Growing Pains

In this issue of the Alumnus your president, Donald Honeywell, mentions in his message that our Alumni Association is presently suffering from growing pains.

Fortunately, in the last several months those pains were more than welcome to the handful of loyal alumni who were working for the organization of this group into a powerful association. Previously, there was no pain. The inactivity presented a dead, gloomy silence. It suggested something that was either asleep or preparing for death.

The Wilkes College Alumni Association in the past two semesters has received the proverbial shot-in-the-arm and the response has been amazing. Alumni, who have not been in direct contact with the college since they attended the institution as Bucknell Junior College students, are reviving relations with their Alma Mater.

Loyal alumni have responded in an encouraging manner to the request for the 1950 dues and financial aid for the organization's publication. Attendance at the monthly meetings has increased to record-high figures.

Within the organization there is now a feeling of strength. The "growing pains" are welcome because they are the first indication that the Alumni Association is moving forward.

There is still a considerable amount of work to be done, however, and additional help is needed from other members, who have not as yet shown an interest in alumni affairs.

If you haven't already indicated your interest in the Wilkes College Alumni Association, why not sit down now and write a letter to the alumni office in Chase Hall. To renew contacts with the association is the same as returning to your college days. You'll be among friends and helping to strengthen the foundation of Wilkes College.

The Next Meeting

The Wilkes College Alumni Association will conduct its next regular meeting on Monday evening, June 5, at 7:30 in the Women's Lounge of Chase Hall on South River Street.

Donald Honeywell, alumni president, will call for discussion of the local plans for the remainder of the 1950 calendar year and take up such matters as the new constitution, graduation plans, and the initiation of the June graduates into the organization.

Special entertainment will be provided at each meeting. These programs are planned by the Entertainment Committee, under the guidance of its chairman, William Luetzel.

Refreshments will be provided at the June meeting, with past president, Daniel Williams, in charge of the kitchen details.

Ten Ways To Kill Our Alumni Association

(Taken from Duquesne University Magazine)

1. Don't come to the meetings.
2. But if you do come, come LATE.
3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
4. If you don't attend a meeting find fault with the work of the officers and other members.
5. Never accept an office, as it is easier to criticize than do things.
6. Nevertheless get sore if you are not appointed on a committee, but if you are appointed, do not attend the committee meeting.
7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some important subject, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting, tell everyone how things ought to be done.
8. Do nothing that is absolutely necessary, but when other members roll up their sleeves and willingly, unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, then howl that the association is run by a clique.
9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay at all.
10. Don't bother about getting members. "Let the other guy do it."

Send Us Some News

Members of the Alumni Association are requested to send in little items about themselves or their friends for publication in the ALUMNUS. Drop us a line about anything. Send a picture of yourself now, or better yet, how about one with the children.

P. R. O. Wants Clippings

The Public Relations Office at Wilkes College is having the same problem that prevails in other institutions: Out of town clippings about Wilkes College appear and the PRO has no way of knowing about them. Why not do your share of college public relations work by clipping out news items or any article that mentions your Alma Mater and mail it back to the Public Relations Office.

Are You Active?

The response to the call for 1950 dues was exceptionally good, however, many of our 1,782 members still have not mailed in their two-dollar contribution. One dollar will be credited to your name as dues and the other will be used to help defray the publication costs of the ALUMNUS.

Out of the Mailbag

An average of five letters are received at the Alumni Office each day from former students. Many just want to say hello, others send dues, and still others pass along information about themselves or their families.

Each issue of the ALUMNUS will carry as many letters as space will permit. Drop a line and tell us about your present activity.

Dear Mr. Moran:

This is to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of March 17th, also the 1950 membership card of the Wilkes College Alumni Association.

You will find enclosed herewith a money order for the amount of $2.00 as payment of dues, for the year 1950, to the Alumni Association.

I sincerely regret that my absence from the United States prevents me from active participation in Alumni activities. It is always a pleasure to hear of the activities of the Alumni Association.

Since our arrival in Germany, last September, Mrs. Pell and I have become well settled at our new station. Life in Germany is interesting as well as being educational, it is quite a contrast in comparison to the war years.

My work is very interesting, however, due to its classified nature I'm not at liberty to discuss it. I hope you will understand.

There are many opportunities available for travel to other countries, it is my hope that I may find it possible to visit such countries as France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, and a few of the lesser countries.

Please express my best wishes to Dr. Farley, the faculty, and my friends at the College. I haven't forgotten them and will write as soon as the pressure we are under at the present time eases slightly.

Dear Sirs:

Enclosed please find $2.50 for Alumni dues and publication. Enjoy reading the news of old friends and new developments at Wilkes. You are doing an excellent job in retaining interest. Thank you for taking care of my 1950 registration.

At present, I am Hightstown suburban correspondent for the Trentonian, a daily Trenton newspaper. Also do substitute teaching in the Hightstown schools.

Dear Mr. Moran:

Enclosed is a check for current dues.

My address has changed from 1435 South Main Street, Wilkes-Barre, to Thurmont, Maryland. I have been teaching English and French in the Thurmont High School since March 20, and enjoy it very much.

Dear Sir:

Sorry for the delay in sending my 1950 alumni dues. I enjoy all the alumni publications and announcements. All of you are doing a splendid job.

