If you would indeed behold the spirit of death, open your heart wide unto the body of life. For life and death are one, even as the river and the sea are one.

For what is it to die but to stand naked in the wind and to melt into the sun? And what is it to cease breathing, but to free the breath from its restless tides, that it may rise and expand and seek God unencumbered?

Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing. And when you have reached the mountain top, then shall you begin to climb. And when the earth shall claim your limbs, then shall you truly dance.

The F. M. Kirby Center: A Paramount Rediscovery

Born — August 18, 1938; Died — July 5, 1977; Reborn — September 19, 1986. This is not an incredible ghost or reincarnation story that one might see in the National Enquirer. It is, however, the incredible story of the renovation and eventual reopening of the F. M. Kirby Center for the Performing Arts. It is a story of the dedication and commitment involved in revitalizing an historical monument in the Wyoming Valley community.

The Center, originally named the Comerford Theater, and later the Paramount Theater, is more than an impressive example of art deco design. The building represents not only the realization of a great financial and physical effort, but, more importantly, a renewed sense of community and progress in the Wilkes-Barre area.

The history of the theater dates back to late August/early September 1937 when construction on the theater's foundation began. Two hundred thousand dollars later on August 18, 1938, the Comerford Theater opened as a movie house with screenings of "Alexander's Ragtime Band." On July 2, 1949, the Penn-Paramount Corporation purchased the property from the Comerford-Publix Corporation, renaming the theater, The Paramount. The ownership of the property changed hands at least two more times, and on July 5, 1977, The Paramount presented "The Farmer" as its last regularly scheduled motion-picture feature.

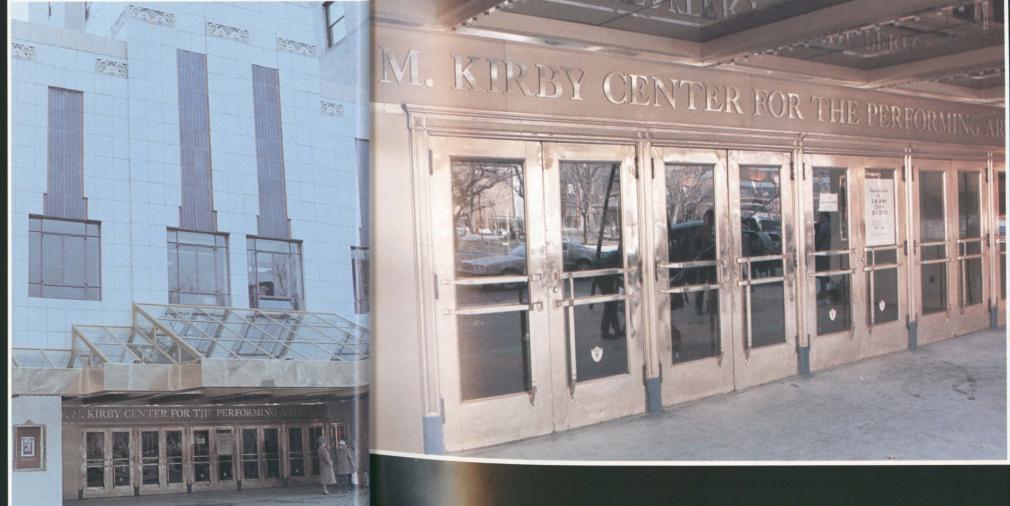

The drive to revitalize the dilapidated theater into a new civic center is attributed in part to Al Boscov, the owner of the Boscov's department stores. Boscov saw a lack of spirit in the Wilkes-Barre area, as well as a negative self-image and low sense of pride.

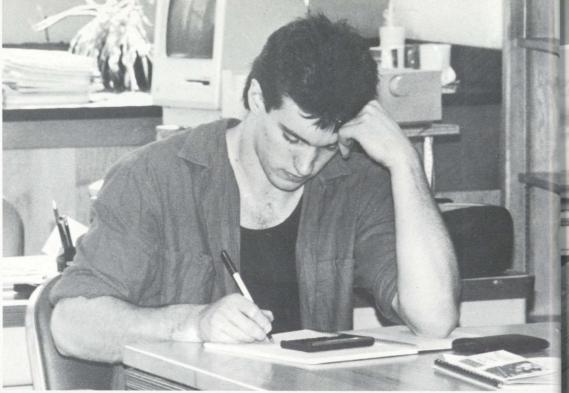

A non-profit group led by Boscov bought the property for $275,000 and officially announced the Paramount Civic Center project. The renovations were completed within nine months of the start of the project. The final cost was $3.9 million, $2.7 million above the original estimated cost.

Funding for the renovations was truly the result of a community effort. Over $3 million was pledged by area businesses and individuals. On August 29, 1986, the Paramount Civic Center was dedicated and renamed The F. M. Kirby Center for the Performing Arts, in honor of the largest pledge, offered by Wilkes-Barre native Fred Morgan Kirby II, who sponsored the pledge in honor of his grandfather, Fred M. Kirby. The official grand opening of the Center was celebrated on September 19, 1986, with a variety of entertainers and speakers.

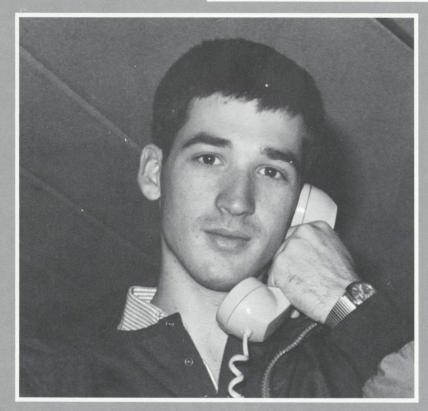

... And so the Center lives on. The Kirby Center, a first-class cultural center, has become a sign of progress and development in the area, evidenced by an influx of downtown businesses, that has enhanced the quality of life here. But most importantly, the F. M. Kirby Center for the Performing Arts represents and symbolizes a sense of pride and community that makes up the heart of the Wyoming Valley.

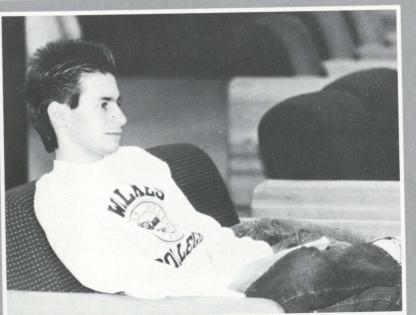

Could a greater miracle take place than for us to look through each other's eyes for an instant?

