Committee Reports Given At SG Meeting

Faculty committee reports were given at Monday night's Student Government meeting.

Parliamentarian Ana Nunez reported on the activities of the Academic Standards Committee. She noted that a subcommittee on withdrawals had developed a statement of policy on withdrawals. The statement of policy as approved by the committee and may possibly be referred to the faculty for further approval. The earliest that it may be put into effect would be next fall.

Nunez read the statement of policy which says, "W is not a grade: it does not constitute a reflection of academic performance within a course. The appropriate grade for academic performance below the minimum standard for course credit is 0."

It further points out that a W granted during the first four weeks of the semester reflects the student's choice to drop the course after consulting the instructor, faculty advisor, and the appropriate dean of student affairs. Also, if a student drops a course to add another course, a W will not appear on the transcript. After the first four weeks, a W will be granted only if because of some extraordinary circumstances, the student finds that completion of the course is not possible or feasible.

Nunez continued that according to the statement the student is the one who initiates the withdrawal procedure. However, the instructor may withdraw a student from his class because of accumulated unexcused absences.

In conclusion, the statement notes that a grade may be changed to a W after the completion of the semester only if the dean of academic affairs decides that the change is necessary.

Nunez also reported that the English department submitted a proposal to the academic standards committee concerning transfer students who do not take both English 101 and 102. The proposal states that these students or any other students referred to the department by at least two members of the faculty would have to take and pass a specially prepared test in order to be eligible for graduation.

Senior representative Rob Doty reported that the Admissions Committee has been discussing scholarships. He noted that the committee would like to push for more merit scholarships. He pointed out that by increasing the number of scholarships for academic achievement, the college would be able to attract more good students.

Chris Fellin announced that the financial aid committee has been hearing appeals by students who feel that their financial aid should be reviewed. He commented that any students feeling that they need more financial aid or facing financial circumstances that may interfere with their education should contact the financial aid committee.

In other business, Al Wirkman stated that ticket sales for the Homecoming Dinner Dance will continue for the remainder of the week in the SG office on the second floor of Weckesser Hall.

In conclusion, the publicity and elections committee reminded everyone that ID's are required for voting in all elections.

A new English Club will be formed on Tuesday, October 14 at 11:15 a.m. in Kirby Hall room 102. Anyone interested in the liberal arts is invited to join.

An Inside Look Campus Life In Miner Hall

What's it like living in the new Miner Hall (the YMCA)? According to Mary Giblin, 4th floor R.A., and others, it's not much different than living in other dorms.

One difference between living at the "Y" and other dorms is the amount of noise. The noise is over-amplified and it is difficult to keep quiet hours enforced. Giblin felt the over-amplification of noise was due to the structure of the "Y" itself. "You don't have the three different floors to break up the noise," she commented.

Many good aspects of living at the "Y" were pointed out. Some of these included tighter security, nice clean rooms, and the fact that the "Y" is centrally located. The rooms themselves are small singles, which Giblin says "almost forces the freshmen to get out and mingle, meet their neighbors, and make friends." She went on to say, "Almost everybody knows who everybody is."

Another point which was brought out was the fact that there was a feeling of unity between the girls because they see each other more often than they would in a smaller residence hall.

The majority of girls residing in Miner Hall are freshmen. Katie McHugh, a freshman, feels that a larger residence hall is better for freshmen. "A freshman wants to establish relationships with other freshmen because they'll be the ones you'll be here with and graduate with." She further commented that freshmen would all have "the chance to adapt to college life together."

When asked what, if any, problems there were, Giblin stated that the restrooms were anticipated to be the biggest problem, but really weren't. The main problem was that "all the repairs weren't done by the time school started." These repairs included finishing showers and restrooms and providing curtain rods and shades for the rooms.

A few girls from the fifth floor echoed these complaints, stating that they "don't think they were ready for us. Everything is just starting to fall into place."

Another complaint, but not a major problem, was the fact that there is no elevator. One girl said there are about 76 steps leading to the fifth floor.

Giblin concluded that the girls have had to adapt to alot, but "most all the of the girls like living here."

Board Of Trustees Elects Five Members

Five new trustees were elected by the Wilkes College Board of Trustees at their annual meeting in May. The Nominating Committee of the Board of Trustees recommends to the board those whom they feel are qualified and have an interest in serving the College.

The five new trustees, elected to a three year term, are: W. Carey Evans, a resident of Wyoming, Pennsylvania. Evans is a 1941 graduate of Bucknell University Junior College and is the President of Wyoming Valley Nursery, Inc. Mrs. Robert L. Mayock, resident of Wynnewood, Pennsylvania, is a graduate of Edgewood Park Junior College in Briarcliffe Manor, New York. Mayock is a member of the Junior League of Philadelphia, and is active at the University of Pennsylvania's hospital, serving on various committees and organizations in the Philadelphia area. Her husband, Dr. Robert L. Mayock, is the Chief of the Pulmonary Unit of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

William A. Perlmuth is a senior partner in the law firm of Stroock & Stroock & Lavan, located in New York City. Perlmuth received an B.A. from Wilkes, and an L.L.B. from Columbia University Law School. He is a member of various professional organizations and is a trustee of both the Aeroflex Foundation and the Harkness Ballet Foundation.

Arnold S. Rifkin, a resident of Wilkes Barre, is the President of A. Rifkin Co. Rifkin is a graduate of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, a member of the Friends Hospital Corporation, and serves in various areas of community activities. Mary B. Rhodes, of Waverly, Pennsylvania, is a mathematics teacher in the Abington Heights School District. Rhodes received her B.A. from Swarthmore College and an M.S. from Wilkes. She is a member of the Abington Township Planning Commission and the Junior League of Scranton.

The Board of Trustees tries to establish a diverse Board. According to President Robert S. Capin, they aim for geographic, alumni, and male and female distributions.

The College by-laws state that there should be thirty-six members of the Board, although the College is not required to have thirty-six members at all times. "We have been fortunate to have a pool of individuals in excess of the number of positions available on the Board," commented Capin. He went on to say that, at this time there is one opening on the Board.

This past summer, the new members of the Board of Trustees were invited to the campus for a full day of orientation which gave them the opportunity to meet with key administrators, attend executive committee meetings, tour the campus, and ask questions relating to the running of the campus.

Trustee Emeritus

Last May at the annual meeting, the following people were designated as Trustees Emeriti: Mr. Thomas H. Kiley, who was Chairman of the Board, and served since 1963; Mrs. Richard M. Ehret, who has served on the Board since August, 1970; and Mrs. Eberhard Faber, who has served on the Board since 1962.

Rally Supporting Ronald Reagan Held On Public Square Last Week

Acknowledging the fact that this is a predominantly Democratic region, but also acknowledging his need for cross-over votes, Republican Presidential nominee Ronald Reagan visited Wilkes-Barre last Wednesday, October 1. At a rally held on Public Square, he delivered a speech that included all of his usual political rhetoric, but it was carefully tailored to appeal to residents of the Wyoming Valley.

"Wilkes-Barre knows you must never give up," Reagan remarked, referring to the area's struggle after the 1972 flood, "and through hard work and perseverance you came back, and with good leadership, America can come back!" Comments like this drew cheers and applause from the 3,000 plus crowd gathered in front of the speakers platform.

Reagan arrived on the square shortly after 5 p.m. on the exceptionally warm afternoon, and opened his speech on a note of optimism. "I have sensed hope throughout the nation. When hurricane Agnes hit, you went to work and rebuilt. Wilkes-Barre should be a place of growth and opportunity." Reagan then used this theme as a base for his attack on President Carter's economic policies, blaming the present administration for higher taxes, and unnecessary increase in the federal government's budget. He then presented his own proposals to remedy the nation's ills which include plans to have massive tax cuts and reductions in government spending.

Reagan then reaffirmed his faith in the strength of the family unit and pledged, "I will go to work for the families of America with a tax break and a tuition tax credit bill (which will aid parents with children in parochial schools)." He also made a brief statement against the Department of Education, which was created by President Carter, and its standards.

Responding to a comment made by an unidentified Carter official days earlier, Reagan defended his position on social security and unemployment insurance and denied that he would dismantle either. "I am committed to preserving and protecting the Social Security System." His only criticism of the unemployment insurance was that "through mismanagement, many people are getting free rides at the expense of the other tax payers."

