NEW FRESHMEN ENTER

DR. FARLEY SPEAKS AT ASSEMBLY

"It is important that those fortunate enough to be able to go to college in these days give thought to the goals they wish to attain in their college work," Dr. Eugene S. Farley warned the students of Bucknell University Junior College when he addressed them at assembly on Monday, October 30.

"The future of the world depends on young men and women of your generation. Those of the older generation took for granted things that the founders of these United States fought to attain: freedom, decency and toleration. As soon as such things are taken for granted they are lost."

Dr. Farley cautioned the students that not victory, but merely the right to continue the struggle for decency, freedom, and toleration, will be won on the battle field.

"The same thing can happen here that happened in both Germany and Italy, unless we are on the guard constantly. We must stop being complacent and realize that risks are necessary to maintain decency in either city or nation. It is not enough to stand for decency, freedom, and toleration; we must get out and do something about it," he said.

"We help our fight for this decency, freedom, and toleration which I talk about," the speaker continued, "by the way in which we conduct our daily lives. Cultivate within yourself, within your neighbors that spirit which will make for decent living. Remember that hatred is self-consuming and self-destroying. Hate is a worse disease than either tuberculosis or cancer, for it destroys human personality and spirit. If these are destroyed, we cannot live lives based on the fine ideals of either the Christian or Jewish faiths."

Dr. Farley told the students the technical and mechanical developments of recent years are not nearly so necessary as is the ability of peoples to learn to live together. "Scientists in their discoveries attempt to contribute to the welfare of the people—but their discoveries are now used to destroy," he said. "Perspective and vision are needed to render service to people, nations, and the world."

"Education is not for the improvement of self alone, not so that we may be able to go out and earn more money, but so that each man does a better job and

Mr. Henry Steinman

Mr. Steinman, a former resident of Massachusetts, has come to Bucknell this fall to teach Chemistry. He is a graduate of Drexel University of Technology in Chemical Engineering. Although he is formerly from Massachusetts, he has spent most of his time as a student in Philadelphia where he excelled in Chemistry and Mathematics. He has had some Industrial Experience and has done some extensive research for the Hercules Powder Company of Wilmington and the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia. Recently he has been teaching the A. S. T. P. at Drexel.

Mr. Steinmann is very fascinated with Organic Chemistry as well as golf, swimming, and mathematics. He likes Bucknell very much and prefers it to other larger colleges because he feels there is a great opportunity for students to be in a closer collaboration with the faculty.

Movie Party Planned

The first of the fall semester's movie parties will be held Friday night, November 3, at Chase Theatre. Chairman of the refreshments committee is Irene Sieminski, assisted by Louise Saba, Pat Steele, and Robert Boyd. Robert Boyd is also in charge of the projector; he is assisted by Bill Perneski.

so will lead to the improvement of many."

Helen Louise Bitler, sophomore, sang two solos: the "Seguidilla" from Bizet's "Carmen" and "The Wind Speaks" by Grant-Schaefer.

Helen Trojan—"Do you like fellows with blue eyes?"

Helen Baron—"The eyes don't matter as long as they have green backs."

NEW ADDITIONS TO FACULTY

The following are new additions to the faculty of Bucknell University Junior College.

Mr. Leon Rokosz was born in Nanticoke and is a graduate of Nanticoke High School. He was graduated from Bucknell University and the University of Pennsylvania. He has received the A. B. and LL.B. degrees. He is now practicing law in Wilkes-Barre and Nanticoke. He is teaching commercial law at Bucknell.

Miss Dominguez is a graduate of Temple and Columbia Universities where she received her A. B. Degree. For the past two years she has held the position of psychologist at the Children's Service Center where she has been doing practical work with children. At the Nemological institute she gave some basic psychology courses to the nurses. Miss Dominguez has been following Bucknell in its campaign to raise an endowment fund for the purpose of making B. U. J. C. a four-year college and is sure she will enjoy teaching psychology to Bucknell students.

Mr. Paul Werner, a resident of Forty Fort and a teacher in Forty Fort High School since 1929, has come to Bucknell Junior College to teach accounting at night. Before coming to Forty Fort, Mr. Werner taught at Renova High School, Clinton County. He received his B. S. at Susquehanna and later his M. A. at New York University.