A human being is a part of the whole, called by us "Universe," a part limited in time and space. He experiences himself, his thoughts and feelings as something separated from the rest — a kind of optical illusion of his consciousness. This delusion is a kind of prison for us, restricting us to our personal desires and to affection for a few persons nearest to us. Our task must be to free ourselves from this prison by widening our circle of compassion to embrace all living creatures and the whole of nature in its beauty. Nobody is able to achieve this completely, but the striving for such achievement is in itself a part of the liberation and a foundation for inner security.

The Individual and The Community

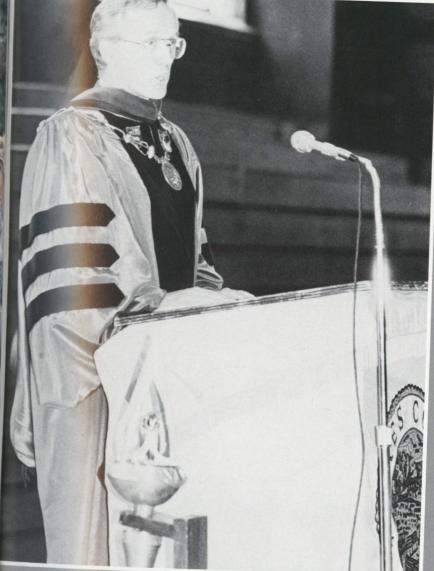

On Thursday, August 28, 1986, the College community was called into Convocation to open the fifty fourth academic year. The Freshman Class, along with faculty and administrators, proceeded to the gymnasium, where President Breiseth gave his address urging students to make Wilkes their home, and to treat the College and its residents with the respect one affords a home and family. President Breiseth closed by saying, "We need to learn to stand on our own feet but also to work together to perpetuate our common inheritance and secure the future for our children and our children's children."

Great Beginnings

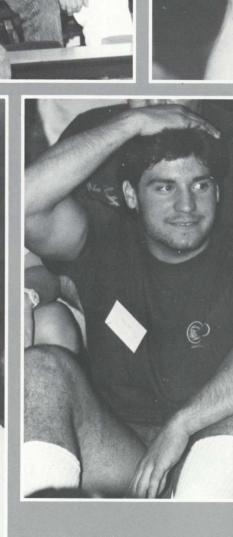

This year's Freshman Orientation was held over three weekends in June and July. All freshmen, whether they were registered as residents or commuters, lived in the residence halls during orientation. Orientation weekend was a mix of fun and work—the freshman had a talent show and a dance, but they also met with their advisors and registered for the fall semester. Sue Storz, a sophomore Math major, was the chairperson of this year's freshman orientation.

Sparks Fly

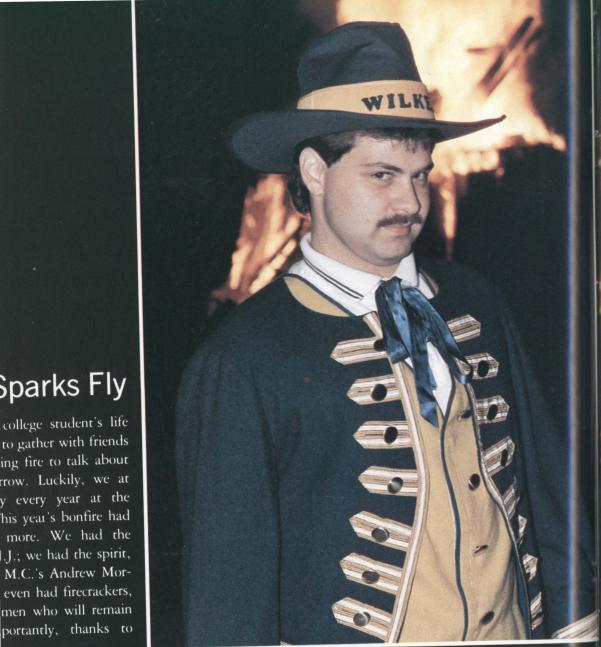

There are times in every college student's life when he or she feels the need to gather with friends old and new around a crackling fire to talk about yesterday, today, and tomorrow. Luckily, we at Wilkes get this opportunity every year at the Homecoming Bonfire. This year's bonfire had everything we needed and more. We had the crackling fire, thanks to DJ J.J.; we had the spirit, thanks to Dean Ralston and M.C.'s Andrew Morrell and Tara Haas; and, we even had firecrackers, thanks to some nice young men who will remain anonymous. But most importantly, thanks to everyone, we had a great time.

Halloween 1986 — it will be remembered by many as the day that seven students from a college in Northeastern PA, which rests on the banks of a river whose name begins with the letter "S" and which shares part of its name with the town in which it is located, were supposed to die, as reported by a psychic on "The Tonight Show." At Wilkes, however, many of us "laughed in the face of death" as we tricked and treated at the Halloween Gym Party , sponsored by CC/IRHC. Brave-hearted souls donned their Halloween duds to rock the night away with "Stranger," preferring to ignore the mask of death thrust upon the campus.

Wilkes was taken by storm rather quietly one rainy October evening, as the Programming Board presented The Quiet Riot, a group of mimes from the Philadelphia area. During their short visit to the CPA, The Quiet Riot provided us with a glimpse of the world of silent comedy — from a tale about a doomed island village to an amusing mock wedding, with members of the audience as participants.

Barry Drake

This year is without a doubt the year of the coffeehouse connection. What is the coffeehouse connection? Well, it is a bond that connects us with other college campuses across the country, a bond that is enhanced by the warm atmosphere of coffeehouse entertainment. Barry Drake and Mike Woods were only two of the coffeehouse performers who visited us this year, but they each left us with their own unique impressions.

Barry Drake performed on Parents' Day before a large crowd of students and an assortment of parents; his performance was nothing less than phenomenal. Like all good performers, Drake had a knack for reading his audience. Among his songs were "Here, There, and Everywhere," "The Saint of South Poughkeepsie," "Me and Julio," "Who Do You Love?," and an original composition called, "Grandma's Hands."

