DEBATE TEAM TROPHY DISPLAY—Now on display on the mantel of the main hall in the Wilkes library are the cups won by the College debate team at the Notre Dame and Johns Hopkins tournaments. The poster between the cups contains clippings of this season's victories.

The team, composed of James Neveras and J. Harold Flannery Jr., will travel to West Point Wednesday for the national debate tournament.

Debaters Journey To West Point Meet

The Wilkes College debaters leave Wednesday to compete for the national debate championship.

They will participate at the national invitational tournament held annually at West Point.

There, the Wilkes two-man team of J. Harold Flannery Jr. and James Neveras will argue both sides of the question, "Resolved: That the United States should Recognize Communist China."

The national debate will mark the wind-up for both boys' debating careers. Seniors, they have a total of six years in intercollegiate debate circles, Flannery having two, and Neveras having served on the team during his entire four years at Wilkes.

The team is the same varsity which earlier this year won the Johns Hopkins tournament. Earlier this month, they came home with the Notre Dame Invitational cup.

Flannery and Neveras qualified for the nationals some two weeks ago by emerging second in the District Seven eliminations at St. Peter's. They were second only to St. Joseph's of Philadelphia.

At West Point for their second consecutive year, the locals have a good record for the nationals. Last year, they finished among the top twenty teams.

CHANGE OF FIELDS

Ralston, Partridge to Appear In Next Stage Production

Football Coach George Ralston and his counterpart of the soccer field, Bob Partridge, will leave their respective athletic fields for new endeavors—the stage—next Friday and Saturday nights at the Wilkes gym.

And the Ralston-Partridge "team" of actors will be directed, ironically, by a Wilkes Letterman, Howard "Skinny" Ennis, in George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion", presented by Cue 'n' Curtain.

Also featured in supporting roles is a crew of Lettermen, undoubtedly imported to lend moral (and perhaps physical) support to their two leaders.

"Androcles and the Lion" will be only one half of a two-play bill which will include Eugene O'Neill's "Emperor Jones," with Bill Crowder in the title role and directing.

Ennis, although directing, will play one of the title roles in "Lion" as Androcles. The fellow who will do the roaring is Ronnie Price, an old hand at picking up splinters. Ennis will have the job of removing a portion of a 2 x 4 from Ronnie's left tootsie in the play.

Ralston will be featured as a southern Caesar Augustus who gives Bruce Williams, captain of the guard, a particularly rough time of it. Partridge is cast as the Centurion who has two left feet, and the whole thing points to something real good. . . Sure, it does.

The female lead will be played by Audrey Cragle. Others in the cast include Merri Jones and Jerry Luft.

In "Jones," Paul Shiffer, a stage vet by now, is bound to stir up some thunder as Smithers.

Assisting in the productions behind the scenes will be Nancy Brown, Merri Jones, Nancy Batchelor, Fred Cohn, Ronnie Price, Ben

HONOR MASS MEETING AT 11 THURSDAY

By JOHN KUSHNERICK

The proposed Wilkes honor system is scheduled to receive its most thorough airing this coming Thursday at 11:00 a.m. at a mass meeting to be held in the Lecture Hall, Dean of Women Gertrude Doane announced early this week.

The program tentatively will open with a panel discussion in which students will direct questions at Helen Krachenfels, Hermine Fried, Bob Koon and Bruce Warshall in an attempt to bring all present up to date on the progress of the past discussions. The remaining time will be given to hearing pro and con reasoning from the student body. Faculty members will be on hand to participate in the discussion.

The entire honor system concept originated on the student level and has been received warmly by the faculty and the administration. The meeting on Thursday will be the fourth of the year, and Mrs. Doane announced that interest is running so high the Lecture Hall has been obtained to insure the accommodation of all students who wish to participate in the discussion or wish merely to listen.

Interest has trickled even off campus to former students who met similar past attempts with mixed reactions. "Flip" Jones, now engaged in pilot training with the Air Force has made his feelings known in a letter to a faculty member. On her request the letter is published in the Beacon to show the enlightenment that comes to some when they venture into life and are able to see the advantages of such a system.

