'PAINT YOUR WAGON' OPENS OFFICIALLY AT IREM TEMPLE

by Mary Louise Onufer

The Wilkes College musical production, "Paint Your Wagon", will officially open this evening at eight in the Irem Temple. The dress rehearsal for the Lerner and Loewe show was held last evening for the Valley high school students.

A large student attendance is expected this evening since it is the only night that activity passes will be honored. The play will also run Friday and Saturday nights.

The Kiwanis, sponsors of the college's major productions, has conducted a successful ticket drive in the community. Admittance to the weekend performances will be made only by the purchase of a season ticket for the three major productions. The tickets costing $5.50 can be purchased from any member of the Kiwanis or Theta Delta Rho.

The Collegians, the Cue 'n' Curtain, and the music and art departments have combined their talents to make this musical as successful at Wilkes as its original was on Broadway.

A cast of approximately fifty students including all of the Collegians will star in the college's third musical. Another fifty students are working on the business and technical end of the production.

Sophomore Mary Homan is assisting director Al Groh as student director, and senior Joe Oliver is executive director. Sam Lowe, director of the Collegians, is also the assistant to John Detro, musical director. Sophomore music major Bill Peters has served as accompanist for rehearsals, and freshman Josia Mieszkowski is choreographer.

Costuming for Paint Your Wagon has been handled by Marian Laines and Arlene Martin. Carl Ernst and Daisette Gebhardt are co-chairmen of the make-up committee.

Cathal O'Toole of the art department designed the set used in the production, and art students Helen Miller and Mary Ann Levenski helped paint them. Helen Miller also designed the cover used on the program. Pat Ide handled posters and publicity.

Paul Abrams is general stage manager and Bill Schlingmann and Gene Stickler head the properties committee. This group composed of also Dave Kistler, Arlene Mar-

CLUB WILL SUBMIT CONSTITUTION TO S.C.

by Carol Breznay

The Psychology-Sociology Club has been holding meetings regularly in an effort to prepare the club constitution for presentation to the Student Council. Club members gave their final approval to the document at last week's meeting, and it will be taken to the November 14 meeting of the Council.

Election of officers will be held within the next few weeks. At present, Tom Buckman, second semester senior, is serving as president.

The club is making plans to have Dr. John Krasna speak on a subject pertinent to Psychology. Dr. Krasna's lecture will be the first official activity of the club for the 1957-58 school year. Also on this semester's agenda are a film on Psychoneurosis, and a field trip to Retreat State Hospital.

All Psychology and Sociology majors, as well as students and faculty members interested in these fields, are invited to join the group. Regular meetings are held in Sturdevant 103.

Former First Lady Featured Speaker At W. C. Assembly

by Dave Vann

The student body and faculty members of Wilkes College turned out in full force today to hear Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt speak at the weekly assembly program. The program sponsored by the Wilkes Chapter of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations brought to campus one of the most personable speakers in the field of international politics in the world today.

Mrs. Roosevelt, speaking about current events in the United Nations, gave to the audience a clear and concise picture of the problems which are presently being faced by the entire world.

Mrs. Roosevelt represents more than simply a former first lady to the people of the world. The great contributions which she has made in the field of human rights while serving as chairman of the Universal Rights Committee in the United Nations will long be remembered.

An author of many popular works, she is a staunch supporter of the United Nations and has advocated instructing the American public about the functions of this organization.

Her travels have taken her to the four corners of the globe, and her influence in international relations has been felt wherever she has gone. Her recent visit to Russia, taken for the benefit of the American public, has enabled her to present to us a picture of Russia today.

She presently serves as chairman of the Board of Governors for the American Association of the United Nations. Through her work in this agency, the American public has access to a clearer view of the functions of this international organization.

The Wilkes C.C.U.N., which is sponsoring Mrs. Roosevelt's appearance, has been active only within the last two years on campus. The group has arranged for the guest to meet the Wyoming Valley U.N. committee this afternoon.

