MAKING HEADLINES

by SUSAN DRAUS and LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editors

WILKES-BARRE — Choosing a theme for a yearbook is one of the most difficult tasks which faces a staff. The theme of a yearbook must capture the spirit of that year — what makes it stand out from all the rest — yet, the theme must be chosen early to aid in the design of the book and still remain relevent at the end of the year.

Numerous ideas were discussed by the Amnicola staff; brainstorming sessions were held, and even a contest was opened to the student body to find a theme. Although a number of possible themes were suggested (including song titles and nostalgic phrases) none were guaranteed to still be important to campus life at the close of the 1991-92 school year.

THEME — "How would the 1991-92 school year be remembered at Wilkes?" was the question we asked ourselves. What affect would activities, both on campus and locally, have on Wilkes University and its students?

One thing was certain — for better or worse, Wilkes was often in the public eye. Keeping this in mind, "MAKING HEAD-LINES" seemed to be an appropriate title for this year's Amnicola. This yearbook is a compilation of events, activities, and "Headlines," both well-known and obscure, which we felt had possible effects on Wilkes and its students.

Wilkes Requests New Traffic Flow

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

S.STREET/S. RIVER — Representatives from Wilkes University met with members of the Wilkes-Barre City Traffic Committee on Wednesday, November 24, to request that the city consider re-directing traffic along two streets that pass through the University's campus. Specifically, the proposal requests that the one block section of South Street between South River and South Franklin Streets be reduced to one-way traffic to better insure the safety of students who regularly cross the roadways.

In addition, the school suggested that the two block area of South River Street between South and Academy Streets also be modified to permit only one-way traffic.

Al Clocker, Chairman of the Traffic Committee, expressed doubt that the University's wishes would be granted. "There are some distinct problems with what Wilkes (University) is seeking," Clocker said shortly after the meeting. "For one thing, South River Street is a state highway. Therefore, the city just can't turn around and agree to make it a one-way street." However, the University was assured that the proposal would be given full consideration.

GOAL REACHED AT WILKES

by KIMBERLY ESCARGE, Staff Writer

WILKES UNIVER. CAMPUS — This year, the Wilkes Tomorrow Campaign exceeded its set goal of eighteen million dollars. This campaign began in 1986 and was originally planned to last for a five year period. However, in February of 1989 it was obvious that the goal would be surpassed. As a result, the campaign was extended to a six year period with a twenty-three million dollar goal. The funds raised are to benefit the school, its students, faculty, and the general public.

The Arnaud C. Marts Sports and Conference Center was built with the help of these funds. This new facility, which satisfies the fitness needs and recreational activities of the students, is also used for conferences, (see GOAL page 5)

CAMPUS UNDERGOES REMODELING

By Kimberly A. Escarge, Staff Writer

WILKES CAMPUS — This past Fall many students returned to classes at Wilkes and found that some major renovations were made over the summer. This project, which took about two and a half months, included such buildings as Sterling Hall, Sullivan Hall, Stark Learning Center, and the campus bookstore.

State of the art equipment was installed in the Physics, Biology, and Chemistry labs in Stark. In addition, the faculty offices in these departments were renovated.

The bookstore underwent major remodeling both inside and out. A ramp was added to the outside of the building to allow access for handicapped individuals.

The inside of the store was changed to improve not only appearance but more importantly, overall service.

These renovations can best be described as a step in the right direction for the University.

GOAL — seminars, intramural games, and intercollegiate sports. Money from this campaign is also used for scholarship and faculty endowments, which enable more students to afford the rising cost of a college education and faculty members to be compensated for time, energy, and support in making the University what it is.

These funds also go towards the Annual Fund which is used to cover the day-to-day expenses of the University. Under the direction of Thomas B. Hadzar, Vice-President for Development, this campaign solicits such funds from the Board of Trustees and those closest to the University — the students. It has reached out to alumni in over twenty cities to solicit funds on a one-to-one basis. The campaign officially concluded on December 31, 1991.

Acid Scare at Wilkes

by SUSAN DRAUS, Co-Editor

STARK LEARNING CENTER — Classes in Stark Learning Center were interupted Wednesday, September 18, when the Scranton Police Department's bomb squad arrived to dispose of a container of potentially explosive chemicals. Students were evacuated and the container was moved across the street to the river bank where it was later safely detonated at 4:35 p.m. Picric acid is an organic compound once commonly used to identify other chemicals in experiments. Dr. Faut, Head of the Chemistry Department, says that the compound has since been replaced by safer testing methods.

Employees discovered the container August 14 while renovating the chemical storage facilities. If the container were opened, the dust that collected in the cap could have created friction, causing the container to explode. The container was placed in a lead-lined, cement-walled vault used to store radioactive material until a way was found to dispose of it properly.

The compound could have been rendered harmless by "rehydrating" the mixture by drilling a hole into the container and adding water, but a New Jersey firm refused. Officials decided to have the bomb squad use blasting caps to detonate the compound.

Rodano's became a popular hang-out for Wilkes students and graduates alike. Shown is Wilkes graduate Ron Miller.

WILKES CAMPUS — Wilkes University received 1.9 million dollars, the largest donation ever in its fifty-eight year history, from the estate of long-time benefactor Anne McCartney Marts.

The donation will be used to help fund renovations to the school, and to help increase the endowment scholarships, according to officials.

WILKES CLEARED OF RESPONSIBILITY

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

WILKES-BARRE — The September 27 death of a Luzerne County electrician had Wilkes University officials in an uproar. Robert Curley of Wilkes-Barre, age 32, died of a massive dosage of thallium.

Thallium is a colorless, odorless, heavy metal previously used for rat poisoning until it was banned twenty years ago because of its extreme toxicity. Dr. George Hudock, Luzerne County Coroner, noted that Curley's body contained a volume of thallium equivalent to that of 900 Bayer aspirin tablets.

It had been suggested that Curley may have come in contact with the thallium while working at Wilkes University during the summer months while he was renovating the chemistry labs at the school. Thallium compounds had been stored in the labs at Wilkes. However, District Attorney Jerome Cohen said that the thallium in Curley's system was not absorbed through the skin, knowingly ingested, or caused by environmental exposure.

School officials issued statements declaring that tests had been performed which proved that the thallium dosage could not have come from the University.

Joan Curley, the widow of the poisoned man, called for a murder investigation to sweep away any public perception that she had a hand in her husband's death.

Currently, the D.A.'s office, police officials, and Hudock are still investigating although they now claim to know how and when Curley was poisoned. The thallium was said to be ingested through the man's ice tea thermos. No arrests have yet been made.

Wilkes Engineering Picked by U.S. Navy

by SUSAN DRAUS, Co-Editor

MUGFORD SUITE — The School of Science and Engineering at Wilkes University has been chosen by the United States Navy to offer an on-site graduate engineering program for personnel at the Naval Air Development Center in Warminster. Dr. Umid R. Nejib, Dean of the School of Science and Engineering at Wilkes, led efforts to win the contract during a nationwide solicitation for proposals.

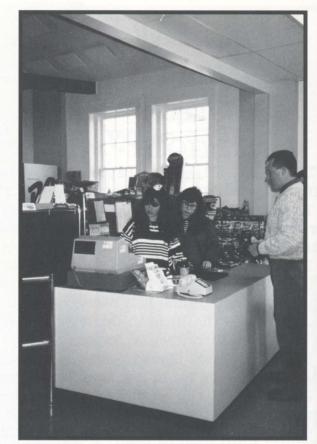

The graduate program will provide faculty to teach students at NADC near Philadelphia. Students completing the requirements will receive a master of science degree in electrical engineering with a concentration in navigation from Wilkes.

Keeling focuses mainly on the adolescent and young adult population. This age group has general knowledge of the HIV virus and how it it and is not transmitted, but the knowledge has not converted to a predictable change in behavior. More and more of these young people become HIV positive and continue the spread of the deadly disease. CHASE LAWN — Forty groups participated in this year's Club Day, which took place on September 5, making it the most successful in recent years.

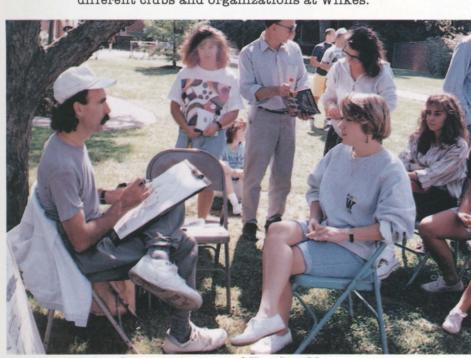

Club Day has become a tradition at Wilkes, providing clubs with a means of showing potential members what the club is all about. It also benefits the students by giving them the opportunity to talk with club members and ask questions about the organization.