Moments before concluding his speech, Reagan eyed a poster in the crowd that read, "Stop Reagan, Stop the Arms Race," and responded by saying that the Carter Administration "has allowed the defense capability of this nation to erode to the point where we no longer have the capability to defend ourselves." He also reiterated his opposition to the peace-time draft registration and insulted the postal service in one breath, saying he did not understand how the deadlines can be met when the Post Office is being used.

In an attempt to appeal to one of the dominant ethnic groups in the area, Reagan concluded his speech by saying farewell in Polish.

Senior Employment Seminar Gives Overview Of Job Market

"The occupational possibilities you make are your opportunities," according to Ms. Paula Placko of the SHS Employment Agency. Placko was one of three speakers who addressed members of the senior and junior classes attending the Senior Employment Seminar.

Placko noted that, given the economic conditions of today, the overview of the job market for the next 10 years leads towards the "services" fields. Specifically, Placko noted that health systems, tele-communications and information systems are the major areas that will have job openings. Placko also stressed that energy-related areas, marketing and sales, medical — health-related services, cosmetics, food management services and public relations are also viable areas.

After the job market overview, Dr. Bradford L. Kinney of the Speech Division presented a talk on the fundamentals of interviewing and resume construction. Kinney pointed out that there are six steps in interview techniques: 1) conduct a self-inventory; 2) the initial job inquiry; 3) preparation for interview; 4) the people involved in interview; 5) the actual interview; 6) and the follow-up to the interview. Kinney stressed that the keys to have a successful interview are to have a folder with you containing all your information, be willing to communicate and be a good listener. Kinney also urged prospective employees to watch their diction and mode of dress. "Dress as if you already have the job," he advised.

Kinney also explained how to construct a resume. The resume must be complete and brief and should contain your home address, phone number and all personal information, including marital and military status. The resume should also explain all work experience, including extra curricular activities and references. At least three references should be included.

The third part of the senior employment seminar centered on Eugene Domzalski who spoke on career placement and service. Domzalski noted that there is a career library that may help students with interviews and resume construction. Workshops will also be held at the Roth Center on student employment and graduate school information. A package of information was given to all who attended the seminar.

Students wishing for more information on jobs, job placement or graduate school should contact Eugene Domzalski at the Roth Center.

The objectives of Commuter Council were outlined during their meeting on Monday night. The goals of Commuter Council are:

1. Encourage all students, especially commuters, to become more involved in student activities at Wilkes. By

a) involving all students in the committees of CC.

b) sponsoring a varied schedule of activities.

2. Establish independent committees, each with their own objectives, and encourage all members of the student body to become involved.

3. To work cooperatively with IRHC on parties and with both SG and IRHC on all students activities and issues.

4. To encourage discussions on all campus issues.

5. To fix up the office and improve the image of Commuter Council.

6. To become more involved in the All College Weekends.

Homecoming

Winter Weekend

Cherry Blossom Weekend

7. To work to sponsor a varied schedule of events, including non-alcoholic events.

Besides establishing its objectives, CC is also working on its Octoberfest. The Octoberfest will run during next week. It will include a coffeehouse at the student center, a roller skating party at Skate Away and possibly a student center party. The coffeehouse will be on Tuesday, October 14 from 1:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. in the student center. Pat Godwin will be the performer. The roller skating party will be held on Thursday, October 16 from 10:30 p.m. to about 12:30 or 1:00 a.m. Admission will be 25 cents a person, not including skate rental fees. Skate rental will be about 75 cents. A student center party is planned to conclude the event. There is a chance that bavarian food, hot dogs and sauerkraut will be served. Tickets will probably run about $2.00 and a polka-top twenty group, the Polka Jacks are expected to perform. Additional information can be obtained by contacting the CC office on the second floor in Weckesser Hall.

Under the food service report, it was announced that a discount booklet will be distributed to all freshmen in order for them to get acquainted with the campus snack bar and the college dining hall. With the two coupons in the booklet, students can get a free 20 oz. coke and two free donuts with the purchase of a hot beverage from the campus snack bar. The other coupon entitles the student to a $1.00 off the cost of a lunch in the college dining hall. The student center or campus snack bar is open from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. Monday through Sunday. The Pickering Dining Hall has breakfast from 7:00 to 8:15 a.m. at $1.50; lunch from 10:45 to 1:15 p.m. at $2.25; and dinner from 4:45 to 6:00 p.m. at $3.25, Monday through Friday. Any questions about food or food service should be directed to the Food Service Director at Extension 436.

The meeting concluded with the appointment of Nancy Bowanko as a sophomore representative to the Council and a reminder that all heads of the various committees are urged to turn in their individual committee objectives and budgets.

Administration Adds White In Public Relations Office

Eddie White III

Eddie White III was recently appointed to the position of Assistant for News and Sports Information at Wilkes. The appointment became effective September 17.

White, a 1980 graduate of Wilkes, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward White, Jr., Wilkes-Barre. While at Wilkes, he majored in English-

Journalism and worked as a student assistant in the public relations office. He served the last two years as Sports Information Director on a part-time basis.

White also served as sports editor for The Beacon for two years and previously was assistant sports editor in his sophomore year. In addition, he was the president of the Journalism Society from 1978 to 1980. White's activities at the college also included: serving as colorman and sports talk show co-host for WCLH-FM; Colonel Classic basketball tournament committee member; and publicity director for the East-West Wyoming Valley High School all-star baseball game.

A 1976 graduate of Bishop Hoban High School, he worked for the Wilkes-Barre Recreation Board for the past two summers as publicity assistant and belongs to the American Football Writers Association; Collegiate Baseball Writers Association; and COSIDA, the national organization for College Sports Information Directors of America.

When asked about his new position, White replied, "I welcome the opportunity to continue my sports writing career at Wilkes College. In the past, we haven't had the time to do little things that a Sports Information Director should do."

For the past few years, the duties of Sports Information Director were shared by Bob Gaetano, Class of '80, and White. "Now that I'm here all day it's much better," White continued. He has already met with the winter sports coaches and has plans for publicity for all sports and increased publicity on the grappler's club and newly formed basketball club.

Faculty Group Enjoys Meeting

There are well over twenty-five social clubs and organizations at Wilkes of which students can be a part, but there is no social gathering for faculty, right? Wrong!

About four years ago, Dr. Jean Driscoll of the political science department joined with Shirley Eaton of the Language and Literature department to form TGIF, the Thank God It's Friday social group. The group meets every Friday from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Annette Evans Faculty and Alumni House.

"We have no officers and no charter," noted Dr. Driscoll. "We are an informal group with members from all departments." Although thirty to forty faculty members do attend the "get together" they do not come as representatives from any particular department. Dr. Driscoll commented that the people come "to see what they have in common with each other. This way there is a place for faculty members to come have a little fun and to meet with people outside of their department."

TGIF is open to all faculty members. No students are allowed.

Meal Ticket Program Discussed At IRHC

The IRHC meeting opened with a brief discussion of problems concerning the meal ticket program. One of the suggested solutions was a single file meal line. Another suggestion was checking the resemblance of meal ticket photos with the individual who makes requests for the card and who uses the card. If you have any suggestions on this topic or anything else dealing with the food service, attend the food committee meeting on Thursday, October 9, 1980 at 2:00 p.m. in the east wing of the cafeteria.

The Student Center Board

representative, Valerie Van Dyke, reported that curtains will soon be provided for the upper level rooms. Two more pinball machines will be purchased for the center and graffiti boards will be installed for easier score keeping. Hours for the center are:

Monday-Thursday 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m.

Friday 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Saturday 12:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Sunday 12:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m.

A blood donor day will be held on October 9, in the gym from 9:45 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. The hall with the highest number of donors will receive a $25.00 prize and the club with the highest number of donors will receive a trophy.

The next meeting (October 12) will include a feature speaker. Jim Sparrall, a former resident hall president from the University of Cincinnati, was asked to present a program to Wilkes IRHC members by those members who attended the National Association of University and College Resident Hall Convention in May, 1980.

Week Of October 14th-17th Proclaimed Oktoberfest

Commuter Council has proclaimed next week from October 14th to October 17th as Oktoberfest. The council has scheduled several events and activities to take place during the week to try and lessen the hassle of daily life that occurs in the daily lives of Wilkes College students.