Dave Vann, president of the CCUN on campus, and programing Vice-President of the national chapter; Larry Groninger, vice-president of the local group; Ahmad Kazimi, past president of the CCUN; and Jim Williams met Mrs. Roosevelt at the Avoca Airport this morning. The speaker then met with Dr. and Mrs. Farley in their home.

A luncheon will be held this afternoon at 12:30 in the Hotel Sterling in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt. Chairman of the affair is Larry Groninger.

Mr. Robert Riley, chairman of the college's psychology department, will be the featured speaker at this afternoon's luncheon.

At 2:30, Mrs. Roosevelt will address the Wyoming Valley U.N. Committee and will encourage this group to enroll as members of the AAUN chapter. Dr. David Russell, Pennsylvania chairman of the Penn State University faculty has driven to Wilkes-Barre for this occasion.

HISTORICAL PLATES ON SALE ON CAMPUS

by Bill Zdanczewicz

Orders for "Historical Plates" will be taken on campus by the History Club of Wilkes beginning tomorrow. This promotion is being held in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the college, and also, as an endeavor to promote and strengthen school spirit and community relations.

The "Historical Plates" will feature a reproduction of the new Harold R. Stark Hall. A one-hundred word history of Wilkes College will appear on the back, and to maintain the individuality of the college, the plates will be reproduced in the traditional Blue and Gold.

Samples of these plates, to be sold for $2.00, will be displayed in the college library, Stark Science Hall, Chase Hall, and the bookstore.

Clarence Michael, president of the history club, announced that preliminary preparations for this project have created campus-wide interest. Members of the club feel certain that students will endeavor to invest this small amount, to acquire something which will provide a lasting memento of their stay at Wilkes.

Dick Salus, chairman of the School Spirit Committee, has commented that this effort of the history club represents a worthwhile promotion of college spirit. Dr. Eugene S. Farley, college president, and Dr. Harold Thatcher, head of the history department, further added their approval of this project in promoting the college and school spirit.

EDITORIAL—

Welcome, Mrs. Roosevelt

Today is another great day of historical significance in this year of Wilkes College's Twenty-fifth Anniversary Expansion Program. We are deeply honored to welcome Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to the campus and to the community so that she can share with us her knowledge and understanding of the United Nations. Mrs. Roosevelt, one of the world's outstanding personalities, has worked tirelessly to insure the success of this organization.

As a former president's wife, Mrs. Roosevelt played an unusually active role in the capacity of the nation's first lady as well as taking an interest in politics herself. A woman of many talents, she has written many works and has travelled throughout the world representing the American people as an ambassador of good-will.

We feel that we are indebted to Dave Vann and members of the Wilkes College CCUN for making Mrs. Roosevelt's visit with us possible.

Letter to the Editor . . .

Dear Madam Editor:

Being a student of Wilkes College, I look forward to reading something of intellectual value in the Wilkes Beacon. It was with regret that I observed such a ridiculous and narrow-minded article as the one written on the validity of granting the vets a bonus.

I am quite sure that the author is sincere in his assertions, but I can't help being a little shocked that he doesn't believe that every individual, regardless of how small or meaningless his job may appear, equally contributes to the welfare of the country. Neither can I understand the attitude that the men and women who, in time of war, have gone beyond their normal obligations and have sacrificed their time, careers, health, and even their lives should not be appreciated by those who were more fortunate.

However, if Americans have slipped to such a low level that greed transcends moral obligations, then, I must agree with the author that he should not vote for the bonus. Instead, he should crawl into his private, little hole, lock the door tightly behind him, and count his money, but I must ask him, as his dollar bills float to the floor, to remember the poor vet, with his insides shot out, who must live his last few years on the goodness of charity.

Sincerely,
Robert Battle

ROOMER'S RUMORS

A VERY GOOD LITTLE MAN

The score was 38-0 in favor of the Blue-and-Gold, but not the Colonels. The three teams of Juniata's Blue-and-Gold had passed on and off the field at various points in the game and even the third string had managed to score, while holding the overtired Colonel "11" in check.

Co-captain Ronnie Rescigno of the Wilkes Blue-and-Gold was calling the signals, carrying the ball and making his share of the tackles. And we would be remiss if we failed to note that his share is always a lion's share.

