Homecoming Queen Nominees Chosen

Elections for the 1980 Homecoming Queen will be today from 10 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center and from 4:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. in the Pickering Hall lobby. The entire student body may vote one nominee as queen and two nominees for runners-up. Students must have their ID cards in order to vote.

Al Wirkman, Homecoming Chairman, stated that there are 11 nominees this year instead of the customary 10 because two girls were tied for the tenth position. The nominees are Carol Benek, Marla Brodsky, Mary Giblin, Colleen Gries, Gayle Lovering, Peggy Mascelli, Geri McAfee, Margaret Scholl, Diane Seech, Sandy Tomko, and Janet Vierbuchen.

Carol Benek, majoring in Biology, is from Johnson City, New York. She has been a member of Student Government her freshman and senior years as well as class secretary her sophomore year. As a senior, Carol is the assistant director of the Student Center. She has also been named to the Dean's List. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benek, Carol plans to attend a graduate or professional school.

Marla Brodsky, majoring in Psychology, has been active in Student Government for four years. As vice-president of SG her junior and senior years, Marla has also been co-chairman of Arts and Crafts Day, Winter Weekend, and Social Committee. She has been involved with freshman orientation for three years as well as co-editor of the New Student Record her junior year. The daughter of Mel and Sylvia Brodsky, Marla hails from Old Bethpage, New York. After Wilkes, she plans to receive her Masters Degree in Student Affairs and wants to be a dean of a college.

Majoring in Nursing/Psychology, Mary Giblin is from Palermo, New Jersey. For the past three years, Mary has been involved with the Homecoming Committee as well as the Publication Committee. She has also been editor of the Amnicola for two years, serving as co-editor this year. As a senior, Mary is active with Big Brothers and Big Sisters along with being a resident assistant. Mary is the daughter of Owen and Mary Giblin.

Colleen Gries, majoring in Accounting, has been the Debate Union President for four years. As a current member of Theta Delta Rho, Colleen was president of her junior class. This year, she is chairman of Commerce and Finance Stu-

Plans To Raze Buildings Delayed

The Beacon reported last week that plans to raze three buildings to make way for a proposed residence hall have run into a snag. The problem concerns a possible historic designation for the buildings in question: Butler, Shawnee and Susquehannock Halls.

The college has been discussing the problem with the Historical Society in an attempt to work something out. The issues has also been brought up at City Hall. At last Tuesday's City Council work session, Councilman Edward White announced that he would present a resolution at the regular council meeting on Thursday commending Wilkes for its expansion effort.

According to an article published in the Times Leader last Wednesday under the headline "DiPietro Says Wilkes College 'Using' Council," Councilman DiPietro voiced his opposition to the resolution and involvement in the matter in general.

The article states in part as follows:

"If White's resolution is passed, DiPietro said, 'We would be telling the federal government that the people who did the historic preservation study were wrong. I don't want city council to be strapped between Wilkes College and the historical society.' DiPietro claimed White has a vested interest in Wilkes College and that he met recently with Andrew Shaw concerning the resolution."

At city council's meeting on Thursday, Councilman White stated that he never met with Shaw concerning the resolution.

White's resolution stated that the college is planning to expand the campus through the construction of a new dormitory, and that the college and the historical society have reached an agreement that would allow the college to freely remove the three existing buildings to make way for construction. The resolution asked that the college be commended for its expansion efforts.

When the resolution was read at the meeting, however, DiPietro pointed out that he was contacted by the chairman of the historical society and that he was informed that no such agreement exists between the college and the historical society. (See related story this page.)

There was some question as to whether the council had any legal authority in the situation and council voted to table the resolution and refer it to the city attorney.

After the meeting DiPietro told the Beacon that he did not like the story printed in the Times Leader and he noted that he resented the headline and claimed it was not true.

He noted that he hopes that the college and the historical society are able to solve the problem.

According to a tape provided by WCLH, DiPietro was asked why he voted to table the resolution and he responded, "The reason that I voted to table the resolution, and I'm glad that council went along with it, is that I think that this is an issue that deals with certain information that council is not directly involved in."