A first at the College, the council is sponsoring a lunchtime Coffee House to be held in the Student Center on Tuesday, October 14. The entertainment will be live featuring the favorite local talent of Pat Godwin. It will begin at 11 a.m. and run to 1 p.m. The lower level of the Student Center will be utilized and it will take on a more decorative atmosphere with tablecloths and candles adorning the tables. The council feels that it is a great way to relax with a lunch; munchies will be provided.

Thursday night, a college favorite, a Roller Skating Party, will take place at the Roller King in Kingston. Admission will be twenty-five cents with College I.D. The party will begin at 10:30 p.m. and continue until 12:30 a.m.

Rounding out the week of activities will be a Student Center

Party on Friday evening. The council is still finalizing plans as to what type of food will be served at the party. They are trying to get German food, such as hotdogs and sauerkraut, but may feature cold cuts with specialty being "German Bologna." The ticket price will be $1.50 with the door opening at 9:00 p.m. Another new twist to the party is the possibility of the band "Polka Jacks" performing. The band is 50 per cent rock and 50 percent polka. The council feels it would be a change of pace from the usual Student Center Party.

NOTICE

Theta Delta Rho Sorority, in conjunction with Pomeroy's Department store, will hold a holiday fashion show Thursday night, November 6, 1980. Come and see the latest in winter fashions. Watch the Beacon for more details.

NOTICE

The New Jersey Higher Education Assistance Authority reminds all State residents that October 15 is the final date for applying for the New Jersey State Scholarship and Tuition Aid Grant Programs.

New Jersey residents who have not yet made an application for these programs should obtain a New Jersey Financial Aid Form (NJFAF) from the Financial Aid Office in Weckesser Hall so that it can be filed before the October 15, 1980 deadline.

Class Of '81 President Restates Position On Campaign Rules

To the Editor:

I take opposition to your "unauthorized" article appearing in the September 25th issue of The Beacon on page 4, entitled "The Students' Choice." Although not clearly stated as an editorial, or for that matter, the opinion of The Beacon, we, the students, may only assume that this article is as such.

I realize the obligation of the journalist when presenting both sides of an issue, and the responsibilities involved in good reporting. However, several points mentioned in the article should be clarified without the influence of the negative editorial tone.

As I was quoted by Mr. Czachor (p.2), I reiterate the point that the inclusion of campaign cost limitations was not a mandate; rather, that it served as a guideline. Hand-made materials are still permitted without limitations on amount or number.

In regard to the point raised about campaign spending in excess of the limitation, it should be stated that although enforcement of this regulation by the Governmental Affairs Committee may be difficult, it is the fervent hope of S.G. that any person seeking a student leadership position will have enough inherent honesty and respect to follow these regulations. If not, let us question the calibre of people seeking office, not the policies which are established for their regulation!

The introduction of the policy of obtaining signatures for nomination is designed to increase student awareness in elections, reduce voting apathy, and generally improve our campus elections. Also, the "extra burden" placed on candidates seeking office can only help their chances of being elected by providing exposure and establishing a platform for the office that they seek.

It is in the interest of the College, or for any worthwhile organization to accentuate the positive and strive for constant betterment and advancement. In relation to the College's goal of Reaffirmation of Values, it is quite clear that the opinion of The Beacon and the resulting editorial did little to benefit the overall acceptance of the new policy established by the student-elected body, acting with the best interest of the College in mind. In my opinion, this editorial is more damaging than the issues it is discussing.

In summary, I feel it is the responsibility of The Beacon to scrutinize its policies and reaffirm its values to advance positive ideas, positive goals, and the presentation of non-destructive material to join in the betterment of Dear Old Wilkes.

Respectfully,
Robert S. Wallace
President, Class of 1981

Editorial reply: Distinguishing between an editorial and a news article requires the understanding that editorials are, in fact, the official position of the newspaper, written by the editor or a member of the staff with the editor's approval and therefore, traditionally unsigned. Editorials do not attempt to vocalize general opinion, but rather to stimulate the reader to think of the many sides of a single issue.

Sports Quiz Error Noted By Reader

To The Sports Editor:

In last week's "Sports Quiz" you made a few errors on the question: "Name the pro team with the most retired numbers, name the players and the numbers they wore?"

The ones you mentioned were correct, but you omitted three. The Yanks have also retired No. 8 which was worn by catchers Bill Dickey and Yogi Berra, and No. 37, worn by their great manager, the late Casey Stengel.

Sincerely yours,
Yankee Fan

Professor Emeritus States Views On World Hunger

To the Editor:

Those persons who are actively participating in the CROP WALK "to raise funds for world HUNGER concerns" are to be commended for their taking an interest in one aspect of human overpopulation. However, to supply food to the starving countries without also making it possible for them to reduce humanly, the populations of their countries are questionable.

One of the mistakes which citizens of the now affluent countries make is to assume that those countries in which people are starving are the ones which are overpopulated. Actually, the most overpopulated country today is The United States of America. Overpopulation is not measured by how many organisms are starving to death but by how much damage the biota is doing to the total environment.

Watching people starve while realizing that to feed them may make matters worse is one of the lesser unpleasantnesses which those who are concerned will be forced to endure in this decade.

RA Commends Clambake

To the Editor:

I would like to call attention to the outstanding job done by the members of Slocum Hall this past Saturday, at the Slocum-S.G. Clambake.

The clambake was, in the eyes of all who attended, a huge success, not only because of the wonderful time everyone had, but for the fact that it was a non-alcoholic party. These enterprising young men had the initiative to conduct such an affair although they were greatly discouraged by the many students who feel a party can not be any fun if there is no alcohol present.

I should like to think Slocum Hall has set the standard for such parties, and hope to see more of the same in the future.

Thomas G. Urosevich
R. A. - Slocum Hall

Doty Thanks Participants

To the Editor:

I would like to thank all of the people who attended the S.G.-Slocum Clambake this past Saturday. I would especially like to thank all of the members of Slocum Hall who worked so hard to make this seemingly impossible clambake a reality, and Student Government for the loan which made the whole thing possible. Originally, beer was to have been served at the function, but because of numerous problems this could not be arranged. Since this was a non-alcoholic event, we had a small turnout, but everyone I talked to had a great time. I hope in the future, we could have more events like this and that people would attend these events in large numbers like they attend Student Parties.

New Cafeteria Procedures Announced

To the Editor:

At the September 28th meeting of the Inter-Residence Hall Council, a problem concerning individuals not on the Board Plan entering the Dining Hall which was discussed in great detail.

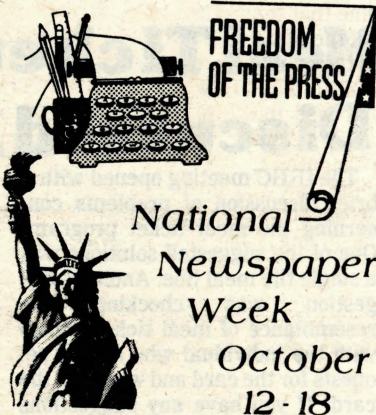

As a result of this discussion, the Inter-Residence Hall Council has decided that it is time to act on this problem. A meeting was held on Tuesday, September 30th with the Food Service and some new restrictions were set up. Effective immediately, a single file meal line will be formed on both wings of the Dining Hall. In addition, all meal tickets will be checked and all students will be required to have their meal tickets kept in proper condition, i.e. names and pictures must be legible. One additional precaution taken will be to have students pick up meal ticket receipts (green slips) in the Food Service office.

These measures have been taken in the past interest of the Residence Hall Students. The cooperation of all students is requested to identify unauthorized individuals to the Dining Hall personnel. If there are any questions, please contact me in Denison (Old Miner) Hall, Rm. 203.

Bruce R. Williams
Food Committee Chairman of the Inter-Residence Hall Council.

Look Around!

The book covers aren't as glossy and shiny as they were. The pages don't seem as new and crisp, the fear of forgetting the time and room of your courses is long gone (unless you have Chem 251). The notebooks are filling up; the test dates pile up like cars in a highway accident. And the tests—well, they have casualty lists of their own.

It's the sixth week of classes. Time for settling in, sinking down or getting snowed over. There will be the industrious who plod along in the work, not unlike the fervent cafe-goers who desperately yearn for that sumptuous meal. Then, there will be the rest who realize, after six weeks, that they, the drivers, fell off the stagecoach. And as the coach tears off across the mudflats, digging its heels to halt its progress, it does nothing but sling the mud.

