W.C. CHEST QUOTA TOPPED

Private Schools Over Mark;
Wilkes Again Makes 100%;
Last Push by Bio Students

Among the many groups and organizations in the Valley which raised at least one hundred percent of their quota during the recent Community Chest campaign was Wilkes College.

The College helped the Chest reach its goal for the first time in eight years. The Chest this year received $849,090, 100.1% of its goal this year, Chairman Sam Wolfe announced at Wednesday night's Victory Dinner at Irem Temple.

Through the general efforts of many people — students, maintenance, administration, and faculty — Wilkes College's quota had almost been reached by Wednesday noon. At two-thirty Wednesday afternoon when Mr. Welton Farrar made his final report to the Chest office he announced that Wilkes College was still twenty-three dollars short of its quota. At four in the afternoon a handful of biology students, in a photo finish, do or die, last minute sort of effort raised twenty-four dollars in less than half an hour to place Wilkes College among the "quota busters".

All the private schools exceeded their quotas to make the Private School Battalion one of the few battalions to have all of its units top their quotas.

The percentages raised by the six private schools in the battalion were: King's College, 134%; Wyoming Seminary Day School, 122%; Pennsylvania State University Extension Center, 120%; Wyoming Seminary, 108%; Wilkes-Barre Business School, 101%; Wilkes College, 100%.

Since Wilkes College accounted for more than forty-five percent of the battalion's quota, the battalion's percentage was 109%.

Louis Shaffer, president of the Community Chest, did not name the chairman of next year's campaign at the Dinner, because of the possibility of a United Fund in Wyoming Valley. Immediately following his announcement representatives of various major groups voiced their support of a United Fund. The entire group at the Victory Dinner applauded loudly for fully thirty seconds when Mr. Shaffer asked if there were general approval of a United Fund Campaign in Wyoming Valley.

By its fine showing this year, Wilkes has shown that if such a unified campaign becomes a reality next year, the College can give it full support.

Joe Gregory (about somebody's dubious bargain): "That's like buying a dead horse 'cause you got it cheap."

Hammer Busy in State, Local Education Affairs

Dr. Eugene L. Hammer

Dr. Eugene L. Hammer, head of the Wilkes College Education department, is currently engaged in a series of speaking tours and conferences that reflect his interest and the interest of Wilkes in keeping abreast of the teaching developments and bringing the educational picture before the public.

Dr. Hammer was in Harrisburg yesterday at a meeting of the Pennsylvania Teacher Placement Association, where he discussed with educators and guidance directors from the entire state the problems that each is experiencing in his region.

Today he will be a guest at Wilkeson College, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania and will examine a teacher education program established there through the Ford Foundation.

Tomorrow he will travel to the State capital again to attend a meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Student Council Okays '55 Budget, Will Seek Administration Approval; More Money Available For Clubs

The Activities Budget for the coming year has been submitted by the Student Council to administration for final approval.

The action was the result of Tuesday evening's meeting of the Wilkes Student Council, which reviewed the proposed budget, passed it to the administration for approval.

The Council heard the report of a sub-committee set up temporarily to study the budgets submitted by the various College activities.

Chet Miller, treasurer for the Council, presented the budget which was drawn up by the sub-committee. It included the following items:

Activity	Appropriation	Request
Beacon	$1900	$1981
Debating Society	750	830
Dormitories	150	150
Male Chorus	75	75
Manuscript	475	475
Yearbook	3600	3800
Social Activities	1200	1200
Inter-Coll. Conf.	1037.50

Henry Goetzman, editor of the Amnicola, was present at the meeting to request an additional sum for the College yearbook. He raised his request to $3950, and after some discussion on the matter it was decided that the Council propose an allocation of $3800. for the Amnicola. In order to increase the appropriation, other figures had to be revised. The amended amounts therefore now stand as follows:

Yearbook	$3800.00
Social Activities	1087.50
Inter-Coll. Conf.	950.00

The motion was then made and carried that the Council accept this budget and forward it to the Administrative Council for approval.

The sub-committee which prepared the budget will attend the Administrative Council meeting at which the budget is discussed, in order to clarify points and to answer questions.

The Inter-collegiate Conference Fund as set up this year differs from last year's policy. This year, each club on campus will have a working budget of $125, to be spent on conferences.

Prior to spending its funds, the club will send representatives to the Council to justify expenditures.