Rev. Carl J. Schindler, who is teaching philosophy at B. U. J. C., attended University of Berlin and graduated from Lutheran Seminary, Philadelphia. Mr. Schindler, who has his B. A. and his M. A. in theology, also did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania. He was the Chaplain at Retreat for a number of years, and then became pastor of St. Paul's Church, Wilkes-Barre.

Mr. May Taken Ill

The "Beacon" is very sorry to report that Dr. George May is undergoing treatment at the Starling Loring Hospital, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio. Dr. May taught chemistry at Bucknell Junior College until the end of the summer session this year.

Dr. Joseph Schumaker

On of the new additions to the Bucknell Junior College faculty is Dr. Joseph Schumaker. He taught at Cedar Crest College. Dr. Schumaker received his B. A. at Otterbein College, Ohio, and his M. A. at Columbia. Continuing his education, he did graduate work in history and government at Columbia. Later he became Doctor of Education with a field of specialization in history and government. Succeeding Dr. Strow, he will teach classes in sociology and economics.

Dr. Schumaker has a son in the Medical Corps serving overseas. He also has three daughters; one is in the Naval Nurse Corps stationed at Naval Hospital, Philadelphia; another is a student at Ursinus; the third is a junior in high school and lives in Allentown with Mrs. Schumaker.

Roll Of Honor

Bucknell University Junior College boys reported killed, wounded, or missing in action include the following:

Lt. Ellis G. Heath—AAF, killed in Southern France on August 23, 1944. He was in the very first Air Corps group stationed at the Junior College.

Staff Sgt. Andre B. Kerr—radioman on a B-17 bomber, reported missing in action over Germany since October 2, 1944.

Lt. John McDade—AAF, reported missing in action over Germany.

Pvt. John R. Novak—reported slightly wounded in Holland on October 2.

Lt. Dominick Mora—AAF bombardier; killed in a plane crash in Louisiana. Lt. Mora was also in the very first group of Cadets stationed at the Junior College.

Capt. Francis P. Ford; killed in action in France on October 8.

FRESHMEN HAVE ORIENTATION PROGRAM

Bucknell University Junior College began its first semester of 1944-1945 on the morning of October 23 when the incoming freshmen met in Chase Theatre for opening assembly.

Dr. Eugene Farley spoke briefly to the students, telling them of the aims of the college, and of the desire of members of the faculty to work closely with each student.

Registration and interviews between students and faculty advisors were held during the morning, after which placement tests were carried on.

In the afternoon the students enjoyed a reception held by the faculty and members of Student Council. Sophie Glowacki was chairman and was assisted by Edith Miller, Louise Saba, Shirley Stookey, Irene Sieminski, Jean Withey, Patricia Steele, Gertrude Nemshick, Ruth Douglass, Robert Lehet, and Gifford Cappellini. Helen Bitler poured.

Although Monday was the opening day for all freshmen, the young women living in the girls' dormitory, Weckesser Hall, came Sunday afternoon. A buffet supper was enjoyed, at which time Miss Norma Sanguiliano, dean of women, acted as hostess.

On Tuesday, October 24, regular classes of the college began. On Tuesday afternoon a series of talks, constituting the Orientation Program, started. Through this program, the new students were made to feel at home and become quickly accustomed to college life.

On Friday afternoon the chiefs of the various college activities spoke to the freshmen. Gifford Cappellini spoke about the Student Council; Helen Davidson, the Thespians; Helen Bitler, the Choral Club; Jeanne Kocyan, the Beacon; Ruth Young, the Pre-Med Club; Elmer Herskowitz, Student Federalists; and Dr. Robert L. Nicholson talked about the proposed International Relations Club.

It is hoped that all the new freshmen will join in one or more of these activities, so necessary to the full enjoyment of college life.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

When all the students crowded into the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church for first assembly, we felt glad and proud . . . glad to see our old friends, and proud to welcome so many new ones.

We sophomores and upper freshmen know what there is in store for us by way of social affairs. For the benefit of the many new students, we would like to roughly sketch the coming events.