Finally, the big-hearted little man tired and Coach Ralston sent in a substitute for him. What followed was one of the most gratifying scenes we have ever witnessed, on the gridiron, or elsewhere. As Ronnie trotted off the field the entire overflow crowd in the Juniata Stadium gave him a standing ovation, which lasted until he sat on the bench.

When asked how he felt about the tribute, Ronnie commented that there were ten other men on the field who deserved just as much recognition.

THEY CAME TO PLAY

While there were more than 11 Colonels who did see action in the Juniata game, all of the players who were in uniform did not play. We don't think that this is as it should be.

Certainly Coach Ralston had no hopes of pulling the game out of the proverbial fire with 11 men who had been battling two teams throughout the afternoon and were now pitted against a third. But still the men on the bench were not given a chance.

VIOLATES POLICIES

It doesn't fit in with the athletic policies of the college, which are supposed to be based on the participation of as many individuals as possible. The Wilkes athletic program has not succumbed to commercialism and its subsequent restriction of participation. But here we have another form of restriction and it's just as unfair.

How can these players ever gain experience if they aren't given a chance? What does it matter if they don't do as well as the tired varsity — an extra touchdown or two would be no disgrace. At worst they would be playing against a third string team with little more experience than they had. Lastly, tired players can get injured more easily than fresh ones.

To paraphrase somebody or other:

It matters not the final score,

But if you played in the game.

IT'S A DOG'S LIFE

Whether you call it Sputnik II or MUTTNIK I, everybody's got a yuk. The song writers have been racking their brains to come up with such gems as: How much is that Dog in the Sputnik? and You Ain't Nuthin' but a Dog Star.

It seems that the Russians have been breeding dogs especially to meet the requirements of space travel. In that respect, the West is way ahead. We have Airedales.

Scientist Dr. Bastress commented: "Think of it. A half a ton hurtling around up there." To which the more mundane Miss Millie Gittins quipped: "Hope it doesn't land in our back yard."

The satellites are somewhat reminiscent of some Wilkes students — going around in circles without knowing where they'll end up.

Muttink is probably responsible for the epidemic that's presently making the rounds — Asian flea.

Some Wilkes students want to volunteer Sam Gore - Weckesser (or Weckesser-Gore, if you prefer) as the first passenger in the U.S. rocket. After all, he has the benefit of a college education. When asked his opinion of the plan, Sam had no comment.

Millie would rather the Russians had sent one of their party men, preferably Kruschchev. She thinks it's quite cruel to send a four-legged canine. Harry Moyle commented: "Look at all the dogs killed on the streets every day." Millie squelched him: "You look, it's messy."

SCATTERSHOTS

Wonder when someone will come out with filter chewing tobacco?

To Paul Katz, who loves to see his name in print, we say: paul katz, paul katz, Paul Katz, Paul Katz, PAUL KATZ, PAUL KATZ. That should last him for a few weeks.

CAMPUS NOTES

Happy birthday to Mr. Sam Gittins of the maintenance crew. Yesterday was the big day. We'd also like to wish speedy recoveries to Mrs. Gittins and Dean of Women Mrs. Gertrude M. Doane, who have been ill this past week.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Howard Allen and his family on the death of his father, Mr. Howard Allen, Sr.

VOTE NOTE

Tuesday's election brought to mind the wisdom of Sydney J. Harris of the Chicago Daily News: "A political platform is an arrangement of planks cunningly constructed for running on, but not for standing on."

THE LAST WORD

Dr. Sam Rosenberg, who parks behind Pickering Hall, has stated that he definitely will not buy one of those new longer, lower, wider models.

THE ROVING CHIMERA

by Fred Roberts

The response to last week's article on the Korean bonus, rather forcefully impressed upon me the fact that this column has readers — many of whom do not agree with me. I do not feel it necessary to re-define my arguments, but I ask my critics to re-read them to see if some of their angry charges of inconsistency and un-Americanism aren't unfounded. With this last rather innocuous comment, let's move on to this week's topic.