Tony Wideman

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is a check for alumni association fee.

Since I live out of town it is impossible for me to attend the meetings, but I am always interested in the growth of Wilkes College and its alumni.

The next time I come home to visit my family in Shavertown, I hope to visit the campus.

Best wishes to you and all your helpers in the alumni association.

Dear Tom:

Enclosed you will find a money order to cover my 1950 dues and to help defray the cost of publishing the ALUMNUS.

In regard to the publication, I think it is an excellent idea to continue to send the publication to members regardless of their dues' status.

This policy should acquaint inactive members with the achievements of the association, and thereby induce them to take an active part in the future.

I am sorry that distance prevents my taking a more active part in the functions of the association.

I am looking forward with great interest to receiving my first copy of the ALUMNUS.

Carl Gibson '50

Dear Sir:

My two dollars for alumni dues and publication fee is enclosed. I wish the best of luck to those members who are concerned with keeping the activities of the alumni association alive.

As a member of the alumni association, I sincerely hope that Dr. Farley will continue to move forward on the road of achievement. I am presently a student at the Temple University School of Pharmacy and I realize how much is lost when one transfers from a small family-like school to a large factory-like institution.

Again, good luck and may Wilkes College achieve all of its goals.

Edmund P. Chesney

Dear Tom:

Received my 1950 Alumni Association card. I was very happy to find out that I am eligible for membership, despite the fact that I did not complete a full four years at Wilkes College.

I think that I will have something of interest for the ALUMNUS in a week or two. Right now I'm working like mad on a term paper.

At some future date, I would like to write an article comparing a large university with Wilkes. If you think that such an article may be of interest, I'll have it in the mail in time for the Fall issue.

I would like to have other alumni in the New York City area contact me so that we might start a chapter in this region.

Dear Tom:

I have received your alumni card and progadanda which accompanied it. I'm glad to know that the ball is rolling in fine fashion with your capable fingers in the ple.

If I were residing in the Valley, I'd be very inclined to participate in your activities. However, as a Schenectadian, I shall have to remain a passive, even though an active, member.

Nevertheless (is it one word or three?), the best of luck to the Wilkes College Alumni Association. Regards to the old crowd, Riley, Mildred Gittens, and anyone else that is still around.

Tom "Tex" Evans

A Message From The Alumni President

Dear Alumnus:

Your Alumni Association is growing. The first four months of this year have shown a marked increase in general all-around member interest in the activities and projects of the association.

Of course your organization is still in its infancy and is undergoing many growing pains. We know, however, that potentially we have an alumni association that can be as strong as any in the country. We already are well on our way to making this claim a reality, since we have or soon will have the three most necessary ingredients. We already have the full support of Wilkes College. We are building a strong foundation in relation to the organization of our association. And last, but most important, we are finding that more and more of our members are showing their personal interest by their attendance at meetings, participation on committees, and financial aid. Consequently, with these three ingredients, we will soon be powerful enough to fulfill our purposes for existing, which are service to our Alma Mater, service to our members, and service to our community.

In building the strong foundation of organization, which I previously mentioned, we have done these things. We have formed various committees each of which is designed to fulfill an important need in building and continuing the growth of the Association. To better serve you at our regular monthly meeting we have program and refreshment committees. We have framed a finance committee to study our financial needs and devise appropriate methods to meet these needs. The legislative committee is busy reworking our present constitution so that it may better serve our growing organization. A most important committee now being formed is the membership committee that will

Alumni-Senior Outing On June 3

A "Fun For All Day"—actually it will be the alumni association's welcome to another 126 graduates, who finish their courses this month—will take place on Saturday afternoon, June 3, at 1:30 at Sans Souci Park.

Ralph Connor, '49, has been selected as general chairman of the affair by Donald L. Honeywell, alumni president.

Connor announced this week that plans have been almost completed for this first outing of the alumni association and a large crowd of alumni, seniors, and their guests are expected to attend.

Letters, announcing the program and telling of the arrangements, have been sent to approximately 2,000 people.

keep in contact with our members and initiate new groups into the Association. To be formed within the next sixty days will be committees to work with the college as our representatives in school projects and alumni committee to work hand in hand with the placement bureau so that both the placement bureau and the alumni members will benefit.

Some of you may be asking of what value it is to you to be an active member of the Association. Here are a few of the present benefits to be derived. First, you receive quarterly one of the best alumni publications produced. Through this media you may maintain contacts with your school and friends. If not at the present then in the future you will find that maintaining these contacts may be very important to you. Also closely related to this publication is the Association's information service that is always at your disposal. Through this service we will strive to answer any question concerning former graduates or school activities that is not confidential in nature. In the near future, we will have an active committee working with the school placement bureau so that both you, our members, and the school may be better served. We will have more information on this at a later date.

Our future plans call for many things. All of these plans are concentrated to increase our strength. Once we have built our active membership we can go on to bigger and more satisfying projects. In the long run, we are looking forward to having our own private recreation and meeting hall. Of course this is in the distant future but not so far away that it cannot be seen.

To do all of these things we must have whatever help you can best give. We need your abilities; we need your presence at meetings and social functions; we need your financial contributions; we need all the information you can give us concerning your own personal activities and accomplishments.