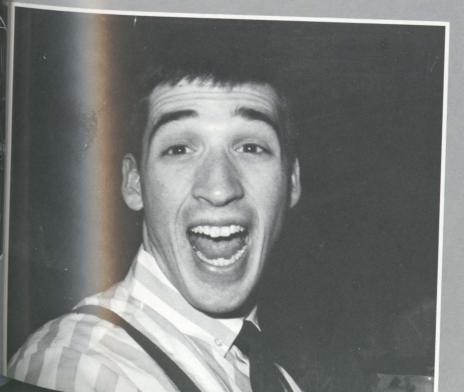

Sal, wouldn't you say that's quite a head Kevin has there?

Chris and Sue — now here's a happy couple!

Mike Woods' daytime coffeehouse featured songs such as, "Moon Shadow," "Heart of Gold," and "The Day the Music Died." Woods played during lunchtime before a full house at the Student Center.

Skeptics read on . . .

On Friday, September 26, the Programming Board presented hypnotist and ESP expert Eugene Neal a/k/a "The Astonishing Neal." Neal strutted his stuff in a marathon 4-hour performance in a packed CPA. The first half of Neal's show convinced us that ESP is a reality, as we all learned the dark secret of Millie's blind dog. And in the show's second half, Neal merely confirmed what we already suspected — Keith's real name is Sal, and he's quite a gal! We would have to say, after all of this, that Neal's performance was, of course, astonishing.

During the weekend of November 15, a 24-hour vigil was held on Wilkes-Barre's Public Square to honor local POW/MIA's of the Vietnam War. Wilkes College's ROTC detachment organized the vigil. The vigil began Saturday evening with a candlelight march. Sunday at noon, 118 black and white balloons were released to symbolize the POW/MIA's from Pennsylvania. Seven red balloons were also set free to represent those missing from Luzerne County. Mike Balach, a Vietnam veteran from Dallas, stayed in a bamboo cage on Public Square throughout the vigil.

... all our knowledge has been built up communally; there would be no astrophysics, there would be no history, there would not even be language, if man were a solitary animal. It follows that we must be able to rely on other people; we must be able to trust their word. That is, it follows that there is a principle which binds society together, because without it the individual would be helpless to tell the truth from the false. This principle is truthfulness.

STUDENT CENTER BOARD

WCLH

We do not exist for ourselves (as center of the universe), and it is only when we are fully convinced of this fact that we begin to love ourselves properly and thus also love others. What do I mean by loving ourselves properly? I mean, first of all, desiring to live, accepting life as a very great gift and a great good, not because of what it gives us, but because of what it enables us to give others.

An Evening With Dave Binder

They billed it "Fire and Rain: An Evening of James Taylor," and when The Programming Board presented Dave Binder as part of their No R.S.V.P. coffeehouse series, it was like a visit from Sweet Baby James himself. Binder performed old favorites, like "You've Got A Friend" and "Steamroller," as well as new songs, like "That's Why I'm Here."

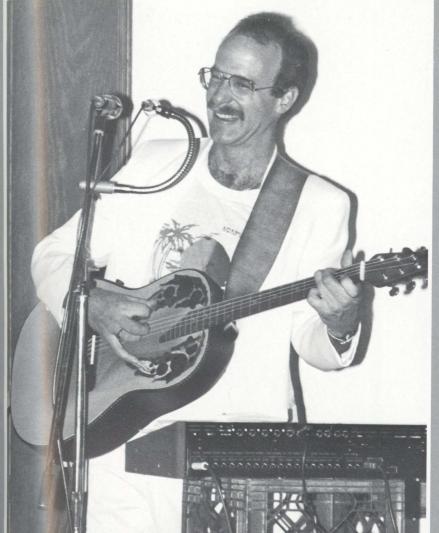

A Manuscript Christmas

On Sunday, December 7, 1986, The Manuscript Society, in conjunction with The Fine Arts Association, presented a Christmas poetry reading and student art exhibit in the Evans Hall Art Gallery. Friends and families gathered together to hear readings, such as "A Child's Christmas in Wales" by Dylan Thomas, and to view artwork, such as "Charlene," a charcoal drawing on tinted paper, by MarKay Nocera. An open buffet, featuring sandwiches, vegetables and dips, beverages, and desserts was enjoyed by guests.

The Winter Games At Ralston: 1987

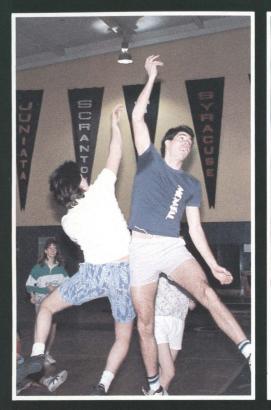

It wasn't the Olympics, but it was the closest thing to it that Ralston Field will ever see. The spirit of the Games — the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat — shone through, making it a most memorable weekend.

Winter Weekend Wiggling

Music lovers found that the highlight of Winter Weekend was the Saturday night gym dance, with "The Press." Winter Weekend teams participated in a dance contest. Some contestants slam-danced while others stripped to the beat, and everyone had a great time.

It's not fortune or fame or world acclaim
That makes for true greatness,
... It's the wonderful art
of teaching the heart
To always be thoughtful and kind!

"Coming Out" . . .