The recent local talk on "Is Integration Possible Without Violence?" by Rev. Ralph Abernathy, the Vice President of the Montgomery Improvement Association, re-emphasizes Dr. Martin Luther King's continuing leadership in non-violent opposition to segregation practices. He is well remembered as the articulate minister who led the boycott protest against the "black-crow" ordinances on the city buses in Montgomery, Alabama — the original cradle of the Confederacy and the center of racial discrimination today.

By applying his philosophy of "dynamic" passive resistance in the tradition of Christ, Tolstoy, and Gandhi, Dr. King was able to guide his less literate charges to a considerable degree of success against bigotry and intolerance.

Dr. King lays special stress on the fact that he believes that non-violent methods are in all cases more ethical and more successful than any other form of protest. There is no denying the fundamental goodness in Dr. King's attitude; his movement, by providing a way for Negroes to join the fight for their own rights, could realize something of the dimensions of that started by his namesake when he nailed his theses to the Wittenburg Church door in 1517.

But there is, it seems to me, a basic fallacy in the general application of Dr. King's philosophy, and it is to the credit of America and the South in particular, that, despite wide-spread resentment of Dr. King's protest movements, that fallacy did not become apparent. Non-violent opposition will only work in a society governed by just, humanitarian and generally accepted by law.

Many nations have met and will continue to meet non-violent resistance with extremely violent counter-measures. Gandhi was successful in British India and King

There are many amusing scenes in this musical whose theme centers around the woman shortage in Rumson, a western boom town during the gold mining era.

The main feminine lead, Jennifer Rumson, is played by senior Marilyn Carl. Cast opposite her in the male romantic lead is junior Wayne Walters who portrays Julio, a young Mexican boy. Jerry Luft, senior, stars as Ben Rumson, Jennifer's father and founder of the town.

The only other females in the musical are Sara, Phyllis Judge, and Elizabeth, Marian Laines, who are cast as the two wives of Jacob Woodling, played by George Richards, and a group of Fandangos who are "imported" to the womanless area.

"DIXIE REVUE" TOMORROW NIGHT

Continentials to be Featured At Dual Jazz Concert-Dance; Wilkinson Heads Committees

by Audrey Huntzinger

Come one, come all to the "Dixie Revue". This Revue, sponsored by the International Relations Club, will feature Bob Baird and his Continentals and will be divided in two parts.

The Continentals will present a concert from nine to ten. This jazz session will be followed by music for dancing from ten to midnight.

Both parts of the Revue will be held in the college gym. For the concert, tables will be placed in the jazz hall. At ten, the tables will be pushed aside and the sawdust will fly. There will be a hot time in the old gym on Friday.

The Dixie Revue committees headed by Don Wilkinson have set the admission price at fifty cents.

The first jazz concert ever to be held on campus was introduced by the IRC last year. This year's repeat production is a result of the favorable enthusiasm displayed by the students at the college's first social get-together of this type.

Last year's affair featured a contest in which a Charleston King and Queen and "Mr. Elvis Presley of Wyoming Valley" were discovered.

Committees assisting Don Wilkinson, general chairman, are: refreshments, Tom Oliver and Joe Oliver, co-chairmen, Art Evans, Gordon Roberts, Bob Davis, Paul Leven, and Clarence Michael; tickets, Jim Skesavage, chairman, William Van Fossen and Michael Evanko; clean-up, Don Goobic, chairman, Jose Rosen, Ron Kryznewski, and Chris Loesch; publicity, Frank Pinola and Don Stein.

The tickets for the dance have been donated by Louis Rosenthal.

Debate Team Prepares For November 15 Meet At Brown University

by Betsy Gabel

Connections for the Brown University Debating Union have been closed, and forty-eight schools from Maine to Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, have been accepted to attend. Over 250 delegates will be in Providence, Rhode Island, on November 15 and 16 for this debate.

As for the mechanics of the debate, there will be five rounds of debating for each affirmative and negative team, with no final round. Winners will be determined from their "won-lost" record. In case of a tie, point totals will be used to decide the winner.

