Since 1933, as Bucknell University Junior College, Wilkes has been under constant construction academically and structurally in order to meet the school's commitment to higher education. In 1947 BUJC was chartered as Wilkes College, an independent non-denominational four-year college with degrees offered in the arts and sciences, and a number of professional fields as well as a full program of extra curricular activities. The student body and faculty grew rapidly in the 1950's, and expansion into graduate studies followed in the 1960's and 1970's. Wilkes gained further recognition as an increasingly sophisticated regional center for teaching, academic research, cultural affairs, and public service programs in the 1980's. By 1990 the college was designated as Wilkes University, beginning a new era of progress as an increasingly distinguished and prominent academic institution.

Preparing for future academic needs, in August of 1995 Wilkes plans to open its $7 million classroom building on South Franklin Street. The 55.000 square foot facility will house the School of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences and the School of Business Society and Public Policy. Common facilities such as computer labs and studentlfaculty lounges will also occupy part of the new building. The construction of this facility is the latest step in a $25 million campus development project announced in August 1993. In addition to the classrooms and office buildings, Wilkes will also renovate the Stark Learning Center and its laboratories to accommodate the new Pharmacy Program and will add a new student center and dining facility.

Completion of the current project will certainly strengthen Wilkes' liberal education which is a balance between theoretical and practical application of knowledge in preparation for professional use. Students will have the opportunity of applying knowledge to real problems by working in well-equipped laboratories, serving internships, participating in cooperative education, and will meet the challenges of a rapidly changing world and of competitive graduate and professional schools.

Imagine

The Woodlands was the place for the annual Homecoming Dinner Dance Celebration this year. Arriving at 6 p.m. students and their dates were served cocktails. The colors for this year were pearl pink, black and white and the theme was "Imagine". The drinks flowed freely even though each student had to pay, after a $18 ticket charge. Some said that they would have rather had a buffet even though they thought that the food was good. The following day, Wilkes hosted Juanita for the annual Homecoming football game at Ralston Field. Tailgaters got out to the field as usual around 9:30 After the second quarter a.m. people came out of the haze of alcohol to hear the announcement for the 1994 Homecoming King and Oueen.

The final court consisted of Patti Gardener, Jennifer Gregory, Sabeth Ryan, Stefan Clausen, Devin Licklider, and Jessie Gross. After lots of cheering President Breiseth announced the King Jessie Gross and the Queen Sabeth Ryan. It was all you could imagine a great evening could be.

Burns with spirit

A cold dark night and still many spirited students showed up for the Homecoming Bonfire.

Ed Ciarmboli and others armed with noise makers voiced their Wilkes' spirit. The Bonfire burned brightly in the background, while on stage the fall sports' coaches introduced their senior players. One member of each team then spoke briefly about his/her season thus far. The Pep Band, conducted by Corby Swan, provided the music as the cheerleaders performed a short routine.

The twenty nominees were introduced by Andy Mazzeo, Student Government President. The twenty nominees were: Sara Brugger, Patti Gardener, Julie Good, Jennifer Gregory, Tina Hite, Tammy Palmer, Amy Pyle, Brenda Quiepo, Sabeth Ryan, Shelley Vitzakovitch, Stefan Clausen, Edward Ciarmboli, Jessie Gross, Michael Herb, Matthew LaBuda, Devon Licklider, Chad Lojewski, Sean Reilly, Jason Smith, and Gregory Yankow. Congratulations to you all!

Minter Weekend, once again...

Cinema was the theme for this year's annual Winter Weekend gala. All over the Wilkes campus, and spilling across the Market Street Bridge, inebriated students frightened local residents with shirts featuring twisted alcoholic parodies of popular movies. Quentin Tarentino flicks seemed to be especially well-represented, with the teams "Natural Born Drinkers" and "Reservoir Red Dogs" making their appearances. Students competed in keg rolls, tug-of-war, wheel-barrow races, a volleyball tournament, and the challenging amoeba race, in which students get to celebrate their primordial ancestry—many practiced for this at parties the night before. "The Wizard of Oz" won the first-place prize, second place was taken by "ET (Extremely Trashed)," and third place went to "Revenge of the Nerds." Local residents are still recovering, but are quite thankful that the $760 raised in proceeds will be donated to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, rather than future keg parties. So at least more came out of it all than a few hangovers.