"I think that Wilkes and the Office of Historic Preservation and those appropriate people from the Historical and Geological Society are attempting to work this issue out and I think that we should let them work it out."

DiPietro went on to say: "Certainly council, myself, are very proud to have Wilkes College in our community. It's a fine academic institution. We recognize the contribution to our community Wilkes makes. This resolution did not address itself to that particular point. I think what it asks us to do was to take note of some agreements and discussions held between people who are not part of city council, and council was reluctant to do that. I don't think this is appropriate for council to pass on the kind of issue that the resolution addressed and that's why we tabled it. We tabled it and referred it to our solicitor, who incidentally gave us the opinion that it isn't appropriate for council to deal with and what's so basic I think is that council wants the parties to resolve this issue themselves and to address it."

He also commented, "The point is

Three College Buildings Committee Evaluates Historical Impact

An Ad Hoc Committee has been set up between members of the college and the Wyoming Historical and Geological Society to evaluate the historic significance of buildings located at 76 and 78 West Northampton Street and 110 South River Street.

According to a memorandum of agreement between the college and the Executive Director of the historical society, a Historic Sites Survey was issued by the Wyoming Historical and Geological Society, dated October 5, 1979, proposing the establishment of a River Street Historic District which would include the entire Wilkes College campus, among other properties.

The Memorandum states that the college has proposed the expansion of its residence hall facilities which would necessitate the removal of three buildings within this historic district, and the Historic Sites Survey leaves the historic significance of all the buildings in the historic district open to question.

Also, the memorandum states, "both parties to this agreement are anxious to clarify the status of these buildings in terms of the objectives of the Historic Sites Survey and the developmental plans of Wilkes College."

The memorandum refers to the committee as a three member group mutually acceptable to both sides. The committee is chaired by H. Benjamin Powell of the Department of History at Bloomsburg State College. The other members of the committee are Ralph L. Hazeltine, Retired Executive Director of the Wyoming Historical and Geological Society, and William L. Conyngham, Vice President of the Wyoming Historical and Geological Society, and a member of the Board of Trustees of Wilkes College.

According to the agreement, the committee is requested to submit a written report to the representatives of both parties, and the conclusions drawn by the committee will be considered by both parties. The agreement was signed by Dr. Andrew Shaw, Dean of Management and the Executive Director of the Historical Society.

The report filed by the committee notes that the buildings in question are: 110 South River Street, also known as Butler Hall, 76 West Northampton Street, also known as Shawnee Hall, and 78 West Northampton Street, also known as Susquehannock Hall.

The report also points out that on page four of the Historic Sites Survey it is stated that "not all properties inventoried are worthy of protracted preservation fight..." and recommends on page 55 that "a periodic evaluation of buildings and areas not listed in this report should be made, particularly as new information and facts are brought to light." It also notes that the college has had a long-time commitment to preserving the late 19th and 20th Century architecture of the campus and desires "to construct new buildings that are architecturally in harmony with those already present."

The review board has determined that none of the buildings in question are "outstanding examples of fifteen different categories of architectural design existing in the River Street Historic District." Also, West Northampton Street is a secondary street and "its continuity is broken on the ends by buildings fronting on River Street and on South Franklin Street."

It points out that the college has recently spent $460,000 to restore the building housing the Conyngham Student Center. The proposed building is designed in a manner that would make it compatible with the student center building and other buildings in the area. In addition,

Want To Help The Community? Give Blood In The Gym Oct. 9!

Are you interested in helping other people here at the college or in the community? Would you be willing to give a few hours a week to sponsor a party for underprivileged children or tutor a junior high student in history? These are just a few of the activities which the Human Services Committee of Wilkes College sponsors. The committee is actively led by two presidents, Debbie Prater and Debbie Mazzanti. They are assisted by Vice-President Fran Scarantino, secretaries Chris Lain and Carol Discabage, and treasurer Gary Nothestien. Approximately forty members meet on Tuesdays at 12 noon to discuss such activities as The March of Dimes Walk-a-thon and The Crop Walk (a walk for World Hunger).