"This was the largest and most successful Club Day that I've ever seen," said Michael Nolfe, Coordinator of Student Activites.

Students showed their spirit through eye catching stands, displays, and attractions. Highlights of the day included caricature drawings sponsored by the Programming Board, a gravity chair presented by the Physics Club, and the always flamboyant Cue-n-Curtain rubber chicken.

The Student Government clown welcomed students by passing out balloons, while the Martial Arts Club members entertained the crowd by breaking solid wood with their bare hands.

"Just about every club I spoke to seemed very happy with the number of new members," added Nolfe.

125 GRADUATE!

by LINDA WIERNUSZ, Lay-out Editor

MARTS CENTER- Amidst a crowded gymnasium, family, friends, faculty, and students joined Wilkes University in its annual summer Commencement and Convocation exercises.

Honoring the most recent Wilkes graduates and officially beginning the 1991-1992 academic year, the ceremony was held on August 29 in the Henry Gymnasium of the Marts Center.

During the exercises 125 graduates received their degrees, 77 of whom were Master's degrees and 48 were Bachelor's degrees. Most of those who received their Master's degrees were not the traditional twenty-something students, but rather working professionals with families who advanced their education on a part-time basis.

President Christopher N. Breiseth welcomed the 125 graduates to the 21st century and challenged them to become "world citizens."

While changes were taking place all over the world, particularly in the Soviet Union where the reigns of Communism were beginning to loosen, President Breiseth commented, "...we now know that an era has ended. The Cold War is over. A new era has begun."

Keeping with the world view, Breiseth advised the graduates, "Whatever your future occupation, your future employment, opportunities will increasingly be defined in international terms."

He ended his address by asking the graduates to extend a citizenship to the nation as well as the world to ensure a brighter future for generations to come.

RALSTON FIELD/CPA- Wilkes University celebrated Parent's Day on Saturday, October 5, 1991. This day offers students the opportunity to show their families what college life is all about and provides some time for families to relax and enjoy a fun-filled day together.

The day began early with a student talent show which took place in the CPA. Parents had the chance to see the hidden talents of their children and enjoy a good laugh. After the talent show, the Lady Colonels took on Juniata for a late morning field hockey game. Football followed with the Colonels dropping to rival Moravian.

The highlight of the day was comedian, Joe Bolster, from Comic Strip Live. Bolster performed Saturday evening in the CPA to a packed house of parents and students alike.

The day's events were successful and a good time was had by all, proving that most students felt the same- it's nice to see the family once in a while!

HOME SWEET HOME-COMING

by JEAN NEPA, Copy Editor

WILKES-BARRE- Wilkes University celebrated its 44th annual Homecoming the weekend of October 18. This year's theme was "Home Sweet Home".

The festivities began Thursday night at the Henry Gymnasium. A pep rally was held in place of the traditional bonfire. This was done in observance to a water conservation ordinance in the Wilkes-Barre area following a summer-long drought. Despite the change in plans, students' spirits were high as they packed the gym to show support for the sports teams and the homecoming candidates.

Following opening remarks, the 1991 Homecoming King and Queen candidates were introduced. Candidates for queen included: Christine Cardello, Loretta Carnival, Gena Grum, Lindsey Krivenko, Gina Lupini, Katie McGeary, Deb Rydelewski, Karen Shiavo, Becky Steinberger, Lori Truman, and Gina Viccaro. The three finalists chosen were: Loretta Carnival, Deb Rydelewski, and Lori Truman.

Nominated for king were: Paris Alunni, T.R. Andrake, Jon Ben, James Dawkins, Mick Dungan, Andy Feinberg, Sean Heron, Jerry Hoffman, Joe Lukas, Tom Mooney, and Tom Wittman. The three finalists chosen were: Paris Alunni, T.R. Andrake, and Mick Dungan.

The pep rally concluded with cheers of good luck for the football team in their match against Delaware Valley on Saturday.

Kickoff was at 1:30 for the battle betwen the Wilkes University Colonels and the Delaware Valley Aggies. Despite their gallant effort, the Colonels were defeated 35-24.

Wilkes Students Go "Into The Streets"

Carol Hiscox shares a story with a child during "Story Hour."

WILKES-BARRE- Into The Streets is a national program designed to introduce more students to thoughtful community service and to provide learning experiences on the subject of volunteering. Our Wilkes University students, along with members of the community, took part in this important program on Saturday, November 2, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Student coordinators from Wilkes included, Lori Fuller, Suzanne Trosko, Michele Corbett and Wayne McDonnell. Efforts from Dean Allen, Mary Martino and other faculty, helped this program get underway at Wilkes.

"The point of Into The Streets," stated Suzanne Trosko, "was to give students a day to see what community service is like and try to get them to make a commitment."

Four issues were selected for the focus of Wilkes students: Children and Youth; Education/Literacy; the Environment; and Housing, Homelessness and Hunger.

On the issue of Children and Youth, a Halloween party was planned for the Children of O'Karma Terrace. The party took place in the Student Union Building and provided the kids with two hours of fun shared by volunteers from Wilkes.

"Into the Streets" addressed the issue of Education and Literacy with a book collection for a literacy library in the Mineral Springs Housing Project. An additional activity planned was "Story Hour," where the REACH program, a ministry dedicated to helping youth who have no where to go while their parents work, had Wilkes students read stories, play games and entertain the children.

Addressing the environmental concerns, Off Campus Council, Student Government and ROTC helped clean up the neighborhood in and around the Wilkes campus. E.E.S. cleaned up the soon to be designated nature trail, "The TUBBS," along route 115, while the Biology club mantained a clean environment near the Cross Valley Expressway. Last but not least, residence halls collected bottles and cans to be taken to the Allen Industries recycling center.

To alleviate the problems of Housing, Homelessness and Hunger, the CEO helped Wilkes volunteers move furniture and clean the homes of the elderly while the Sociology club took part in Feed A Friend, distributing boxes of food for the annual collection.

Into the Streets concluded with a dinner and dance in RUMOURS, sponsored by the Multi-Cultural Club, with proceeds benefitting the Habitat for Humanity and Hunlock Creek Project. The dinner gave the various groups the opportunity to speak about what they had done that day and how it affected each person as an individual.

Hopefully, a day such as Into The Streets will continue every year, so people will start to feel the need to volunteer such as our students did.

HALLOWEEN "HAUNTS" WILKES CAMPUS

By LORI TRUMAN, Editor

WILKES UNIVER. CAMPUS — Wilkes was overrun with spirits this Halloween as several campus organizations sponsored "fright-night" activities.

Dennison Hall became the site of "The Evil Estate, The Nightmare on Franklin Street" as both Wilkes and King's Circle K members, along with many area high school students, converted the vacant building into a haunted house. The "Evil Estate" ran from October 25-31 and was a huge success. Money raised was donated to the "Habitat for Humanity" program.
Commuter Council and IRHC sponsored a

"Mocktails-Halloween Dance" on Saturday, October 26th, in Rumours. Students enjoyed a variety of snacks and mocktails in honor of National Alcohol Awareness Week. Music was provided by the band, "Strand". Prizes, such as cash and free tickets to the haunted house, were awarded for the best costumes.

And of course, what would Halloween be at Wilkes without the usual costume parties at many off-campus apartments. Numerous scary activities took place at apartments on Barnum Place, South Street and Sullivan Street and featured such characters as Playboy bunnies, cavemen, and the gang from Sesame Street.

Adding to the ever-present fear of Halloween night was the nation-wide rumor of a huge massacre to occur on a college campus in the northeast section of the country. This tale stemmed from a prediction by Nostradomas, a famed prophet from thousands of years ago.

Panic spread across campuses up and down the east coast. Thankfully, no such massacre occurred.

The dance, parties, haunted house and even the fear of a massacre combined to provide a good time, a good scare, and a great Halloween.

HENRY GYMNASIUM — On Sunday, November 16th the Wilkes Colonels took to the mat against the Soviet Junior National Wrestling Team.

This match was only an exhibition dual for the Colonels, but pitted the wrestlers against some formidable opponents, giving them valuable experience for the upcoming season.

The Colonels initially held the lead in the contest, but the Soviets' heavier weight classes eventually turned the score in their favor, with the match ending at 26-14.

Although losing the match was a disappointment, the Colonels still managed to display their great wrestling talent. In a nation-wide tour of the United States, the Soviets had only lost twice. "This was something that these men will remember for a lifetime. It was a great experience for all of us and we gained international exposure to boot," stated Coach Reese.

BALTIMORE — On October 26, 1991, twenty Biology majors led by Dr. Michael Steele travelled to the National Aquarium in Baltimore, Maryland and to the National Zoo in Washington D. C. for some first-hand observations of animal behavior. The two-day trip is a requirement for the four-credit course, but most of the bio majors in the class didn't mind. "I think the trip was a good experience,"said Mark Stanakis, a senior. "Most courses don't offer the opportunity to learn outside of the classroom."