What should we do? Close our eyes and hold on for dear life? Well, it's a possibility, but by closing our eyes we'll miss everything that streaks by.

Here are some eye-opening techniques: Look around! Did you ever notice the design on the ceiling of the first floor of the SUB? How many 'new' and 'effective' fans are there in the Cafe? What are the names of the two new Wilkes colonels? How fast must you travel to get all the green lights going across the Market Street Bridge through Kingston? How many times did the fire alarms go off this week in Stark or NMD? Who are we playing this weekend in football, soccer, cross country, field hockey, volleyball, and women's tennis?

Can you find a new notice on one of the sure-to-be-uncluttered bulletin boards in Stark or Parrish? How many people registered to vote during the Voter Registration Day? Which college building has the name of "Lehigh and Wilkes Barre Coal Company" engraved on it? What kind of unusual rock is in front of the library—a petrified tree stump or a nursing student of years past who became petrified at the sight of the first Med-Surg test? Figure out how the maids manage to hit all the dorms at 8-9 a.m. when everyone's clambering for showers.

Go down and take a look at the river (yes, clamber down the rocks) and imagine that that's the source of your drinking water. As you return, consider if the rumor about the new benches on the River Common is true—that is, did they put two benches there in September and the rest were the result of their 'activity'. How else would so many spring up in such a short time?

What was the 'best' part of the mime group or the funniest part of "Charley's Aunt"? What famous baseball player will be at Wilkes in less than a month?

By the time you finish answering all of these questions, it will either be the weekend (sigh of relief), or fall break. Either way, hang in there. Thanksgiving is only 48 days away!

SG President Promotes Campaign To Increase Student Involvement

"I really enjoy working for students, and I enjoy working with administration. I guess those two things combined are one reason why I ran for SG president," stated Joe Galli, Student Government President. He went on to say that he hoped his work would be beneficial to a lot of people.

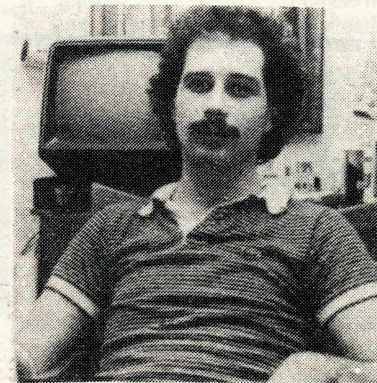

A senior Accounting major from Peckville, Pa., Joe plans to further his education by attending a graduate program in student affairs. His position as SG president is helping him prepare for that goal.

A great deal of work is involved in the position of SG president. For instance, Joe spent many afternoons this past summer helping Dean Lampe prepare the Student Handbook and getting everything ready for Freshmen Orientation. "This is probably the first year that an SG president did a lot of work with Freshmen Orientation," Joe commented. "The past presidents just appointed two people. I appointed two people, but then I wanted to see some revisions, so we worked really hard. It is a step forward and probably next year it will be improved even more."

Joe has worked hard at making several improvements, one of which was to make internal changes which has already been initiated. "We're breaking down Social Committee. We're getting five social committees out of the entire Student Government Body at large, and we're getting those five groups to encourage other clubs, organizations, and residence halls to sponsor social events." Citing the SG-Slocum Clambake this past weekend as an example, he explained that SG is funding five such events.

Another improvement Joe has been working on is establishing better communications between faculty and students. "We're starting to work on a student advising committee. Two representatives from Commuter Council, two representatives from Inter-Residence Hall Council, and two representatives from Student Government are forming the committee. Dr. Hartdagan is going to preside over the committee."

Joe Galli

Dean Hartdagan and the representatives do not wish to upgrade the current advising policy because it is a good one, but rather to enforce it. Joe continued, "I'm not saying that all departments have poor advising, but some of them do. Students are getting hurt, especially when the first time they see their advisor is in their senior year or in the case where the student only sees his advisor once a semester to sign the registration form." He further commented, "Part of our job at Wilkes is not only to provide an undergraduate education, but to prepare people for a future." Joe also said that SG is attempting to get students and faculty on a friendlier basis outside the classroom.

When asked what his understanding of the SG President's role was when he ran for the office, Joe commented, "I understood that I would be the chief spokesman for the entire student body. I would be working with a lot of administration and faculty." He said that the hardest thing to realize is the fact that he is a student, and not a part of the administration.

Joe went on to comment, "Many people think that SG meetings are my main function. That's the least thing that I have to worry about. I'm setting a precedence, I think, in one way. The past SG presidents just initiated many things on themselves and then tried to follow them through. I'd like to change that because I don't think that's the role of a president. I feel that my job is to initiate something and then get committees and people to work for the goal that I have set up, with me acting as an advisor over everything. Marla Brodsky, vice-president of SG, and I have an agreement that this year I would initiate things and she would make sure that they follow through. So far it's been working well."

"SG should just be an advisory board and we're encouraging students to get involved. We're trying to discourage student apathy," Joe stated. "Signs have indicated that this year more people are getting involved."

What's Happening

"Los Olvidados" (the Young and the Damned), a Spanish film directed by Luis Bunuel, is this week's film to be shown at the First Presbyterian Church on South Franklin Street. The surrealist film, which is about juvenile delinquents living on the outskirts of Mexico City, will be shown Thursday night, October 9 at 8 p.m. Cost is $2.50.

On October 9, the Manuscript Society will present "The Sun also Rises." This film follows Hemingway's "lost generation" as they wander throughout Europe. The film will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in the Center for the Performing Arts. Admission is free.

A recital will be given by soloist Helen Ralston and harpist Patricia Anderson at the CPA on Friday at 7:45 p.m. Admission is free.

This weekend is Homecoming Weekend! Here is the schedule of events for the weekend: Thursday, October 9 at 10 p.m.- Bonfire at Ralston Field, where the Queen and her court will be announced; Friday, October 10 from 7 p.m.-1 a.m.- Dinner Dance at the Gus Genetti Inn with music by "Ticket." Saturday, October 11 at 11 a.m.- Homecoming Parade through downtown Wilkes Barre, 1:30 p.m. at Ralston Field- football game-Wilkes vs. the Trenton State Lions, and at 9 p.m., a party at the gym; Sunday, October 12 from 1-5 p.m. outside the Student Center- Arts and Crafts Day.

Throughout Homecoming Weekend the Sordani Art Gallery will have part of its permanent collection on exhibit. Hours on Friday and Saturday night are extended to 9 p.m. for the all-college weekend. The Conyngham Art Gallery will also feature an exhibit during Homecoming Weekend.

Bosakowski has written several plays, and mentions Euripides, Shakespeare, and Chekhov as influences in his work. The influence of Greek dramas is especially apparent in "Hawktorture," a black comedy about the basketball coach and his sacrifice referred to earlier. The play is an adaptation of a Greek play concerning the classic legend of Iphigenia, the daughter of Agamemnon and Clytemnestra.

Bosakowski's skills are presently being applied to a more contemporary theme—a theme of special interest to people of this region. He is working on a new two-act drama, "The Flood," which will be set in Wyoming Valley during the devastating flood of 1972 that resulted from hurricane Agnes. He is now doing extensive research to gain a historical sense of Wilkes-Barre. He is also conducting formal and informal interviews with area residents to learn how the flood affected the lives of individual persons.

Playwright-In-Residence Working On Two-Act Drama About Flood of 1972

The N.C.A.A. basketball coach is faced with a tough decision. In order to ensure his team's victory in the Championship game, he must sacrifice his daughter in the bonfire at the pre-game rally. You may scoff at this seemingly ludicrous proposition, or you may for a moment ponder its possibilities. If you are interested enough, you may even discuss it with the man who has made this the central problem in one of his stage dramas. He is Wilkes College's playwright-in-residence, Philip Bosakowski.

"Playwright-in-Residence" is a particularly misleading term in Bosakowski's case, for he is actually only on campus Mondays and Tuesdays. The remainder of the week is spent in New York City. Explaining his need for that city's stimulation, Bosakowski says he returns here each week refreshed and filled with new and creative ideas.

Bosakowski cannot actually be termed a resident of the Big Apple. By subletting apartments in Manhattan and San Francisco, he is able to keep in contact with the theatre life of the West Coast, which offers many contrasts to Eastern theatre. "A play is thought of with more formality in the East," he explains, "as something between two covers."