As we look into our crystal ball, we see dances, teas, interesting speakers, movie parties, a promise of boys' basketball which means new cheers and cheer leaders. And we see opening nights of Thespian productions, treasure hunts, smokers and other novelty affairs.

For the politically minded, there is the Student Federalist Club; the approaching International Relations Club convention at Marywood College; and earnest, off-the-record discussions with Dr. Nicholson.

And for the medically minded, there are interesting labs, fascinating field trips to hospitals, speakers and etc.

All this listing of extra-curricular activities ties in with what Dr. Farley said at assembly. College isn't all play . . . nor is it all work. A due proportion of each makes for a fuller college life. We urge eager participation by the student in those fields in which he is most interested. This coupled with an enthusiastic support of other activities will make this college year the best ever.

WECKESSER HALL

Bucknell University Junior College can justly feel proud of its first dormitory, Weckesser Hall. There are several reasons why. First and foremost, is the fact that the college has at last passed out of the experimental stage. It is throwing out roots and thus becoming a permanent institution in this valley. Second, the dormitory gives the school solidity. By transforming it from a day-school into a residential-school, the dormitory seems to make the college stronger and more fixed. Then again, the college has enlarged the area from which it draws its student power. Without a doubt, this should greatly increase the popularity of the college and promote more rapid growth.

The house itself is an artistic asset to the college campus. It has been redecorated and refurnished into a delightful dormitory, and through it pervades a homelike atmosphere.

The hall, given to the Junior College by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Weckesser in 1938, was first used as a home for Director Eugene S. Farley and later, when the Army Air Corps was stationed here, it became the Corps Headquarters.

Thus, the drive to make Bucknell Junior College into an independent four-year college has borne fruit. This is but the beginning of outside contact which will strengthen the college's drive toward its goal.

Report On Convention

Evelyn Feinstein and Johanna Yendrick, the two upper sophomores who represented Bucknell University Junior College at the Student Federalist Convention in Chicago, returned with a complete report of their trip.

They left Wilkes-Barre by train on Wednesday night, September 26, and arrived in Chicago Thursday evening at about six o'clock.

Since they were a day late, they missed the opening speech of the Honorable Mr. Ball, the well known Senator from Minnesota. But on the next day, Friday, they had the pleasure of hearing Clarence Streit, the man whose book "Union Now" spurred the formation of the Federal Unionists, of which the Student Federalists are a younger edition. Other speakers were Pvt. Harris Wofford, founder of the Student Federalists who obtained a special furlough to attend this convention, and Jack Nichols, Vice President of the T. W. A. Airlines. They also attended the first meeting of the Student Federalists. Miss Feinstein was appointed to the newspaper committee, and Miss Yendrick was selected to act upon the Polls and Petitions Committee with the Adult Federalists. Bucknell is proud of its representation on such important committees.

At the next meeting on Saturday afternoon, the reorganization of the Student Federalist paper was begun. A new policy was adopted, and Miss Doris Meade of Washington, D. C., was chosen editor.

At this same meeting, a table of organization for the entire country was set up, in order to facilitate the directing of Student Federalist activities.

In addition to the regular meetings, they attended a joint banquet given by the Adult Federalists and the Student Federalists. Speakers at the banquet included such notables as Stringfellow Barr, well-known educator and President of St. John's College; Dr. Colegrove, Professor of Political Science at Northwestern University and author of the book, "The American Senate and World Peace"; and Senator Claude Pepper. Both delegates had the extreme good fortune of meeting all three of these notables . . . and have since walked about in a state of constant glow. They were especially impressed by their meeting with Dr. Colegrove, who chatted with them about the Student Federalists.

Sunday marked the end of the convention. It was a great day for Student Federalists, for Harris Wofford's six-year plan of action was adopted by the Adult Federalists. This plan deals with the education of the people concerning the aims and policies of Federal Union and with the means of accomplishing this purpose.

Bucknell takes particular pride in the fact that Elmer Hershkowitz, president of the Student Federalist Club at B. U. J. C., was elected to the Board of Directors.