Your investment in your association now will pay you dividends in the future. BE ACTIVE!

A program of recreation has been prepared for the afternoon. Highlight of this program will be the softball game between the seniors and the alumni. This contest—"A Twilight Game"—will be played at 6 p. m. on the diamond adjacent to the shelter on the southern end of the park.

Members of the Wilkes College faculty have been invited to attend this affair.

Robert Waters, president of the senior class, will be introduced to the members of the association. Donald Honeywell will preside at the welcoming ceremony at 2:30.

If you haven't as yet sent in your reservation, don't, it's too late, but come anyhow. We've taken the precaution of having some extra refreshments on hand for those who have difficulty in finding mailboxes.

Wilkes President Heads County Citizens Committee Group

Dr. Eugene S. Farley, president of Wilkes College, is currently engaged in the extra task of being chairman of the Luzerne County branch of the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report.

During the last three months, the Wilkes president has visited many local civic, veteran, and union groups to explain the recommendations for a reorganization of the executive branch of the government as set down in the report submitted to Congress by the bi-partisan Hoover Commission.

DR. FARLEY

Dr. Farley enlisted the aid of other leading men in the community who were of the opinion that the adoption by Congress of the recommendations made by the Hoover Commission would bring a more economic and efficient type of government.

Chairmen of the committees working in the local area are: Business, Frank Burnside; Club, Corey Patton; Education, Allen E. Bacon; Finance, Rulison Evans; Labor, Joseph Walsh; Membership, William Logan; Promotion and Publicity, Robert Johnson; Speakers Mitchell Jenkins.

College Invites Alumni To Use Library Facilities

In response to many inquiries from alumni about possible use of the college library facilities, Dr. Eugene S. Farley announced during the week that former students are always welcome to use the services offered in the Kirby Home of Education.

A committee of officers approached Dr. Farley three weeks ago about special privileges for former students. The committee had in mind use of the library and reduced admission rates for athletic events.

The request for library privileges was granted, but no change was made in the price of athletic admissions for alumni.

Dr. Farley pointed out that the rates for athletic events as compared with those of other colleges and universities are considerably lower. Because of this it was decided that no reduction would be made for alumni.

Through the Alumni Office, however, it will be possible to gain information about coming events, both social and athletic, and also to make reservations or obtain tickets in advance.

New Members Enjoy Initiation Dinner

The ranks of the Wilkes College Alumni Association were swelled by 68 on March 10, when the organization welcomed the February graduates into the association at the first annual initiation dinner in the college cafeteria.

Following a delightful meal served under the direction of Mrs. James Brennan, who is in charge of the cafeteria, Donald L. Honeywell, association president, welcomed the new members to the association and presented them with their 1950 membership cards.

Thomas J. Moran, executive secretary of the association, acted as toastmaster and introduced Robert W. Partridge as the principal speaker.

Partridge, who recently was appointed director of student activities at Wilkes College, called upon the new members to maintain a close relation with the college "because it is now more than ever that Wilkes needs your help if it is to become one of the leading institutions of higher learning in this country."

He commended the present members of the association on their excellent work and endeavor to make their organization strong. "The work done in the short time of its existence", according to

Partridge, "has helped more than the eye can see at present to bring Wilkes College along the road from a small institution to one of great promise."

New members brought into the association were: Robert Barber, Joseph Bendack, William Bergstrasser, Joseph Brennan, Donald Brodbeck, John Cain, Robert Capin, Royal Culp, Frank Celmer, Robert M. Clement, Leonard Czajkowski, John M. Davis, Clem Drozdowski, David Edwards, Michael Elchak, Paul J. Finley, Gerard P. Finn, Henry Frank, Carl Gibson, Armin Gill, Albert A. Gorski, Ted Gribb, Joseph Gudaitis, Irvin Haetele, Walter Haczewski, Luther Jones, Philip Kennedy, Ted Killian, Raymond Kinback, Joseph Kitler, Nicholas Konchuba, George Lewis, Reed Lowrey, Benjamin Maczuga, Bruce MacKie, Clarence McGhee, William J. Miller, Victor Minetola, Charles O'Shea, Samuel Owens, Frank L. Paduck, Nicholas Parrella, Stanley Perlick, Edward Permowicz, Edgar Plummer, Walter Pryse, William Purcell, Herbert Quick, Joseph Radko, Arne K. Rasmussen, Robert Rubright, Florence Savitz, Mostyn Saye, Marvin Smith, Arthur Spengler, John Stark, John Stofko, Allan Strassman, Henry Stozeski, Henry Vankoski, Ted Warakoski, Russell H. Williams, Edmund Zaremba, Joseph Zawodnick, and David MacGowan.

Former Penn Star Named 1951 Baseball Coach; Will Direct Student Affairs And Gym Program

The appointment of Robert W. Partridge, former All-American soccer player and University of Pennsylvania baseball star, as director of student activities, physical director, and baseball coach for 1951 was announced this week by Dr. Eugene S. Farley, president.

PARTRIDGE

Two of the positions—director of student activities and physical education director—mark the creation of new posts at the rapidly expanding college. The other post—baseball mentor—will be relinquished by George Ralston, who has served in that position since he first came to Wilkes College in 1946.

Ralston will continue as director of athletics, dean of men and coach of football and basketball.