3 Elementary Ed. Students Take Long Island Jobs

Three Wilkes coeds have accepted teaching positions in the elementary school at Cedar Hurst, Long Island, it was announced through Guidance Director John Chwalek yesterday.

The three are Anne Harton, Ruth Wilbur and Naomi Kivler, all doing student teaching in the elementary schools of Wyoming Valley.

Howells, Elaine Fabian, Jane Obitz, Pat Stout, Carl Ernst, Jim Miller, Gene Roth, Jerry Lind, and Joe Saraceni.

April Showers Ball Tonight; Colonels' Queen to be Picked

The Wilkes Lettermen hold their annual April Showers Ball this evening from 9 to 12 at the College gymnasium.

Theme of the dance will be, appropriately, "April in Paris", and decorations will implement the theme with sketches and models, decorations chairman Howard Gross has revealed.

Lee Vincent, popular bandleader, will be there with his aggregation for the music. Vincent has been a frequent headliner at Wilkes events in the past. He is well known throughout many Eastern campuses as well in the Valley, having played recently at Penn State and Cornell.

Main attraction of the affair, however, will be the naming of the "Colonels' Queen" by Dean George F. Ralston, Lettermen's adviser after a vote by the Lettermen. Among other honors, the Queen will be presented with a Longine-Wittnauer watch through the co-operation of Tommy Van Scoy, Jeweler.

In line with the Parisian theme, tables in the gym will be arranged after the manner of sidewalk cafes, with white-coated waiters.

Dress for the dance will be semi-formal. Dance chairman Joe Trosko stated that this does not necessarily imply corsages for the ladies.

Committee members include: Decorations, Chairman Howard Gross, Joe Wilk, Moe Batterson, Glenn Carey, Bob Fay; publicity, Chairman Jack Curtis, Dave Polley, Bill Lloyd; tickets, Joe Jablonski, Dick Kachinosky; refreshments, Large "Skinny" Ennis; drawings, Molly Beard; waiters, Volunteers!

Esther Goldman Receives Morris Award

Miss Esther Goldman, Wilkes senior, last week received the Linda Morris Memorial Award for her outstanding record during her first three years at the College.

The award, presented to Miss Goldman at last week's assembly was set up recently by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Morris in memory of their small daughter Linda. Mr. Morris, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce made the award.

Miss Goldman has been on the Dean's List for all of the previous three years, also compiled a straight 3.0 average in the present scholastic year.

A student of English, Miss Goldman will graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in June. She plans to continue post-graduate in September.

Nancy Hannye Gets Fellowship At Cornell; Alumna of Wilkes

Nancy L. Hannye, Wilkes graduate, has received a teaching fellowship at Cornell University. While continuing study for her master's degree, she will commence instruction of undergraduate calculus at the University this semester, it was recently announced by Thomas R. Richards, chairman of mathematics at the college.

This summer she will assist in an Air Force project in statistics at Cornell, working with a small electronic brain. If the results of certain theorems are attained, Miss Hannye will use this material and conclusions therefrom for her thesis, completing her work toward her master's degree in mathematics.

One of last June's graduates, she was consistently on the Dean's List, served as student assistant in the Wilkes mathematics department.

Active in Theta Delta Rho, the German and Education clubs, and the Student Council, Miss Hannye was recipient of both the James McKane Award and the Wilkes Faculty Women's Award for outstanding scholastic achievement.

Nancy Lee Hannye

She came to Wilkes from Kingston High School where she was a member of the Honor Society, was granted a scholarship award.

EDITORIALS

Bigger Than Ever

Today's batch of Letters to the Editor points even more strongly than ever before to the fact that people really do "give a damn" and are doing some original thinking. True, many readers might not agree with the opinions of the writers. The main thing, though, is that we do have opinions.

By reading the other fellow's views and ideas, often we can supplement our own. Even in disagreement, we can strengthen our own beliefs. The editor is still not certain of the recent "barage" of letters, but he is glad that the Beacon can be of such direct service to its readers. It's good all around.