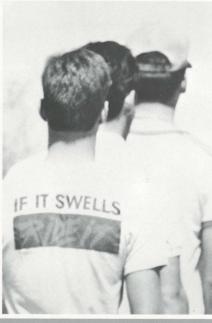

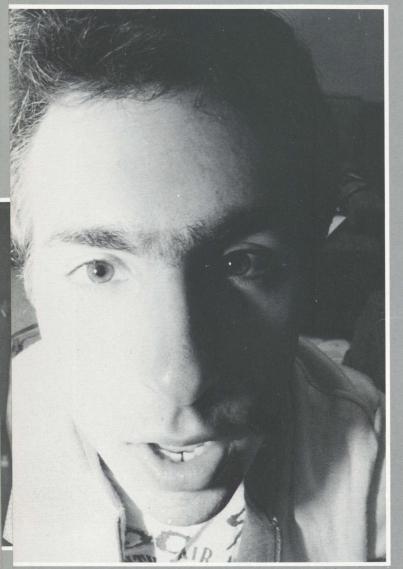

... and Having a Good Time

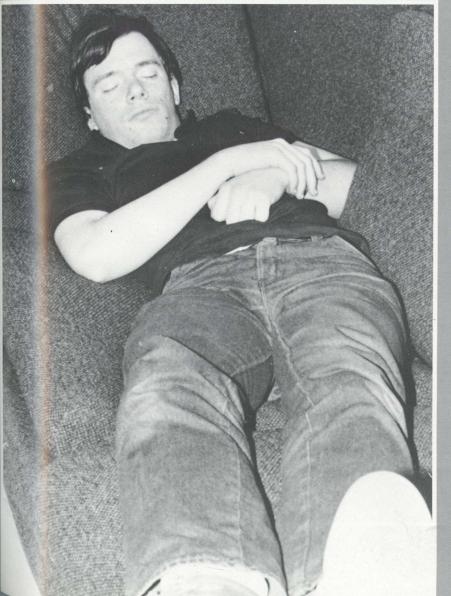

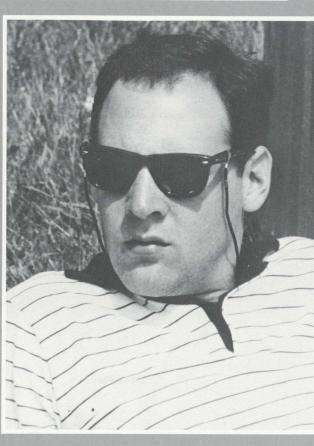

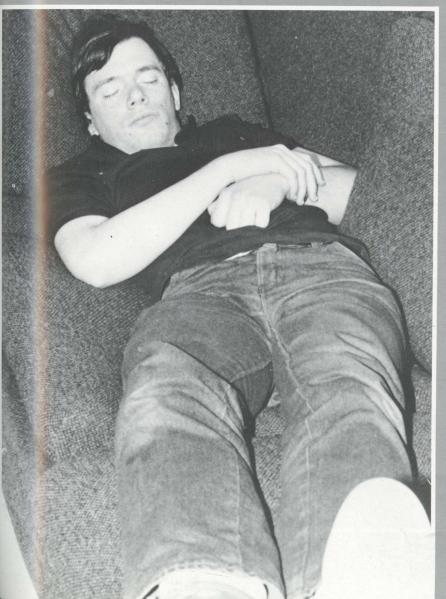

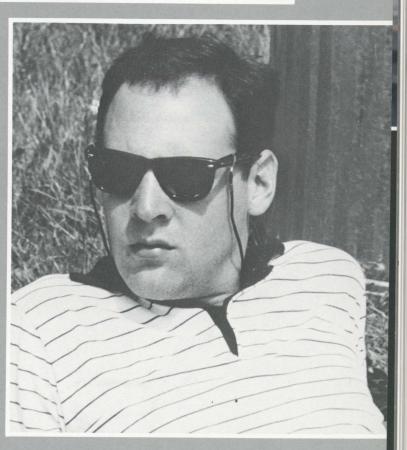

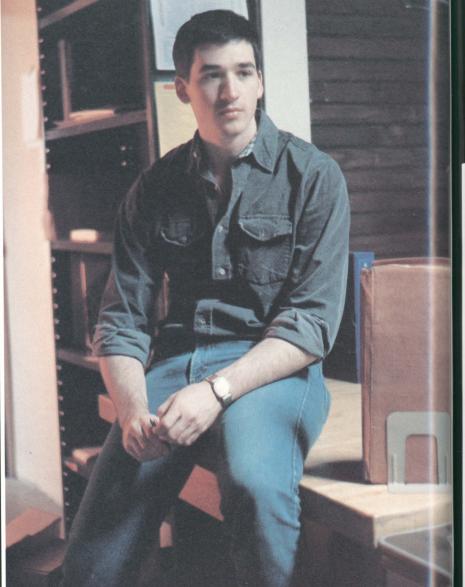

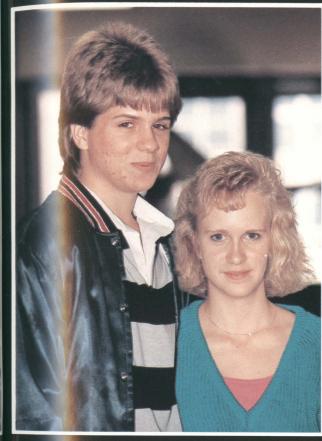

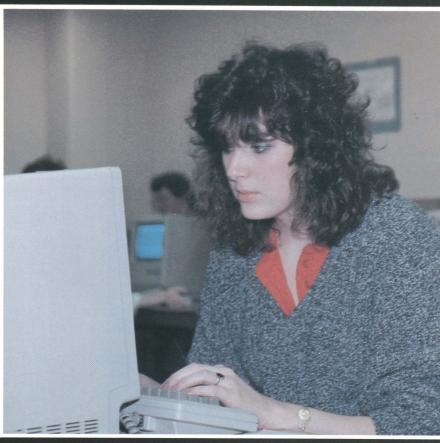

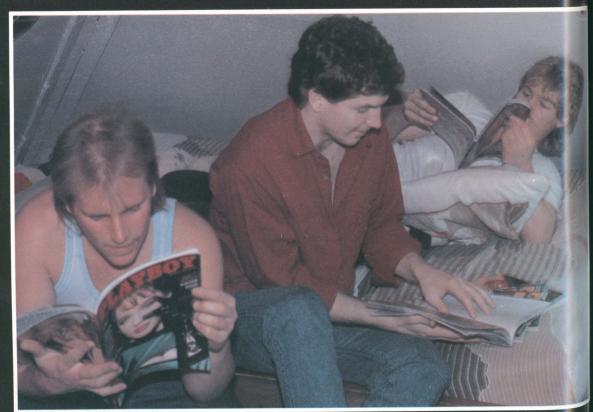

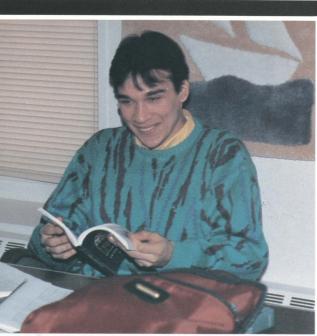

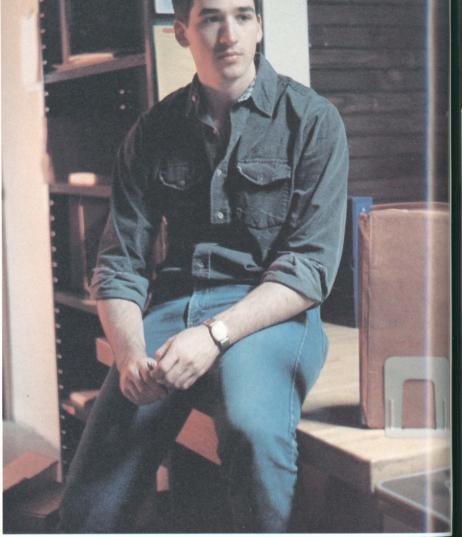