Partridge, who has been a member of the Wilkes College history department since 1947, will assume his duties in the newly created positions next September. In the meantime, he is planning to spend the summer taking courses in physical education at Boston University.

The creation of the new offices at the college is evidence that Wilkes is rapidly growing to well-established proportions.

Two 1950 Grads Named To West Pittston Faculty

Two former Forty Fort High School athletes, who will receive their bachelor's degrees from Wilkes College in June, have been appointed to teaching positions at West Pittston High School.

BOB WATERS

The new appointees, who will begin their classroom duties in September, are Bob Waters, a three-sports participant at Wilkes College, and Tom Richards, who is considered by many to be one of the finest wrestlers ever produced at Forty Fort High School.

The announcement concerning the appointment of the two former scholastic and collegiate athletes caused some speculation among the sports enthusiasts in West Pittston about the chances of the high school entering the scholastic grappling circle in 1951.

Waters has been an outstanding athlete during four years at Wilkes College. He captained the first eleven in 1946 and this year was given the Howard W. Davis Memorial Trophy as the outstanding athlete of the year.

Richards, who finished his courses in September, but due to the one-commencement policy at Wilkes, will not receive his diploma until June 12, is now studying for his master's degree at Columbia University. Oddly enough, he will receive his master's degree before being awarded his A. B. from Wilkes.

TOM RICHARDS

The construction of the new $250,000 gymnasium, which according to reports will be ready for use by September 1, prompted the institution officials to prepare for physical education classes.

Increased enrollment, causing more and bigger student activities, uncovered the need for a director of events to coordinate the program of extra-curricular activities at Wilkes College.

Fortunately enough, the search had to go no further than the faculty of the college because Partridge had received the finest of training for just such a job as a member of the U. S. Navy Tunney Program during the last war.

As a lieutenant, the former Penn athlete was in charge of athletics and the coordination of the activities for some of the largest naval bases. His experience in this particular field more than qualified for the new posts.

Partridge already has a first in athletics to his credit at Wilkes College. It was in 1948 that the former collegiate soccer performer introduced the kicking sport at the college for the first time. The action marked the revival of the sport in the Anthracite Region for the first time in over a quarter of a century.

Then in 1949, he moved his soccer proteges into the intercollegiate limelight against some of the better small college soccer institutions.

Columbia Faculty Members Address Students, Faculty

Faculty and students of Wilkes College were hosts to two members of the Columbia University faculty during special programs in April and May.

Dr. Harry J. Carman, dean of Columbia College, visited the campus in April. He addressed members of the student body at a special assembly and then was the principal speaker at a faculty dinner in his honor that evening.

Dean Carman delivered an inspiring address before the student body and concluded by reviewing his "Student's Ten Commandments."

Dr. Kenneth Herrold, assistant professor of education at Columbia University, was the speaker at the special assembly for students in May. That evening, he spoke to the faculty on "General Education" at a dinner in the campus cafeteria.

Dr. Herrold discussed with the students the steps to freedom from futility. He called upon the students to become conscious of the fact that they were "meant for something better than war, inter-racial strife, religious discrimination, anxiety, want and fear."

Wilkes Student Teachers Finish Training In Six Valley Schools

Fourth row: Simon Faltz, Victor Minetola, Leon Gilbert, Edward Yarish, Frank Darte, Leo Noll, Samuel Elias, Edward Godek, George Monigus and Joseph Breslin.

Absent when photograph was taken were: Reed Lowrey and Thomas Jordan.

The Teacher Training Program at Wilkes College, under the capable guidance of John A. Hall, ended its fourth semester of existence on May 24, when over 40 students returned to the campus after completing the usual 16-week training period in a regional secondary school classroom.

The first group of Wilkes sponsored student teachers entered the local city high school in September, 1948. At that time there were only a handful, but the program formed the basis for a more progressive schedule during the following semester, when almost 30 finished the teacher training program.

During the current school year the program reached new proportions and instead of employing the use of the classroom in only the three city high schools, Coughlin, GAR, and Meyers, additional institutions in Kingston, Plymouth, and Forty Fort opened their doors to the Wilkes trainees.

According to the supervisor of teacher training, the student training program at Wilkes is expected to continue to grow during the next few years as more and more valley residents realize that they can fulfill the requirements for a teaching certificate without leaving the region.

Registration for the 1950-51 teacher-training program has already begun at the education office of the college. The enrollment in the student teaching course during the Fall Semester is expected to be high, but an increase over any past semester figure is anticipated for the next Spring Semester.

CAMPUS CANDIDS

THE PASSING PARADE

Sports Era Ends With 1950 Graduation

The spirit of the first real athletic days at Wilkes College is embodied in the above group of veterans, who began their collegiate sports days during the first year that our institution tossed its hat into the intercollegiate sports world.

Third row: Bob Waters, baseball, football and wrestling; Gerard Washco, football; and Francis Pinkowski, football, basketball and baseball.

The old maxim "You never miss the water 'till the well runs dry" may be out of place for this particular story, but we can't help feeling that we have witnessed both the birth and the death of a sports era at Wilkes College.

While it is true that athletics have been so firmly established at this institution, that it would be almost impossible to eliminate the program without taking something out of college life, the so-called "good old days"—the days of the first participants in the initial endeavor—will end with the June 12 commencement.