Service For Support

The Wilkes Lettermen will present their annual spring affair, the April Showers Ball, tonight at the college gymnasium. From all indications, it should prove to be one of the outstanding events of the year. The Lettermen's Club, a service organization, asks your support for the dance. Odd, isn't it? Here are the Lettermen, asking your support, and in the end, they're just presenting you with another of their outstanding services.

They deserve your support.

The Crucial Period

Isn't it getting tougher and tougher to study? Speaking for ourself, we'll give a blast in the affirmative. Dreary days this week, especially right after a long vacation, made it one rough job getting back into the swing of things. But we take heart in the realization that we're in the home stretch.

And come the middle of June, you'll look back and think, "Gee, it really was pretty worthwhile, wasn't it?" That is, if you don't let yourself "way down" around this time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR:

(The Letter to the Editor column of the Beacon is open to the entire Wilkes College campus. Views expressed here are those of the writers and are not necessarily representative of the views of the Beacon.)

Editor:

This is in no way to take sides in the controversy concerning the nature of the periodicals in the Wilkes College Library; but as a teacher of debate and one who has taught both Bucholtz and Flannery, the chief spokesmen in the controversy, I should like to correct an impression conveyed by Bucholtz in his last letter to the Beacon.

His implication that Wilkes' debaters resort to questionable, if not dishonest, stratagems in winning debates is not true and never has been in the seven years I have been coaching Wilkes' debaters. In fact, his impression concerning our use of definitions was probably gained from an article I wrote on the subject, the purpose of which was to censure those debaters who employed "tricky" and unorthodox definitions to facilitate their winning debates. Actually, I have written two articles on the subject, "Interpreting the Debate Question" and "Honest Definitions Are the Best Policy."

The latter title speaks for itself. Wilkes' teams, so far as I know, have never resorted to the technique that Bucholtz alludes to, one which he says "has pulled many a team out of a seemingly hopeless position," the technique of simply "asking the opposition for a definition of terms (although you may know exactly what they mean)." He states that he was a member of the debating society early in the school year. True, he was. But apparently he was not a member long enough to learn what constitutes the best debate strategy, an honest, logical approach to any given question.

This I have always taught my students, as Bucholtz should know and no doubt would, had he remained on the debating team. Not only do we not employ the technique attributed to us but to do so would be a waste of time and thus ineffective debating. We do, however, insist, that the various abstract concepts which frequently appear in a debate resolution be defined logically and honestly, so that an opposing debater cannot squirm out of a weak argument merely by shifting his definition of terms.

In conclusion, I should like to point out that this whole portion of Bucholtz's argument is clearly a fallacious ad hominem attack, an attempt to discredit Flannery's argument by discrediting Flannery as a "tricky debater"; it is certainly no answer to the argument itself. Being the fine student that he is, Bucholtz is certainly capable, I am sure, of sounder arguments than this one.

Sincerely yours,

ARTHUR N. KRUGER
Director of Debate

Dear Editor:

I read, with a great deal of interest, the article in the Beacon concerning the new attempt to establish an Honor System at Wilkes. This was interesting to me since the same thing was attempted while I was a student. At the time I knew little about such a system and did little to support it. Since this time, however, I've come to live under an Honor Code and therae is really nothing to compare with it.

From my experience under this system I find that the most successful method for its adoption is only through proper indoctrination of the students. As lowerclassmen in the cadet corps it is mandatory that we memorize all six articles of the code and also attend courses in honor training. The Air Force places a great emphasis on honor, for they realize that without it we are nothing. . . . It's important that when a man states he hit the designated target with his bombs that he really did, for the results of an untruth could be very serious.

On the campus, to me, the results of dishonesty are equally as serious. The unfortunate part is that students don't, for the most part, realize this and would rather continue to be proctored in their exams, etc., than to take on the responsibility of an honor system.

(This comes) from someone who finally saw the light. There is no doubt in my mind that college-trained people should take into their respective fields a sense of honor, for this is undoubtedly the most important lesson they could ever learn while in college.

I hope that I haven't stepped out of line by making these suggestions, but there is a certain feeling within me which makes it an obligation to help better the school that did so much in helping to better me.