The Brown University Debating Union will present over $350 in trophies to the winners. Besides the rotating trophy there will be permanent trophies for the winning team and for individual speaker awards.

The Wilkes debaters are working feverishly, under Dr. Kruger's direction, gathering material and planning strategy. They plan to finish preliminary research by Thursday, and begin intra-squad debates starting Friday and continuing until the day they leave for Providence, Thursday, November 14.

The debaters are hopeful of getting five or six rounds of debate plus a few "rebuttal sessions" in before that time. It is the earliest that any Wilkes team has had to be ready for such a big event as this, the first of the season.

The varsity team: Gwen Evans, Christine Winslow, Fred Roberts, and Bruce Warshall, has been aided considerably by the rest of the debate squad. Don Murray, Evelyn Godleski, Mary Frances Swigert, Fred Jacoby, Beverly Major, and Jean Shofranko have helped to gather and to type notes.

The Wilkes team, current state of Pennsylvania champions, has tentatively scheduled 13 tournaments, besides Brown, for the forthcoming season. They will participate in the N.Y.U. Hall of Fame Tournament, December 13 and 14; the Temple Novice Tournament, December 7; the Johns Hopkins Invitational Tournament, January 31 and February 1; King's, February 8; and the D.A.P.C. Tournament, March 13 and 14, won last year.

The following have not yet been scheduled: the Boston University Invitational Tournament; the Harvard Invitational Tournament (won last year); Bucknell Good Neighbor Tournament (won last year); the Scranton Novice Tournament (won last year); the Dickinson Novice Tournament (placed 3rd last year); Brooklyn College, which Wilkes has not debated in five years; and finally, the District Elimination Tournament, in which Wilkes qualified for the National Tournament last year.

COLLEGE CHEM CLUB PLANS FIELD TRIP

by Sal Valenti

Mary Matthey, president of the Chemistry Club, announced that the club scheduled the following activities for Thursday, November 14.

That day the club will take their first field trip of the year. They will visit the J. T. Baker Chemical Company in Phillipsburg, N. J. The club members will leave by car from Stark Hall at 11 A.M.

Upon arriving, the club members will be taken on a guided tour of the research laboratories. The Baker Company has recently built and dedicated a new research laboratory. This new unit is equipped for research in bacteriology, organic and inorganic, and polymerization studies, as well as instrumental laboratories for physical measurements and spectrographic studies.

The J. T. Baker Company has enjoyed an eminent position in the field of purity reagents and production chemicals for over 50 years.

The biology and chemistry clubs will jointly sponsor a lecture in Stark 109 that evening at 8 o'clock. The lecture is titled "The Chemistry of the Kidney", and it will be presented by Dr. Francis Judge.

Dr. Judge is the chief urologist at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital. Last year Dr. Judge gave a similar talk which was so greatly enjoyed by all present that he was invited again this year for an encore. Plan to attend. The public is cordially invited.

SENIOR JOB SEMINAR TOMORROW AT NOON

by Bill Zdancewicz

Seniors! The campus Placement Office is offering something new this semester. To aid in preparing for future employment, seminars will be held on campus.

The first employment seminar will be held tomorrow at twelve, in room 203, Pickering Hall. All seniors in the Commerce and Finance Department, majors in economics, liberal arts, mathematics, sciences, and English are invited to attend.

The purpose of this seminar is to acquaint seniors with the procedure necessary to follow, in preparing for application into the field of their choice, before and after graduation. A discussion will be presented concerning the employment opportunities. Literature will be distributed which will prove helpful in future interviews.

These employment seminars are very valuable in preparing college seniors for what is considered to be their most important decision in life. Acquisition of employment with any organization is arrived at only through accurate preparation on the part of the individual.

Thus far, a total of sixty companies have notified the campus placement office of their coming to Wilkes to secure applicants for employment. Seniors interested in applying for interviews with any of these companies, should maintain contact with the Placement Office for news of their arrival.

Mr. Chwalek, Placement Director, announced that future seminars will be held for seniors majoring in education and other fields.

