Junior-Senior Party Tomorrow Night

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS TODAY IN CHASE THEATRE UNTIL 2 O'CLOCK

The results of the political race for Student Council will be determined today by the elections, which are being held in Chase Theatre from 8:30 to 2 o'clock. A voting machine will be used in the elections. Four representatives from each class will be chosen, and write-in votes are permitted. The big issue to be decided today is the referendum vote, to decide whether subversive activities should be kept off the campus. The Student Council feels that enough discussion of the issue will be held by Friday to permit the issue being voted. The candidates for the election are: From the present Freshman class, Tom Goblick, Helen Krachenfels, Bob Lynch, Pearl Onacko and Mary Zavatski. From the Sophomore class, Dick Bush, Pat Fox, Art Hoover, Jim Neveras, Margaret Williams, Tom Myers, Ralph Zezza. The hottest race seems to be in the Junior Class, whose candidates are Jane Carpenter, Alex Cathro, Nancy Hannye, Hillard Kemp, Dick Hawk, Wayne Madden, Joe Mosier and Jim Moss. Your representatives are being chosen today, and you have a hand in choosing them. Be sure to vote!

11 POPULAR GIRLS SELECTED AS CANDIDATES FOR COMING CINDERELLA BALL

As announced early this week, eleven candidates have been selected for the Cinderella Ball. The various clubs on campus chose the candidates and the students are then permitted to vote on them.

The eleven girls selected to run are: Ann Azat, Ellen Louise Wint, Carol Jones, Basia Mieszkowski, Jane Carpenter, Lois Long, Alice Green, Nancy Beam, Nancy Batcheler, Carol Ann Gardner, and Miriam Jeanne Dearden.

This year's contest has been most surprising. As an old rule, the clubs have always been a bit prejudiced in their selections, thus making the Cinderella list always somewhat inconsistent from the other contests held on campus, but this year the choices were more unpredictable than ever. One interesting point is that last year's Cinderella Queen, Miss Isabel Ecker, was not even selected as a candidate this year. The Campus Queen of the Amnicola, Miss Lois Shaw, is not on the list, and also Miss Pat Fitzgerald, the Colonels' Queen of the April Showers Ball, is missing.

The candidates will have a week or so to conduct their own public relations before the ballots are sent out to the students. Many candidates in the past have found that operating through mushroom organizations is most effective in this the biggest of all campus popularity contests.

GREAT SEASON FOR DEBATERS; PRINCETON, HARVARD, PENN, RUTGERS AMONG DEFEATED

By PAUL B. BEERS

Wilkes would hardly dare challenge the University of Pennsylvania, or Navy, or even Rutgers in football, but we beat them all in debating. Our endowment is lightyears away from those of Harvard, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Princeton, Dartmouth, Lafayette, and Fordham, but we downed them all in debating. The success of our Debating team this year may be measured by such simple comparisons. We were, as Dr. Kruger put it, remarkable.

We participated in three tournaments. In the N.Y.U. Hall of Fame Tournament we finished right behind St. John's (8-0), the winner, with a good 6-2 mark. Below us fell such institutions of higher learning as Colgate, George Washington, Princeton, Penn, Harvard, Temple, Dartmouth, Rutgers, Fordham, and Lafayette.

In the DAPC State Tournament among the schools of Pennsylvania we fell in the fourth won-and-loss bracket out of nine. Pittsburgh won. Below us were Franklin and Marshall, Bucknell, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Misericordia, Scranton, King's, and a number of others. Our mark was 6-4; our Valley friends', 0-10.

Our final debate of the season was the Brooklyn College Tournament. Here we won 5 bouts, finishing 26th out of 65 entries. Below us were such schools as CCNY, Lehigh, Annapolis, Temple, Boston U., Rutgers, Lafayette, and King's.

The team of Jimmy Neveras, Sally Harvey, Mike Lewis, Gene Scrudato, Roxy Reynolds, Pearl Onacko, and all the others who participated ran up against the Nation's best in higher education. Dr. Kruger's chatters proved themselves unusually able against schools ten times our size, ten times our age, twenty times our betters economically, and often worldwide known. Little Wilkes did all right, gentlemen.