Sincerely yours,
PHILIP D. JONES

While the first time such a fund-raising attempt has been tried at Wilkes, it is by no means an unusual method; Lehigh, for instance, being said to have gained some quarter of a million last year employing the method.

It is hoped to obtain enough funds to purchase such equipment as a spectroscope and an analytical balance, an opaque projector and an optical pyrometer for the science departments, calculating machines for statistics laboratories, coding and transcribing equipment for drama and speech departments.

The program is being implemented by members of each class of alumni, who send letters to other members of their class.

Alumni will also receive a specially prepared brochure explaining the program, it was mentioned early this week by Welton Farrar, Wilkes Director of Development and co-ordinator of the program.

Frosh Co-ed Engaged To Wilkes Graduate

Elaine L. Jakes, Wilkes co-ed, was recently announced engaged to J. Warren Blaker, Wilkes graduate now teaching organic chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Miss Jakes, now a freshman at Wilkes, graduated from Kingston High School last June.

Blaker graduated from Wilkes this January, was previously from Wilkes-Barre's Coughlin High.

Graduates to Talk On Retailing at 5th Annual Affair

Three Wilkes alumni will be guest speakers at retailing sessions during today's Careers Conference.

Jacob S. Kovalchek Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kovalchek, Andover street, Wilkes-Barre, heads the list of ex-students who will speak.

After his graduation in 1953, Kovalchek accepted a position with Sears, Roebuck, is now with their Philadelphia operations. At the College he was active in soccer, football, and as a member of the "Harmoneers" quartet.

Other alumni speaking this afternoon are Barry Iscovitz of Luzerne's Globe Store, and Alfred Eisenpreis of Pomeroy's.

The alumni will speak briefly of their experiences in the field of retailing.

Also speaking at the Careers Conference, fifth in a series held each year by the College, will be Mrs. Eulah Smith, Isaac Long's advertising manager, and John Gale, merchandising manager for Lazarus Department Store.

After a morning coffee hour the high school seniors attending the conference will move to Pickering Hall for films on retailing.

Luncheon will be available in the College dining hall for those choosing to remain on campus until the afternoon sessions.

In the afternoon sessions Mrs. Smith and Frank B. Burnside, vice president of Fowler, Dick and Walker, will discuss opportunities in retailing, and conduct a question and answer period. It is in these afternoon sessions that the alumni are slated to speak.

A tour of a local department store is scheduled to follow.

DICK BUNN TAKEN ILL OVER VACATION PERIOD

Richard Bunn, sophomore student in chemical engineering, was stricken seriously ill during the Easter vacation. Dick will probably be out of school for the remainder of the semester, it was reported.

Dick has been active in the Engineering Club, he is a member of the student council, has been one of the leaders in the student drive for an honor system, and was named to the Dean's list last semester. The BEACON, on behalf of the entire student body, wishes Dick a speedy and complete recovery.

Tossers Host Bloom Tomorrow; Travel To Leb. Valley Thursday In This Week's Diamond Tilts

SPORTIN' AROUND

with AL JETER, Sports Editor

Some good news for those who like to see college spirit came along last week with the announcement of plans for an Alumni Lettermen's Club of Wilkes College. It may turn out to be nothing and then again it just might give a needed shot in the arm to a slightly sagging Alumni Association.

Word received from former Colonels gives the impression that the Alumni has a good deal of difficulty in being organized. The only really strong segment of ex-Colonels seems to be in the Wilkes-Barre area. Now it's a pretty well-known fact that the Lettermen have long been a hotbed for school spirit. They have been foremost for many years in taking the reins of leadership when needed. Although there has been, in past times, some criticism that the club has dominated school affairs, even above the student council and the like, it should be realized that no one but the students themselves have been to blame. Where there has been a lack of interest, the guys in the monogram sweaters have stepped in and in most cases have done a creditable job.

AL JETER

Now maybe we got off the track a bit there, but it serves to show that the organization has always had the interests of Wilkes in mind. The fact that there has been an interest in the formation of an alumni club may be an indicator for a better and stronger Alumni Association. We wish the erstwhile Colonels good luck on their new venture.