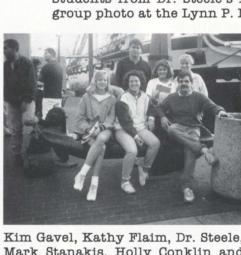

Other than having a little extra work to do while on the trip, the students also had a chance to do some shopping and sightseeing on their own.

The prospects for a full Animal Behavior class look promising for next year, as many students have already expressed an interest in enrolling in the class. An educational weekend trip sparked by Dr. Steele's enthusiasm has turned this Biology class into a great educational experience.

Father Greeley is a syndicated columnist, sociology professor at the University of Arizona, an author of numerous best sellers and one of the Catholic churches most outspoken critics.

A taste of Father Greeley's topics include the normalcy of homosexuality, ordaining women as priests and the issue of abortion. Greeley's lecture for Wilkes students pertained to "God in the Movies: Religion in Popular Culture."

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS GIVE THANKS TOGETHER

by BARBARA KING, Special to the Amnicola

RUMOURS — Unlike Christmas and Easter, Thanksgiving is a unique American experience. No matter what religious or ethnic background you are from, Thanksgiving is the time to count our blessings in the company of family and friends. The International-American Club held the sixth annual International Thanksgiving Dinner on Sunday, November 24.

Although traditional turkey was the main course, the rest of the dinner was anything but traditional. Ninety-six students and faculty members from seventeen countries contributed dishes from their homeland. Replacing mashed potatoes and stuffing were Tandoori chicken, Iraqi rice, Egyptian potatoe casserole, and Japanese vegetables. Many students arrived in traditional dress adding to the color and diversity of the event.

International Thanksgiving allows our students, some of whom are 10,000 miles from home, to participate in an American holiday where political and geographic differences are put aside and the spirit of camaraderie is shared with faculty and friends.

plan and host the dinner.

Guests at the International Dinner were educated on foods from other countries.

Faculty wives Shamla Chebolu, Umarani Srinivasan, Tarannum Kalim, and Bushra Ahmad added color to the event with their native dress.

It appeared that President Breiseth had his holidays confused when he arrived at the Dinner.

There was much camaraderie between Hongsoo Kim, Inkwan Baek, Kakit Chan, Kyu-Man Hwang, and Mohamed Abul Aziz during the festivities.

MARTS CENTER — Wilkes University Programming Board presented a night of laughter November 10, 1991, by bringing the comedy routines of David Spade and Dana Carvey to the Arnaud C. Marts Center. Carvey, one of the most popular comedians on NBC's "Saturday Night Live," performed some of his famous characters for a packed house of 2100.

During the 90-minute performance, Carvey went to comedic-lengths to perform the piano routine "Chopin' Broccoli" and an imprompto ballad entitled "Cindy and Mike," after two audience members.

Opening for Carvey was a fellow SNL comedian David Spade. Spade, on stage for twenty minutes, took full advantage of the short period to warm to the audience with his versatile style. His performance included skits about drivers, women, his family, and an extremely accurate impression of Michael J. Fox. He offered the men in the audience some advice — "girls who wear 'scrunchies' are evil!"

Both comedians had the audience rolling in the aisles and eagerly awaiting the "appearance" of Dana's most popular character the "Church Lady." Carvey's portrayal of the pristine, judgemental mature woman provided enough laughs for an encore presentation and a fitting ending to a night of fantastic comedy. "Well. . .isn't that special?!"

An eager crowd awaits the two comedians for a fun-filled evening.

Students visited Rockerfeller Center to watch the skaters.

COUNCIL "COMMUTES" TO NEW YORK CITY

by SUSAN DRAUS, Co-Editor

NEW YORK CITY - The Wilkes University Commuter Council sponsored an annual trip to New York City to kick off Thanksgiving Break. Every year the Wednesday before Thanksgiving sees a bus-trip from Wilkes University to the Big Apple. The trip is open to the entire student body at a minimal cost. The students arrive at Radio City Music Hall early in the morning and are free to roam the city for the day; most shop, others sight-see, some make plans to see a show and have dinner. Those students spending Thanksgiving in Wilkes-Barre are picked up and return to Wilkes tired and ready for break.

Dorothy Price, Commuter Council Adviser, and Nicolette Yevage eagerly await reaching New York City.

WILKES HOLDS HOLIDAY DINNER-DANCE

by SUSAN DRAUS, Co-Editor

RUMOURS — IRHC and Commuter Council sponsored this year's holiday dinner-dance on December 7, 1991. This gave students a last minute break before cramming for the finals that closed the first semester and led to winter break. The event was held on campus in the club RUMOURS, which was festively decorated to celebrate the up-coming holidays. "Mocktails" were served prior to dinner and a buffet allowed those students attending plenty of traditional Christmas fixings. There was no time afterward for "a long winter's nap" as a disc jockey provided plenty of music to dance the night away.

This couple had "visions" of each other not "sugarplums" as they danced.

Students had time to sit back and relax before worrying about finals which were right-around the-corner.

"How low can you go?" easily became the theme later in the night as the "Limbo" had students on the dance floor.

Kathleen Jones and Judy Melnic had plenty of cheer as they started celebrating the holidays.

PICKERING — Holidays, especially Christmas, are celebrated throughout all the dorms on the Wilkes Campus. Each dorm carries on some special tradition unique to the dorm and the students who live there. For many this includes a "Secret Santa" game as well as personal gift-giving activities between close friends. Almost all dorms host a traditional-style holiday dinner which allows for a "family" atmosphere and an occasion to dress-up.

This year, the men at Pickering went all out with their celebration. A huge tree dominated the "pit" area of the dorm courtesy of Bob Bloom, Coordinator of Residence Life. The guys got into the holiday spirit by making sure the large tree was adequately trimmed. Some of the students spent time on the weekends popping corn to string about the tree.

On Sunday, December 8, the gentlemen hosted a Christmas Dinner Party. The guest of honor was President Breiseth and some parents also attended. Christmas carols were sung as students and guests gathered around the tree.

HOLIDAY CHEER SPREADS AT WILKES

WILKES UNIVER. CAMPUS — The onset of winter means more than just final exams to Wilkes students. Between long study sessions, all-nighters, and endless pots of coffee, many students find the time to release tensions as well as prepare for the up-coming holidays that await their return home for break.

Christmas activities begin with the "acquisition" of a tree. Once this is accomplished decorating begins. And do the students decorate! Lounges, windows, as individual rooms are strung with lights, tinsel, ornaments, and the occasional mistletoe.

Holiday foods are prepared, cookies are baked, and gifts are exchanged before the students leave for break. Traditions begin, are upheld and passed along as everyone gets into the spirit of things. Many off-campus residences hold gatherings before departing ranging from the small and private to the larger open hallways, and doors, as well boistrous celebrations.

Matt Troutman briefly pauses as he passes the tree adorning Pickering Hall.

RALSTON FIELD — The Wilkes Colonels, despite a struggling season, had a consistent high-spirited attitude which showed throughout their games.

Tom Mooney, who served as co-captain along with Jason Langdon, said, "The attitude was better. We didn't give up any games. We played some tough teams and kept the scores close."

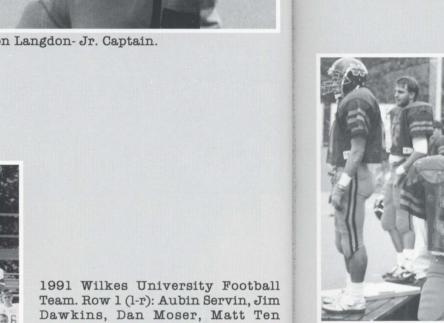

A key ingredient for the Colonels' highlights was that Coach DeMelfi put freshmen and sophomores in the games. The reason, coach states, is that "their experience will be helpful in the coming season."

Mooney added, "If the attitude stays the same, next year's team should do well."

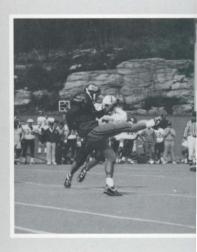

Receiving honors in the Middle Atlantic Conference are Steve Endres, Joe Enders, and Jason Langdon.

MEN'S SOCCER

By Lori Truman, Amnicola Co-Editor

RALSTON FIELD — Once again, the Wilkes University Men's Soccer team made headlines with a successful season. The team posted a mark of 16-5-1 in the '91 season, in route to breaking many long-standing University records.