That completes the business end of the convention. Miss Feinstein and Miss Yendrick met students from schools and colleges all over the country. They exchanged ideas with students

College To Have Basketball Team

No doubt you have heard rumors for the last month or so stating that the college was going to have a basketball team. The deep mystery regarding this topic has been solved. It has been officially announced that Bucknell University Junior College will have a basketball team this winter. The team will be coached by our Director, Dr. Eugene S. Farley.

Here is a splendid opportunity for some of you to go out and represent your school. Don't say "Oh I don't have a chance to make the team." You do, and after all there is no harm in trying. So, try out for the team and do your best.

Although the schedule has not been decided upon, you may be sure that our boys will meet some tough and experienced opposition. As you know, if a team has a loyal band of supporters to back it up, it can and will make a much better showing. So, each and every one attend every game and cheer your team to Victory!

Beta Gamma Chi Election Held

Elections were held last week by the girls of Beta Gamma Chi. Edith Miller was elected president; Sophie Glowacki, vice-president; and Pauline Lastowski, secretary.

It was agreed that a treasury be formed and that each girl should contribute 25c. Vice-president Glowacki was nominated treasurer.

Going through the minutes of years back, it was discovered that there had been a house committee whose duty it was to keep the girls' lounge clean. The girls decided to have one again this fall. The committee will be chosen by the president, and the membership will be rotated among the girls of Beta Gamma Chi.

Lehet President Of Thespians

At its first meeting of the new year, on Tuesday, October 31, the Thespian Dramatic Society of Bucknell University Junior College, conducted election of officers for the coming semester.

At this meeting the officers elected were:

President—Robert Lehet.
 Vice-president—Helen Louise Bitler.
 Secretary—Gloria Boguszewski.
 Historian—Louise Saba.
 Student Council Representative—Helen Davidson.

Other members of the organization present at this meeting were: Dorothy Bialogowicz, Florence Jones, Evelyn Feinstein, Sophie Glowacki, and Johanna Yendrick.

from Montana to Florida. In addition to which they had a wonderful time sight-seeing and checking up on the Chicago as expounded by Professor Nicholson.

Miss Feinstein and Miss Yendrick informed us that another National Convention is being planned some time in April . . . and after hearing their story we are looking forward to attending one ourselves.

I. R. C. Proposed For College

Dr. Robert L. Nicholson has proposed an International Relations Club for the college. The club was proposed last year, but was discontinued because of lack of interest on the students' part and because of the inability to get speakers.

Previously, Dr. Gage had organized an International Relations Club in 1937. This club was sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation on the condition that members study and discuss world affairs from an unprejudiced point of view. The purpose of the Foundation in undertaking the work was to fix the attention of students on underlying principles of international conduct and thus to promote a peaceful civilization. The club was reorganized in 1940 and existed until 1942.

On November 16, 17, and 18 Marywood College will play host to the International Relations Clubs of the Middle Atlantic Region at their annual conference. Colleges from Maryland, Delaware, New York, Pennsylvania, the District of Columbia, and Canada will be represented. Registration for the conference will be held on Thursday, November 16, from 4 to 7 P. M. and on Friday from 9 to 10 A. M.

The program for the conference will feature round-table discussions on topics of international interest. Madeline Boback of College Misericordia will present at Round-Table Two a paper on the "Treatment of Satellite Enemy Countries".

The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace which sponsors the IRC will be represented by Amy Hemingway Jones. Miss Jones has done contact work with the clubs throughout the world. She has traveled widely and lived in France, Germany, and the Orient. Miss Jones will preside at the general meeting for discussion of club activity and will be one of the principal speakers.

Mary E. Niland of Marywood is currently president of the region; Kathryn Shurtleff, Marywood, is regional corresponding secretary; and Frank Gerrity of the University of Scranton is regional treasurer.

It is hoped that the Junior College will have formed a club by that time and will be able to send a delegation to the convention.

"Autumn Nocturne"

"Autumn Nocturne", a semi-formal dance, was held at Kirby Hall on Saturday evening, September 30, at the end of the semester. The hall was decorated with cornstalks and pumpkins in keeping with the autumn theme. A large crowd enjoyed dancing to the music supplied by Howard Dinstill's orchestra.