One contrast to the Eastern formality Bosakowski picked up in San Francisco is the concept of "performance theatre," which he is applying to the playwrighting class he is now teaching here at Wilkes College. "Performance Theatre" is strictly non-commercial (sometimes avant-garde) and stresses the physical aspect of acting rather than dialogue. Mime comes to mind. In fact, in the near future his class will demonstrate "performance theatre" in the display windows of Boscov's department store.

While in San Francisco, Bosakowski also participated in the Bay Area Festival, where he collaborated with the well known actor, Sam Sheppard, on four productions.

Bosakowski was born in New Jersey and attended Villanova University, where he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in English in 1967, and a Master of Arts degree in theatre in 1971. He then attended the University of Iowa, where he received his Master of Fine Arts in playwrighting in 1975. He has received fellowships from the National Endowment of the Arts and the Norman Felton Endowment.

Although his first writing experience was in journalism, Bosakowski's first love was playwrighting. He has written for several publications, and was the arts editor and drama critic for the Daily Iowan (circulation 20,000). He has also taught at the high school and college levels.

MENC.....

Offers Advantages To Music Students

If you are a music major, or are interested in music education, or are just musically inclined and want to get together with other students with similar interests, then MENC is for you. MENC (Music Educators National Conference) is a national organization for current and future music educators, with chapters around the country. Wilkes has such a chapter, and this year the chapter on campus hopes to become more involved in campus and community services at Wilkes.

In previous years, MENC at Wilkes has not been as visible as some other clubs on campus, but this year, with 45 members and an enthusiastic president, the organization should become better known.

The officers this year are: President — Jayne Grim; Vice-President — Maureen Stanks; Recording Secretary — Jessica Kwiatkowski; Corresponding Secretary — Sue Luckey; and Treasurer — Bev Perry. According to Jayne, they hope to involve MENC in a wider variety of activities this year. For instance, this past Tuesday they held a hoagie sale. Other fund-raisers are planned for the future.

Jayne stresses that MENC is not just a fundraising club. In fact, that is just one aspect of their diverse activities. For example, the organization plans to contribute a great deal to Homecoming Weekend. They are building a display for Friday night and a group from the club will perform at Arts and Crafts Day Sunday.

Aside from all these individual activities planned, MENC will sponsor a major talent show at the college this spring. It will be open to the whole school and will showcase student talent. Proceeds from the talent show will be donated to a charity.

In addition to planning activities for the year, MENC offers other opportunities, since it is part of a national organization. For a small membership fee, members will receive the monthly publication of the national conference, MENC Journal, and the quarterly, Pennsylvania Music Educators Association.

Wilkes may send some MENC members to the MENC Regional Division Conference in Hershey in January, and even possibly to the National Conference in Minneapolis. These conferences feature speakers, clinics and workshops on music and music education.

MENC at Wilkes also sponsors various clinics throughout the year. Last year, a percussion clinic and an electronic music clinic were presented. Guest speakers were invited to come to the college and give demonstrations and lectures on the different instruments. The club plans to continue the clinics this year.

As Jayne sees it, the major advantage that the club offers to members is that it provides a source of new ideas for teaching, through the clinics and the magazines. She feels that this is important for all music majors, even those who are not strictly majoring in music education, because, as she says, "If you are a performer, you are an educator." Hopefully, more students will take advantage of the opportunity that membership in MENC affords.

MENC meets every two weeks at noon in the choir room in Darte. The organization welcomes any interested students.

Album Review

NMOD EIDISN the number one smash hit from Diana Ross's latest self-entitled album has put her back on the top of the recording industry. The album, on Motown Records, has Diana singing to a new beat, the "Chic Beat." In 1979, she joined the growing disco scene with THE BOSS, which reached the top ten on Billboard's Top 100 Disco Charts. Now in her third decade of singing, she has joined super writers Bernard Edwards and Nile Rodgers of super groups Chic. They have added that "Chic Beat" to the album on songs like UPSIDE DOWN, HAVE FUN (AGAIN), and the next release to come, entitled I'M COMING OUT. The majority of the album consists of songs like these, but there are a few ballads like FRIEND TO FRIEND, and MY OLD PIANO. The tune MY OLD PIANO is done in the style of the theme from MAHOGANY, a movie which Diana Ross stars in.

Dancable disco hits, along with beautiful and meaningful ballads, make this album a must for all record collectors. Along with the writing and musical talents of Edwards (Bass) and Rodgers (Guitar) appear the rest of the group Chic; Alfa Anderson and Luci Martin on vocals and Tony Thompson on drums. All of this plus the super vocal talent of Diana Ross make this album a winner. Diana Ross is COMING OUT.

Terms of Venerly

A school of fish, a litter of puppies, a swarm of bees, a flock of geese -- all of these are probably phrases you have heard or used quite often. But how often have you encountered such phrases as a shrewdness of apes or a barren of mules? Chances are you have never seen these terms, not even in the most obscure English text of which you can think. These phrases, called terms of venerly, can be quite amusing.

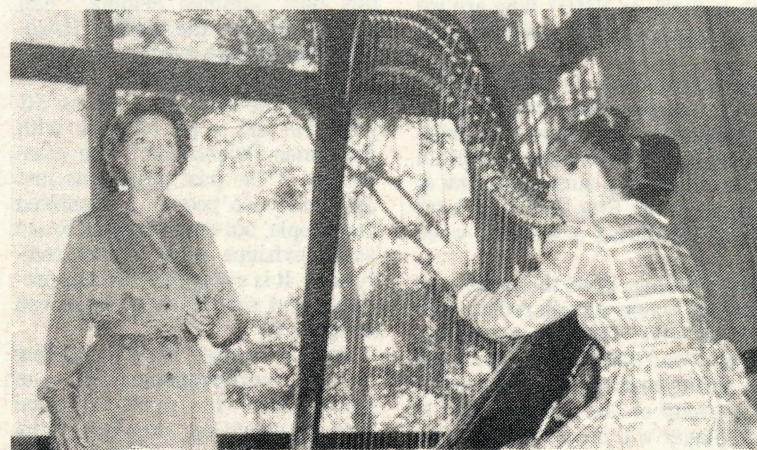

Some of these terms date from the middle ages, and many of them have gone into disuse. However, others, such as a swarm of bees, are still frequently used. Here follows a list of some of the little-used and little-known terms of venerly.

A knot of toads
A singular of boars
A labor of moles
A crash of rhinoceroses
A skulk of foxes
A leap of leopards
A plague of locusts
A brood of hens
A clowder of cats
A sounder of swine
A drove of cattle
A drift of hogs
A bale of turkeys
A business of ferrets
A sloth of bears
A cowardice of curs
A pride of lions
A parliament of owls

A murmuration of starlings
A mustering of storks
A host of sparrows
A tidings of magpies
A skein of geese (in flight)
A charm of finches
A peep of chickens
A paddling of ducks
A murder of crows
An exaltation of larks
A flight of swallows
An unkindness of ravens
A bouquet of pheasants
An ostentation of peacocks
A gaggle of geese (on water)
A siege of herone
A pitying of turtle doves
A rafter of turkeys

If that's not enough, a more complete list of these terms can be found in An Exaltation of Larks by James Lipton. Lipton also explains the historical background of these terms.

So save this list, and next time you have a paper to write for English, impress your English prof with your extensive knowledge of some of these terms of venerly.

Financial Awareness Seminars Scheduled For Oct. 21 - Dec. 2

Under the direction of Dr. Mahmoud Fahmy, a series of seminars on financial awareness will be held at the Stark Learning Center, from October 21 to December 2, and are open to everyone. The coordinator of the program is Dr. Madeliene Carlin, Assistant Professor of Accounting at Wilkes College. The program was started to acquaint the public, particularly women, with the different legalities concerning financial matters.

The first seminar will be held on October 21. It is entitled "A Contemporary Look at Estates, Trusts, and Wills," and it is taught by Dolores A. Laputka, a trust officer at United Penn Bank.

The second seminar is called "Financial Credit for Women, and Divorce and its Legal Ramifications" and the instructor is Ruth Borland, a lawyer in the firm of Borland and Borland.

The next two seminars will be held on November 11. The first one, called "Insurance Facts You Should Know," is taught by Robert Friedman, District Manager of Equitable Life Assurance Society. The course will cover facts covering the field of insurance in laymen's language. The second one is entitled "Real Estate Considerations of Today" which will be instructed by Ria Simms, a licensed real estate agent. The course will discuss real estate as an investment, partnership buying, and joint tenancy.