Among the milestones reached by the team this year were: most wins in a season(16), most shutouts in a season(13), and the team's leading scorer, Paul Jellen, broke the school record for most goals in a season(20). Along with these honors, the Colonels also earned the title of Co-Champions of the Northeast Division of the MAC. Steve Maloney also broke the school's single-season assist record with 14 assists and ended his four years with another Wilkes record: 34 career assists.

Senior Ron Rainey and Jellen were also selected to First Team All-MAC honors, while teammates Chris Dahm and Maloney grabbed Second Team All-MAC selections.

Senior T.R. Andrake expressed his feelings about his last season, "We just had a great year, especially by breaking the record (for most wins). As a team, we were all close and really worked as an efficient unit."

The colonels entered this season as the defending ECAC Southern Division Champions.

After kicking their way through another successful season, the Colonels put themselves in the ECAC's semifinal round, ready to defend their title. Ironically, the Colonels found themselves pitted against the very team they defeated last year for the title- Frostburg State. Unfortunately, this year the luck was with Frostburg. The Colonels were defeated 3-2 after a valient comeback effort. (cont. page 37)

Andrake agreed, "It was disappointing that we worked so hard to come back and we came up short. We had to realize that our season was over."

FIELD HOCKEY

By Lori Truman, Amnicola Co-Editor

RALSTON FIELD — 1991 was another year for solid field hockey performances by the Wilkes University Lady Colonels. The Wilkes women put forth a commendable 7-8-2 record. Although '91 was not a winning season it was certainly a memorable one.

"We definitely played better quality hockey than our record shows," explains senior member Lindsey Krivenko. "The important thing is that we had a lot of fun. We were very team oriented, and the personalities of our team just worked well together."

Fellow senior Loretta Carnival agrees, "Being on the team was hard work, but a lot of fun. Everyone has a strong sense of teamwork."

While the Lady Colonels were enjoying themselves, they were also hard at work playing topnotch field hockey, as evidenced by several honors garnered by the team. Amy Antinnes and Lindsey Krivenko were selected as MAC All Stars. Antinnes, a senior and the team's top scorer, was also awarded the "Offensive Player of the Year" award. Krivenko was honored with the "Defensive Player of the Year" award. Newcomer Amy Pyle was awarded "Outstanding Freshman' status as well.

Overall, the players agreed it was the outstanding coaching by Addy Malatesta which led to such success.

"Addy is more than just a coach," explained Loretta Carnival, "she's a good friend as well."

Obviously, teamwork, superb leadership, and true enjoyment of the game all contributed to this year's success as well.

Krivenko finishes, "As a senior, leaving the team was terrible- one of the saddest things I've had to do. It's tough to let go of such a great experience."

VOLLEYBALL

By Gena Grum, Assistant Copy Editor and Kathy Monahan, Staff Member.

HENRY GYMNASIUM — The 1991 season for the Wilkes Volleyball team turned out to be a different year than anticipated by many of the players. It was not a season of great success but a season of learning, togetherness, and frustration.

The team went through many adjustments during 1990-91. After being assigned two new coaches last year, the team was ready for a stable season; instead, the players had to adjust to the style of two new coaches once again. It took some time before the coaches and players understood one another and began to work together. "Practically the whole season," stated senior Kathy Monahan. This is where the togetherness and frustration came from. Kathy stated, "A Wilkes volleyball team has never been so close together as players and friends in the past two years. The team pulled together to help one another learn the game and to help each other through the frustration of a new head coach."

All in all the season was a learning experience — learning how to deal with people and new coaches.

SOCCER

By Missie Chinchar.

RALSTON FIELD — Over the past four seasons, the Wilkes women's soccer team has been building a solid program for the future. But this season, they had more to prove.

When the Lady Colonels began this season, their expectations were high. The team's balance of new faces and seasoned veterans produced a recordsetting season.

Under four-year Head Coach Kathy Miller, the team broke the school record for most wins in a season, establishing a new mark at five wins. This was quite an accomplishment considering the youthfulness of the program.

Four captains lead the team to the new mark. Seniors Denise Carson and Dawn Hosler will be missed on the field next year, while two juniors Diane Gibbs and Kelly Bruegger will return for one more season.

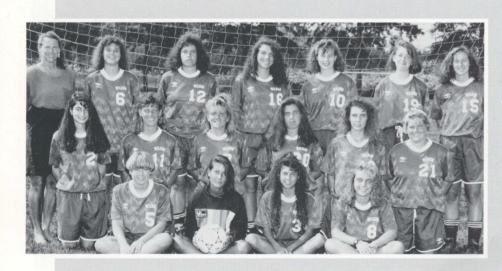

Overall, the Lady Colonels can look back on this season and realize that not only did they build for seasons to come, but they molded together as a team and established a new mark to set their goals for the future.

WILKES-BARRE- Apartment life at Wilkes entered a new phase this year, as apartment dwellers worked to improve their relationship with the local community.

With Wilkes students and community members battling for better coverage of their viewpoints in the local papers, apartment parties were toned down a bit.

The parties still raged on, but students took care to keep within the confines of their apartments and control the noise level (descriptions of Barnum St. aside).

Relations between Wilkes Students and the community have increased in importance as more students vacate the residence halls for the freedom of apartment life. "Moving off-campus was a really good decision for me. I had a great experience in the dorms but I doubt I could ever go back to dorm life now," stated Junior, Missy Chinchar.

DORM LIFE

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

WILKES UNIVERSITY CAMPUS-Living at Wilkes can be as varied an experience as the residence halls are diverse. And this year was no exception.

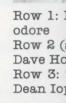

Dorm meetings began with the usual chance to organize two educational and social programs for the year. That's where the similarities ended.

While Catlin Hall learned about child abuse, Miner 3rd united to color this year's Easter eggs. Greg Kranko led the men of Dirksen in the Nintendo Olympics, and yes Barre Hall launched its first Snowman Making Contest.

Stark Learning Center served as the site for several dorm activities as students gathered at the Student Government Forum and the date rape lecture. Nurse Betty Kwak took her safe sex talk on the road and visited several halls for more intimate discussion.

Next year's resident students wil no doubt plan a divergent line up of activities, but their living options will be reduced by one.

Spring 1992 marked the last year the voices of Wilkes students will echo in the stairwells of Miner Hall. Future Wilkes students will never know the pleasure of climbing five flights of stairs, waiting in line for a shower (with a bucket, of course!), and reconstructing their beds before that final check-out.

COMMUTER

by KIMBERLY ESCARAGE, Staff Writer

STARK LOBBY- Being a commuter can be a rather adventurous experience. For many it means driving anywhere from five minutes to over an hour each way. Then, the desperate struggle to find a parking space begins. Some are lucky enough to receive parking permits for the lots located on campus, but then you must arrive early enough to stake claim to a parking place.

For those who are not lucky enough to have a parking permit, or those late arrivals who can't find an empty space on a University lot, street parking is always an alternative. Now the commuter prays for enough change to make it through all his classes without getting a ticket and enough time in between classes to replenish the meter.

Commuter life does have its advantages, though. Commuter students can still enjoy home-cooked meals, they don't get homesick, and can usually have their laundry done on a regular basis with no additional costs. They don't have to worry about packing and unpacking and they don't have to wait for the weekends or holidays to go home.

Commuter students can usually be found in the SUB, Stark Lobby, or the library, especially when papers, projects, and homework are due. Some commuters spend more time at school than at home depending on their course load and a variety of other options that are available to them. Many events, such as bus trips, are sponsored by the Commuter Council and are open to all students, not just commuters. Then, there are always the off-campus apartment parties and all of the activities that go along with having friends that live at school. Being a commuter can be annoying at times and exciting at others, but it is never boring.

Cue and Curtain is a campus club which was organized for students of all majors to get involved with theatre at Wilkes. Among other projects, each year the club stages its own production, usually a children's show.

Following the tradition of children's shows such as "Everybody, Everybody" and "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," this year the club chose a new children's musical by Maurice sendak called "Really Rosie." Not only did the show help to raise funds for Cue and Curtain, but it also introduced the excitement of theatre to children in the community.

The club also gets involved in the bigger theatre department productions and hopes, in the future, to sponsor alternative theatre at Wilkes as well as continue with the more traditional shows.

IABC

The Wilkes Chapter of the IABC (International Association of Business Communicators) is one of three in Pennsylvania, and was formed in 1990. Wilkes IABC is a professional organization that is open to all business and communications majors.

Over the past year IABC has been very active. It has hosted two voter registrations and a career fair, where four Wilkes graduates attended to discuss the transition from college to a full-time career.

Wilkes IABC has also worked with the downtown merchants. In November the club sponsored a bowl-athon which raised money for the Domestic Violence Women's Center and the IABC's treasury. Downtown merchants donated gift certificates and prizes and in return IABC members helped with their Christmas promotion.