Their "main events" this year are going to be the blood drives. On Thursday, October 9 in the Wilkes College Gym, the Human Services Committee will sponsor their first blood drive in affiliation with the local chapter of the American Red Cross. Anyone can donate between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. There are 2300 potential donors among the faculty, administration, and students of Wilkes. The average donation last year was 150 pints, which was a low percentage.

In order to stir up more interest, Debbie Prater said HSC is conducting an active publicity campaign. The HSC members are recruiting potential donors at dorm meetings, and Dean Ralston has been asked to encourage the faculty and administration to donate pints of blood. The club is also using local radio stations and newspapers to help them advertise their goal of 400 pints for Thursday, October 9.

"Donating blood only takes up one half hour to 45 minutes of your time and is not painful," assures Prater. She also recommends eating a substantial meal before donating blood. Any student, professor, administrator or member of the community can enter the gym on Thursday and sign in. A drop of blood will be taken from the ear to test for iron content. Temperature and blood pressure will be taken, and then the donor will be led to a table to lie down where a licensed, registered nurse will draw the blood. Afterwards, HSC will provide cookies, sandwiches and juice for those who feel a little weak or hungry.

See! It doesn't sound so awful, does it? So remember, bring your roommate or friend over to the gym on Thursday. There is a definite shortage of blood in the United States and every pint counts. The Human Services Committee is offering a little incentive for potential donors. They will give $25.00 to the dorm with the highest percentage of donors and the club with the highest percentage receives a trophy! I am looking forward to seeing a lot of people walking around campus with red cross pins stuck on their lapels. That is their way of saying, "I care."

Clambake And Buses Funded At SG Meeting

Two fund requests were made at Student Government's meeting. One came from the Women's Activities Association represented by Colleen Gries. The other was a loan request by Rob Doty representing Slocum Hall.

Colleen Gries requested $895 for the WAA to rent buses in order to attend the remaining away football games. In order that the matter be voted on before this weekend's game, President Joe Galli closed and reopened the meeting to allow a vote on the request. The motion passed 19-0-0. Colleen Gries added that there are usually several empty seats on the buses. Interested students should contact her at least one week before the game to make arrangements.

A $ 700 loan request came from Rob Doty, chairman of the SG-Slocum clambake scheduled for Saturday, October 25 from 2 to 5 p.m. The event is co-sponsored by Student Government and Slocum Hall. SG has donated $200 to the event. "The loan request is so that we can pay for the clams and hamburgers we ordered," stated Doty. After much discussion concerning the repayment of the loan and ticket sales procedures, Galli closed and reopened the meeting so the council could vote on the request. SG stipulated that the loan be repaid within one week after the clambake. A vote was taken and the request was passed 19-0-0. SG representative Dana Shaffer stated that he hopes the event turns out well and Slocum Hall does not get into debt.

In other business, Rob Doty, co-chairman of the Publicity and Elections Committee announced the winners of the replacement elections held last week. Elected as SG representatives from the class of 1981 were Cheryl Crea and Les Nicholas. The newly elected class of 1982 president is Bruce Williams, treasurer, Sue Palmer, and SG representatives Tom Farley and Lisa Warden. The nominees for Homecoming Queen were also announced. (See page 1 for related story and photo.) It was also noted that the turnout was very poor at recent elections.

Nominations for freshmen officers and representatives will be held on Thursday. Students are reminded that under the new campaign regulations, only college ID cards will be accepted for voting.

Bulletin boards have been ordered for the side entrance of the Student Center, each floor of the Hotel Sterling and Miner Hall. Approval of Charles Abate, the college business manager is pending.

Al Wirkman, chairman of the homecoming committee, announced that tickets for the dinner dance are on sale in the SG office, second floor of Weckesser Hall. The single tickets cost $14 each. Students will pick seats and identify them with their students numbers. Reserving tables will not be allowed. There are ten seats per table.