Others, it is true, will take the places vacated by the departing athletes. Some will perform athletic feats that will overshadow those of their predecessors. Somehow or other the deeds, both small and large, accomplished by those in the first four years of large scale athletics at Wilkes, will stand as a stepping stone for the future generations at our college.

The basis for much of our school spirit was created by those who participated in the first four years of athletics at Wilkes. Now that the foundation has been set, the roughest part of the job of building campus life is finished.

This group of athletic pioneers helped to bring about five major sports on the Wilkes campus—football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, and soccer.

In years to come when Wilkes athletes gather to exchange tales of sports prowess, someone is bound to recall this first group of athletes who made it possible for the blue and gold teams to be established on a sound footing as an integral part of college life.

New Alumni Constitution Now Being Prepared By Special Committee

The literary steering wheel of the alumni association—the constitution—is in the process of receiving a face-lifting by a special committee appointed by Donald L. Honeywell, president.

With the increase shown in alumni affairs during the past year, it was decided by the members of the association at a recent meeting that the constitution, which was originally drawn up for the old Bucknell Junior College association, was out-dated and needed revising.

Work on the revision of the blueprint of alumni operations began late in April and already several major changes have taken place.

Included in the new constitution will be provisions for the organization of chapters of the Wilkes College Alumni Association in other cities.

A monthly meeting day, which will remain permanent for the central organization, has been included in the recommendations for changes in the constitution.

To date, the committee has covered about one-third of the old constitution and expects to complete the document that will govern the association in the future within the next two months.

Labor Management Forums Huge Success At Wilkes

In its role as a community college, Wilkes endeavored to create a more amenable attitude between labor and management by sponsoring a series of three monthly Labor-Management Forums on the campus.

Attended by an almost capacity crowd each evening, the forum closed on May 17 with a total of almost 700 valley residents having attended the discussions between the representatives of both factions.

Topics discussed were: "Union Pension Plans," "Right and Responsibilities of Labor and Management in Collective Bargaining," and "Union-Management Cooperation: It can Work."

Instrumental in the success of the three sessions was John Riley, '48, who is now a member of the Economics Department and acted as moderator for the trio of panel discussions.

On the program were: Christopher Boland, U. S. Social Security Bureau; Eugene Burke, vice president, Pennsylvania Federation of Labor; John Griffith, auditor, Sears Roebuck and Company; Attorney Max Rosenn; Leon Decker, business agent, Dairy Workers Union; Morton Wolovsky, president, Pioneer Manufacturing Company; and Eugene Considine, president, Central Labor Union.

The college plans to continue this forum in the Fall.

Upon completion of its work the recommendations for changes and additions to the constitution will be reviewed at a regular meeting of the association. At that time the recommendations will be either approved or rejected. It is expected that the entire project will not reach the final stage—which is the printing and distribution of the new constitution—before Fall.

Class of 1967!

BEVERLY JANE ELIAS

September 1967 could be a mighty proud day for Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Elias because it is on that date that their first child, Beverly Jane, just might be among the freshmen beginning classes at Wilkes College.

As it stands now, Beverly Jane won't celebrate her first birthday until July 21, but already both mom and pop are thinking in terms of the time when their daughter will be checking in at the registrar's office and finally touring the campus of their Alma Mater.

Mrs. Elias, the former Beverly Jane Brown, discovered her husband on the Wilkes campus. At that time, he was just Sammy Elias, former Meyers High School graduate, who was playing outstanding football for Wilkes College.

At present, Sammy is finishing up several graduate courses on the Wilkes campus and looking forward to his new job in Lazarus Department Store.

Beverly Jane's father received his diploma with the 1949 graduating class and decided to return to the campus for several graduate courses in education. Included among the courses was student teaching.

With the 1949 football team, Sammy finished a grid career which began back in 1941 as a member of the Meyers High School team. He captained the scholastic eleven in his senior year and handled the same assignment in his senior year at Wilkes.

June Graduates To Hear Former Eighth Army Commander, Lt. Gen. Eichelberger

Members of the June graduating class will hear as the principal speaker at the commencement, Lt. General Robert L. Eichelberger, former commander of the Eighth Army during World War II and now consultant to the Secretary of the Army on Far Eastern Affairs.

The event, which will take place on Monday evening, June 12, at 8, in the Irem Temple, is expected to draw a capacity crowd of students, faculty, their guests and alumni of Wilkes College.

The former commander of the well-known and much publicized "Amphibious Eighth" will address the graduating class prior to the issuing of diplomas and certificates to four and two-year graduates.

General Eichelberger first entered the spotlight of World War II, when he brought the initial corps to Australia in the summer of 1942. He retained command of this combat unit until he assumed command of the newly activated Eighth Army at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea in September, 1944.

Early in January, 1945, Eighth Army troops under General Eichelberger cleared the island of Mindoro and seized Marinduque. His amphibious Eighth Army task force struck the Bataan corridor northwest of Manila on January 29, 1945. Two days later, the 11th Airborne Division made an amphibious thrust at Manila from the southwest. General Eichelberger personally led the forces in this operation. To consolidate its hold on the Philippines, the Eighth Army struck at the heartland of the islands—the rich Southern Visayas. Less than 100 days later, the islands of Panay, Negros, Cebu, and Bohol were liberated.