On Earth Day, April 22, IABC hosted a display which featured aluminum can crushing, emphasized the importance of products that minimize packaging, and promoted local merchants who practice green marketing.

Faculty advisor for the chapter is Jane Elmes-Crahall, Assistant Professor of Communications at Wilkes. Donna Sedor, Communications Manager for the Greater Wilkes-Barre Partnership serves as professional advisor. The Wilkes chapter is sponsored by IABC/Lehigh Valley.

ETA KAPPA NU

A new chapter of Eta Kappa Nu, a National electrical engineering honor society, was installed on December 6, 1991. Although at Wilkes a relatively short time, Professor Kirk Bush saw the need for an EKN chapter and was the driving force behind establishing the Kappa Beta Chapter. The initiation ritual was conducted by James D'Arcy, the current National President; Robert Arehart, immediate past National President; Dr. Kirk Bush, Chapter Faculty Advisor; and Timothy Sichler, a visiting Assistant Professor at Wilkes. Six faculty members and thirteen students were inducted into the newly formed chapter as charter members.

The chapter officers are: Jeff Webster, President and Recording Secretary; Kimberly Karrott, Vice-President and Treasurer; Michael Miller, Corresponding Secretary and Bridge Correspondant.

The Kappa Beta Chapter hosted a farewell dinner for the graduating electrical engineers. The highlight of the dinner was a teacher's roast, conducted by the graduates. The chapter is hoping this will become an annual event.

The 1992 school year was an active year for the sophomore class. The purpose of the class officers and representatives is to act as a liaison between the University and the class. The officers also get together to plan events and fundraisers throughout the semester.

The sophomores kicked off the year on Club Day in September. Datamatch proved to be profitable and has proven entertaining. The event has been scheduled to be included in the agenda for years to come. The class also ordered class t-shirts featuring the top ten reasons to go to Wilkes. The class participated in the Cherry Blossom Festival.

The biggest event that the sophomores participated in was the St. Patrick's Day Parade. The sophomore volunteers took a month out of their schedules in order to devote unlimited hours into the first float Wilkes University has ever produced. It was a warming experience, that the officers hope to include in next year's schedule. The float received publicity from the area TV stations and a first page article in the BEACON.

A special treat came to the sophomore officers from Trustee Clifford Melberger. The ten elected class representatives were invited to a luncheon with Mr. Melberger. At the luncheon the students received a tour of the company, Diversified Records, and they also were given the chance to express their views about campus life.

Earth Conservancy

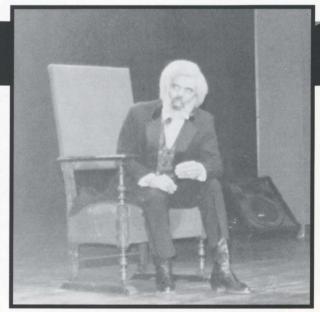

by WENDY RAUGHLEY, Staff Writer

LUZERNE COUNTY- The Earth Conservancy is trying to reclaim the bank-rupt Blue Coal Mine land in Luzerne County.

The Conservancy is a non-profit organization which plans, according to Dr. Umid Nejib, to "develop innovative technologies which are economically feasible and self-supporting, and will capitalize on regional expertise and resources to meet its objectives."

In other words, this project will use resources in the Wyoming Valley to benefit the nation, as well as the Valley. The Valley, however, will be the first priority.

The Conservancy's first step is to use the 15,000 acres of land belonging to the bankrupt Blue Coal Mine to build an Applied Research Center whose main purpose is to develop and commercially market portable water jet technology. (see COAL MINE, page 165)

ROTC HOLDS HOMELESS SLEEP-OUT

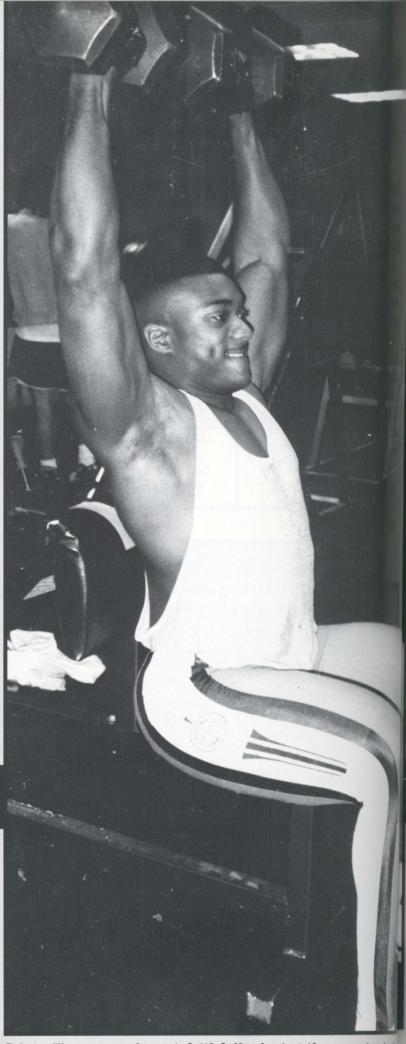

By SUSAN DRAUS, Co-Editor

BELL TOWER — The Wilkes University Air Force ROTC students held a Homeless Sleep-Out on Saturday, March 28th to benefit the St. Vincent de Paul Kitchen in Wilkes-Barre. The event also helped to spur awareness of the homeless problem in Luzerne County and throughout the nation. The students slept on the lawn beneath the Bell Tower without food or shelter from 8 p.m. Saturday until 8 a.m. Sunday morning.

Area businesses and individuals were solicited to sponsor a student and help support the local soup kitchen.

Generator Fire Forces Students Out

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

EVANS — Early March 1st over 200 residents in Evans Hall were awakened to participate in what they thought was an evacuation drill. An actual fire did break out on the 5th floor, however, forcing its residents out at approximately 5:30 a.m.

Bill Tevele, an R.A. in Evans said "The power went out around 5:00 a.m. A pipe burst on the 5th floor and when the water hit the transformer it (the transformer) caught fire and set off all the alarms."

Students were relocated to Stark Lobby or to other dorms until the fire was extinguished. Students were allowed to return to their rooms at 10:40 a.m. Sunday morning, but were without electricity and water. A backup generator was used to restore power temporarily, but at 6:30 p.m. the failure of the backup resulted in a blackout which forced students out once again.

At 8:00 p.m. all power was finally restored and students were allowed to return to the dorm. Monday morning at 10:30 a.m. a short caused another power failure which, fortunately, only lasted twenty minutes.

Students enjoy their last week together participating in special events like the Senior Picnic held at Ralston Field.

COAL MINES — This technology, developed at the Rock Mechanics Laboratory at the University of Missouri-Rolla, will bring jobs and a use for abandoned coal mines. Water jets can be used for safely disarming weapons and mining coal, in otherwise unuseable flooded mine areas, thus creating a new source for fossil fuel.

Congressman Paul Kanjorski secured $20 million in federal funds on January 14, 1990, to buy, through the Earth Conservancy, the land associated with the Blue Coal Mine. This grant was awarded mostly because of the military applications. Thanks to the end of the Cold War, Pentagon officials are searching for a way to safely bore live ammunition from shells to recycle the metal casings. Water jet techology is the safest solution to the problem.

Water jets also may be a short term answer to our disappearing natural resources. The jets, according to Dr. David Summers, a Rolla professor and head of the research team, can mine coal in small enough particles that it could be a substitute for diesel fuel. It will reopen and make a good use for the mines and remaining coal in the area.

O.C.C. Deals with "Party Problems" by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

WILKES UNIVERSITY — An article appearing in the March 4th issue of the local Citizens' Voice, touched off a month-long series of "negotiations" between the Off Campus Council at Wilkes University and the residents of 10 East South Street. The article termed the South Street apartments, where many Wilkes students reside, an "insane asylum" and featured interviews with residents of the South Street apartment complex. Neighbors complained about students' loud parties and claimed that Wilkes students had stolen street signs, vandalized property, thrown used condoms at their building, and had urinated and deficated on their property.

A follow-up article appeared in the Times Leader presenting the student point of view against the accusations. Most students felt the accusations were ridiculous and untrue. "It's absurd and frustrating. I've made an effort to know my neighbors so something like this would never happen. We wouldn't do any of that, we want to get along with the neighbors." said Mick Dungan, a Senior and South Street resident. Several meetings of the Off Campus Council were held to discuss the problem. A meeting was planned with the Tenants Association of 10 East South Street and several O.C.C. representatives. Wilkes representatives present at the meeting held on March 29th were Lori Truman, O.C.C. President; Tom Wittman, Student Government President; and Leigh Major, O.C.C. Advisor.