JUNIATA INDIANS SCALP WILKES IN 38-0 HOMECOMING RUNAWAY

by Bob Sutherland

Last Saturday afternoon, a well-oiled Juniata football machine in Huntingdon, Pa., added the Colonels' scalps to their belts. The tribe, using a wing-T formation and unbalanced line, rolled up 311 yards on the ground and 44 yards through the air with identical twins Jim and Bill Berrier doing most of the damage.

The Wilkes defense was superb throughout the first half, especially the eager and hard-working Frank Spudis, who hit hard and recovered a couple fumbles.

The huge Indian squad held the Colonels' offense in check, however, allowing only 36 yards rushing and 32 yards passing. Rescigno, Wozniak, and Palazzi carried for the Colonels.

With eight minutes left in the first half, the Indians, after having a few scoring drives squelched by Spudis, Winebrake and the determined Wilkes line, rolled 68 yards for the first score of the game. The score came on a 17-yard sprint by quarterback Bob Schwalenburg. The half ended at 6-0.

With the start of the second half the Indians went on the warpath. Bill Berrier stole a Colonel pass and romped 52 yards to the score. Bill then added the extra point and Juniata led, 13-0.

On the first play from scrimmage, Schwalenburg lifted another Wilkes pass and twisted his way to the Wilkes 10. After a ten-yard loss, Jim Berrier got into the act and skirted the Colonels' left for 20 yards and the third Indian TD. Brother Bill missed the extra point and Wilkes trailed, 19-0.

The Juniata then put on a 72-yard drive to their fourth score, made by Dick Ott on a one-yard plunge. The point was missed again; the score, 25-0, Juniata.

On the second play after the kickoff, Wilkes fumbled and the Indians recovered, setting up their fifth tally, a seven-yard smash through center. Dave Goodling added the extra point and the score read, Juniata 32, Wilkes 0.

The final Juniata score came through the air as Goodling passed to Joe Seacrist for 26 yards and the TD. The point after touchdown was wide, Juniata led, 38-0.

The delegation of Colonels' fans made plenty of noise to cheer their boys in the fruitless game. The cheering was led by Chef Fred Wall, Merri Jones, Bob Chew, and Shirley Myers from the stands, while Tom and Dick Myers created the noise in the pressbox.

RON RESCIGNO'S HONORS PILE UP AS HE WINS 4th 'ATHLETE AWARD'

Kampus Keglers on Top; P. Maholik Bowls 214-510

The Wilkes Campus League entered its second night of action last Sunday night. All winners won by four-point shutouts, two by forfeit.

The Kampus Keglers took the measure of the Foul Ups by 435 pins in their four-game sweep. Hillard Hoffman led the keggers with his 188-534, teammate Pete Maholik rolled the night's high single game with a 214-510.

Len Gonchar chipped in with a 176-455, Chuck Kirchener rolled 183-437 and Max Greenwald added his 157-455 to the total, putting the Keglers firmly in first place.

John Macri led the losers with 135-404. He was closely followed by Dick Lapkin with 157-396. John Gavazzi bowled 123-332, Carl Bohr on his first try at the game hit 96-244. Latecomer Fred Wall bowled two games, 135 and 153.

The Ashley Aces took a forfeit from the Bohemians. Barry Miller was high man on alleys 5 and 6 with a 169-427. Paul Schechter hit 182-399 and Matty Kessman added his 113-315.

For the short-handed losers it was a dismal night with the usually "hot" Vince Capo only managing 136-300 in the hopeless cause. Marie Realmuto had 113-322.

'Runt' Captures Fancy Of Indian Homecoming Crowd with Fine Play

by DICK MYERS, Sports Editor

The "Beacon" sports staff, unable to reach a definite agreement on this week's award-winner, went into a huddle with the coaches and after balloting came up with a familiar face for the honor. This is the fourth time this season that Ron Rescigno has captured the title, an honor he richly deserves.

Ron's play in the dismal 38-0 shutout in Huntingdon at the hands of the Juniata Indians brought forth peals of applause from the partisan, overflow Homecoming crowd.