After completing the liberation of the Philippines by crushing the Japanese forces on Mindanao and cleaning out the last bits of pocket resistance on the islands.

On August 30, 1945, The Eighth Army Commander with a small detachment from the 11th Airborne Division landed at Atsugi Air Field in what has been termed by many as one of the most daring gambles in history. Two hours later, he greeted the Supreme Commander, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, on his arrival. While General Eichelberger never hesitates to give credit to the officers and men of the Eighth Army for this daring landing, the occupation of this point has been described by many as just short of miraculous.

ALUMNI INVITED TO VISIT COLLEGE JUNE 12

College officials have extended an invitation to all members of the alumni association to visit the campus on June 12—Commencement Day.

Alumni President Donald L. Honeywell stated, "Graduation day is the time of the year that the faculty and students like to see former members of the student body arriving on campus to visit with old friends and to meet those who will be taking their places among the alumni."

Faculty offices and school facilities will be open that day. Why not return to your Alma Mater for the big day?

Seniors Plan Annual Dinner-Dance June 10th

The traditional Senior Dinner-Dance will be conducted on Saturday evening, June 10, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Sterling, according to an announcement made by Class President Robert Waters.

Present plans call for this year's affair to be one of the finest ever sponsored by a senior class. An invitation to attend this affair has also been extended to the terminal students at Wilkes College, who will terminate their academic relationship at the same June 12 commencement.

Virginia Moissner and William Griffith have been named co-chairmen of the Third Annual Dinner-Dance and have appointed a group of 25 seniors to help with the arrangements of the gigantic affair.

Herbie Green and his orchestra will provide the music for dancing from 9 to 12. The dinner time has been set at 6:30.

Commencement Announcements, Admission Tickets Limited

Wilkes College, which at one time held its commencement programs in the Presbyterian Church, has outgrown the largest auditorium in Wilkes-Barre.

With the 1950 graduation ceremony set for the Irem Temple, which seats approximately 1,475 persons, it became necessary this year to place restrictions upon the issuing of announcements and brought about the inauguration of admission tickets to the program.

Each person taking part in the ceremony has been notified that he will receive from the bookstore, without charge, four announcements. Additional announcements may be purchased at cost.

Four admission tickets have been allotted to each person taking part in the commencement. Limited space makes it impossible to grant requests for extra tickets.

An announcement from the office of the president stated, however, that persons without tickets will be admitted to the place of commencement at five minutes of eight.

New Freshman Orientation Program

By BETTY L. HARKER
DEAN OF WOMEN

Alumni everywhere have a habit of looking misty eyed and hurt when the news reaches them that "Old Main" has been replaced by an ultra modern glass brick building, or that the president's home is now to be turned over to the drama group for a workshop.

DEAN HARKER

In fact, almost any change in the established way of doing things, in the personnel, or in the physical plant is often looked upon with a wee bit of misgiving. It is as if the loyal alumnus, who enjoyed his years in college and thrilled to the class reunions, secretly resented any interference in "his" static idyllic campus dream world.

This feeling is pretty understandable, especially since the writer confesses to it, too! and need not be eliminated entirely from staunch alumni hearts. Indeed, some of this feeling makes a solid, well-knit alumni, but too much of it leads to great opposition to changes, which though departures from tradition, make a good college grow.

One of Wilkes' most outstanding assets is its youth. Our alumni completely refute the caricature that we have sketched in the opening paragraphs. This is one of our blessings. Alumni who welcome changes need never fear that their college will destroy tradition. Actually, we are very anxious to preserve those which we have at Wilkes, but we want to do still more. We want to continually create ideas and plans which one day will become our traditions.

This is a very long winded way of preparing you for our short statement about the new program in Freshman Orientation which was inaugurated in September, 1949. We want you to know of a program in which you didn't participate as a collegian, but which is typical of some of the changes Wilkes is making.

During the past several semesters it became perfectly clear to us that what was needed at Wilkes, was some kind of semester program which would meet the Fresh's needs and help him to be assimilated into our college community with as little stress and strain as possible.

Our program was launched in September as a compulsory, non-credit semester course, which included all incoming first year students. Transfer students were welcome at our meetings, but not compelled to come. With the fine assistance of John A. Hall, supervisor of teacher training at the college, we divided the total freshman class enrollment of 230 students into ten groups of 23 students.

We decided that we would each be responsible for carrying through the semester, five different sections of Freshman Orientation. Each section met once a week at a regular hour. We dubbed ourselves Freshman Orientation Leaders, prepared a statement of objectives, a list of discussion topics, and a brochure explaining the general procedure of the program.

The freshmen probably didn't know it, but we were being criticized simultaneously with them! What we mean, of course, is that as advisors to them in this new venture, we had no idea how effective or satisfactory this plan would be.

Actually, the students carried the entire program on their own shoulders. Each week, sections would meet with the faculty orientation leaders and proceed to discuss, informally, one of the several topics which the students had selected from a suggested list. These topics ranged from practical, realistic problems such as "How To Study" to the somewhat abstract item "Choosing Your Philosophy of Life." Students were given free reign in the selection of discussion topics, so that we felt many times their own choice indicated an area of particular importance to them, and hence, was much more valuable than many of those pre-selected.