In addition to the funds available for clubs, the ICC has a buffer fund of $200 to be used to send students to worthwhile conferences which are not connected with any particular club.

WILKES STUDENTS IN POLISH PLAY

Students from the College, in cooperation with the Women's Club for the Polish room at Wilkes, will present "The Forefathers", a play by the Polish poet Adam Mickiewicz, tomorrow night at 8:40.

The play, given in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the poet's death, will be presented at the Wilkes gym on South Franklin Street.

Among others, Wilkes students now members of "The Forefathers" cast are James Jones, Jean Machonis, Basia Mieszkowski, and Jane Obitz. Miss Obitz will serve as narrator for the production.

Others in the cast are: Joseph Mirmak, Mrs. Joseph Drapiewski, Stanley Descavage, Ben Cook, Sam Barnard, Leon Wazeter, Joseph Oliver, and Charles Robbins.

Mrs. Alex Kresge is chairman of the production.

Miss Mieszkowski will play Pani Rollisonova, mother of a young Polish boy imprisoned by Barnard as Senator Novsiltseiv.

EDITORIALS

What's Ahead?

This is the sixth issue of this year's paper, with eighteen more slated between now and June. To most of our readers (see Wisdom of Wilkes) the paper seems to be doing fairly well so far; to us behind it, it's a source of worry on one at least particular account.

It is, we feel, rather less than pointless, to put out any kind of vaguely half-way decent Beacon one year, and then to have it followed by nothing the next. But that's what looks to be in store.

To put it as shortly as possible, we're top-heavy this year. That is, there's nobody to take over when we're gone. Everybody on the editorial staff this year happens to be a senior. As originally planned, there was one underclassman on the staff, but that fell through, and now the entire executive department of the paper goes out in June. There's a crying need for sophomores and juniors. We've a fairly good-sized writing staff of frosh who are doing about as well as people with limited experience can be expected to do, but we can hardly expect to have sophomores in the top drawers next year.

So the point of all this should have become obvious about six or seven lines ago; that we're begging any sophomore, or, better, junior to come out for the paper now. With just a little work this year, somebody'll have a lot to look forward to next year.

We Did Well, But . . .

Despite the fact that Wilkes College attained its goal in the recent Community Chest campaign, the help given the chest by the student body was still somewhat picayune. Of the $1590 raised by the college the students accounted for $176, or slightly more than twenty cents per student on the average — less than the cost of a pack of cigarettes to help the community that's done so much to help the College.

It is true that the $176 is the effort of less than a quarter of the student body which means that certain individuals were really quite generous. But if this is true, the other three-quarters seem to have been pretty slack. One wonders, when the need is so desperate and the work to which the Chest's funds are put so deserving, how the average student can live with his own conscience when his answer to the cry for help is "I have given all that I can. I have helped twenty cents worth, I have sacrificed to the extent of four mills a week?"

As the favored few who are being educated we must face the responsibility that an education entails. We will say no more about it, it being pointless to raise hard feelings, but let us resolve to do better next time.

The DEAN'S CORNER

THE STUDENT-ATHLETE

This is unfortunately an age of both labels and generalizations. In controversies, political and otherwise, there is a tendency for people to apply all-inclusive descriptive symbols to define a person or a group.

I pose as no authority on athletics, although I am a firm believer in them and an enthusiastic supporter of them. I am also the first to concede that in certain respects and in some schools athletic policies seem to be entirely out-of-kilter. In some colleges athletes are dupes, cheap labor used by publicity-directed coaches or administrations to bring national recognition or a large gate. Sometimes such recognition comes at the cost of permanent injury or at the sacrifice of a young person's educational opportunity.

For the most part I believe that our athletic policies here at Wilkes College are sound and just. We are far from perfect, but I believe that we are operating with moderation and with common-sense. I believe that our policies will grow and improve as the school grows and improves.

Even here, however, I have experienced a tendency among individuals to label and to generalize. Here too one hears from certain lips about those "dumb athletes" almost as automatically as one hears in the South about those "damned Yankees". This is something I think that deserves investigation.

I have never thought of our athletes as being special, or privileged or set-apart in any respect. I have merely thought of them as Wilkes College students, who engage in sports activity for the same reasons that induce others to seek office, to write for The Beacon, or to engage in club activities. To them it is an integral and an important part of those total experiences which make up a college education. I am sorry for the person who, for one reason or another, has to sacrifice the worth-while experiences which come from such group participation.