Coach Ralston removed Ron from the game after the final four-minute signal had been given. The "Runt" was limping slightly and visibly tiring after a hard day of some tremendous football. The fans gave him a standing ovation, even the members of the gigantic Indian squad gave him accolades and pats on the back.

The fleet little backfield ace was bottled up time after time due to the smashing line play of the Juniata, who never stopped their relentless pounding of the nearly-exhausted Colonels forward wall, but he never quit charging.

Ron's high standing in the Eastern Colleges Athletic Conference may have suffered somewhat as he gained only 20 yards in 18 carries, but there was just cause for the low output. Time after time, the speedy tailback was forced to suffer large losses because the Juniata defense was just too powerful for the Wilkes line. He actually gained over 90 yards, but the pass attempt losses were his downfall.

Ron is in his last year of collegiate football and has left behind him a trail of magnificent football which may never be equalled. He has captured the fancy of football fans in every city in which the team has played. The press-boxes fairly buzz with comment every time the speedster breaks through for one of his patented broken-field jaunts and coaches and players alike share the feelings of his fans—that he is one of the finest backs in the nation's small college football.

BOOTERS EDGED OUT AT GETTYSBURG, 2-1

by Jim Hennighan

Last Saturday the Wilkes soccer team lost a heartbreaker to a very good Gettysburg squad. The Bullet booters, playing before a fair-sized homecoming crowd, started and finished fast for a 2-1 victory. The decisive tally came with but two minutes of playing time left in the match.

The rugged and aggressive Gettysburg team started strong and dominated the first half play. Our own Colonels couldn't seem to get going and never were able to mount a decisive offensive attack in the first half.

The first Gettysburg score came in the second period on a booming kick by right fullback Jack Hathaway. This kick was deflected into the Wilkes goal by a Colonel fullback. The play was a whim of fate on the part of "Lady Luck" and a big blow to the spirit of the Blue and Gold booters.

COLONELS SEEK SECOND WIN ON SATURDAY

Booters Seek Third Win at Lycoming Saturday

by Jim Hennighan

With a record of 2 wins, 2 losses, and 2 ties the Colonel booters travel to Williamsport Saturday to take on a rookie Lycoming College team. They play in an afternoon match, starting at 2:00 P.M.

The Lycoming Warriors are in their first season of intercollegiate soccer and as such have many newcomers to the sport on their squad. Although this is their first year, they have some experienced personnel, having drawn these from the soccer playing high schools in the "down river" area. With experience they can become quite a soccer power.

While an able-bodied Lycoming squad could give any team trouble, the flu-ridden Warriors have given their opponents little trouble all season. But finally the squad seems on the mend and they are expected to cause considerable trouble for the rest of their opponents, Wilkes included.

The Colonels with a week lay-off are in good shape for this contest, and are expected to be the more aggressive team. This will be especially so if the fired-up play of Carl Havira and Joe Morgan continues. These two players have been the spark-plugs of the Colonels in their last three games.

The team as a whole seems to be improving from game to game and the rest of the matches this season should prove quite interesting, es-

Lone "Goofers" Sam Weinstein helped his average along with a 176-447 in the forfeited series.

Host Winless Dickinson In Saturday Home Tilt, Expected to be Favored

by Bob Sutherland

On Saturday afternoon, the Wilkes Colonels will host the Dickinson Red Devils in the first football meeting between the two colleges. The game will start at 2:00 P.M. in the new Kingston Stadium.

On the strength of their 0-4 record this year, the Demons will probably be slight underdogs for the game.

The Colonels will be counting heavily on the splendid line play of Pete Winebrake, who has been in the thick of all the action this year and has shown some fine defensive work.

The Red Devils last year had a two win, seven loss record, and have been unable to turn in a win this year after losing their opener to Lycoming by a 40-6 count.

This game will be a homecoming of sorts for Dickinson's line coach Dave Eavenson, a Kingston High and Wyoming Seminary graduate. Dave coached nearly all of the sports at Seminary over a ten-year period. He is also director of athletics and swimming coach at Dickinson.

The Devils will operate out of a Split-T formation after abandoning the single-wing which they used up to the start of this season. They feature a brother act, Dave and Bob Watcher, who will bear watching. They are fine passers and it is anticipated that they will test the Colonels' reputation as good pass defenders by filling the air with footballs.