On November 18, a seminar on "Investments in a Modern Economy" will be given. The instructor is Earl Phillips, the senior Vice President of United Penn Bank. This course will include a look at fixed income securities, common stocks, financial pages, mutual funds, and money market funds.

The final seminar, "Fundamental Principles of Income Tax," will be held on December 2. Lawyer Paula Begman will be the instructor. The course will cover a study of tax considerations in personal and business planning.

All seminars will start at 7 p.m. and will end at 9 p.m. The course fee is 35 dollars. The registration forms should be sent to Dr. Fahmy.

Student Center Board

Coffee Houses Discussed

One item discussed at the bi-weekly Student Center Board meeting was Commuter Council's proposed coffee houses. The coffee houses, to be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11 to 1, are supposed to be held in the Student Center. The Board members discussed the fact that CC wanted them to provide tablecloths for the coffee houses. Because of lack of funds, they decided that they could not afford tablecloths.

Student Center Board Director Mike Canonico related that when he entered the Student Center last Thursday, he found bare wires all over the Center, as someone had stolen the wire nuts. He called maintenance, and they sent an electrician who repaired the damage.

The issue of writing on the walls was discussed again this week. It was decided that memo boards be put up where the writing was, and assistant director, Lisa Prokarym, was put in charge of obtaining them. There were also tentative plans to install four speakers in the second floor game room.

Vandalism was also mentioned this week, as the Board noted vandalism on the first floor. Also, in one of the second floor rooms, a screen has been ripped out of its casing. Plans were made for repair.

It was announced that Student Center parties were to be suspended indefinitely, because of Student Government's party policy revision.

Assistant director Carol Benek noted that many students are unaware of the Student Center hours. The Center is open Monday through Thursday, 9 A.M. to 11 P.M.; Friday, 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.; Saturday, 12 noon to 4 P.M.; and Sunday 12 noon to 11 P.M. It was also noted that many students do not know that the second floor of the Student Center provides them with pinball games, various other games and a TV room. Director Mike Canonico added that there are also lounges or "places to hang out" upstairs.

Paul Hausman Conducts Experiment On 'Wastes'

Paul Hausman, a senior environmental science major from Basking Ridge, N.J., was one of 98 science majors across the country chosen to conduct research by the United States Department of Energy. He spent 10 weeks this past summer in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, measuring and analyzing the soil and water near low-level radioactive waste burial sites. His research project may help in finding a safe way to dispose of these harmful wastes.

After receiving and carefully reviewing over 400 applicants, the United States Department of Energy chose Paul to be one of its students conducting research. The areas of research assigned by the Department of Energy were based on interests expressed by the students. "After I explained different areas of study under which I wanted to work, the Energy Department assigned a research project to me. Then I received information on research already done in that area and was assigned to work with one of the staff scientists." Specifically, Paul's research dealt with measuring the soil and water in areas of

Oak Ridge used for radioactive waste disposal.

He began his work by using and testing the standard methods for measuring water-flow, which was part of his research. In comparing these methods to others, he found that they were not the most useful methods for that type of research. By experimenting with different methods, he learned what professional research was all about. "I had access to information and equipment not available anywhere else, and I saw the directions present research in certain fields is taking."

When asked what the ultimate goal of his work was, he replied, "In the long run, I hope it will be part of helping to control the production of radioactive waste."

What is in the future for Paul Hausman? "I'd like to go to graduate school and major in environment pollutant transport studies. Maybe I'll work towards my doctorate. Eventually I'd like to work for a private industrial consulting agency helping to control pollutants." Without a doubt, Paul's experiences with his research will help him attain his goals. Knowing this, he encourages others to look into the program offered annually by the Department of Energy.

Political Science Department Revisions To Curriculum Made

Since the beginning of the fall term, the Political Science Department at Wilkes has been operating with a restructured curriculum. The restructuring was planned last year by Dr. Jean Driscoll, chairman of the political science department; Dr. Robert Freysinger and Mr. Tuhy, assistant professors; and Dr. Andrew Shaw, adjunct professor and dean of management.

The changes were prompted, Dr. Driscoll explained, partly because, "the department feels students have not fully understood that the largest growing job market in the United States is that of administration in governmental and non-profit institutions. Also, the department intends to make job opportunities more visible and more fully prepare the student for careers in administration." Many of the jobs will result from a trend toward increased governmental jobs on federal, state, and local levels, despite many calls for reduction of government bureaucracies. Jobs will also be created by a growing need for professionals in special interest and pressure groups and a growing demand for administrators in social service agencies, particularly health services agencies. The political science department has intentions of developing a curriculum in the future to accommodate studies in the health services.

One of the prime features of the new curriculum will allow political science majors to take a concentration in public administration and policy. This will require students to take a total of 39 hours in political science, including the standard six hours of introductory courses, (Introduction to American Politics and Modern Political Systems) and courses such as Introduction to Public Administration, Governmental Budgeting, Public Personnel Administration, Policy Formation in the Legislature, Administrative Policy Making and a topics course in public policy. This will fulfill 24 of the required 39 credit hours. For the remaining 15 hours, students must select one course focusing on administration at the state and local level and one focusing on the federal level. An additional course is required from either area, which the student may select. Finally, six elective credit hours must be taken in political science to complete the requirement.

The restructuring will also enable students to declare a minor in political science. A total of 21 credit hours in political science is needed to fulfill the requirements of the minor.

Changes were also made in the regular political science curriculum. The Concepts and Methods course will now be required for all political science majors entering Wilkes College this fall and the hours required in the major have been increased from 30 to 33.

Other changes include the new policy focus described above and a new course on the Presidency. Several course numbers have also been changed. It is important that students taking political science courses this fall understand that the numbering of most courses was changed to correspond with the numbering of other departments and to suggest to students a logical order in which to take the course. The first semester grade cards and transcripts will appear with the new course numbers, rather than the numbers used when the courses were selected.

In the Comparative and International Politics area, changes were made to emphasize the political science aspect, rather than the historic or geographic aspects of comparative politics. The new courses are Democratic Systems, Communist Systems and Politics of Developing Areas, which was formerly a topics course. International Relations was renumbered from P.S.222 to 327 to indicate its relation to History 328, U.S. Foreign Policy, which can be used as a political science elective.

Athlete Of The Week

He may not be as versatile as Bruce Jenner, but he is an outstanding all around athlete. Tony Madden has been an outstanding athlete ever since he was in junior high school. At Wyoming Valley West High School, Tony was All League in both football and basketball. During his senior year at Wyoming Valley West, Tony was recruited by colleges for both sports but he decided to play only football in college. He was recruited by Rutgers, University of Richmond, University of Delaware, North Carolina State, and Temple University. After examining his alternatives, Tony decided to attend Temple on a full athletic scholarship. After playing varsity for Temple for two years, Tony decided "big time football" was not for him.

Many people don't realize how "football factories" operate—it is not as colorful as it is cranked up to be. The junior accounting major from Pringle, Pa. explained; "We had to lift weights 365 days a year, and during the season we had to watch films every night. I can remember my sophomore year when the head coach told me to drop a night class because it was interfering with football." Tony felt he was sacrificing too much academically at Temple, so he decided to transfer to Wilkes.

Coach Schmidt is very happy Tony decided to come to Wilkes, he explained, "Tony has made a great contribution to the Wilkes football program, and he is extremely coachable. Tony is so talented that before too long other teams will have to double team him because it is almost impossible to cover him one on one. Everything Tony has contributed to this team has been positive, but more important than his athletic ability is his attitude. He is an outstanding young man."

In Saturday's 19-14 loss to Upsala, Tony had 6 receptions for 108 yards. Although he did not score either touchdown, his receptions put the Colonels in excellent field position throughout the afternoon. Tony explained he was happy to be named "Athlete of the Week." He continued, "This is self-satisfying, but I would be much happier if we came home with a victory. Our team has come a long way since the opener, and hopefully this coming Saturday we will break into the win column."

Tony has not only excelled in football at Wilkes, he is also co-captain of this year's basketball team. Last year was the first time Tony played basketball since high school, but he adjusted tremendously to college ball, as he was the leading rebounder for the Colonels last year.

TheBeacon sports staff wishes Tony congratulations on being named Beacon "Athlete of the Week." We would like to wish him continued success for the remainder of the football season, and a successful basketball season.