On the ailing list is basketballer Dick Bunn. The Beacon sports staff wishes him a real speedy recovery. The former Luzerne flash came into his own this year at Wilkes serving as a fine utility man for Ralston's cagers.

We've noticed that Bob Partridge and George Ralston are to be honored at a dinner on May 14 at the Hotel Sterling. It's a nice gesture for two guys who have done more than their share to further athletics here at Wilkes. They'll both be missed next year on the sports scene.

We had the pleasure over the Easter recess of renewing a friendship with former Colonel griddier and diamondman Jake Waters. He passed on the good luck word to the '55 edition of the Blue and Gold tossers and asked to be remembered to his friends in town. Jake, who now makes his residence in New Jersey will be remembered as the guy who hit over .500 in his last season here and also kicked the two crucial extra-points when Wilkes beat King's for the last time by a 14 to 12 score.

Thursday.

In last year's games with these opponents, the Colonels broke even in both series. Against the Huskies the Blue and Gold won at home and lost on the road. However it was just the opposite against Lebanon Valley. The locals dropped their home game in last year's opener, but won away.

This season's initial fracas saw the spikemen lose to Albright. Their second contest scheduled with Muhlenburg was rained out. Therefore the Colonels will be in quest of their first victory of the yet infant season.

Coach Bob Partridge will be going along with his freshman dominated lineup of last game. Some of the brighter first year prospects are shortstop Ron Rescigno, third sacker Joe Parsnik, and catcher Bob Sokol. They aren't rookies as far as baseball experience goes, though, all three having seen action in various amateur loops.

The catching spot is something new for Sokol however. In high school play he specialized at shortstop. Being a fine competitor and a team-first man, he saw the need for a catcher and gave up his old slot to strengthen the squad.

The upperclassmen in the lineup include juniors Jim Ferris and Mel McNew, and senior Dick Kachinsky. Ferris is a mainstay in the outer pasture along with "Katch". McNew is the "strong arm" of the Colonel pitching staff.

The remaining starters are Miodusky at first base, Goobic at second, and Groblewski in left field, all freshmen.

Colonel Opener Spoiled By Albright College, 7-4

By JIM COLEMAN

Baseball showed its face on the Wilkes campus a week before the major leagues, but opening day was as dismal as the everlasting spring monsoon as the Colonels dropped the decision to Albright College, 7 to 4.

Albright's clouters grabbed an early lead and held it throughout the game. The Blue and Gold threatened in every inning, but just couldn't put enough together to get a real rally going.

The Albright second baseman played the part of the spoiler on several occasions, coming up with a couple of sensational stops on what seemed to be sure hits by Jim Ferris and Moe Batterson with men in scoring position.

The day was brightened for the Colonel tossers in the fifth, sixth, and seventh stanzas when they came up with four runs to put a scare into the visitors. Joe Parsnik, a rookie, took advantage of a passed ball to score from third. Ron Rescigno came through with a timely single in the next inning to score Dick Kachinsky. Rescigno tallied himself in the next frame by virtue of Mel McNew's double.

The Wilkes scoring ended with Jim Ferris coming in as Bob Miodusky grounded out.

Errors hurt the WC swatters, but the squad showed that it had plenty of potential and should make itself known this year. Since the forces are composed mostly of freshmen the outlook for the coming several seasons seems to be brighter than usual.

Rookie catcher Bob Sokol showed that although the spot is a new one for him he has plenty on the ball to become a polished backstop. The behind the plate job was a constant worry to Coach Partridge year, but from the results of the opener it seems that Sokol might be just what the doctor ordered to cure the ill.

KEGLERS REMINDED

All members of Intra Mural Bowling League 'B' are reminded that the loop will swing into action this Sunday night at the Jewish Community Center. All teams are requested to be there promptly at 6:30. There was no bowling competition over the Easter recess.

GOLF TOURNEY STARTS TODAY, WILL CONTINUE THROUGH WEEK

The first Wilkes College Open Golf Tournament will get underway this afternoon at Hollenback Golf Course at 2. The initial round will be composed of Class D duffers.