FASHIONABLE TDR ENJOYS SUCCESS

Tuesday evening found the Gym transformed into a glamorous fashion salon, as Wilkes coeds of Theta Delta Rho modeled Pomeroy's new line of exciting summer clothes. Under the expert direction of Ann Azat, the girls displayed these latest glad-rags practically like professionals. Effective lighting and soft music helped make the show a first-rate production.

An audience of almost two hundred viewed the fashion show and among the spectators were several fashion experts of Wilkes-Barre's department stores. Favorable comments were heard from many sources, concerning the production as well as the fashions themselves.

Proceeds from the fashion show will go toward Theta Delta Rho's charity project, which this year is a scholarship for a freshman girl next fall.

NOTICE TO CLUBS!

All clubs now have in their mail boxes the forms for filling out next year's social calendar. Mr. Partidge requests immediate consideration.

TONIGHT AT 8:00

Psychology - Sociology Seminar featuring Mrs. Guttman and Mr. Symonowicz, Girl's Lounge, Chase Hall.

Topic—"The Meaning and Interpretation of Ritual and Imitation from Primitive to Modern Man."

T-V For Debaters Team

Tomorrow night, the Wilkes Debating team will make its debut on TV. From 5:00 to 5:30 they will chat about F.E.P.C.

FROSH, SOPHOMORES, JUNIORS PAY; SENIORS FREE; TICKETS 75 CENTS

Does snow in April depress you? Do the pictures in the library frighten you? Have you seen the final exam list? If you answer "yes" to these questions then you need a change for the better and what could be better than the Junior-Senior Party being held tomorrow night at McClintock Hall. If you want to get away from it all this party is the one for you.

This affair is widely anticipated throughout the year, by the student body. It is held annually and is sponsored by each year's Junior Class in honor of the graduating Seniors. The sponsors, the Junior Class, decides on the type of affair to be held and this year it was decided that a buffet party would be the most enjoyable for all concerned.

Another enjoyable factor is that the donation is only 75 cents per person, a most nominal fee indeed. Following the usual custom, Seniors and one guest will be admitted free. The donation is small indeed when considering that a buffet supper with refreshments will be served. Also a room will be cleared for dancing, with a combo providing the music. The party will start at 8 p. m. and last until midnight. Alex Cathro, president of the Junior Class, is general chairman of the affair. One important fact which he wants stressed is that this party is open to all classes and is not restricted solely to Juniors and Seniors. All classes can attend but only Seniors get in free.

So if the April snows depress you and the library pictures frighten you and if you have seen the final exam list, get out tomorrow night for a swell time and forget your troubles. There will be food, refreshments, dancing, socializing and an all-around good time at the Junior-Senior Buffet Party tomorrow night at McClintock Hall at 8 o'clock. See you then.

RECORD CROWD AT APRIL SHOWERS

It is supposed that an all-time record attendance for any large dance was set last week at the April Showers Ball. With wide handsome grins the brass of the Letterman's Club, Bill Morgan, George McMahon, and dance chairman Al Wallace, announced that over 120 couples had attended the affair.

The large attendance came as a surprise to the Club. The tickets had been going slowly until the last few days, when ticket hucksters Gene Snee, Ray Tait, and others pushed them. Good campus publicity and hints of a splendid affair seemingly raised the crowd from last year's happy 84 to this year's gleeful 120.

Club president Bill Morgan and his men put on the best decoration job the Gym has probably ever seen. The ceiling and side were excellent. The feature of the decorations was Gayle Jones' large-scale backdrop in red, blue and yellow of an April showers scene.

Chosen in the annual dance contest for the Colonels' Queen was sophomore Pat Fitzgerald. Pat received a watch and joined the distinguished list of past Colonels' Queens.