Colonels Drop "Heartbreaker" 19-14

In a game marred by numerous officiating errors, the Blue and Gold dropped their fourth contest of the season to Upsala College by a score of 19-14 at the Vikings home field.

In the most contested call of the day, junior Tony Madden was marked one yard short of a first down after apparently taking a first down pass off of quarterback George Hall with the Colonels' behind 19-14 late in the game.

The "failure" to make the first down on the fourth down attempt forced the Colonels to turn the ball over to the Vikings who then ran the remaining 20 seconds out on the clock to garner their first 1980 victory.

Upsala opened the scoring in the game when Dave D'Andrea pushed his way over from the three yard line at 7:36 capping a 75 yard scoring drive. Ben Middleton added the extra point, and the Vikings led 7-0. Mid-way through the second quarter, Middleton kicked a 32 yard field goal and gave Upsala a 10-0 lead.

With five minutes left in the first half, Carmen "Homer" Lo Presto leaped into the end zone putting the Colonels on the score board. After Vince Savoca split the uprights with the PAT, the Blue and Gold found themselves only 3 points down when the half ended.

Going through a scoreless third period, Upsala got on the board again when Middleton hit a 32 yard field goal giving the Vikes a 13-7 nod. But the Colonels apparently took control of the game for good when "Homer" Lopresto pushed his way over for a T.D. with only 7:20 left to play in the game.

Savoca's PAT gave the Blue and Gold a 14-13 lead.

But the Vikings were not to be denied for they mounted an impressive 85 yard scoring drive capped by Ellis Smith's eight yard T.D. plunge. The extra point was no good, but the score gave Upsala a 19-14 command of the game.

On the initial kickoff, Scott Davenport returned the ball 24 yards to the Colonel 33 yard line. After an incomplete pass, Hall hit Madden with a 17 yard first down pass taking the Blue and Gold to the 50 yard line.

After failing to complete one pass, Hall hit Madden for a four yard gain moving the Colonels to the Vikings 46 yard line. LoPresto gained five yards on a third and six carry taking the ball to the 41 yard line of Upsala. With fourth and one facing them, Wilkes optioned to give the ball to LoPresto who picked up an important seven yards to the 34 yard line.

Then after missing on three pass attempts, Hall hit Madden at the 23 yard line for an apparent first down. Unfortunately, the official "saw" other-wise and marked the ball at the 25 yard line of the Vikings, forcing the turn over on downs to Upsala. The Vikings successfully ran out the clock and knocked the Colonels record to 0-4. FOR YOUR INFORMATION—Tony Madden looked excellent catching six passes for 106 yards....Madden is having the best games any Wilkes' receivers have had in the last five years. Hall was eight of 22 for 118 yards and looked very good throughout the day...Carmen "Homer" LoPresto moved into second place on the Colonel all-time rushing list with his 93 yards and two T.D.'s... "Homer" currently has a career total 1,675 yards second only to Ted Yeager who has a career high 2,869 total yards...The Colonels will face a reportedly tough Trenton State team next week for Homecoming.

Another Long Afternoon

Field Hockey Team Surprises Bloomsburg State

Misery loves company, but when the Wilkes College field hockey team visited College Misericordia last Wednesday, they proved to be rather demanding guests, taking 2 points, and giving none, they left with a victory.

But the big win occurred last Saturday when the Wilkes hurlers played Bloomsburg and upset their hosts for the first time since 1973 by a score of 2 to 1.

Earlier, the Lady Colonels shut out Albright, 2 to 0 at Ralston Field. Before that, they tended to be inviting hosts against the University of Scranton. They gave the Lady Royals a victory, opening their net enough to allow two goals before squeezing in a late goal themselves.

With a record of 3 wins, 1 loss, and 1 tie, the Colonelettes will try to maintain their winning ways this afternoon at Marywood. In the meantime, the University of Scranton will have to lose a game, for Wilkes' playoff hopes to stay alive.

Although the Scranton loss was a tremendous let down, the Colonelettes refused to give up. Culminating a three game winning streak, the win against Bloomsburg can be cited as a turning point this season.

In the second half, Coach Meyers made some changes that proved to turn the tide. The insertion of freshman Tracey Day into the lineup strengthened Wilkes' defense, while the switch of senior Geri McAfee over to the right side of the field made Wilkes offense much more potent.

In the opening half, Wilkes had only two shots on goal, but at games end, the Lady Colonels equaled Bloomsburg's number of attempts at 16. The changes were obviously effective.

Another key factor in Wilkes' winning streak has been the general improvement in the hurlers' performance. Valerie Frey continues to make it difficult for opposing teams to score, for example, she blocked 11 shots in the Bloomsburg game. However, Frey has been under considerably less pressure as a young defense continues to improve with each game. The defensive standouts include Helen Gorgas, Karen Bove, and the new girl on the field, Tracey Day.

In the scoring department, Diane Hall has been a key offensive threat. With a total of 4 goals and 1 assist, she is among the top scorers in the MAC. Gere McAfee (2 goals, 3 assists), and co-captain Pam Snyder (2 goals, 2 assists), have been playing very effectively not to mention the spirited play of Diane McGovern and Michele Weiss.

Harriers Garner Wins In 3 Out Of 4 Meets

"It was an unbelievable occurrence," claimed Coach Ron Righter after his runners took 3 out of 4 meets last Saturday in Philadelphia.

Why unbelievable? Wilkes entered the meet with only 6 runners and by the end had only 5 as the injury and flu bugs started to hit the Colonels.

In that meet, the harriers defeated Springgarden, Philadelphia Textile and, for the second time this season, Baptist Bible. The only loss was to York College. Division 1 Drexel also ran but their results did not count. Ed Eppler, who Righter said "ran the race of his life," paced all Colonel runners with a 4th overall time of 28:13. Ken Pascoe followed close behind at 5th, while brother Neil placed 10th.

"Those 3 were key places when they figured out the final results," Righter stated.

Danny Thomas, usually one of the top 3 finishers for Wilkes, did not finish because of a knee injury. Thomas' status is a big question mark. Another runner bogged down was Jim Bell who came down with the flu on Friday. With those two out, John Supinski and Joe Dill became the 4th and 5th men and Righter felt they did "a good job."

The thinclads were also undermanned three days before as they lost to Muhlenberg, 27-30 and "a very powerful" Scranton, 25-40. Ken Pascoe was top Colonel finisher with a 4th and Ed Eppler had a 7th. Also running were Dan Thomas, John Supinski, Jim Bell, Joe Dill and Neil Pascoe, who was under par with the flu.

The Colonels, now 6-5, return home this Saturday to host Moravian as a part of the annual Homecoming Weekend.

Tennis Team Gains Victory

Look out Stanford and U.S.C., the Wilkes women's tennis team is coming up! It was on a cold and windy day that Wilkes won their first tennis match in two years.

Division one schools will have to start making room for Wilkes after their impressive 5-2 victory over Baptist Bible College. You have to understand that Baptist Bible is not one of your "par excellent" tennis schools. However, you can't take anything away from Wilkes because they have come a long way from last years embarrassing 0-12 season.

Last week started off on a losing note when the Colonelettes suffered their fourth straight loss 9-0 at Bloomsburg State College. The team, however, managed to win a few games and were very confident going into Saturday's match. It was a day that saw all the squad's hard work and extra practice sessions finally pay off. The Wilkes "netters" put the game far out of reach by winning all five singles matches.

Cathy Price aced her opponent with a 6-0, 6-0 win. Deb Welliver and Charlotte Fees, also, scored easy victories for Wilkes. Terry Monseur needed three sets to win her match when something happened. Peg Mascelli won the first set 6-0 and won the second by a remarkable score of 9-8. Wilkes lost both doubles matches, but by this time, it was all over. The blue and gold broke out the champagne (Gatorade) as they gained their first victory of the season.

All pandemonium broke loose at Ralston Field. Never has victory been so sweet as it was last Saturday. Coach Snee has really done a remarkable job in turning an inexperienced group of players into a determined, hard-working squad. Wilkes will not gain a top ten College tennis ranking this year, and they won't even be able to beat a team like Scranton University, but for the first time in years, the team cares, and that's all that matters.

DROP SHOTS . . . If you see Peg Mascelli, be sure to ask her how she won a set 9-8. Before Saturday's match, Coach Snee told everyone to be sure to see the team's first victory. That's confidence!!! Last Thursday's match against Scranton was postponed to Monday, October 13, at Ralston Field.