Spring Masquerade

The Spring dance is one of Wilkes yearly events. For students who enjoy romance, fun, and getting dressed-up, this was an event to attend. This year the theme was Masquerade. Couples and singles attended the event at Genusie banquet hall. There was a good turn-out. Everyone was dancing to 80s music. Once in awhile a slow song would draw the crowd to the dance floor with their date. This event was sponsored by the Student government.

BLOOD MOBILE

The blood drive is one of Wilkes' major events. Wilkes students dedicated their time to giving someone else a chance to live. Every pint of blood counts for something. The American Red Cross Association greatly appreciates those who came out and helped. The Airforce ROTC took part in sponsoring and organizing the bloodmobile with the Student government. Come out and support our communities.

KARAOKE

On Wednesday, November 16, 1994 at 6:00 p.m. in Rumours, students gathered to attend the Oxfam Hunger Banquet as part of Wilkes Hunger and Homelessness Week. The slogan of Oxfam says that "the roots of hunger lie not in natural disasters, scarcity of food, or people's unwillingness to work hard, but rather in poverty and injustice, unequal distribution of resources, and the debt burden of poor countries." Students were shown a video on Oxfam's beliefs and then pieces of paper were handed out. Depending upon the picture on your paper, you were placed in the first, second, or third world. The first world represented countries like the US, Canada, and Japan. A small majority ate roast beef and fine wine and were waited on. The second world served themselves and ate rice and beans. They represented countries making under $7,000 a year. The third world ate rice with cabbage leaves (no utensils were provided) and drank dirty water. They represented countries such as Vietnam, El Salvador and Sudan.

With all three classes in one room, they were able to view each other and their individual situations. Discussions were led by Dr. Holiday Adair who is a psychology teacher at Wilkes. Each world was able to voice their opinion. Christiana Poff (a sophomore who ate in the first world) commented "We are extremely lucky. Being able to look at 2nd and 3rd worlds we feel guilty only because we see them." Emily Forman (a sophomore who ate in the third world) felt degraded because "the 1st world threw their scraps at us."

The banquet ended with a few startling facts:

- 30 million Americans are hungry.
- 1.2 billion people world wide live in absolute poverty.
- The top fifth of the people on the global economic ladder enjoy 60 time the goods and services of the lower fifth.
- One third of the grain grown in the world and one-half of the fish are caught and fed to animals in wealthy countries.

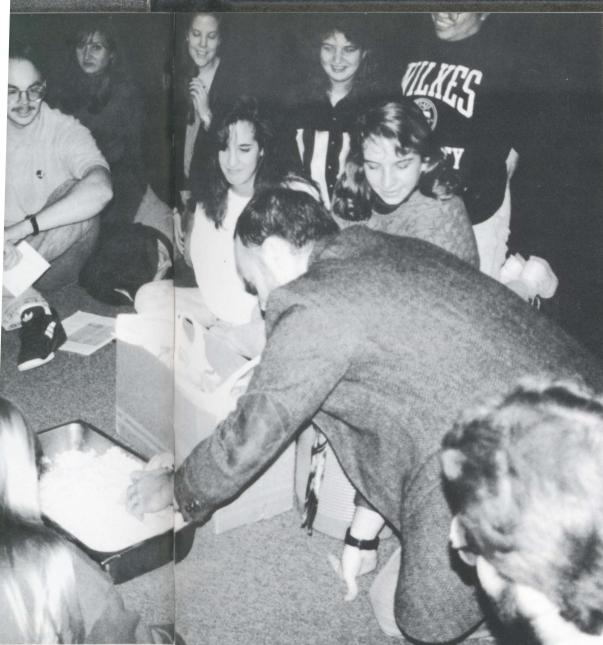

Dean Allen shows the rest of the third world how to properly use a cabbage leaf to pick up rice.