CHEMISTS ATTEND KING'S MEETING

Both the students and the faculty of the Wilkes College Chemistry Department attended the Fourth Annual Intercollegiate Chemistry Club Conference sponsored by the King's College Chemical Society last night.

This year the conference included a lecture by Dr. R. M. Witucki who spoke on "Some Aspects of Glass and Its Surface Chemistry", a banquet, a report of the activities of each club in attendance, and concluded with a dance. The affair took place at the American Legion Post Home on River Street. The attending schools were College Misericordia, Marywood College, Scranton University, Keystone Junior College, King's College, and Wilkes College.

Pat, a sophomore from Kingston and a cheerleader here the past season, received a watch that runs, from the Lettermen. She is the only sophomore ever to be named the Colonels' Queen.

The beaming gentleman, George Ralston, football and basketball coach, dean of men, and adviser to the Letterman's Club, has always made the award the past seven years that the Colonels have held their ball. George gets a great kick out of the ceremony, so much so that no Colonels' Queen has ever flashed a bigger smile for the photographers.

George, a very eligible bachelor, said in presenting the prize, "Every year it seems to me the girls are getting prettier and prettier. Maybe it's just because I'm getting older."

NASTINESS

We have in the makings what appears to be a great political battle raging on campus. The time has come to elect next year's Student Council president and two parties have sprung up that are willing to tangle for the honor. This fight in itself is a source of everlasting joy, as the apathetic struggles for most positions of importance on campus are sickening to even the most passive of creatures here and abouts, but the very nastiness of the two parties involved makes the situation a very wonderful thing.

The two factions seem to be Mike Lewis and supporter Jimmy Neveras versus the retiring president, Roxy Reynolds, and smiling Art Hoover. All the boys involved, you might note, with the exception of Roxy are Beaconites.

The battle has been buried under a bush for a long time, Lewis quietly saying that he'd like the presidency and that Mr. Reynolds is a pretty poor one at that. It all came out in the open, however, when spunky Michael snuck through the BEACON a headline story in the last issue, "Discussions Coming on Parking Problems", which was little more than a political story. This editor was faked out fast by Mr. Lewis and even more bewildered when the opposition came up and demanded, "You printed theirs, now print ours." The BEACON merely hopes to stay on the sidelines and cheer for the glory of the game.

The man about which the whole fight rages seems to be Mr. Lewis, a noted rabble-rouser from way back. Without the spirited, sharp, jolly, audacious, cute, clever, intelligent, athletic, smooth, popular, tricky, wicked, adventurous, cheerful, greedy, bold, insolent, and wise (you may discard adjectives in accordance as to whether you are for or against Lewis) Mike Lewis, the presidency of the Student Council would have been decided very peacefully by a few individuals, like it has in the past, and its position in the eyes of the scholars would have continued to fall. It is a fact that the honor of being president of the Student Council is no longer the honor that it once was, whether this is due to the mood of the students or the past few office-holders we will not try to decide.

The very thought of our quiet little campus suddenly quaking under a good battle of wits is simply delightful.

RAINING PENNIES

Last week's April Showers Ball can just about stand as a standard for Wilkes social affairs. The Lettermen's Club had as handsome a dance gathering as any soul can seek. The BEACON admires class, even in such will o' the wisp things as dances.

But, we are curious—is it a coming thing that the lobby of our dances should become a photography studio? The bloody hustling commercialism of the outside parties that saw a nice way to make a few bucks was a bit apart from the cozy April-showery scene that hovered over the dance and made it such a success. And when Lee Vincent three times over the mike blared free advertisement for the boys (and there is nothing like free advertising to sicken the soul of a newspaperman), we sort of thought that perhaps it had all gone a bit too far.

You can make Christmas commercial and Easter commercial, and even the Fourth of July, but let's keep our April Showers Ball sacred, and for that matter the Cinderella Ball too.

THIS 'N' THAT...

by ludwig

Hi,

The Cinderella candidates have been picked. The Old Guard is missing this year with a few exceptions, hi Ann. Well, they all seem like a very nice group of girls and it looks as though there will be a good contest coming up. Remember, looks aren't everything. It's those shy, quiet ones that produce the surprising results. Good luck, you all.