At no time were formal lectures conducted, though the temptation to correct misconceptions, re-interpret the facts, or deny untruths was tremendous. We confess that often we failed to resist the temptation and went plunging into a topic dear to our hearts, after which we invariably apologized for monopolizing the discussion.

We were really more interested in the students discovering through their own discussions, the difference between fact and fiction, subjectivity and objectivity. Occasionally, and with no apologies, we stepped in, as was our duty as moderator, and explained that it was fantastic to believe such fallacies as all faculty were monsters beset on failing each student or that human beings could breathe under water without the aid of artificial devices and survive! We would like to think that we interferred as little as possible, though we know that there were many times when we felt compelled to reinterpet a great deal of what is generally accepted as misinformation.

Our orientation program is based on the following objectives:

1. Social responsibility. By this we mean a recognition of the individual's responsibility to think clearly on social issues and to express his ideas. We mean also responsibility for working not only by himself, but harmoniously and effectively with others.
2. Individual confidence and maturity. Through our small discussion groups, we hope that the student will learn a great deal about himself, his own behavior and how it attracts or repels others as he finds himself being accepted or rejected by the group. We hope also that this small group will give him some sense of belonging which will be particularly important to this feeling of self assurance in the first months of college.
3. The stimulation of thinking and the encouragement of the expression of ideas. Here we have in mind our contributing to the students' use of spoken English.
4. The teaching in an indirect way the social amenities of life. We try to create an atmosphere of mutual consideration in spite of the informality of the meetings.
5. Finally, we hope that this program will reduce the number of individual's having difficulty adjusting to college and we hope that the student's personal, academic, and social life will perhaps be enriched as a result of his experience in Freshman Orientation.

We cannot say enough in appreciation for those other faculty members, who generously gave their time periodically to come into our sections and act as guest moderators.

Naturally, our greatest debt is to our own Freshmen students, who caught the spirit of the Orientation Program and were responsible for any of the success it had.

At the end of the semester a questionnaire was answered by each freshman student. The results indicated that they enjoyed the program, that it helped in their adjustment to college life, and that they would recommend its continuation for future Freshman classes.

Two Members of 1949 Wilkes Eleven Sign Contracts With Pittsburgh Steelers

All-State halfback John Florkiewicz and 230-pound Gerard Washco, two of the mainstays of the powerful Wilkes College grid team, who finish college this month, were signed to play professional football next season with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Florkiewicz and Washco completed four years of outstanding play for the Colonels last year after coming to Wilkes from Nanticoke High School where they held down varsity spots on that school's grid team.

Florkiewicz completed his most brilliant season last year by gaining a berth on the second all-state team after placing among the state's leading scorers with 72 points in eight games. In his four seasons of play at Wilkes the hard-running tailback tallied 29 times in 25 games to establish himself as one of the best half-backs produced in many years in Pennsylvania's hard coal regions.

The two Wilkes stars were the first players to be signed by a professional league club since football was started at the two Wilkes-Barre colleges, Wilkes and King's in 1946. Their outstanding play all season enabled the Wilkes eleven to chalk up a record of seven wins, one tie and one loss in nine starts.

Florkiewicz completed high school in 1942 and saw service in the army for three years before coming to Wilkes at the start of the 1946 season. Washco completed high school in 1944 after playing three years varsity ball. In 1947 the two Wilkes stars co-captained the grid team to a record of six wins, one tie and one loss.

Placement Office To Aid 1950 Grads

Wilkes College Placement Center, operating with the majority of its contacts in one of the 43 "Distress" areas declared by the U. S. Bureau of Employment Security, has succeeded in uncovering 210 part-time jobs for its students and placing 60 per cent of the February graduating class.

The announcement was made by John Chwalek, who recently released his first set of statistics as director of the Placement Center.

The news of the success enjoyed by the center helped considerably to ease the tension on the students, who are graduating this month and will be seeking employment.

Many of the June graduates have already been placed in jobs, while others have been registered at the Placement Office for future job openings. Summer work has been taken by many of those who will graduate this month.

At the end of January, a federal announcement declared Wilkes-Barre, with at least 12 per cent of its workers out of jobs, as one of 43 "distress" areas that pockmarked U. S. prosperity. This report, coupled with the statement by educational officials that a 25 per cent decline in employment possibilities is expected for June graduates, caused many students to speculate about their chances for gaining employment.

The Wilkes Placement Center has been extremely fortunate in its efforts to place students and graduates in either part-time or full time employment.

While a good many of the last several graduating classes at Wilkes have elected to continue their education by attending either graduate or professional schools, the Placement Center has had to make contacts about employment possibilities for about 60 per cent of the graduates.

Plans have been made for summer employment for Wilkes students. To date, employment has been obtained for 35 students and requests for additional help are being received daily by the Placement Center.

In May, representatives from many of the country's leading firms spent a day on the Wilkes College campus, interviewing graduates for positions.

1950 Baseball Team Best In History

The 1950 baseball squad took its place among the great athletic teams that have represented Wilkes College since it first entered the intercollegiate sports picture in a big way in 1946.

When this article was going to press, only one game remained—that one with Bloomsburg State Teachers College—and the Colonels had recorded a record of 13 wins in 17 starts.