Valuable Experience

Wilkes University offers to its students many valuable experiences, including the ability to learn in a variety of employment fields. The work-study program on the campus employs students in many different areas and disciplines. Students have the opportunity to choose between working in an office or laboratory, or doing specialized work in their major area of study.

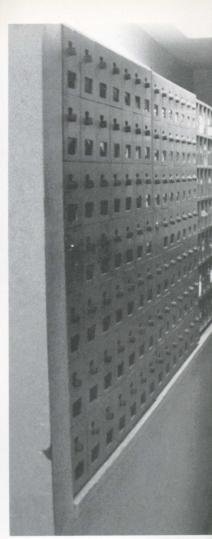

This program grants several advantages to those who partake. First, it helps students become more involved with the ongoings of the university. There is also the ability to work more closely with a professor in gaining valuable experience needed after graduation. Also, the supervisors of these students act not only as a "boss," but also as a guiding teacher into the real world by offering support and confidence.

"TO TEACH, TO INSPIRE, TO HEAL: KEEP THE SPIRIT ALIVE!"

From November 1 thru November 6, 1994, Wilkes Into the Streets program was a week of volunteering and collecting from many of the acitivities that were held on and off campus. Into the Streets is designed to introduce college students to community service activities with the hope of broadening an awareness of the community's needs and increasing student commitment to future community service work.

The issues this year included: Children and Youth, Race Relations, Domestic Violence, Campus Security, the Environment, and Literacy. The six members of the Student Community Service Council (SCSC) coordinated this year's program. Each council member was assigned an issue and each service activity within the issue had a club sponsor. Free T-shirts were given for student volunteers and they were worn by the students at the service projects.

One of the events, the Open Forum for Security on Campus, was presented by two campus security guards who talked about the existing programs available to students at Wilkes. Due to the recent attacks on campus, security has added three new staff members to its night crew. The parking policy and where students are supposed to park were some big issues. One student was concerned if Park and Lock South was regularly patrolled since she had to park her car there. Additional suggestions were made by students for electric lighting on campus and the use of student escorts. Several programs, including Operation Alert and the use of security guards as escorts, were mentioned as information was handed out.

The first annual reflection dinner was held on the last day of the week long program in the Marts Gym from 6:30-8:00. The SCSC began the reflection with quote from Aldous Huxley, "Experience is not what happens to you." It is what you do with what happens to you." At each of the dinner tables a facilitator and a commentator asked the students to consider their experiences and what they got out of the program. The dinner concluded with the student's awareness that they are capable of bringing positive change onto their campus and in the community. Service is an ongoing project... Everyone has the opportunity to make a difference in other's lives.

Murder Mystery

For the past few years the Programming Board has presented a Murder Mystery to Wilkes University students. It is a social event in which students come to solve a staged murder. Approximately 35 people were present this year at the Sub with their pencil and paper ready to solve a crime. The person who guessed the correct killer won either a T-shirt or $50. At the conclusion, six individuals chose the correct killer, three of who received a T-shirt. The Murder Mystery was a Top Hat production.

This was the third year that Wilkes Circle K along with other college Circle K, Clubs put on their haunted house. The event was held for 6 days from 7-12 p.m. each night. All profits were donated to fight illiteracy.

Circle K has been very successful in past years. Their efforts and support from other universities makes this event a success.

A.I.D.S.

Imagine sitting in a room and being told by a ten year old that there is a madness going around that kills and you have to face its music. That's what happend when Hydeia Broadbent of Las Vegas came to talk about the disease that is killing her and many globally today. She told us that A.I.D.S. is the third largest killer there is and safe sex helps to reduce the chances of infection.

She explained to a packed Dorhty Dickson Darte Center that, "five minutes of thrill is not worth A.I.D.S." She, of course, knows only about not wanting A.I.D.S. One reason is she has to live the rest of her life with a back-pack full of medicines that are injected into her system daily.

She urged that the high risk, unsafe sex practicers (junior high to college students) to practice safe sex.

"That's not the way it goes, thinking you can't get it!" said Hydeia.

Listen to the wise words of a tenyear- old this time, it could save your life.