Not all of our athletes have been perfect; not all of our non-athletes have been perfect either. However, I think of such people as George McMahon, Eddie Davis, Russ Picton, Ronnie Fitzgerald, Harry Ennis and many others who have gone

Patricia Stout Winner Of Second Morris Award

Pat Stout

Patricia Stout, Wilkes senior, was the recipient of the Linda Morris Award at assembly Tuesday for having maintained the highest scholastic record among the girls during her freshman, sophomore, and junior years.

Herbert Morris, former Wilkes Registrar, presented Miss Stout with the award, a twenty-five dollar savings bond, in honor of his young daughter, Linda, who passed away after having spent her childhood on the Wilkes campus.

Begun last year, the award is given annually to the top-ranking girl of the junior class by Mr. Morris.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I should like to express my most sincere gratitude to all members of the senior class for displaying their confidence in electing me president of our class. I also feel that Henry Goetzman, Jesse Roderick, and Howie Gross are well qualified for their particular positions and will work well together as the leaders of our class.

At this time we are all cognizant of the many tasks which will confront us during the year, and with your support, I and the executive council shall do our utmost to make this a memorable and prosperous year.

Twin Lakes to be Location For Sorority's Annual Picnic; Beam Heads Committees

Tomorrow night, it'll cost Wilkes students a buck-twenty per couple for Theta Delta Rho's annual wiener roast, held this year at O'Connell's Twin Lakes.

The yearly affair starts at eight, runs till midnight.

Proceeds from the wiener roast will go into a general activities fund to aid completion of several sorority projects.

Location of the wiener roast this year is near Harveys Lake, west of here. One of the easier routes to the grounds is to go up Wyoming Avenue in Kingston to Bennett Street, turn left onto Bennett Street and proceed through Luzerne onto the Luzerne-Harveys Lake highway. Follow the lake highway until the intersection, at the top of the last hill approaching the lake, is reached. Turn right at the intersection and proceed to a "dead end", which is Carpenters Road. Make a right turn onto Carpenters Road and follow same for less than a "farmer's mile" to the grounds.

To doubly insure that students motoring to the affair don't go astray Saturday night, the sorority will post a map on the College's main bulletin board in front of the cafeteria area behind Chase Hall.

General chairman for the wiener roast will be Nancy Beam.

Heads of committees for the affair will be: Connie Kamarunas and Norma Davis, publicity; Merri Jones and Nancy Batcheler, refreshments.

Mary and Vicki Zavatski will be in charge of entertainment, while Elaine Fabian and Dorothy Thomas will bos the clean-up crew.

Bucholtz New Editor Of 1955 'Manuscript'

John Bucholtz was elected editor-in-chief of the Manuscript, Wilkes literary publication, and Thomas Kaska was chosen associate editor in special elections, it was learned from the members of the Manuscript staff last week.

Bucholtz was chosen to fill the vacancy created when the previously elected editor, Herbert Bynder, accepted a scholarship to study at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Kaska was elected to fill the vacancy created when Bill DeMayo, previously elected associate editor, decided to study at Columbia University this semester.

The new editorial staff of the Manuscript immediately undertook the task of sponsoring a campus-wide contest for the selection of the best contribution to the school magazine.

Bucholtz has been active in campus affairs during his stay here and this year promises to be an asset to the college's debating team.

Coeds Study Engineering

Professor of Engineering and Physics here at the College.

Miss Botkin, a graduate of Teaneck High School, Teaneck, New Jersey, was active in debating, math, and girls' basketball. She has entered Wilkes because of its co-operative program with M.I.T., where she hopes to complete her studies as an electrical engineer.

Miss Charnecki, a local girl, graduated from Nanticoke High School where she was Vice President of her senior class and co-editor of her school paper. She has been awarded a leadership scholarship to Wilkes, plans to become a civil engineer.

Both girls have decided to study engineering because of their interest in math and science. When asked if they felt that male engineering students might show any prejudice or ill will toward them because of their invasion of the dominantly male profession, both Miss Charnecki and Miss Botkin said that they thought not.

Students Not to Park Autos in Faculty Lot

Several student autos have been found using space of late in the new parking lot, filling space normally allotted to faculty and administration members. Students are reminded that this lot has been specifically set aside for faculty and administration use and that student parking therein is prohibited.

Lack of sufficient parking space for Wilkes faculty members in their own lot has caused several cases in which instructors were unable to reach classes at the appointed hour, due to inability to locate convenient parking places.