Approximately thirty tenants and representatives pledged to "get the word out to students" and to encourage more consideration toward the neighbors. The tenants promised to be more understanding and to establish better lines of communication between themselves and the students.

1992 Class Gift

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

WILKES UNIVERSITY — The 1992 Graduating Class at Wilkes University met on March 19th and were presented a plan for the annual Senior Class Gift Program. Structured so that the newest University alumni can contribute to the annual fund on a graduated scale, gifts begin in 1992 with a $10.00 donation and increase each year by $5.00 until a total of $100.00 is given by each graduating senior in 1997.

Bernadette Fornicola, Director of Alumni Giving, explains, "The Senior Gift Program gives students the opportunity to say 'Thank You' to Wilkes University." At the end of the campaign, the class will be surveyed to determine how the funds from the program will be used. Scholarships, monuments, renovations, and equipment are all possibilities.

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

WILKES UNIVERSITY — Wilkes President, Christopher Breiseth and nounced a 6% increase in tuition for the 1992-93 academic year.

The Board of Trustees passed the preliminary 1992-93 budget which sets tuition at $10,500 and room-and board at $4,500. "We are acutely awar of the difficult economic times facing the University, our students, and their parents," said Breiseth. "We are also mindful of the sacrifices made by those who attend Wilkes and every effort is made to keep the costs down."

The Trustees, along with approving higher costs, also approved increasing the amount of financial aid available to Wilkes students from $3,200 to $4,200.

"Wilkes will continue this effort we keep costs down and remain sensitive to the circumstances of our students," Breiseth added.

S.G. Hosts Anual Forum

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

STARK LEARNING CENTER — SLC 101 was the scene for the Annual Open Forum held Tuesday, February 11. Each year Student Government hosts the event as an opportunity for students to "speak out" and let their opinions be heard.

Students addressed the seventeen-member panel for approximately one-and-a-half hours. Hosted by Student Government Treasurer, John Comerford, the forum was held with a question-answer format. All students stepped to the microphone and stated their name and question. The panel was then given the opportunity to answer with a brief reply.

Although some panel members were not specifically addressed, some were repeatedly questioned on hot topics including tuition, book prices, and cafeteria food.

This year's event was organized by Student Government member Jennifer Myers and SLC 101 was filled to capacity.

CENTER FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS — The Multicultural Student Coalition sponsored a dramatic presentation of The Life of Frederick Douglass, An American Slave by Fred Morsell on January 30.

Assuming the persona of Douglass the orator, Morsell recreated the world enslaved Dougless inhabited from childhood to adulthood.

Morsell's inspired portrayal conveyed how emotionally wrenching Douglass' daily life was. Morsell recounted incidents where Douglass was beaten, deprived of basic life necessities, and forced to witness the beatings of his fellow slaves.

DORTHY DICKSON DARTE CENTER — Late spring may no longer be the season marking graduation festivities for many Wilkes students.

With an overflowing crowd at the Center for the Performing Arts on January 23rd, the 1992 winter commencement exercises conferred degrees on 158 Wilkes students, making the ceremony one of the largest in the University's history.

Newly appointed Vice President for Academic Affairs, Dr. J. Michael Lennon, addressed the graduates in his first public appearance on campus.

Dr. Lennon instructed the audience on ways to avoid living "lives of quiet desperation."

Snowball Gala Held

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

GENETTI'S — Over 150 Wilkes students and faculty celebrated the chilly weather on February 7th, at the "Snowball Gala" held at Genetti's.

The dance began with cocktails followed by a buffet-style dinner. After dinner there was dancing to music provided by "Stereo Optics."

The "Snowball Gala" replaced the annual Valentine's Dance spomsored by the Commuter Council. According to C.C. President and Dance Coordinator Becky Steinberger, the name of the dance was changed so that students without dates planning to attend would not feel uncomfortable.

The plan must have worked because most students attending "went stag," or in groups. the dance was scheduled until 1:00 a.m. but many students left abruptly at 12:00 when a reportedly jealous gun-toting boyfriend arrived on the scene! School and local authorities handled the situation without incident. Although no shots were fired, we can safely say that the "Snowball Gala" ended with a bang!

CENTER FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS — Top comedianne Paula Poundstone has made several appearances on the David Letterman Show, Saturday Night Live, and the Tonight Show, along with many performances on HBO and other cable channels. On February 8, she dazzled a packed house at Wilkes University.

Poundstone spontaneously joked with a "sliiiiick" lawyer in the audience about the origin of the name of Wilkes-Barre and its correct pronounciation.

She also poked fun at Senators Orren Hatch and Jesse Helms. Poundstone admitted that she didn't watch all of the Clarence Thomas hearings (see COMEDY, page 174)

WILKES SPONSORS SEVERAL BLOOD DRIVES

by SUSAN DRAUS, Co-Editor

HENRY GYMNASIUM — Several times throughout the school year Wilkes University sponsored blood drives to aid the Red Cross.

To encourage students and faculty to give the gift of life the University offered several prizes which were given away at each drive. Domino's Pizza was provided for donors and volunteers in the fall. Hillside Dairy served ice cream to the spring semester donors.

Among the prizes were lunch at "Legends" in Genetti's and tickets to a show at the F.M. Kirby Center. Other gifts included certificates from Stroud's, Blockbuster Video, Odyssey Fitness Center, Nails Beautiful, Marquis Art and Frame, T&F Tire and a fresh flower arrangement from Washington Florist.

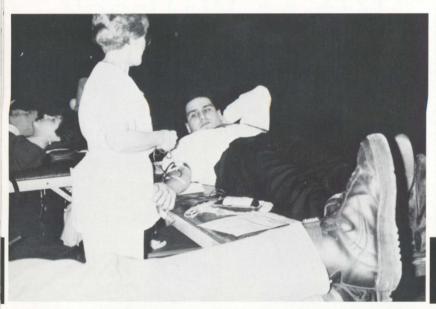

Those individuals who donated blood at all three drives sponsired by Wilkes were eligible for a special drawing held in May for a $200 savings bond donated by Hanover Bank.

COMEDY — No one on Capitol Hill was safe from Poundstone's comments, including George Bush. Presidential elections this year will be a matter of choosing the lesser of all evils.

By the end of her performance there wasn't a person in the house not laughing. Many who attended had never seen the comedianne before, but when the walked out they had come to appreciate her humor.

WILKES UNIVERSITY — Wilkes University celebrated Multicultural Awareness Week with events highlighting cultural diversity. Organized by the Multicultural Student Coalition, the events commenced on Monday, February 24th with an open forum and concluded on Thursday, February 27th.

The English Department in conjunction with the Manuscript Society sponsored the highlight of the week: a poetry reading by Amiri Baraka and Rashidah Ismaili on Wednesday, February 26th at 8 p.m. in the Center for the Performing Arts.

The celebration included two festivals in Stark Lobby hosted by the International Club. On Tuesday the club introduced the student body to food and music from all over the world. On Thursday, the club members donned their native garb and decorated the lobby with flags and artifacts from their

by SUSAN DRAUS and LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editors

WILKES UNIVERSITY — Although temperatures dipped below freezing for much of the weekend, nothing could freeze the fun of Winter Weekend '92.

More than 500 students participated in the weekend's activities which began Friday, February 28th. Teams competed in volleyball games, dodgeball, tug-of-war, and a "blind" basketball relay race for points.

A spirit contest was held between the teams followed by costume and banner judging. This year's theme was based on cereal names. A variety of "flakes" turned out this year to compete in events that were held in Ralston Field despite the low temperatures. Snow and freezing winds forced team members to huddle for warmth between events.

A break in the festivities allowed the participants to return to the cafeteria for lunch (see WEEKEND, page 178)

WILKES-BARRE — The Luck of the Irish was found all over Wilkes-Barre for St. Patrick's Day.

Students donned green attire and packed into the local "Irish" bars, including Harrigan's, and Keenan's. Novelty hats and buttons were randomly distributed to add to the festivity of the holiday. Both bars became so crowded that many had to wait their turn outside on the sidewalks.

Saturday, March 7th, turned the entire city Irish for a few hours with the Annual St. Patrick's Day Parade. Wilkes Sophomore Class participated in the parade and entered a float. Students on board threw candy to the crowds lining the streets of Wilkes-Barre.

Irish or not, everyone had a good time from "top o' the morning" until end of night.

RUMOURS — Once again Student Government pulled off another fantastic night of Atlantic City style gambling right here on Wilkes University Campus. The Annual Casino Night transformed Rumours Night Club into Vegas on March 27th, with the help of the Sophomores Joanne DeLucca and Kevin Barno.

Students tried their luck at roulette, black jack, and a variety of money wheels while enjoying free pizza and soda.