And always remember, "IT CAN HAPPEN TO YOU!"

AWARENESS WEEK

A light shone throughout Wilkes as students, faculty, and community residents formed a semi-circle and listened to the inspiring words of a resident who is living with A.I.D.S. The Anonymous speaker explained how A.I.D.S. has affected everyone not just a select few people. Stillness greeted the first candle that was lit. After the light passed from one person to the next, Wolrd A.I.D.S. Day became brightened with hope.

BLOCK PARTY!!

This was the first annual event for both Wilkes students and the students of nearby schools. The event provided a day full of fun, music, games, and other exciting activities. A variety of fun games attracted the attention of many students. It was set up like a small carnival and included three small swimming pools, bungee running, and the human spinning wheel. There was also Sumo wrestling, Twister, a softball game, and sand volleyball. Some of the campus clubs such as Campus Interfaith, Volunteer Services, Multicultural Students Coalition, took part in the event. Vendors were there with all kinds of food and drink for those active participants. The radio station was there playing hit songs. Tribes was also at the scene of the block party, performing live. The Off Campus Council was responsible for making this event happen. They hope to keep this event running in the near future, so come out and support your fellow students.

NOT A "Z" IN SIGHT AT THE PAJAMY JAM!

The Pajamy Jam Party had a great turnout from the Wilkes community once again this year. DJ Mel spun a motley of tunes including rap, reggae, and dance music. The vibes blasted all night in the Cafeteria. The dress code for the evening for Wilkes students, campus and offcampus was silk pajamas and cotton boxers. In these comfortable clothes, the students were jamming on the floor. A special appearance and performance by the Body Snatcher and the Enuch made the evening an even bigger success. The DJ's played hits with great rhythm and soul. The party was the main attraction for that Friday evening and there was not a "ZZZZ" in sight.

Ghosts Invade Kirby Hall

Is Kirby Hall haunted? The question remains. Believers hoped to catch a glimpse of the famed Kirby Hall ghost on the night of the annual Halloween reading. On Friday, October 28th, members of the English department read poetry, excerpts, and short stories appropriate to the occasion. Listeners included students, faculty, and even some strangers, including the enigmatic "Red Devil" woman.

Professor Joseph Battaglia opened the reading with a selection of "some never before read aloud" original poetry. "The situation hasn't been strange enough," said Battalgia.

Titles for the evening included "Comprehension of the Universe," "Our Heavenly Body," and "Good Humor." Student Darlene Jones, dressed in a black evening gown, described in a clipped, measured voice, the properties of a witch (we're still wondering about her). All eyes were on Darlene as she warned, "Witches. They're part of our world."

Other participants included Dr. Darin Fields, Darren Elias, Dr. Lee Terry, Lisa Mastruzzo, and Ed McGinnis.

Kirby Hall was dressed for the occasion. The grandfather clock was wrapped in cobwebs and candelabras graced the fireplace mantle with flickering flames throwing shadows on the ceiling. Perhaps most startling, especially to those seated close to the massive staircase, was the neatly knotted noose which hung straight down from the floor above. All in all, a well-"executed" reading.

Honoring Excellence

Phi Eta Sigma is a national scholastic honor society. It is designed to honor college freshmen who earned grade point averages in the top ten percent for their first semester of course work. The oldest and biggest freshman honor society, Phi Eta Sigma first began at the University of Illinois in 1923, and was voted into the Association of College Honor Societies in 1937. In 1993, Wilkes University began its own chapter of this organization. At a ceremony held during the spring of 1994, the first 44 members were inducted, along with 9 honorary members. Each year, additional freshmen are chosen to take part in this group through their time at Wilkes.

In order to be eligible for the lifetime membership of this society, a freshman must have a cumulative gradepoint average of at least 3.5 at the end of any curricular semester during their first year at Wilkes.

Under the advising of Dr. Lawrence Kuhar, the organization held a T-shirt/baseball cap sale in Spring of 1995 and helped during the Open House with recruiting.