Parliamentarian Ana Nunez stated that 45 clubs and organizations were present at the charter renewal meeting. "Some clubs have changed names, some consolidated, some added and others deleted," she said. In a few weeks, an updated list of campus clubs and organizations will be available.

Advisor, Mrs. Doris Barker, closed the meeting by commenting that there has been a great influx of students getting ID cards validated. "I think it's due in part to the voting and I hope it continues," she stated.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the Journalism Society this Sunday at 1:00 p.m. in Parrish Hall, room 27. All members are urged to attend. Anyone wishing to join the Journalism Society is also welcome. Entrance to Parrish Hall will be through the side door only.

that there is a historic site survey that's a public document. It's been presented to the government, and to change that document, or to alter it, or make implications about it must come from other people, and not from city government, and that's my point."

Councilman White was asked what his purpose was in bringing up the resolution. He responded that his purpose was "to save taxpayers a lot of money not to have to send their children out of the territory to go to school." He noted that the college does a fine job with its students, "and I want to help."

Gayle Lovering, the daughter of Francis and Dolores Lovering, is from Budd Lake, New Jersey. She has been involved with the Amnicola, NSO, and Intramural and Social Committees. Gayle, a resident assistant is also a member of the field hockey team. Majoring in Nursing, Gayle plans to work for a year following graduation and then attend a specialization school.

Active on the tennis team for four years, Peggy Mascelli is co-captain this year. As a member of the Letterwoman's Club and Accounting and Business Club, Peggy is also a resident assistant. She has been named to the Dean's List and the Judicial Council. The daughter of Peter J. Mascelli, Sr., Peggy is from Plains, Pennsylvania. Peggy, majoring in Accounting, plans to work for a public accounting firm and eventually plans to receive her CPA.

Geri McAfee has been a four-year participant of the field hockey team. Geri is also a current member of the Letterwoman's Club and NSO. She is a resident assistant and was a dorm representative. Geri is majoring in Nursing and is from Norristown, Pennsylvania. She is the daughter of Mrs. James McAfee.

Secretary of the senior class, Margaret Scholl, is the daughter of Mrs. William Scholl and the late William Scholl. Margaret was Feature Editor of the Beacon her junior year and is currently serving as Managing Editor. Next spring, she will become Editor-in-Chief of the Beacon. Margaret is a member of Theta Delta Rho and was on the freshman orientation staff for two years. Majoring in Business Administration, Margaret is from Edwardsville, Pennsylvania. Following graduation she plans to work in public relations.

Diane Seech, from Columbia, Maryland, is the daughter of Andrew and Anna Seech. Diane has served as co-chairman of Student Government Social Committees her sophomore and junior years. She is also a member of the Human Services Committee and the Emergency Alert Team. Majoring in Biology, Diane plans to attend a graduate or medical school following graduation.

Sandy Tomko, majoring in Nursing, has been involved in the Human Services Committee, NSO, and IRHC. As a resident assistant, Sandy has been a dorm representative as well as a member of the freshman orientation staff. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tomko and her hometown is Conyngham, Pennsylvania.

Also a Nursing major, Janet Vierbuchen is currently serving as president of the Nursing Student Organization. Now in her senior year, Janet is involved in Intramural tennis and is a resident assistant. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Vierbuchen, Janet hails from Bridgewater, New Jersey. Following graduation, Janet plans to work with hospitalized cancer patients.

Meal Ticket Program Discussed By IRHC

IRHC held their meeting Sunday night with the major topic of discussion being the meal ticket program. Joe Galli complained that several unauthorized students were using the cafeteria to eat their meals without paying for their food. Galli noted in particular that a few students that own apartments are the ones that are abusing the service for resident students. "It's unfair," noted Galli and added, "We are the ones paying for the food."

Recognizing the problem, a suggestion was made to go back to the old system of using the student IDs instead of meal tickets in order to be served the meals. A special number could be engraved on the card for all resident students that eat at the cafeteria. This procedure would enable students to use their IDs more often while trying to correct the current misuse problem at the cafe. The disadvantage to this system is that some students might not have their cards with them and unless they are able to pay for their meals, they will be turned away from the cafe.