Wilkes faculty as well as some Student Government members worked as dealers to make the evening run smoothly. At the end of the evening students gathered their winnings, which consisted of wooden chips, and bid for numerous prizes that were available. Prizes ranged from a stereo system to cases of soda.

Lou Cuomo was the lucky winner of a weekend trip to New York City. Cuomo received a limousine ride to and from N.Y. along with hotel accomodations, theater tickets, dinner, and spending money.

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

THE TROPICS — Picture this — it's the start of the Spring Semester at Wilkes. The library is filled with students, Stark Lobby is busy... but so is the weight room, and aerobics classes are filled to capacity! Did a sudden physical fitness craze hit Wilkes? More than likely, it's students preparing for that all-important date — April 10 — SPRING BREAK!!!

Spring Break was scheduled later this year for Wilkes students, so many had the extra opportunity to get in shape and save more money for the big week.

Whether the destination was Panama City, Myrtle Beach, or Cancun, Mexico the goal for all Spring-breakers was to have fun. The school-sponsored trip to Panama City was booked solid. Many students drove on their own as the bus was over-booked with fun (and sun!) seekers.

Other students searched for sun elsewhere — Tampa, Ft. Lauderdale, and Miami. There were even some unconventional vacation spots this year, like Texas, California, and Las Vegas.

Spring Break wasn't fun-in-the-sun for everybody, though. Some students still had to work, study, or visit with family at home.

No matter where or how students spent Spring Break, all were in agreement at one point — A break from school, anywhere, was definitely enjoyable.

Presidential Candidate Visits Wilkes!

WILKES-BARRE - On April 16, 1992 Wilkes University was host to presidential candidate Jerry Brown as he ascended the campaign trail. The community came out in full force to show their support for the grass roots candidate and crowded Rumours until they overflowed into the hall. While reiterating his platform for all present, amidst clapping and cheering, Mr. Brown made poignant references to the strip mines of Hanover and the McDonald's replacing the trains of Wilkes-Barre as reasons for change. Other issues he addressed were education, the environment, POW's/MIA's, the national health care system, and the rebuilding of America's infrastructure. During the question and answer period that followed, the presidential hopeful was awarded a jacket by local veterans' organization, and Mr. Brown reassured a young girl that if elected, he would restore public libraries to their former glory. The overall response to Jerry Brown exceeded enthusiasm and many were convinced that no other than Jerry Brown could get America back on the right track.

WILKES-BARRE — Wilkes University's Annual Earth Day festival took place on the River Commons across from Stark Learning Center.

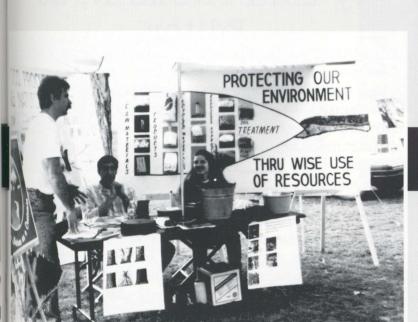

Many companies and organizations such as Proctor and Gamble, Wyoming Valley Sanitation Authority, and the Biology Department of King's College participated by setting up educational displays.

All clubs and organizations at Wilkes were invited to exhibit displays relating their specialization to the environment. The theme for this year's Earth Day celebration was "Our Future: Balancing Growth and the Environment."

The festival was held in hopes to try to get more people aware of the Earth and its natural resources. Throughout the day there were musical performances relating songs to the environment and vendors were there providing refreshments for everyone.

President Breiseth awaits his turn to speak during Earth Day festivities.

SENIORS LEARN ETIQUETTE

by LORI TRUMAN, Co-Editor

RUMOURS — Each year at Wilkes, Seniors are given the opportunity to learn proper etiquette at the "Fingerbowl Experience." Hosted by Mrs. Breiseth, the annual event was held several times throughout the month of March.

The "Fingerbowl" was instituted at Wilkes several years ago to introduce graduating seniors to proper behavior in social settings. The event is funded through contributors who believe etiquette is worth learning.

Students arrive and are presented with a variety of etiquette books to review prior to dining. Students are seated with one person at each table acting as the host or hostess. They get to practice shaking hands while holding glassware or hor'doevres. Throughout the night instruction is given on how to properly eat salads, soups and a variety of other dishes.

Eventually most students lose their ackwardness and can adapt to the use of correct silverware and other important social habits.

Students question Mrs. Breiseth on proper etiquette.

Desert and coffee was served to begin the evening. Various department heads and faculty then commenced with the dispensing of awards to honor those students present. For the most part the awards were given to those students who were seniors and graduating that academic year.

The two-hour ceremony concluded with public relations photos taken of the merit award winners and academic award winners.

Engineering Department Hosts Picnic

by SUSAN DRAUS, Co-Editor

RALSTON FIELD — The Second Annual Engineering Picnic was held May 3, at Ralston Field. The picnic was sponsored by the Engineering Club in conjunction with the Engineering Department to allow the students and faculty time to let loose at the end of the long academic year. Students and faculty were invited to bring family and friends to help celebrate the end of another year.

This year's picnic was held the day after the seniors presented their Senior Projects, and despite the cool weather for the month of May, there was a strong turnout at the event; most were seniors celebrating the end, or near-end of a long four years. The picnic provided a welcomed distraction before finals were scheduled to begin. Everyone attending had an afternoon filled with good food, volleyball, softball, and frisbee.

Students and faculty enjoyed an afternoon volleyball match.

Senior Week. Those two words express what every graduating senior waits for. After all the hard work, the late nights studying, classes, notes, labs, parties, friends, and memories, it all comes down to this. Four years suddenly come to an end, and we are left with one week to "live it up" one last time.

This years Senior week began on Sunday, May 17, with the senior's night out at Murray's Inn. The night began at 7:00 with free beer and a buffet until 11:00. Over 500 people attended the event, including many students, who returned to to campus apartments for some late-night partying. (continued on page 188)

Tuesday, May 19th was the date set for the annual Senior Picnic. The picnic began at 12:00, and was just the start of a party-filled day at Wilkes. Hundreds of students enjoyed hot dogs, burgers, and beer served by our very own faculty. The picnic, as usual, was held at Ralston Field. Many students played volleyball and frisbee.

At 3:00 the refreshments were gone, the picnic was over, but the party had far from ended. Most students traveled back to Wilkes for parties.

Tuesday night brought hundreds of students out to party at "The Wheelman." Simple Rhyme, Wilkes best-known band, played to their friends one last time, as students partied until closing.

Saturday, May 23, Graduation Day brought sunny skies and warm temperatures as commencement ceremonies got under way at the Marts Center at 2:00.

This 45th annual spring commencement exercise awarded 468 degrees.

John J. Pomerantz, Chairman of the Board of Leslie Fay Co. delivered the commencement address. Pomerantz, along with world renowned jazz musician "Dizzy" Gillespie were awarded Honary Doctorates of Humane Letters.

Other speakers included Dr. Michael Steele, the recipient of the Carpenter Outstanding Teacher Award; Thomas Thomas Jr. the Wilkes Inspirational teacher Award winner; Thomas Wittman, Student Government President; and Dr. Carl Charnetski, professor of psychology.

The three-hour-long ceremony ended at approximately 5:00. Most students and their families converged in front of the Marts Center on South Franklin St. for pictures, congratulations, and goodbyes to good friends.

WRESTLING

By: Lori Truman, Co-Editor.

MARTS CENTER — This year was a difficult one for the Wilkes wrestlers. Faced with a very young, inexperienced group of wrestlers, and battling injuries to many more experienced grapplers, Coach Reese had his work cut out for him this year. But, once again, Coach Reese pulled our Division one boys through another tough season, and emerged with their thirty-seventh consecutive winning season.