Gifford Cappelini and Robert Perneski, co-chairman, were in charge of the dance. Leonard Stein and Irene Sieninski were co-chairmen of the decoration committee, assisted by Phyllis Smith and Robert Boyd. Louise Saba headed the refreshment committee, assisted by Lorraine Rodgers. Florence Mackiewicz was in charge of the invitation committee, assisted by Patricia (Continued on Page 4)

Around The Discs

Just imagine its 9:13 P. M. some cold, winter night. You trudged home from good ole' B. U. J. C. at approximately 6:00 P. M., had a bite to eat, and finished your nightwork. You're dreadfully tired—but you don't feel the wee bit sleepy—you just want a little relaxation, some real diversion from the daily routine. What to do? You have it! You'll relax with records.

So-ooo you stack about eight records on the Vic, lie down and just listen—(gee, you sure can pick 'em—you put on that new album "Up Swing" with all those smooth numbers and those equally smooth orchestras). Ah, first off comes Tommy Dorsey's "Song of India". If anything puts you in a nice, quiet mood it's that sentimental gent with his soothing trombone. Artie Shaw's "Lady Be Good" is followed by Benny Goodman's "Don't Be That Way" and then—a real oldie of Glenn Miller's—"String of Pearls". Now you're practically completely relaxed but you have to get up and change the records.

When you reach the record cabinet you see four or five new albums. Your sister must have bought them while you were so busy with chem lab and philosophy lectures.

Say, there's Johnny Mercer's new album featuring Johnny himself, Jo Stafford, and the Pied Pipers. And, well, look what's here! Mexican Hayride". You suddenly remember when you saw the show of the same name in New York and this thought brings back all those gay lyrics and lilting tunes of Cole Porter's. You certainly enjoyed that show, didn't you?

Why, here's "Carmen Jones"—a collection of all the songs taken from "Carmen Jones" in turn taken from "Carmen". You'd like to hear that some time but right now you're in the mood for something different—What, for example? Well, Allan Jones singing "The Donkey Serenade" or Stokowski and the Philadelphia orchestra playing "Clair de Lune". But how about one of your favorites—Jascha Heifetz and his violin in the very beautiful "Ave Maria"?

Gee, it's 10:30 at this point and time for people like you with 8:00 o'clocks to retire. But first, you want to hear one of the best murder stories of all time—no, not on the radio, but on records. Shakespeare's famous play "Macbeth" with the original stars right in your own home, Judith Anderson and Maurice Evans. It may be an old story but it's still as great as always.

Don't you think you ought to go to bed, dear?"

That's your mother, of course—ho hum, you are rather sleepy now. Well, goodnight.

Has anyone heard about the little moron who thought he was a magician because he walked around a corner and turned into a drug store?—Long Beach City College "Viking," Long Beach, California.

Activities At Girls' Dorm

On Sunday afternoon, October 22, Weckesser Hall, Bucknell Junior College's new dormitory, welcomed ten new freshmen and three sophomores. Among these were Ellen Badger of Jermyn, Penna.; Jean Dey of Altoona, Penna.; Millicent Gruner of West Palm Beach, Florida; Elizabeth Kreitsburg of Frostburg, Md.; Jean Lampert of Auburn, N. Y.; Mary E. Martin of Montrose, Penna.; Lois Walsh of Stillwater, N. Y.; Rosemary Zukoski of Barnesville, Penna.; Shirley Stookey of Glen Lyon, Penna.; Mildred Orloski, Gloria Boguszewski, and Zosia Glowacki of Nanticoke, Penna.; and Ruth Douglass of Wilkes-Barre, Penna. Miss Norma Sanguilano, acting as Dean of Women, is in charge.

The students had all arrived by five o'clock after which a buffet supper was served by the "House's" cook, Mrs. Jurvis. The rest of the evening was spent getting acquainted and preparing for registration day.

On Monday evening, October 23, a house meeting was held to elect officers and to make plans for dormitory rules and regulations. The officers elected were: president, Shirley Stookey, and social chairman, Jean Lampert.