I have news for some of you who attended the April Showers Ball. In the center of the dance floor where all those rain drops were hanging down there was supposed to be god W on a blue background. I'm sorry, I just didn't notice it.

There are times when an affair can capitalize on the publicity of a preceding dance by using the same type of advertising. Nine chances out of ten, however, it just lacks the initial punch. Juniors?

"Sometimes the milkman is lost on the third floor because he got a little behind on the second floor." I quote.

Well, I just sort of had an inkling that we weren't going to have a Beacon Cabaret Party or a big name for the Cinderella Ball last semester.

For you leaders of next year: If you decide that you would like to do something and you work steadily at it, start early enough for it, and plan. The darned thing comes off easier than you thought it ever could and you get more co-operation.

I just asked my associates her for a joke to close. "Final examinations are coming up." This is not my idea of good humor. So long,

"Sure," replied the cat, "but dig this crazy beach."

"Another cookie what?"

"Another cookie, please."

"Please who?"

"Please, mother."

"Please, mother what?"

"Please, mother dear."

"Hell no, you've had six already."

There, in the speckled light, stooped Nausica, her lithe body bending to and fro as she dipped linens into the limpid waters. Her rosy figure was like a nude Aphrodite, chiseled in pink marble. For some minutes the Wanderer sat spellbound, his eyes riveted to the swaying body. Then he loosed his tongue, for he could no longer hold his peace. "Gad," he hissed, "double-jointed."

"Sure is," answered the Mobster. "Can't do it any other way since my accident."

"What happened?"

"Man", answered the Mobster as she paled at the memory, "I once had a glass of beer knocked over."

"May I have this dance?" asked the freshman.

"I'm sorry, but I never dance with a child," she said with a snobbish smile.

"Oh, a thousand pardons," he said. "I didn't know your condition."

STUDENTS REACTED VIGOROUSLY, SPEEDILY ON AMENDMENT

Prompt action on the part of aroused students cleared up the controversy engendered by the Student Council's announcement that the proposed Neveras Amendment was designed "to protect the students from subversion". Realizing the dangers inherent in investigating ambiguities like "subversive", and the vital role which academic freedom plays in our society, a quickly-formed coalition including such divergent elements as the leaders of last semester's Students for Ike and Volunteers for Stevenson, the Intellectual Poets' Corner, and the middle-class Beers' Mob, quickly (1) wrote a BEACON editorial condemning the resolution as interpreted Wednesday, (2) got 150 names on a petition to postpone the vote on the amendment, and (3) contacted the Student Council in order to clarify the situation.

Investigation brought to light the fact that a misinterpretation on the part of some members of the Council of Neveras' intent in sponsoring the amendment was responsible for Wednesday's bulletin. Neveras, a strong defender of student rights on the Council, intended the amendment to encourage campus groups to affiliate with national and state groups, provided affiliation is not contrary to campus policy. As a result of the petition, editorial, and Council debate, it was decided (by the Council) to (1) inform the students of the correct situation via posters, (2) to enter on the records this Council's explicit wish that the amendment not be construed to justify a loyalty investigation. At this writing, it appears that the problem has been solved to the satisfaction of all.

The most encouraging aspect of the whole affair was the vigor to which student opinion reacted to what appeared at the time to be campus McCarthyism. The vigorous reaction ended quickly the misunderstanding which may have done much harm to the campus political climate.

Colonels Still Seeking First Victory

SUSQUEHANNA HERE TO FACE 0-2 COLONELS; CLUB LOOKS FOR GOOD COMBINATION

By WALT CHAPKO

Saturday afternoon will see a strong Susquehanna team visit Kirby Park. Last season Susquehanna beat Wilkes 7-6 at Selinsgrove in their only meeting. The Wilkes players who were at Selinsgrove that day remember the beautiful outdoor May Crowning at the school that day. The Wilkesmen were entertained by elegant coeds dancing in long gowns, rustic couples dancing to fiddle music, a grand parade of beauties aspiring for the May Crown; after this entertainment, the Wilkes team was also treated to a beating by the Susquehanna boys! Maybe we can not put on such a grand display at Wilkes, but we can at least return the beating. See you at the game.