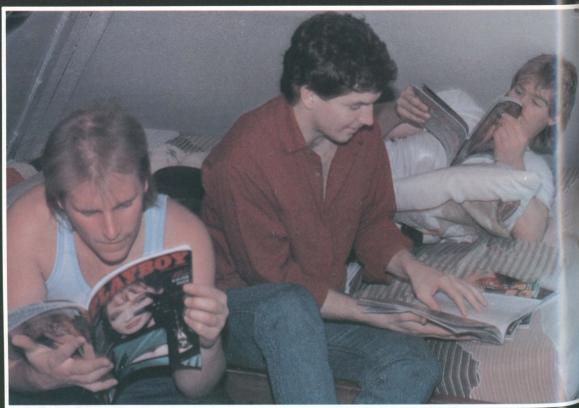

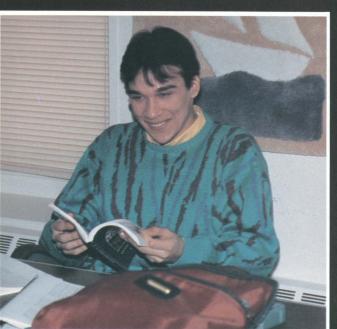

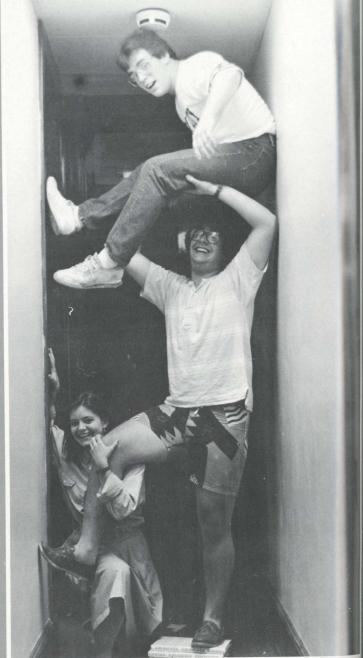

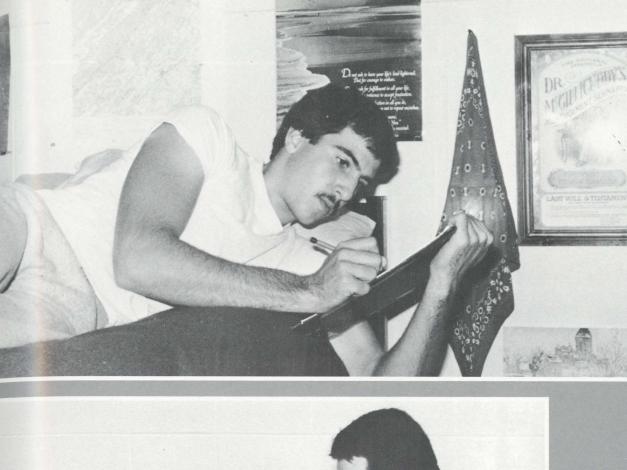

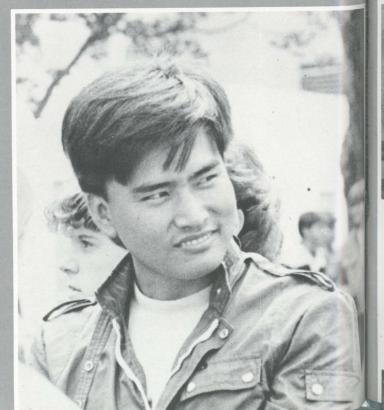

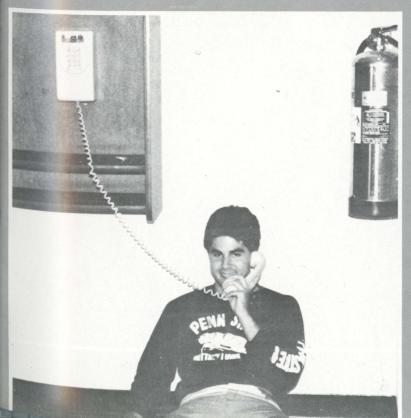

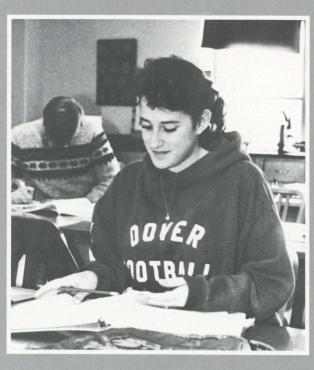

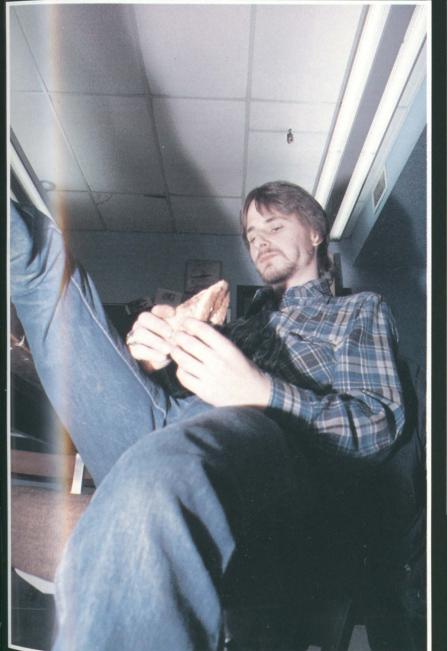

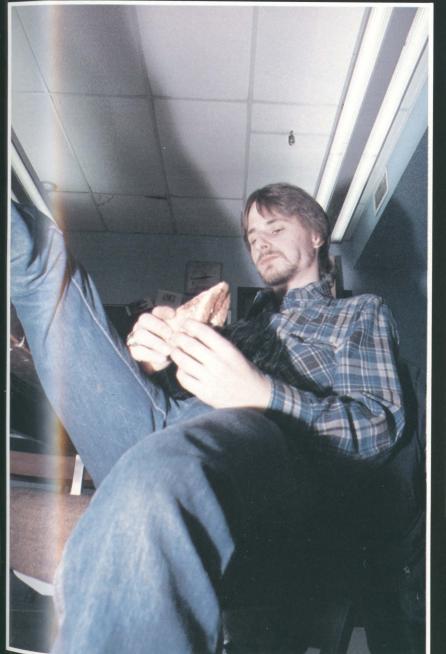

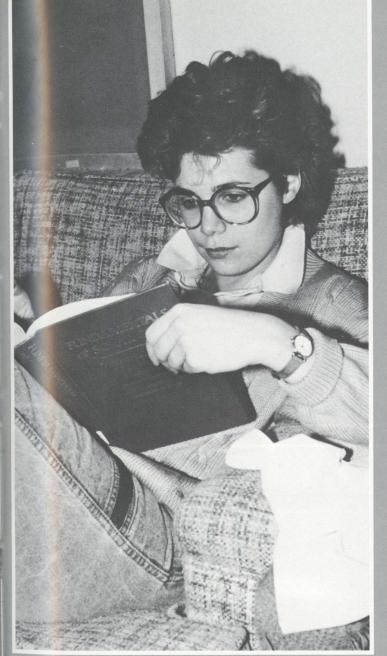

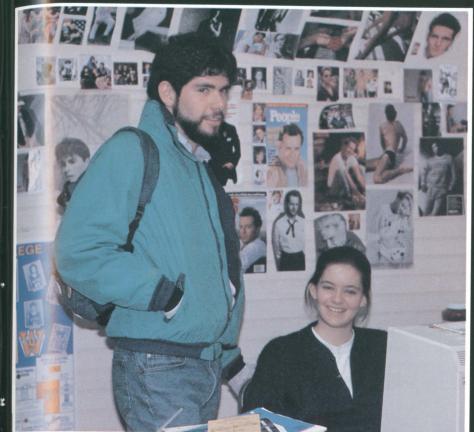

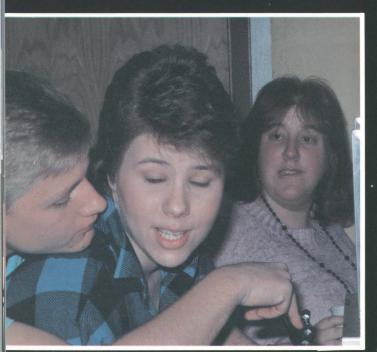

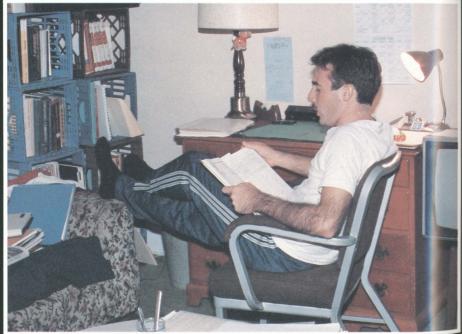