Big Johnny Zigmund, hard-hitting pitcher, was the ace-in-the-hole for the Ralston aggregation during the season. It was his work on the hill that enabled the Wilkes team to move past some of the tougher college opponents. He chalked up a season's record of six wins in seven starts.

Highlight of the season is the fact that Wilkes is the only college team to beat Ithaca College and did it both at home and away.

Besides being the hardest-hitting team ever to represent the blue and gold, the 1950 squad was tops defensively. The work of such men as Al Molosh, Ben Dragon, Ed Skordinski and Francis Pinkowski made it almost impossible for opposing players to hit through the infield.

In the outfield, all three men were tops. Jack Semmers, Don Blankenbush, and either Jake Waters or Al Minarski handled the chores. Unusual was the fact that all four had excellent throwing arms and several times saved the game by tossing men out at home.

Marianna Tomassetti Named 1950 Cinderella

The fabulous Cinderella fairy tale was relived for the fourth time in as many years on Friday evening, May 26, at the Rocky Glen Aquadium, when Claude Thornhill, nationally known orchestra leader, proclaimed Miss Marianna Tomassetti, a junior at Wilkes College, as the 1950 Cinderella at the Fourth Annual Cinderella Ball.

In keeping with storybook version the stroke of midnight was the big moment for the Cinderella setting. The 11 Wilkes College coeds, who had gracefully walked toward the bandstand, were assembled behind the stage when the minute hand approached the mark of midnight.

At the stroke of 12, Miss Tomassetti and her escort broke into the spotlight as the students' choice for the title of 1950 Cinderella.

A record-breaking crowd of Wilkes students, faculty, alumni, and friends attended the affair.

Miss Tomassetti, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Tomassetti, 110 North Franklin street, City, is a graduate of Coughlin High School. Prior to her admission to the city secondary school, she was a student at Sacred Heart School in Plains.

As a student at Wilkes College, Miss Tomassetti, who was a candidate for the Cinderella title last year, is exceptionally active in extra-curricular activities. She is a member of Theta Delta Rho Sorority, and studying for a bachelor's degree in sociology.

Three of the 11 coeds chosen as Cinderella candidates were selected last year. The other two are Janet Gearhart, South Franklin street, City, and Gwen Clifford, Straub Road, Trucksville.

Miss Elaine Turner, chosen as the 1949 Cinderella, was the general chairman of last evening's dance. Working with the other members of the Wilkes College Student Council, Miss Turner guided the arrangements of one of the most successful dances ever sponsored by the community college.

Miss Mary Porter, another of the 11 coeds, was a finalist in the contest to select the 1949 Career Girl in the Wyoming Valley Parade of Progress Show.

Other candidates for the title were: Marilyn Broadt, E. Pettebone street, Forty Fort; Barbara Lee Hartley, West Dorrance Street, Kingston; Beryl Colwell, Main Street, Dallas; Nancy Raub, Colonial Gardens, Forty Fort; Margaret Brenish, Cleveland Street, Hudson; Jean Ditoro, Parsonage Street, Pittston; and Marysh Mieszkowski, Lee Park Avenue, Wilkes-Barre.

NEWS TID-BITS

Exit baseball for the 1950 year and the only thing remaining for sports enthusiasts to become interested in is the 1950 football season. This, however, is rather difficult to do since the first signs of the pigskin sport don't appear until about September 1, when Coach George Ralston is expected to issue his first call for grid candidates.

Dr. Eugene S. Farley, president of Wilkes College, reported recently that work has been progressing so favorably on the new $250,000 gymnasium that the project will more than likely be completed by September 1, instead of the original date of October 1.

>>W<<

The Alumni Association already is making plans for several dances in the new gymnasium. President Donald L. Honeywell will appoint a special committee in the near future to make arrangements for holding the first affair in the new recreation center.

>>W<<

As far as Bob Partridge, newly appointed baseball coach is concerned, Santa Claus came real early this year. A former Penn diamond star, Partridge has always hoped that someday he would be the coach of a team.

>>W<<

John Cooney, member of the Economics Department and a member of the 1948 graduating class, has been accepted at the University of Pittsburgh's Graduate School. He will accept a leave of absence from Wilkes College for the 1950-51 school year.

>>W<<

Alumni officers have started to plan for the 1950 Homecoming, scheduled to take place in November. This affair will begin on Friday evening and continue through the week-end. Events and a planned program of activity will be arranged.

>>W<<

When first reports reached the college of the big fire at the Rocky Glen amusement park, site of the college's Cinderella Ball, there was some fear on campus that the incident might bring about the cancellation of the school's biggest dance of the year. The appearance of posters on the campus announcing "Fire Sale—Cinderella Ball tickets reduced from $4.00 to $3.40" and others reporting that the "Cinderella Ball" would be held as scheduled, soon dispelled any doubts that may have existed.

>>W<<

The Colonels' second baseball victory of the season over the strong Ithaca College nine proved to be one of the most satisfying wins Coach George Ralston's club has copped all season. After downing the Ithacans in the first tilt many fans felt that it would be only a matter of time until affairs were squared, when the Colonels traveled to Ithaca for a return game. However, the Colonels' second win, via a 5-4 count, left little doubt in the fans' minds as to the excellent club Ralston had developed.
