Bucknell by a single stroke. This was the closest of any one-two team finish in the tourney's history.

Bucknell was the pre-tournament favorite but fell to the wayside as Temple made its second round surge.

The tournament was conducted in shotgun fashion with golfers teeing off at each of the 18 holes.

Wender elected to SG President Naparstek nominated for Beacon editor

Martin J. Naparstek

Charles Lengle

Mr. Robert Bambo, faculty advisor and David Frey, editor-in-chief, announced the nomination of Martin J. Naparstek as editor-in-chief of the 1968-1969 Beacon, pending appointment by the College Publications Committee. Also nominated for the editorial staff are Christine Sulist, executive editor; Kathy Hannon, business editor; Zig Pines, news editor; Charles Lengle, sports editor; and Ronald Jacobs, copy editor. The position of feature editor has not been filled.

Paul Wender was elected president of next year's Student Government last Friday's election with the aid of a large freshman turnout. Wender, a year's advisor to the frosh, defeated Tom Kelly by 155 votes out of a total of 314 votes.

Christine Sulist

Ron Jacobs

Martin J. Naparstek, son of Mr. Leola Naparstek, 1825 Scarborough Avenue, Exeter, is a senior political science major. He has done news and feature reporting this year and plans to enter the Peace Corps upon graduation.

Each class also elected five Student Government Representatives. Re-elected next year's seniors are J. Marie Charkulak, Ira George, J. Kelly and Carl Stracuse. Next year's special election will be held to elect a representative to fill the spot vacated by Wender.

SG officers NSA to 1

The new SG organization for next year elected its officers at a Monday night meeting. Tom Kelly, former treasurer, was elected vice-president with no opposition. Ben Lodeski, former representative and newswoman SG, was also elected without opposition as SG treasurer. Jean Marie Charkulak was re-elected secretary. J. Kelly, former treasurer, was elected as her successor. The above four officers, along with Paul Wender, new SG president, will comprise next year's Executive Cabinet.

A brief discussion took place concerning SG's possible relationship with the Student Association. It was reported that a representative from NSA is on campus the past week and will be meeting with Wilkes representatives. However, he was disappointed by the lack of interest shown by the members of the Student Association. The NSA is currently in the process of reorganizing and the new officers are expected to be announced in the near future.

In addition to the new officers, reporters and general staff members are needed. As of now, the position of feature editor is vacant. Students wishing to work on next year's staff are asked to submit their names before the close of the semester to the Student Organization. The Student Organization is currently in the process of reorganizing and the new officers are expected to be announced in the near future. The Beacon is also looking for artists, typists, and photographers.