The lot, located behind the former McLaughlin property on South River Street, is marked by a "Faculty Parking Only" sign which emphasizes that the area is not for use by students.

Booters Play First Tilt Under Lights

MIDSEASON REVIEW

With both the grid and soccer teams nearing the halfway point, Wilkes can show only one win, one tie and six losses for a combined fall sport record. The win and the tie are owned by the soccer team. The six losses are split evenly.

Prospects for the future seem to indicate that the record will not be improved much. The booters still have six tilts on the schedule and the gridders five. However, Russ Picton's football Colonels still face the toughest part of their schedule.

The so-called "Breathers", Lebanon Valley and Ithaca are in the books - both as losses. Of the five remaining games, only this Saturday's battle against Trenton State Teachers shapes up as a Blue and Gold win.

After Trenton, Maryland State, Hofstra, Bridgeport and Moravian parade before the Colonels and each will be favored on their early season records. Russ Picton has had more trouble than any new coach deserves. Not only was he hit with a deluge of pre-season sickness and injuries, but he probably had more players quit this year than will be dressed for any game.

They weren't fooling when they said that Wilkes has the nucleus of a good football team, but it is still in the classrooms. Excuses for quitting have ranged from minor injuries to class work to just plain no excuse.

We all agree that we are in college to get an education but sports are an integral part of education and the American way and blessed is he who has athletic ability.

SOCCER STORY DIFFERENT

The problem is a little different over at the soccer field. John Reese hasn't had the quitting problem. His difficulty has been a lack of luck or whatever it is that makes a soccer ball go past a goalie. Of the five games played to date, the Colonels have clearly outplayed every team except Temple. They played the Owls to a standstill. Yet, the booters have been able to score only six goals this year and Carl Van Dyke has made them all.

It has become quite an enigma. Reese can't figure it out and neither can we. If there has been any trouble on the team, it has been that the boys have been afraid to shoot when they have a shot. Instead, many of them have been looking for someone who might have a better shot and as a result have been losing that split-second advantage.

WATERWINGS ANYBODY?

We haven't seen so much rain and mud since the last time the Army invited us to commune with nature. The booters played Friday in a gale and Saturday at Temple, it rained throughout the game. Then we journeyed over to Kingston Stadium Saturday night and saw the gridders trying to imitate submarines.

Friday's soccer game against Muhlenberg was slightly on the ridiculous side. The wind was so hard that many a poor fullback got the "good foot" on the ball only to see it blow right back in his face. It is amazing that the officials waited until the half to call the game because we don't think they could see what was going on better than anybody else.

The officials at Temple lasted until the end of the game OK. But the players are still trying to figure out the offside calls which cost us two goals. It seems that soccer needs a bit more standardization.

The rains took a lot of benefits away from needy kids as only 500 showed up at the Kiwanis-sponsored football game instead of the expected 10,000. Unfortunately, the game could not be postponed due to scheduling commitments. About the only winners in the game were the dry cleaning establishments who will be cleaning up muddy uniforms and clothes.

TOUCH GRID LEAGUE GETS UNDERWAY WITH HIGH-SCORING GAMES

The 1955 intramural football season opened last Thursday afternoon with the Golden Trojans downing Weckesser Hall, 39-7. Paced by the passing and running of Dick Morris and Joe Jablonski, the Trojans scored first and were never headed from there. Dick Murray, Mel McNew and John Hessler also added scores for the Trojans. The only score for Weckesser came on a long pass to B. Seitz.

On Tuesday the Engineers played Butler Hall and protested their 26-24 loss. The protested play was the one on which Butler scored the winning point. The Engineers claimed that the whistle had blown to call the play to an end. Finally after much arguing the Engineers protested and the protest was granted. The game will be played over at a later date.

The game between Weckesser and the Freshmen scheduled for Wednesday was called off because the Freshmen did not show up. The Freshmen team has yet to hand in its roster to Dick Morris.

They had better do so if they want to be included in the league. If there are any other teams of not less than six men or more than ten, hand in your rosters immediately to Dick Morris or John Reese in the gym. All the games are played in Kirby Park at 4:30. They play 15-minute quarters and two-hand touch with six men on a side.

PNEUMONIA SIDELINES POLLEY FOR E-TOWN GAME

— BULLETIN —

Dave Polley was rushed to the General Hospital early this morning for treatment, after his condition grew steadily worse.