Another suggestion to remedy the situation was made to maintain the current system of meal tickets, but to stronger enforce the system. No one would be allowed in the cafe during meal time without a meal ticket and a more enforced check will be made on the students and their meal tickets. Bruce Williams, chairman of the food committee will examine the problem in more detail this week.

In other business, the new Stark rules and regulations were discussed.

Joe Galli noted that a study is being conducted on the Learning Center as to how it is and was being used by students. Some resident students said that if the Learning Center could not be used late at night that perhaps a deal could be made with the library to remain open to about 3 a.m. Jon Pliskin, a member of the committee looking into the Stark rules, noted that the suggestion of keeping the library open is being considered. There is also a possibility of having the Student Center extending its hours.

Under old business, IRHC president Janine Tucker thanked all who helped with Parent's Day and noted that it was a success. Tucker also explained that Fred Daniele and Keith Williams are now appointed to the Intramural group and that Jayne Grim and Barb McGee have been appointed to serve on the Student Advisory Board.

The meeting concluded with a reminder that an ugly picture contest is being held and that next week two people will be selected to chair the committee.

Triorganizational Meeting Support Of Activities Urged

A triorganizational meeting was held on Sunday for officers and representatives of Student Government, Commuter Council, and Inter-Residence Hall Council. SG president Joe Galli opened the meeting by stating that its purpose was for the representatives to get acquainted with each other.

President Robert S. Capin was present at the meeting and he commended the student leaders for the job they have done so far this year. He noted, "I am really happy about what I have seen take place this year."

Capin urged the representatives to encourage their fellow students to support all of the activities of the college. He commented, "When activities are sponsored, the success of the activities is completely dependent on participation."

Capin then asked for respect for college property. He asked that everyone "try to protect our grass a bit." He explained that people should try not to walk on the grass and should try to keep the campus clean. He added, "Many people say that for an urban campus, we have an appealing campus and it should be kept that way."

Galli noted that there is "very little turnout of faculty and administration" at college sponsored activities. He told the reps to encourage the faculty to participate in the activities.

In other business, Al Wirkman announced that tickets for the Homecoming dinner dance are on sale in the SG office, and he ran down the list of events for Homecoming. He noted that there will be more displays and floats than last year.

Marla Brodsky announced that an arts and crafts day will be held soon and everyone should watch the Beacon for more information. She asked that everyone participate.

Tom Rooney reported that this year SG will sponsor two trips to Florida during the spring break. One trip will be to Fort Lauderdale and the other trip will be to Daytona Beach.

Rob Doty announced that there will be a clambake this Saturday from 2:00 until 5:00 at Ralston Field. Hamburgers, hotdogs, clams, and soda will be served. Tickets are on sale for $3.50 and this includes admission to a party in the Student Center after Clambake from 9:00 until 1:00.

It was pointed out that last week the Beacon erroneously reported that the cost of the triorganizational meeting was $300. In fact, the cost was $100.

The meeting ended as the members of the three groups sang songs. Louis Czachor

New Withdrawal Policy; No Problem For Registrar

The end of the fourth week of classes was last Friday. This means that last Friday was the last day for withdrawals from courses without the permission of the course instructor.

From the beginning of the semester until last Friday, any course could be dropped after the student notified his instructor, his advisor, the appropriate Dean of Student Affairs and filled out the necessary paperwork for the Registrar.

After the fourth week, however, a student can drop a course only with the written approval of the instructor, faculty advisor, and appropriate Dean of Student Affairs.

This is the first year for this withdrawal system. Previously, students could drop courses without the instructor's approval through the tenth week of classes.

However, Registrar Doris Barker pointed out that she has "always required the three signatures after the first week of classes anyway" because these people have to know if a student is taking a certain course, and if the instructor is not notified, he can arbitrarily give a "0".

The report from the Registrar's office is that at this point there have been about as many withdrawals as other years at this time.