Tuesday afternoon the Colonels traveled to Williamsport and were upset by a fast-moving Lycoming nine, 7-5. Wilkes fell behind by 3 runs in the first inning and never caught up. Lycoming atoned for a 14-3 shellacking by Wilkes at Williamsport last year. Coach Partridge made many changes in his line-up but failed to come home with a victory.

'Booshee' Davis was shifted from third to second, Batronev was moved from second to short, Trosko from left field to third base, and 'Guadalcanal Joe' was put behind the plate. Freshman Dick Kachinski came through in fine style with two hits. The new combination started to click in the late innings but failed to overcome the lead Lycoming early amassed from pitcher John Milliman. The Wilkesmen have been hampered in their practices and with their schedule by frequent rains and cold weather. The game with Hartwick was actually snowed out!

POLITICIANS SET FOR COUNCIL

The following nominees are scholastically eligible for election to the Student Council. Elections will be held April 24th.

MARY ZAVATSKI

ART HOOVER

MARGARET WILLIAMS
RALPH ZEZZA

Junior

JOE MOSIER
NANCY HANNYE

NOTE: A referendum vote will be held for the purpose of keeping subversive organizations off campus. In the election vote "yes" is in favor — "no" is opposed.

Any organization with outside affiliation desiring recognition on campus must secure the approval of the Student Council and the Administrative Council.

The greatest game that the Colonels played in 1952 turned in to be the most tragic too. Coach Ralston said the footballers never looked better than in the 20-13 loss to Hofstra. That was the game Russ Picton was carried out with a broken leg.

THE QUICK JIMBO

JIMMY FERRIS

A good athlete at Kingston High but never the rage of the town—which seems to be the bill for an athlete to succeed in college—Jimmy Ferris has suddenly bloomed forth in his freshman year as one of Wilkes' outstanding men of the field.

A pint-size, quick little guy, Jimbo showed plenty in basketball, so much so in fact that many were disappointed when he was often ignored in the line-up. Possessing reflexes, probably the fastest seen around here in a long time, Jimbo could steal balls, lay them up, and tear around the court in bewildering style. Above all, his fire for playing the game, still genuinely rare around here, was endearing to those who cared.

Now operating in baseball—Jimbo shown here crossing the plate with the Colonels' first run of the season—Ferris has given Partridge a smile or two. He seems to be a cute left-handed pitcher, but Partridge has put his speed to use and his left-handed batting power as center fielder. But there he is very similar to Don Blankenbush, the old Colonel standard as baseball players go.

MUSIC LOVERS

Students interested in record concerts (all types of music) are requested to bring suggestions to the "suggestion box" in the library or to contact Mr. Sheldon Schneider. State the particular composer and work and also your preference for time.

AUGUST MARRIAGE FOR ALEX CATHRO

As announced last week, Alex Cathro and Carol Walling will be married this August 30. Carol, a former dorm student here and a member of the cheerleaders, lives in Albuquerque, N. M. Alex, a prominent campus leader, is a junior and lives in Huntington Station, N. Y.

The couple plans to live here in Wilkes-Barre until Alex graduates in 1954. He will then get a commission as an ensign in the U. S. Navy.

PETE WURM FACES JUNE MARRIAGE

The other day senior Peter Wurm announced his coming marriage "sometime in June" to Miss Sheila Shutter of Philadelphia.

Pete, a dorm student, has spent three years at Wilkes, wrestling one season. He is also a member of the band and Cue 'n' Curtain. His freshman year was spent at Syracuse University.

Colonel Sport Shorts...

Tailback Bill Veroski tied quarterback Eddie Davis for scoring leadership on the 1952 Colonel football team. Both men scored 30 points, or 5 touchdowns. Ron Fitzgerald was third with 18 points, George McMahon fourth with 12, Howie Gross fifth with 9, and three men tied for sixth with one touchdown apiece.