It was learned at press time that Dave Polley, stellar fullback on the soccer team, had been stricken with a mild case of pneumonia. Polley played the entire 88 minutes at Temple in the rainstorm as well as the entire Muhlenberg game the day before.

A sophomore from Muttonville, Long Island, he won his letter as a freshman, and was named Athlete of the Week during last year's campaign. He has received points toward Athlete of the Year in every game played to date.

Night Game at Elizabethtown Will be Part of Homecoming Celebration at Downstate College

The Blue and Gold soccer team will play the first night game in the history of the sport at Wilkes tomorrow night at Elizabethtown. Game time will be 8 P.M. at the Elizabethtown High School Stadium. Elizabethtown officials told soccer coach John Reese this week that the tilt would be the featured attraction at the downstate school's annual homecoming celebration.

The Colonels will be looking for their second win of the year under the unfamiliar arc lights. After the near disastrous weekend against Muhlenberg and Temple, the booters must win four of their remaining six games in order to rack up their third straight winning season.

The record now stands at one win, a tie, and three losses. However, Reese and the players all feel that the tough part of the schedule is passed. Lafayette, Rider, Temple and Hofstra figured to be the roughest games on the slate and they are all in the books.

Beat Lizzies Here

The Colonels met Elizabethtown twice last year. They beat the Lizzies at Kirby Park, 1-0, and fought them to a draw at Elizabethtown, 3-3. The Lizzies have most of last year's team back in action after a three win-three loss season a year ago. Ten lettermen dot the E-town roster.

The game will have all the atmosphere of a college football game as the Elizabethtown College and High School bands will be present to entertain. The Lizzies have no football team and soccer is their major college sport.

There is a possibility of one change in the Colonel lineup for this game as Coach Reese searches for more scoring punch. He has been dabbling with the idea of moving speedy Nick Giordano to outside left and installing scrappy Fred Boote at Nick's inside left position. Boote has impressed with playing as a substitute and has earned a starting shot. Nick is still searching for his first goal of the season as is the entire team with the exception of Carl Van Dyke.

'Player' Honors Go to Farish, First Gridder

By TOM KASKA

The Beacon "Athlete of the Week" award this week goes for the first time to a member of the football squad, with the naming of Bill Farish to the title. Farish was picked for his stellar line-play in the game against the powerful Bloomsburg Huskies last Saturday night.

Only 155 pounds, Farish made up with speed and aggressiveness what he lacked in weight. He was the anchor in the Colonel line, which on the whole was much lighter than the Teachers' forward wall.

Quick-thinking and alertness highlighted his performance in a losing cause for the Colonels last Saturday night. His ability to diagnose Bloomsburg plays found him constantly breaking through to foil runs and passes alike. His speed and aggressiveness kept him at all times in the thick of action.

"He's a good ball-player," said Coach Picton following the game. "Though he's small, he's fast and he has a lot of ability. His dependability makes him one of the most valuable players on the squad."

A native of Huntingdon, Pa., Farish learned his football at Huntingdon High School, where he played three years as guard on the varsity squad. "The game," said he, "was a tough one. I think we played well as a team, even though we were hurt by injuries."

A Commerce and Finance major, Farish is active on campus. He is vice-president of the junior class and a member of the business department of the Amnicola. He also belongs to the Lettermen's Club, and serves on the Butler Hall dorm council as well as the interdorm council.

Booters Lose to Owls, Tie Muhlenberg in Rain; Huskies Trip Gridders

The Colonel booters and gridders sloshed through the mud and rain for three contests last week with a net result of one tie and two losses.

The booters lost almost a sure victory against Muhlenberg last Friday when rain and winds of gale force caused their game to be halted at the half with the score 0-0. The Colonels dominated the game but could not push across the one goal which would have given them victory.

Saturday, they tackled a high-rated Temple team and fought them on even terms through a heavy downpour. Each team made three goals but two of the Colonels markers were nullified and Temple won, 3-1. Carl Van Dyke kept his record alive by scoring the Wilkes goal. It was his sixth of the year.

The gridders took a mud-bath Saturday night and Bloomsburg came out on top 12-0. Despite the loss, the Colonels showed an improved offense with Hawkey Gross causing Bloom some anxious moments with his passes from the T.C.U. spread. Fumbles and interceptions halted several Colonel scoring threats.