The Colonels are smarting over the sting of last week's defeat and will be out for the Devils' tail and their second win of the year. Although they are outmanned, as usual, by 34 to 21, they are hopeful of ringing up a victory in preparation for a rough game against Scranton next week.

W.C. ECONOMICS CLUB VISITS A.C.&F. PLANT

by Bill Zdancewicz

Members of the Economics Club visited the American Car and Foundry, Brill Corporation in Berwick, on Thursday afternoon of last week.

The tour which covered the production in the railroad car division was arranged through Mr. Gilbert Hilt of AC&F, Brill. The students viewed the manufacture of parts and the assembly of freight cars. In addition, they also toured the accounting department, which was almost entirely an IBM setup.

The Berwick division of AC&F Brill, has 180 acres under roof, with approximately 3600 men employed. A peak of 13,000 men were employed during wartime.

Besides railroad freight cars, streamlined trains are also manufactured at AC&F Brill. The divisions of atomic energy and aircraft were restricted to visitors because of the confidential nature of production.

The manufacture of shells is being done at the newest branch of the Berwick plant. As with most industries, diversification has become the policy of AC&F, Brill.

Students attending found the tour interesting and educational in light of production methods used in industry today.

Members of the field trip were: R. Bailey, E. Bezdziecki, R. Brown, W. Ewasko, C. Gareis, G. Ginader, M. Goobic, A. Gutkoski, W. James, C. Jones, C. Juris, N. Katarasky, F. Kogut, A. Kuchinskas, J. EDUCATION MAJORS TO ASSIST STUDENTS PLANNING TO TEACH

by Ruth Younger

On Friday, November 15, the Education Club will cooperate with Mr. John Chwalek in presenting the "Careers Conference for Teachers". This will be the first of the series of career conferences that the placement office sponsors each year for the high school students of this vicinity.

BOOTERS EDGED OUT

Gettysburg team put the pressure on the Wilkes defense and only the fight and drive of the Colonels kept the score to one goal. The Colonel defense proved equal to all, except one, of the Gettysburg attacks.

In the second half the Colonels finally came alive and through the aggressive play of Carl Havira and Joe Morgan began to turn the tide of battle.

Nick Giordano banged home the only Wilkes tally, in the third period. A penalty kick by Giordano was blocked by the Bullets' goalie but rolled free to the right side of the field where one of the Wilkes linemen passed it back to Giordano, who boomed in a beauty from twelve yards out. This tied the score and gave the Colonels a needed lift.

The fourth quarter was very even until the Gettysburg attack got rolling with less than four minutes to play. With but two minutes left, lineman Ed Gutkunst banged home the deciding score from 25 yards out. Again a miscue by the Wilkes defense allowed the score, for one of the Wilkes defensive backs got in the vision of Bob Payne, the Colonel goalie, and the ball was in before Payne could react to it. The Bullets turned back a last-minute Colonel drive to win a tight contest, repeating their victory of last season.

It was a tough one to lose but even in defeat the Wilkes team looked good, with the play of Havira, Morgan and Giordano standing out above the rest. Giordano's goal was his sixth in six games, a great average.

The purpose of these seminars is to give information about the college courses in the fields that those students are interested in studying. The next seminar will present the opportunities in the careers in mathematics. Next week being Education Week, it is fitting that the first seminar be for students who are interested in the teaching profession.

The activities of the conference will begin at 9 A.M. on Friday when the guests will register and have coffee with their hosts. At 9:40 A.M. they will see the film entitled, "No Teacher Alone".

Some Wilkes students will make up a panel discussion on the topic, "Why I Want To Teach". After luncheon, Mr. George Ralston will give the main message of the conference and conduct a question and answer period. Finally, the guests will be invited to a coke party at Sterling Hall for relaxation and fellowship.

Mr. Chwalek and Joseph Ludgate, president of the Education Club, request the cooperation of Education Club members to make this seminar helpful to the guests by talking with them about your interest in teaching.