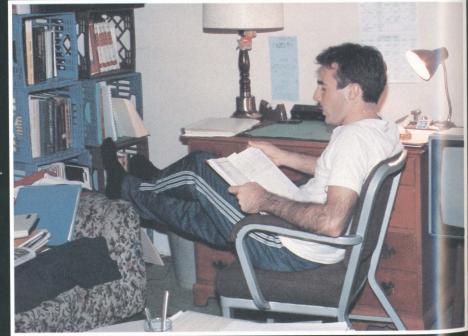

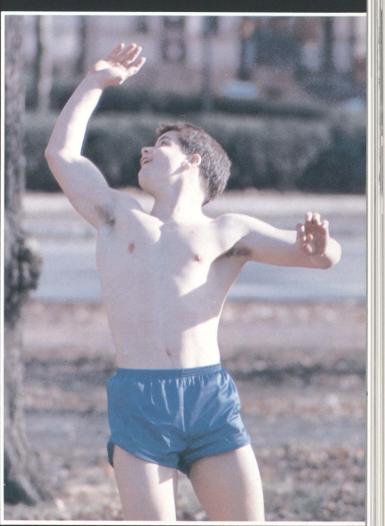

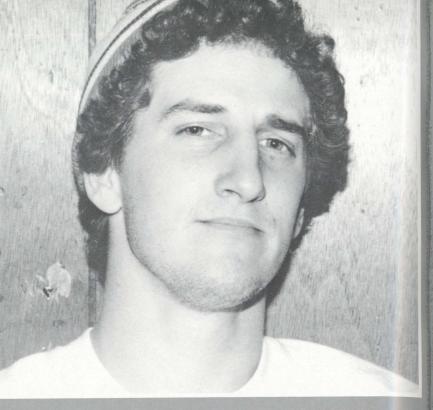

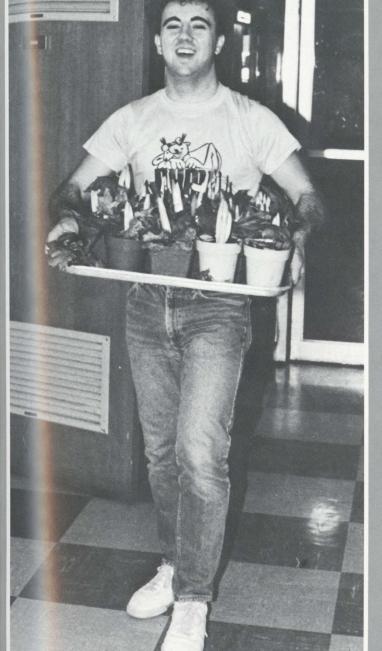

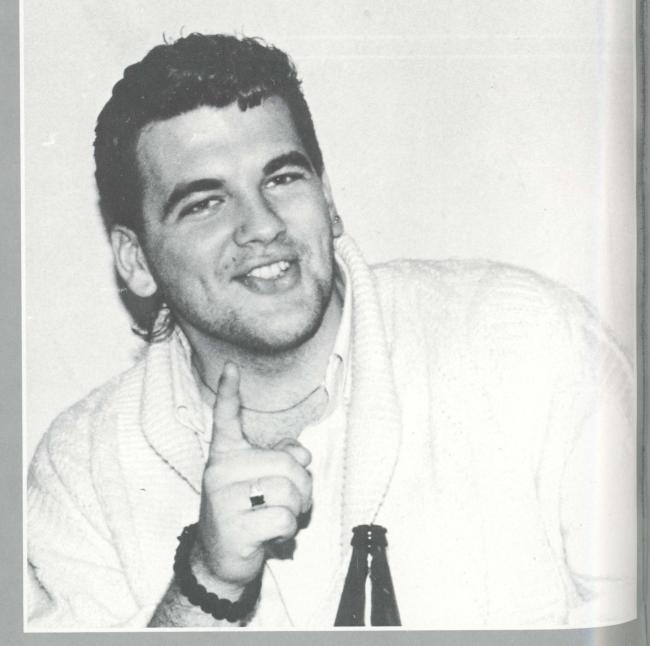

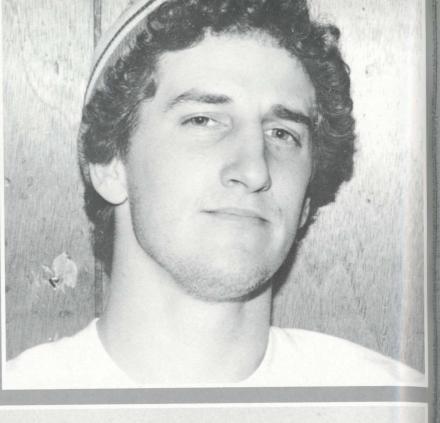

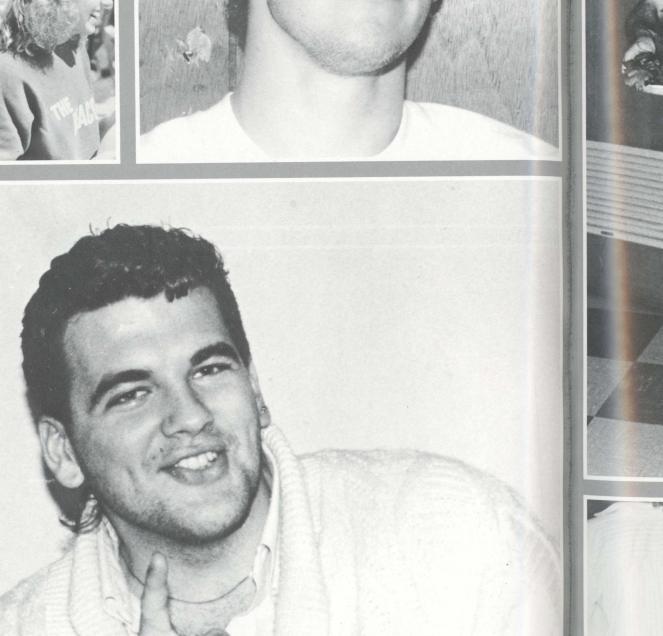

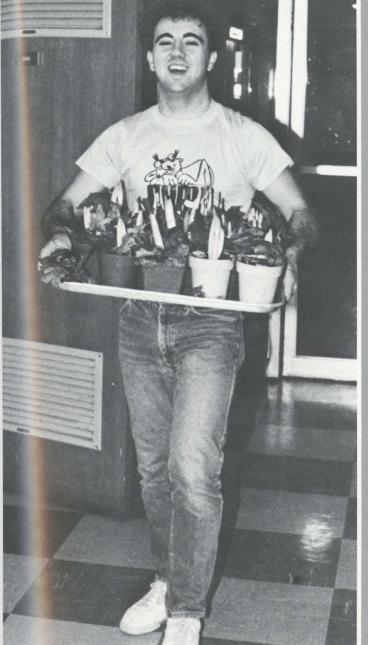

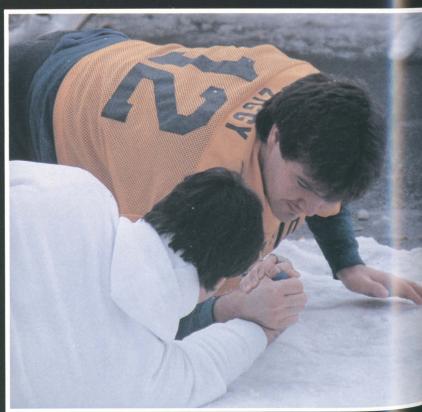

Down how many roads among the stars must man propel himself in search of the final secret? The journey is difficult, immense, at times impossible, yet that will not deter some of us from attempting it. . . . We have joined the caravan, you might say, at a certain point; we will travel as far as we can, but we cannot in one lifetime see all that we would like to see or learn all that we hunger to know.

We have so little faith in the ebb and flow of life, of love, of relationships. We leap at the flow of the tide and resist in terror its ebb. We are afraid it will never return. We insist on permanency, on duration, on continuity, when the only continuity possible, in life as in love, is in growth, in fluidity — in freedom.