Numerous students filled the cafeteria, trying foods such as sweet potato french fries to multiflavored cappicinos. The tables in the cafeteria were cleared away to make room for the food companies and for the students who participated in the event. After the food show, students were given survey papers where they were allowed to voice their opinions on their favorite foods. This was an enjoyable event for everyone and students will be eagerly looking forward to a Mardi Gras II next year.

Field Hockey

Once again Wilkes' Field Hockey team captured the Freedom League title...this time with an undfeated league record. The team played in the ECAC playoffs again. Just looking at the wins and losses of this team is an injustice though. The field hockey team is an outstanding group. It is not every team that can put each of its players on the field and still feel confident with the group out there. No matter what the statistics show or what the press prints, every member of this team is a star in one way or another. There are some positions on the field that just make for stardom and others that seem to be thankless. It takes an entire team to play the game and develop the right combination. You need the entire team on and off the field to put their personal goals into proper perspective and set the team's goals highest. It takes dedication and determination in a special kind of person. Wilkes was lucky to have an entire team with these special qualitites pushed by strong leadership, leadership not just from one or two people but from within the makeup of each member.

Attending a game or practice, one quickly gets the distinct impression that here is a team with an intense desire to do well but are yet supportive and friends to each other. Each athletic team has a job to do and a goal to fulfil. Not every team is lucky enough to have coaches who can lead their team to accoplish the goals they set and maintain the status of friends. Thanks to Addy & M.J. the Lady Colonels were able to win the ECAC Division III Mid -Atlantic field hockey title for the second straigth year and set a school record for wins while developing a spirit of comradery within the ranks.

They finished the season as Middle Atlantic Conference Freedom Championship team. They achieved the title by beating FDU Madison in the Marts Center. The Colonels got an anticipated bid in the NCAA Division III Final Four. This was the first Wilkes team to pass the "Sweet 16."

This year was a tough season for the Lady Colonels. They came out to reclaim their title from the past year, but it didn't happen. The Lady Colonels had their goal set, but they were cut short. Everyone played their best and gave 110% effort. Stacey Boyer, a senior attained her goal of 1000 points. The ladies did their best and they are ready for the challenge ahead of them next year.

Many of the players are returning next year to try again. Coach Haag did a wonderful job on supporting and guiding the players. Everyone wish them luck for the next season.

Campus living is a cliché within itself. The hardest part of college is often adjusting to the dorm-style of life. Residence life at Wilkes
University is a memorable experience for all students residing at either Evans Hall, Waller,
Pickering, Delaware, or any of the unique halls.
As students travel from Wilkes to their professional careers, they'll take with them the long lasting memories of dorm life.

Commuter Life

Commuters are joined by residents during the spring bus trip to Baltimore's Inner Harbor. L to R: Matthew Wilkin, Kim Escarge, and Christine Moss.

Stupid Gate Cards

More memoirs from a commuter

"Where is it? I left it here last night. Oh no, there are two cars waiting behind me." Then I realize that talking to myself is not going to help me find my gate access card. Once again, I have misplaced that 2X4 piece of cardboard that allows me entrance into what I call the "student parking complex." A piece of plywood is the only thing that separates me from getting my car into one of the last available parking spaces in the lot. Searching under the passenger seat, I finally achieve my goal — I find my card. After rolling down the window, I quickly swipe my card. Much to my dismay, the light goes red meaning that the gate will not open. I try again, this time with some patience, and am finally rewarded with the green light and watch with triumph as the gate goes up. I pull my car into a narrow space, toss some apologies to the people in the cars behind me, and run off to class.

This semester, I have been bestowed with the honor of receiving a much sought after parking permit. But along with that privilege came a semester fee and the constant worries that security will tow my car if the permit is in the wrong place in the window. But this procedure is a definite step up from the marathon race to the meters every hour.

As I enter my second year on this campus, I am pleased to see that there are opportunities for commuters to become involved with the school. Of course I had to be willing to look around for them and I was not disappointed with my efforts, for I created some new friendships and also became a participating member in life on campus.

In general, this year is shaping up to be pretty enjoyable. As far as the gate card is concerned, hey, maybe I'll get smart and hang it on a chain from the rear view mirror.