By and large the 1952 Colonel football team was a small one, Ray Tait being the only man to go over 200 pounds. Both the offensive and defensive teams averaged 180 pounds and stood an even six foot. The defensive backfield averaged only 173 pounds, while the offensive backfield averaged a hefty 174 pounds.

Bogan-Law Married On April 17th

Junior Elain Bogan was married to Wilkes graduate Don Law on April 17th.

Don, a former C & F student at Wilkes, is now a private stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. He expects to leave the Army in 16 months.

Elaine plans to go on and continue her education.

THIS 'N' THAT...

Hi,
Imagine for yourself: A place where you can sit down and just relax; a place to have a bull session on comfortable chairs; and a place where you can meet and talk to some of those charming objects of femininity which grace the campus of Wilkes and yet never seem amiable to share your vivacious and intellectual personality. I could go on and on. The students want a place, a social hall or something, and now is a splendid time for the administration to come forward and say, "We recognize that Wilkes needs something and maybe this is the answer. What can we do to help? Our first interest is and always has been the student, if they want a club or social meeting place, let's give it to them."

I don't often give any opinions on the political or national scene but I would like to go on record saying that the state of Pennsylvania is subjecting their constituents to a great deal of doubt as to the administration when they propose a sales tax and then make the public school teacher the goat for their proposal.

Easter Sunday evening I went up to Rocky Glen to hear Sammy Kaye. I was reminded of four years ago when the Cinderella Ball was held at the same place and we had Claude Thornhill and his orchestra. I understand that the college across the street is having Johnny Long for their big dance of the year.

Tonight is the night for the April Showers Ball. It seems rather foolish, when it's the Valentine dance we wish for love, when it's the Christmas Dance we wish for snow, but, for the April Showers Ball, does it have to rain? Congratulations to the Lettermen for their fine publicity job, I'm sure the Christian Science Monitor was happy to plug your dance.

I'm going to quit now, I feel sort of like a dentist, you know, down in the mouth.
So long,

RUSSIA THE CONCERN WEDNESDAY NIGHT

At an informal, tea-drinking gathering of Dr. Thatcher, Mr. Rock, and interested persons on Wednesday night in Chase Hall the subject of Russia and current trends in history were discussed.

Students Mike Lewis, Bob Darrow, Nick Flannery, Paul Beers, and Connie Smith attended.

Dr. Thatcher advanced an interesting point. He showed the difference between the communist international revolution and Russian imperialism. He believes the imperialistic Russia wants only a circle of security, though the international communism desires to capture the whole world by peaceful movements. Therefore, Dr. Thatcher believes that Russia, now that it has that security and unless frightened by us, will not make any physical attacks. Such is one thought.

There is hope for more gatherings such as this.

Once a great football power, Harvard can boast of having two football players who kicked five field goals in one game. Bernie Trafford was the first to accomplish the trick for the Crimson in 1890, then Charlie Brickley did it in 1913.

Carl Mays beat the Athletics 35 times and lost only three games to them in nine seasons.

TO REMAIN FREE

But true freedom is possible only where men—who must either restrain themselves or be restrained—have replaced external restraints with inner discipline based upon moral values. Men who lack those values cannot be free because they cannot trust one another; unrestrained by conscience, they inevitably become vicious—and where greed, selfishness, and lust for personal power are unchecked, freedom cannot survive.

of booth construction; and Paul Warnagaris, chairman of booth layout. Special thanks must go to Mr. Foxlow for allowing us to disrupt his office facilities and for the assistance he rendered in helping us gather material. Nor can we thank Mr. Gregory enough for construction the booth for us.

When April 20th rolls around, we feel confident that Wilkes Col-

The club quite naturally extends a cordial invitation to all Wilkes faculty and students to drop over to the Armory during the week of April 20th and see what we believe to be a wonderful display of Wilkes growth.