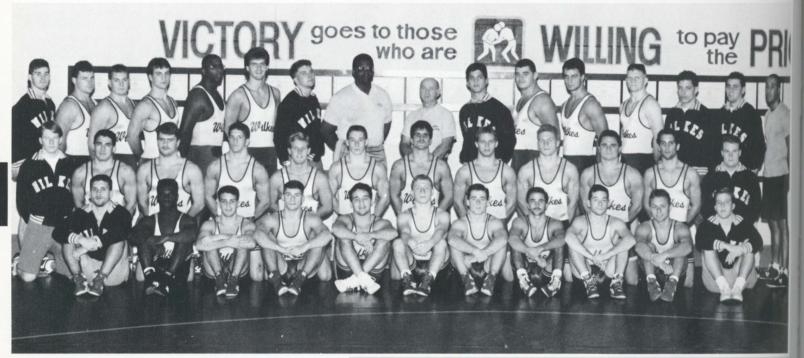

The grapplers ended their season with a dual meet record of 11-9. Two wrestlers, Senior Dave Bonomo and Junior Chris Richard were ranked and participated in post-season action which began on March 6.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

By: J.R. Rupp, Amnicola Staff Member

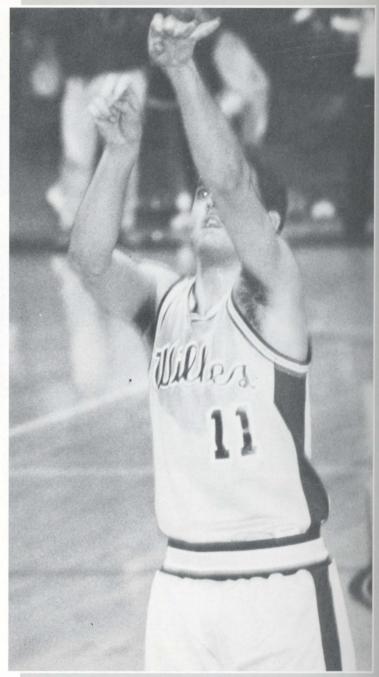

MARTS CENTER — The Wilkes University men's basketball team completed their 1991-1992 basketball campaign with a 123-107 double overtime victory over Juniata at the Marts Center.

The Colonels finished the year with an overall record of 10-15, 3-7 in the MAC Northeast.

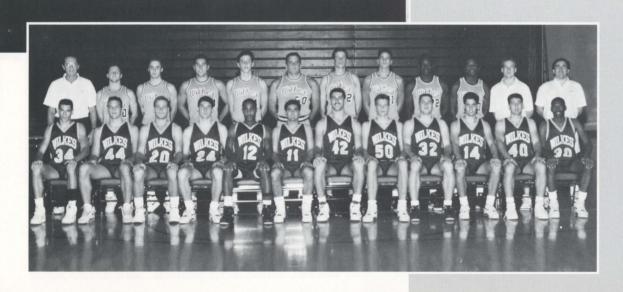

The Colonels started off their year in a tournament that consisted of Division II teams. Wilkes played competitive basketball but ended up with a fourth place finish. "The Division II tourney was sort of a confidence breaker and that was not good because the MAC schedule came right after that," said head men's coach, Ron Rainey.

However, the tough start did not set the theme for the rest of the year. The Colonels finished strong winning seven out of their last eleven games. "We had a strong finish and now we have to take that attitude to the off season with us. We have to work as individuals and keep a positive attitude," said Rainey.

As the winter season fades away to the brighter surroundings of spring, Wilkes basketball looks ahead to next year and the hopes of a successful season.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

By: Lori Truman, Co-Editor.

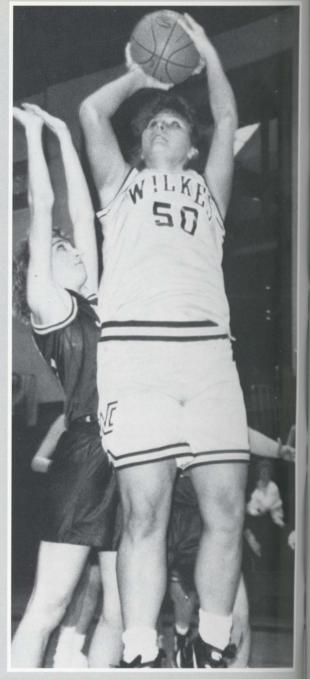

MARTS CENTER — It is often said that "quality" counts more than "quantity". This year's Lady Colonels Basketball team certainly proved that phrase true, with only 8 players on the roster. The women also faced a more challenging, extended season this year, with more games added to their regular schedule, and the trial of being guided by a new head coach.

With so many obstacles threatening the success of this year's team, many did not expect great things from the Lady Colonels. Yet the women surprised everyone, using guts and determination combined with smart ball playing to produce an admirable, yet deceiving 8-15 record. By most, this record would constitute a "losing" season- but the Lady Colonels were winners in every sense of the word.

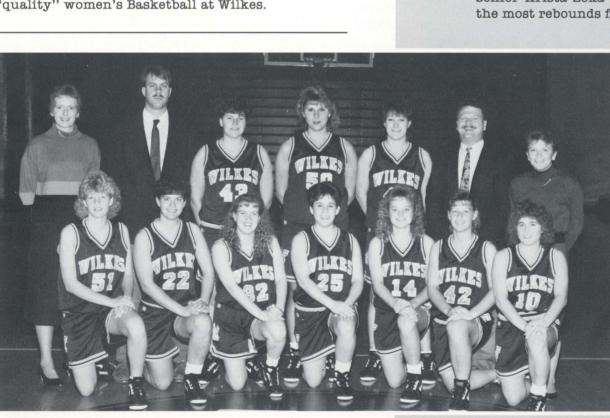

The small numbers played quite a role in the Lady Colonel's season. This was evidenced when the Lady Colonels took on the Lady Monarchs of Kings. The players took what is normally an emotionally charged match-up anyway and turned the event into a lesson in strength, teamwork, and tireless effort. The Lady Colonels took the Monarchs into DOUBLE overtime, with only 4 players remaining on the court. Although Wilkes lost the game, it was clearly an absence of physical stamina and not a lack of guts and determination accounting for the result.

Such effort was inspired in the players in many ways: Through the excellent guidance of new Coach Karen Haag and through the diverse talents of senior players like Krista Zoka, Deb Erdner, and Denise Carson, and by the scoring and leadership abilities of Missie Chinchar.

Whatever the inspiration for this year's success, the loss of key players next year and the addition of many new recruits may add up to a great season of "quality" women's Basketball at Wilkes.

Senior Krista Zoka made headlines by making the most rebounds for the team this season.

ARTILLARY FIELD — The onset of the spring months, beautiful weather, and the need to be out doors usually signifies the start of America's favorite past time. Batter-Up! The boys of summer swung into action on March 18th and the Wilkes Baseball season commenced. Unfortunately, the team spent more time postponing games and rounding the bases in the rain this season than they spent in typical, sunny "baseball weather." But the rotten weather didn't dampen the spirits of the Colonels, who once again ended with a winning season, finishing with a record of 16-10. Team captains Chris Imperiale and Joe Kish brought leadership to the team, while Imperiale, Junior Tom Whille, and Sophomores Dave Kaschak, Steve Endres, Dave Wesoloskie, and Steve Klem led the team in batting averages.

Freshmen Billy Noone and Joe Balay led the team in strike outs, while Junior Dirk Heberle pitched in as well.

Although the Colonels missed MAC playoffs, they did make ECAC playoffs. The team travelled to Frostburg state in Maryland for a chance at the ECAC title. Unfortunately, the Colonels came away from that contest with a loss. But that shouldn't overshadow the success of this year's team.

Imperiale had this to say about the season, "We expected to do well this year and we were looking forward to the season. We really wanted to make MAC playoffs, but making ECAC's was a good consolation."

Overall, Imperiale stressed that this past season was definitely a successful one. When asked what he'll miss most about baseball, he said, "Definitely the comaraderie. My friends and the competition, I will definitely miss."

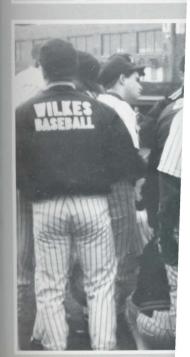

Team member Dave Kashak made headlines with the most hits on the team this season.

ARTILLERY PARK — This spring the softball team, coached by Addy Malatesta, finished one of its best seasons with a record of 14-12.

The team made its first appearance since 1989 at the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference playoffs with a third place finish.

Three team members made the Middle Atlantic Conference All Star team. Pitcher Cory Shwoyer won 10 games and lost only six, while Dawn Hosler and Denise Carson batted their way to the All Star team with batting averages of .452 and .333 respectively.

Senior Dawn Hosler made headlines this year by breaking the school record for the most hits.

RALSTON FIELD — The 1992 season was one of tremendous effort and teamwork by the Wilkes men's and women's tennis teams.

With much support from their coaches and fans, the men's team managed to pull off an excellent record of 5-8, their best in over ten years.

Some key players in these achievements were Senior members Doug Meade and Jerry Matteo, who each had records of 6-7 in their singles matches. Matteo and Meade also "Made Headlines" this year (continued on page 207) by going undefeated as a doubles team with a record of 5-0.

Another doubles team who did an outstanding job included Rob Karch and sophomore Darren Michael, completing the season with a 5-1 record.

The women's team also kept up the Wilkes tradition of hard work and sportsmanship with a very deceiving record of 2-6.

Their victories can be partially attributed to the outstanding effort of team members Karen Belong and Kelly Ericson, who each attained records of 4-3, and Gina Taylor, who completed the season with a record of 4-4.

Gina Vicaro and Karen Behing are excited about their latest victory.