Tea Held

The sophomore girls of Bucknell Junior College gave a tea Friday, November 3, for the new freshman girls. Mrs. P. G. Stoltz, Acting Dean of Women of Bucknell at Lewisburg, was guest speaker.

Pauline Lastowski is chairman of the affair. Her assistants included Harriet Brown, Ruth Young, Irene Koniecko, Betty Faint, and Ruth Holtzman on the tea committee, and Mildred Legash, Alberta Novick, Anne Donnelly, and Jean Steele on the cleanup committee.

Lost

The "Beacon" has been asked to report that a three-quarter length black velvet wrap, belonging to Sylvia Roth, was taken by mistake at the semester dance, "Autumn Nocturne", held Saturday night, September 30. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of the wrap should notify the "Beacon" staff.

"BUCKNELL RAVEN"

(With all apologies to Mr. Edgar A. Poe)

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered, weak and weary,
Over a poem I had to write,
While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping,
As of someone gently rapping, rapping at my study door.
"Tis my mother," then I muttered, "to console me in this plight."
"Aren't you going to bed tonight?"
Only this, and nothing more.

Ah, distinctly I remember, just one month before November
And with pencil poised I sat there, merely thinking, nothing more.
Eagerly I wished the morrow; vainly I had sought to borrow
Some idea for a poem, one to the Freshmen not a bore,
I had to tell them of our college, a place we love right to the core,
It's deep inside us, evermore.

What could I tell them, what could I say?

Bucknell thrilled me, and it filled me up with fun and knowledge such as never known before,
Just the grand, sincere "Hello" as one enters the lounge door,
But that's not all, there's plenty more.

Did you ever get a feeling, one that set your head a-reeling?

When you looked upon a building
Just a building standing there?
A building like Chase—a happy place
Where so many memories started
The time you were so soft-hearted
When your favorite friends departed
Maybe to see them nevermore?
Fellows who were simply grand,
Girls you came to love, adore
Just say "goodbye"? Nothing more?

Freshmen, it is hard to tell you, what a school can come to mean,
And you develop such a feeling, it sets your very heart a-reeling,
And o'er your mind there'll come a-stealing
Memories of all the fun.

You'll all remember, every one.

Happy hours you've spent in class, or, fellows, when you flirted with that pretty lass,
Dances, corn roasts, kidding 'round, not remembering the lounge without a round.

Just wait, the day will come to pass

When you'll just remember.

You'll remember well that day when first you entered the big Chase door.

Just to hear that school bell bonging
In your heart you'll find a longing
Nameless there, forevermore.

—Ede Miller.

CRACKING THE QUIP

By JACK P. KARNOFSKY

Well! Well! Here we are again. It certainly is nice to be back in good old B. U. J. C.

We spent our vacation in Atlantic City. And Boy! What a swell hotel!

We had water in every room (the roof leaked).

We had a one-mile view from our window (if we looked straight up).

And what rates! For $25, a suite of rooms; for $20, a room and bath; for $10, a sink in the room; for us, a room with a sponge.

Our room was so small we couldn't even change our minds.

The last occupant had a dog with him; as he left, the poor animal was wagging his tail up and down.

One night we started a poker game with the chamber-maids and ended up by winning every pot.

The hotel ran a bus to and from the railroad station. In other words they got us coming and going.

Well, we learned one thing while we were there, that all hall runners are not carpets.

We spent so much time on the sand the people began to think we were Beech-nuts.

But oh! The Waves, they

Looking around the campus, we see many new faces of students as well as faculty members. We welcome each and every one of them and hope they will enjoy their stay with us.

The house committee in the lounge is really helping Zezzie a great deal. No coats flung over chairs, no ashes anywhere but in ash trays—honestly, we can't get over how neat our reception room looks. Wonder who is going to be handing out the most money for fines, though?

A few of our upper-Freshmen boys attended a semi-formal dance at Cedar Crest last weekend. They certainly must have had a good time!

Dave Hart came in a week ago from Bainbridge. He certainly was glad to see Harvey Trachtenberg still at B. U. J. C.