Due to a heavier than expected turnout for the tourney, it has been necessary to stagger the flights through several days. It is requested that all players check the bulletin boards as to the exact playing dates for each class.

The competition is expected to continue through next Saturday to determine the finalists.

At the present time it is planned to let the final men choose their own course for the championship match. Irem Temple had previously been named as the tentative spot for the last round.

According to Reese Jones, a trophy will be awarded to the winner and will be paid for out of the 50-cent fee required of all contestants. Reese also said that from the number of entries received this year there is a fine possibility of making the affair an annual one.

Entries are as follows:
Class A: Reese Jones, Neil Dardurka, Russ Picton.

Class B: Robert Price, Bob Fay.
Class C: Moe Batterson, John Lycos, Nick Flannery, Ivan Falk, Andrew Dovin.

Why do more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

BECAUSE ONLY VICEROY GIVES YOU A PURE, NON-MINERAL, NON-TOXIC FILTER WITH 20,000 FILTER TRAPS IN EVERY FILTER TIP!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. Besides being non-mineral and non-toxic, this cellulose-acetate filter never shreds or crumbles.
3. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
4. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
5. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip . . . and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette . . . that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

The day was brightened for the Colonel tossers in the fifth, sixth, and seventh stanzas when they came up with four runs to put a scare into the visitors. Joe Parsnik, a rookie, took advantage of a passed ball to score from third. Ron Rescigno came through with a timely single in the next inning to score Dick Kachinsky. Rescigno tallied himself in the next frame by virtue of Mel McNew's double.

The Wilkes scoring ended with Jim Ferris coming in as Bob Miodusky grounded out.

Errors hurt the WC swatters, but the squad showed that it had plenty of potential and should make itself known this year. Since the forces are composed mostly of freshmen the outlook for the coming several seasons seems to be brighter than usual.

Rookie catcher Bob Sokol showed that although the spot is a new one for him he has plenty on the ball to become a polished backstop. The behind the plate job was a constant worry to Coach Partridge year, but from the results of the opener it seems that Sokol might be just what the doctor ordered to cure the ill.

Reese also said that from the number of entries received this year there is a fine possibility of making the affair an annual one.

Entries are as follows:
Class A: Reese Jones, Neil Dardurka, Russ Picton.

Class B: Robert Price, Bob Fay.
Class C: Moe Batterson, John Lycos, Nick Flannery, Ivan Falk, Andrew Dovin.

Why do more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

BECAUSE ONLY VICEROY GIVES YOU A PURE, NON-MINERAL, NON-TOXIC FILTER WITH 20,000 FILTER TRAPS IN EVERY FILTER TIP!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. Besides being non-mineral and non-toxic, this cellulose-acetate filter never shreds or crumbles.
3. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
4. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
5. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip... and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette... that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

APPLICATIONS FOR BEACON POSTS DUE FRIDAY; EDITORIAL, OTHER POSTS OPEN

A call has been issued for letters of application for posts on next year's Beacon staff. George F. Elliot, Beacon adviser, stated yesterday that letters should be addressed to the Wilkes College Board of Publications.

Editorial and business positions are open to all students at the college. Jobs open next year will be editor, two assistant editors, sports editor, and business manager. Other editorial, news and business posts will also be available next year, the selections to be made by next year's editors.

Letters should be in the hands of Mrs. Gertrude Doane, dean of women, no later than one week from today—on April 22. All aspiring journalists are urged to make application for any of the positions for which they feel qualified. Previous experience on the Beacon is not a prerequisite.

IRC at Model Assembly

Wilkes College was represented at the annual Intercollegiate Model General Assembly, held early this month at the University of Pennsylvania.

Lois Long, Richard Murray and Neil Turtel were the College's delegates.

In the mock assembly they represented the Caribbean Republic of Dominica.

At the conference the College delegates also served on committees which drafted bills for submission to the General Assembly. The only bill from the important political committee was Murray's concerning arms reduction.

All three of the delegates were foremost committee spokesmen for the Latin-American bloc.