WC Gridders Tackle Trenton Teachers In Search for Picton's First '55 Win

The gridders take to the road again this weekend in search of that elusive first win for Russ Picton. This time, the Rambling Colonels travel to Trenton, New Jersey to play Trenton State Teachers College, a team which fell before the Blue and Gold last year by a 41-0 score.

Trenton will also be in search of their first win of the campaign although they have a tie, 7-7, with Kutztown, to their credit. They lost to New Britain State Teachers, 9-0, in their only other start.

That little cloud of misfortune which seems to follow Picton struck again this week when doctors informed the yearling coach that Jerry Levandoski, second string center, would be lost for good. Levandoski had been counted upon for heavy duty but a recurrence of an old high school knee injury has sent the Nanticoke pivot man to the sidelines permanently.

Tambur to Start

Art Tambur will get a starting shot at right half this week as a result of his play in the Bloomsburg game. Art was on the receiving end of a few important Howie Gros aeriels which gave the Colonel offense a big shot in the arm.

Jerry Levandoski

The passing game showed quite a bit of improvement in the Bloom tilt. Picton's newly unveiled T.C.U. spread gave the Huskies some bad moments. Trenton can look for more of the same tomorrow afternoon.

Cliff Brautigan is still on the sidelines due to his recent bout with pneumonia. The shallow bench left by illness and desertions has caused a few of the boys to learn the plays at other positions. Moe Masonis may see tackle duty as well as work at his familiar guard post.

The loss of Levandoski has left Picton without a reserve center. Captain Glenn Carey will either have to play 60 minutes or else quarterback Howie Gross, a center in his early days, will have to spell him.

Ronnie Rescigno, Dave Panzitta, Tambur and Gross will be the starting backfield. Carey will head a line composed of Neil Dadurka, Jarrell Cashmere, Joe Wilk, Bob Masonis, Athlete of the Week Bill Farish and Jerry Lowen.

What is your opinion and criticism (if any) of the BEACON so far this year?

GLORIA DRAN, Buttonwood, Pa. Junior, A.B. in Biology:

"The Beacon this year is doing an exceptionally fine job of reporting the facts and events on Wilkes' campus. I feel a little humor concerning the students personally, a novelty column, or a human interest story would add to the attraction of the paper."

BASIA MIESZKOWSKI, Wilkes-Barre, Senior, A.B. in Music:

"I think the Beacon so far has been doing a good job of keeping up on current events of the school for the students. I might say that the paper has a good tone this year."

BOB LYNCH, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Senior, A.B. in Music:

"Judging from the few copies I've read this far, I would say that this year's Beacon has little to be desired in the way of improvement."

BOB THOMAS, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Freshman, Religion and Philosophy:

"It is a marvelous publication. I can't understand how such a fine school paper can be made without the members of Wilkes College paying extremely high rates."

JANE OBITZ, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Senior, Elementary Education:

"I would like to see the Beacon carry a schedule of this week's coming events so that students, faculty, and other interested persons will be informed of campus activities."

FRAN BISHOP, Trucksville, Pa. Freshman:

"Basically, the Beacon is a good paper. However, I suggest that a more complete coverage of the various clubs on campus would be beneficial to both students and paper."

ROBERT BAROVICH, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Freshman, Math:

"The Beacon is a well organized school paper, but I suggest that besides having a picture cartoon, there should also be a section devoted to jokes and informal laughter."

JOHN P. SMITH, Harveyville. Sophomore, Biology:

"I think it is very nice."

Form for Bowling Out; Early Turnout Heavy

Roster forms for intramural bowling are now available on campus bulletin boards, at the gym and the public relations office. Early registration indicates a heavy turnout for the popular Sunday evening activity, so those wishing to participate are urged to register as early as possible.

The league will be run similar to the one last year. It will again be composed of male students, coeds, and members of the faculty. The teams will be composed of six bowlers, two of whom will be girls. The five top scores will be counted this year instead of four.

Early registration by girls has been surprisingly large, indicating that a large number of girls on the campus are interested in learning how to bowl. Many of those registered are new bowlers. Butler Hall, last year's champs, has announced that they will again have a team this year.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Jonni Falk, student director, in the public relations office.

before. Among our present student body I point out such individuals as Jim Ferris, Sam Shugar, Glenn Carey, and Younsu Koo as illustrations. I could mention many others. These boys are not "athletes"; they are students who have engaged in athletics. They represent in their character, in their personalities, and in their achievements a telling answer to those who question the value of sports activity. I would cite any one of them as a model to the young person who is trying to get the most out of his college education.