Movies, dancing, and refreshments. Everything you like at Bucknell Night tonite. Since you met that Sophomore girl you thought was nice at the tea this afternoon, tonight you can dance with her. It is a Bucknell affair, and we hope to see all of you, Bucknellians, there!

were so inviting we couldn't resist. Then there was that cute little Wac, oh Boy!

We went down for a rest and a change; the bell-hops got the change, and the hotel got the rest.

BOOK REVIEW

THE NAZIS GO UNDERGROUND

Curt Reiss

Doubleday and Doran and Co., 1944

The following is a better review of this book than I could ever give. These paragraphs and sentences are quoted from the introduction and other parts of the book:

"This book attempts to describe the plans and preparations the Nazis are making to go underground . . . in anticipation of World War III. World War III is by no means a product of the overheated imagination of die-hards among the Nazis. Even the most realistic among the German generals have begun to think and talk seriously about it. Field Marshals von Mannstein and von Rundstedt have made speeches saying they considered the present struggle only a prelude to World War III and urge that as much as possible should be destroyed so that the occupied countries cannot be rebuilt by the time Germany is ready to strike again.

The book deals with facts, not dramatic and operatic speculations. It tells what has taken place; not what might have taken place. It reveals and surveys what will take place if nothing unforeseen occurs to disturb the careful plans of the Nazis.

"The coming Nazi underground is by no means a movement . . . or threat . . . restricted to Germany proper. It will spread all over Europe; all over the world. It could not, indeed, hope for any prolonged existence if it were not able to count on assistance in our hemisphere. Its organization in Argentina is all set up and waiting impatiently for the "go-ahead" signal. Almost the same may be said of the numerous "collaborators" in the United States.

This book has a purpose beyond that of compiling sensational evidence. Its main purpose is to warn. For Nazism or Fascism is by no means an Italian or German specialty. It is as international as murder, as greed for power, as injustice, as madness. In our time these horrors were translated into political and cultural actuality in Italy and in Germany first. The next time . . .

"If we don't stamp out the Nazi underground, it will make itself felt all over the world, in this country too. We may not have to wait ten years, perhaps not even five.

"For many years in the past we closed our eyes to the Nazi threat. We must never allow ourselves to close them again. The danger to the world, to this country will not diminish. But it is possible to fight this danger if we know it, if we remain aware of its existence."

"The Nazis Go Underground" is an eye-opener. The solution to the problem as set forth by the author is a challenge to the citizens of every nation. This book is a "must" for every thinking person.

FRESHMAN WEEK HELD

This past week beginning on Tuesday, October 31, was freshman week. Strange doings and peculiar occurrences have been seen this week, for this is the time when the upper classmen pour their wrath upon the new freshmen. All the older students have, in their time, endured the trials of initiation and have met the terrors of Inquisition.

After each class has been subjected to the inconveniences of initiation as a whole, it expresses a burning desire to make the classes following pay for what it has suffered. No matter if the new classes are in no way responsible for the suffering. That then, explains why the students, the upper freshmen in particular, have given vent to their feelings and have given this new crop of freshmen the "works".

The boys were forced to wear black bow ties, black socks, two different shoes, and one pant leg turned up three times, and to curtsy whenever an upper classman approached them.

As for the girls, they had to braid their hair into two pigtailed tied with two big bows, and wear black stockings, two different shoes, and no makeup. They also were told to bow to all upper classmen they met.

All the new freshmen were expected to sing the Bucknell Junior College song when requested to do so, to rise when upper classmen entered the room, and to do no smoking for the duration of freshman week.

Another feature were the usual signs giving name, high school, course, hobby, and intended profession.

This fall no inquisition was held due to the fact that there was a tea this last Friday. This, of course, left no time for inquisition.

Nevertheless, the new freshmen had a taste of what it would be like. For instance, they were all forced to read their signs before the students assembled in front of Chase Hall. After this, they all had to join a merry conga around the campus to the delight of the upper classmen. The "frosh" had quite a time trying to keep in step.

Many a new freshman puffed up to Conyngham Hall bearing not only his own load of books, but also those of some haughty upper classman as well.

All in all, it was a trying week for our poor new freshmen. But they have borne up under it and have accepted its tribulations cheerfully.