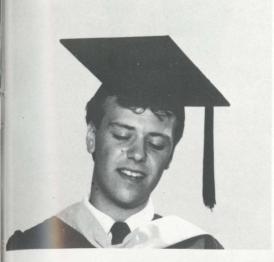

— Anne Morrow Lindbergh

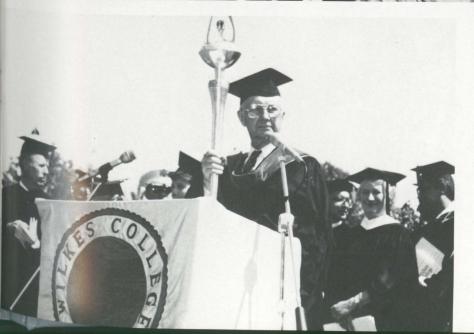

Graduation 1987

S COL

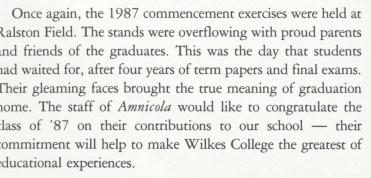

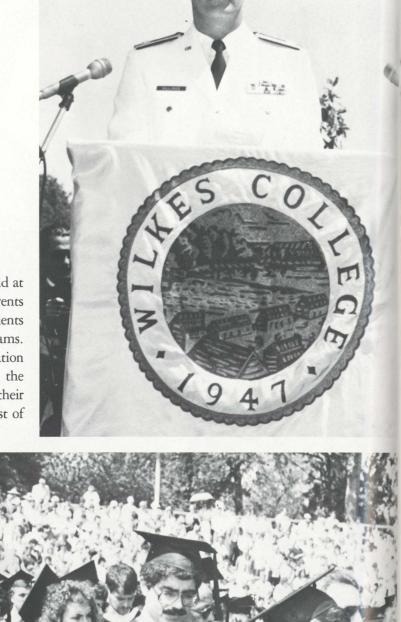

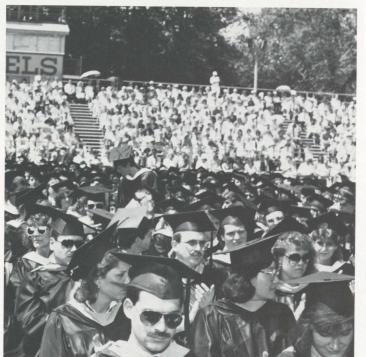

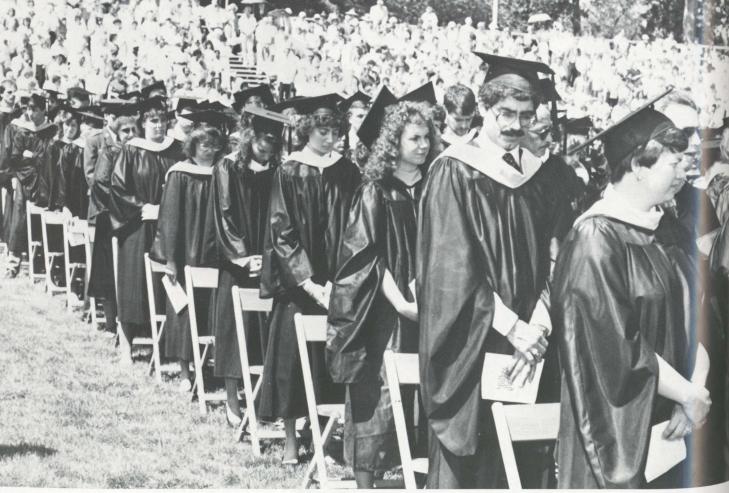

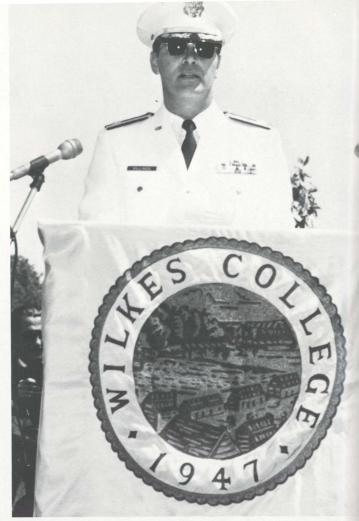

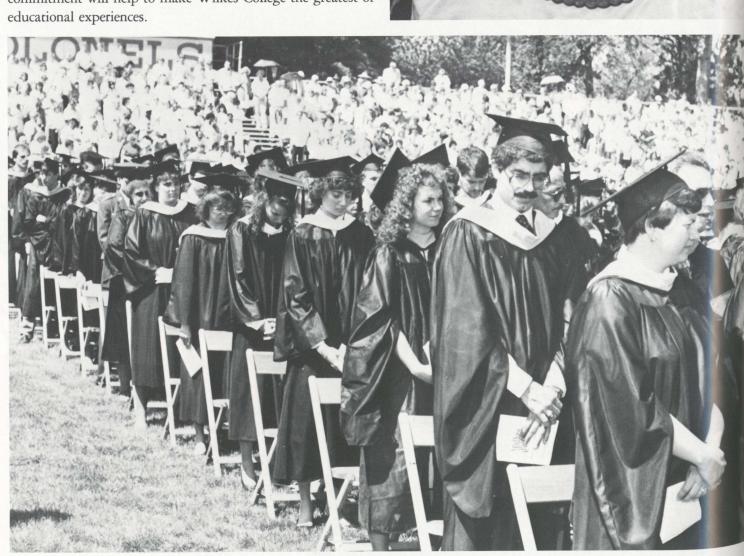

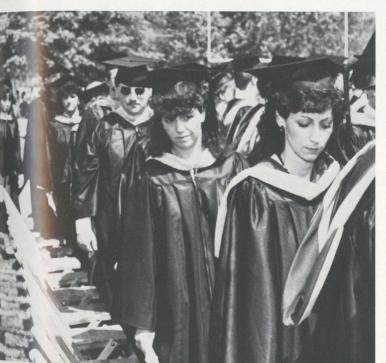

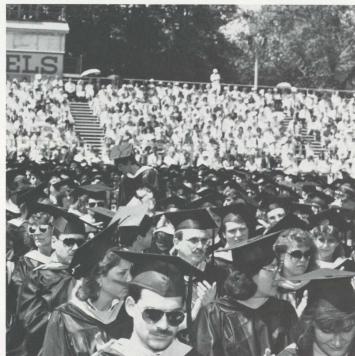

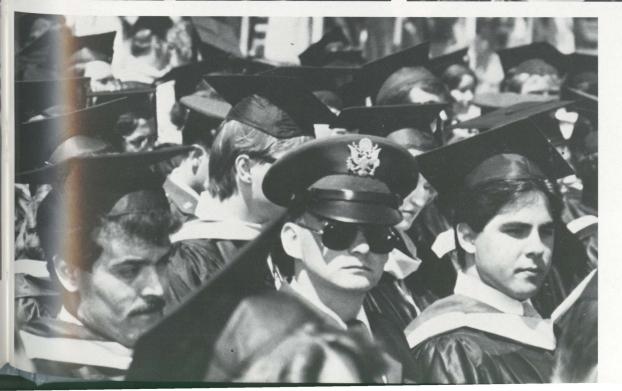

Once again, the 1987 commencement exercises were held at Ralston Field. The stands were overflowing with proud parents and friends of the graduates. This was the day that students had waited for, after four years of term papers and final exams. Their gleaming faces brought the true meaning of graduation home. The staff of Amnicola would like to congratulate the class of '87 on their contributions to our school — their commitment will help to make Wilkes College the greatest of educational experiences.