Colonelette Volleyball Team Striving For Winning Year

With a record of three wins and four losses, the Wilkes Women's Volleyball team is working hard toward their goal of a winning season. Although the team has lost four matches, the scores were very close and the team played well together.

When the team went up against Scranton, the spirit was high. Over the past few seasons, Wilkes has been dominated by the Royals, but this year, Wilkes kept pace with the Blue and White, keeping the scores close and winning one game of the match. "If our team spirit remains as high as it was when we went up against Scranton through the rest of the season, we can have a winning season" commented assistant coach Nancy Roberts.

The spirit remained high as Wilkes defeated Upsala with scored 15-0, 15-6, 11-15, and 15-6. "The team played as a unit and there was a lot of support from the bench," Coach Roberts said. "When there's that much team spirit, we're at our best."

The spirit dimmed somewhat as the Colonelettes went down in defeat at the hands of Dickinson in three games out of a four game match, but was recaptured early last week in time for Wilkes to defeat its arch-rival, King's. Setters Sarah Farley and Cathy Dudick kept the ball moving and in position for spikers Cindy Rossi, Mary Kay Price, Cheryl Frystack, and freshmen

Debbie Kramer and Ellen Doty whose arrivals this year have been assets to the team. During the King's match, with scores 15-12, 15-6, 13-15, and 15-11, Debbie Kramer, Sarah Farley, and Cheryl Frystack each had one ace serve and Mary Kay Price served three aces.

The Wilkes team was downed last Saturday by Moravian in a hard fought match. Cindy Rossi and Cheryl Frystack each had six non-returnable serves and Cindy led the team in number of successful defensive and offensive spikes with seven.

"We are playing as a unit," Coach Saracino commented. "If we just clean up our mistakes, we will have a winning season."

The Wilkes Women will go up against Misericordia tonight at 7 p.m. in the gym.

Guest Column

"Good Evening and welcome to still another Monday Night Football Game."

If you ask me how many times I've heard this over the years, I probably couldn't even tell you. It seems that Howard Cosell, Don Merideth and Frank Gifford have been my constant Monday night companions since I can remember. Indeed, Monday Night Football seems to have become an integral part of the American ilk.

What has made a game once considered unsellable on prime time into a multi-billion dollar enterprise? Well, one of the main reasons has to be Howard, Dandy Don, and Fancy Frank. I can still remember hearing the trio for the first time. It was unlike any sportscasting I had ever heard. Here were two ex-jocks and a Brooklyn lawyer "telling it like it is." I must say I was shocked. These guys were brash, straightforward and one was particularly obnoxious.

Howard Cosell may be the most obnoxious person alive, but he is also one of the most intelligent sportscasters anywhere. Cosell is the one person Americans "love to hate". One bar in the area even sells chances to 'get even' with Cosell. These chances involve the winning of a brick which may be thrown at the TV whenever the contest winner feels Cosell has said enough.

I must say my first impression of Cosell was not very good. Here was this lecherous geek rattling off twenty-five syllable words, interrupting and correcting his fellow announcers and generally making a jerk of himself. "My god," I thought "someone should mace that idiot."

Well, over the years my feelings for Cosell have mellowed. I have come to understand that he is paid to act the way he does. He is a selling point and if being obnoxious sells, then so be it.

The other two announcers are good. I've come to believe more people cheer for Dandy Don than the teams. When the "dandero" insults or corrects Cosell, the crowd loves it. Merideth is no dumb ex-jock. He is highly intelligent. Anyone who plays quarterback for Tom Laundry has to be.

Frank Gifford is a good play-by-play announcer. He seems to know his facts and usually does a good job. Although he tries to stay away from the squabbles between Cosell and Merideth, Gifford sometimes corrects either of them and the fans love it.

Maybe it is because the three of them seem to badger each other constantly or maybe two ex-jocks and a quasi-intellectual equal some sort of good 'karma' to the fans, but whatever the reasons these three gents are a primary selling point to the fans.

Monday Night Football has changed the sport drastically. It has brought prosperity and success to many. In the past, games were usually played on Sunday. They maintained popularity, but the big money was not there. Monday Night has changed that. By bringing football into the prime time arena, television has made big name actors out of today's football players. In one night a no-name third rate jock may be transformed into a big money hero.

Monday Night Football has made millions for players, owners and networks. It is one of the great success stories of television. Now expanded to two nights a week, on occasion, Monday Night Football will definitely continue to enjoy success.

In ten years a lot has happened in the world. There have been disasters, wars, great social upheaval, not to mention disease, bloodshed, and Howard Cosell.

Monday Night Football is also ten years old. During those ten years it has entirely changed the face of sports forever. But what is life without change? Monday nights were once boring and depressing, but now:

"Dandy, there is a brouhaha on the field!"

"Well Howard, kill the sucker!"

Monday nights will never be the same...

Last Friday night, things ran smoothly at the alleys. The Falcons decided to change their name to the Columbian 300's. They took three games while shooting a couple of decent scores: Guy Zehner, 201; Doug Williams, 235; and Karl Blight, 206. Looking at the brighter side, Dr. Driscoll's Diplomats won two games over the Aristocrats. In the second, Tom Maguire of the Aristocrats shot a 200. Poky's continued their graceful style as they took three from No Names. In the third game, Kathy Kulp shot a 186, and Jon Pliskin rolled a 204. Poky's went from fourth place to second. The Avengers won three games as Lisa Prokarym muscled a 181, 181-486., and Bruce Fender shot a 187. 752 Crew rolled over Decaying Human Flesh as Jack Kijek threw a tremendous 211-554. In vain effort, Stan Ray rolled a 191-511. Tim Page shot a 225, and Mark Murnin shot a 197 in a losing battle as Genni Cream Ale walked all over the Force.

SUMTHIN' EXTRA

BY PETE STEVE

Previous to its occurrence, promoter Don King was calling it "The Last Hurrah." After it took place, one writer called it "the burial in the desert." After reading numerous articles about it, the only thing I can call it is "the big rip-off."

The it I am referring to is the fight that took place this past Thursday between World Boxing Council Champion Larry Holmes, and three time world heavyweight champion Muhammed Ali.

As everyone probably knows by now, Holmes scored a technical knockout in the 11th round when a battered and truly beaten Ali did not answer the bell for that respective round. Ali's failure to come out in the 11th not only was the "setting sun" on this particular fight, but also on a boxing dynasty as well.

I named this fight "the big rip-off" because that is what I felt it was. Granted the fans were not ripped off for they received what they wanted. Those who hated Ali throughout his career got the satisfaction of seeing him mutilated at the hands of Larry Holmes. Fans of Ali got "one more" chance to see their idol in the ring.

Don King certainly was not ripped off for he received the money that he expected for staging the fight. Holmes retained his title while also earning a nice piece of change for one night of "light" work. So who do I feel was "ripped off?" Muhammed Ali of course!

For as long as I can remember, my love for Ali has not been great. In fact, throughout his career, I couldn't stand the guy. I used to love to watch Ali fight, not to see him win, but to hope someone would knock him out.

But as time went on and Ali garnered his third title, my hate for the man changed to respect. This is not to say that I became an Ali fan, God knows this will never happen, but I no longer wished his defeat or mutilation. Respect developed in me for the man's true athletic ability, and the way he achieved the goals he set for himself.

After pondering my conception of Ali, I found out that he truly was nothing like I had pictured him. Re-evaluation of Ali, in my mind, left nothing but admiration for him as an athlete, and sincere respect for him as a person.

This past Thursday's event created a great disturbance in my mind as to the validity of my conception of Ali. I asked myself, "Why would a 38 year old man who has proven himself time and time again want to submit himself to such punishment? A man of his intelligence must know that the human body can only take so much!" Well, whatever his reason for wanting to fight once again was, it is a reason that must be important enough to justify the ridicule and embarrassment he must now be suffering.

For a man who was once a true champion and who had the respect of the entire sports world, he is now a defeated boxer who must somehow regain the dignity and respect that was once inherently his. Ali's fight against Holmes was a mistake. Wanting to fight again after this past Thursday's disgrace will be an even bigger mistake. Ali must accept the fact that it is true that "time waits for no one." The quicker the "champ" realizes this, the longer he will remain the "champ."