Despite the controversy surrounding the new rules, Barker reported that so far there have been no problems. She added that she does not expect any problems during the next several weeks either.

She concluded, "I really don't think the new policy is to penalize the students. It's just to get them to get more rap time with the professor."

Proposal For New Election Site Presented To Commuter Council

The new election rules were the major topic of discussion at the Monday night meeting of Commuter Council. Rob Doty and Chris Fellin, Chairmen of the Publicity and Elections Committee presented their proposal of moving student elections from the Student Center to a more centralized location. The "centralized" location will be the lobby of the Stark Learning Center.

In addition to moving the elections to Stark, the voting hours will also be extended for a longer period of time. There will also be voting in the cafe in the evening for those students that could not make it to Stark during the day. Chris Fellin noted that "elections on campus are really hurting. The new campaign rules are to help students have a better chance in voting and participating in the elections." The decision for a "centralized" location will be used on a trial basis starting with the upcoming freshman elections.

Under reports, the CC-IRHC

Halloween Party slated for Friday, October 30, is going very well. The Herman James Band will be performing and Poly-Care will cater the event. Tickets will be $1.50 with a 50 cent refund at the door for anyone who dresses up in costume. Prizes of $50, $25 and $10 will be given respectively to the first through third place best overall costume.

The coffeehouse Committee reported that Pat Godwin will be performing on Tuesday October 14, from 11 to 1 o'clock in the Student Center. It was also announced that another coffeehouse is currently being set up for the month of November. Martha Gallagher will be expected to perform. Gallagher plays the flute, guitar, harp and the penny whistle.

In old business, CC President Bill Miller thanked all who helped at Parent's Day and who participated in the Tri-Organizational meeting. Miller especially wished to thank Becky Schmidt for making the Parent's Day sign for the council.

Under new business, Colleen Gries and Edward Stachowiak were appointed to Commuter Council's new Publicity and Election Committee. This new committee will work closely with Rob Doty and Chris Fellin and the new election rules.

Plans are also underway for an Octoberfest sometime this month. Colleen Gries and Nancy Bowanko head the Octoberfest Committee. Council will also be working on drawing up "Council and Committee Objectives" in the near future. CC was also invited to attend a commuter convention sponsored by SUNY. Due to the closeness to the Homecoming celebrations, CC will not be attending. Miller noted that Commuter Council will be participating with the group in the near future and at the next convention.

New Campaign Rules..... Brodsky Feels Coverage Unfair

To the Editor:

Campaign regulations passed by Student Government have made the headlines! Last week's edition of the Beacon was an example of biased and exploitive reporting. Objectivity is obviously not a concept understood by several members of the Beacon staff. Few representatives have expressed a negative viewpoint on many progressive ideas proposed by the new campaign rules. Many representatives have expressed positive viewpoints. The Beacon has elected to support the negative viewpoint and completely disregard all of the positive attributes. Is this reporting representative of the students? NO! Therefore the reporting does not provide the information presented. The editorial claims, "How many students are willing to invest $25 or $50 in an office and then face the possibility of not even being elected?" The editorial also claims that the new rules will put a burden on potential candidates if they must petition for signatures!! If those who wish to be student leaders are not willing to put a little effort into a campaign, they shouldn't run. For when they do get into office, they better be prepared to work. Working for something you believe in was never a crime. We want to promote more student involvement; having 50 signatures for each candidate will certainly provoke potential voters to question the issues, qualifications, and abilities of each candidate. What kind of factual explanations are reported (by the campaign rules as the letter states. "The Students' Choice" merely pointed out another side of the story, which was almost neglected by the leading organizations. The Beacon, by pointing out the opposing argument, has, in fact, worked for the students in so far as the students are the ones most affected by the rules, and should be aware of both sides of the issue.

The Beacon is not diametrically opposed to Student Government policy and procedure. In fact, the Beacon supports many of SG's endeavors and assists in promoting mutually agreeable topics.

However, the Beacon is not a rubber stamp of SG policy nor should it be. Additionally, disagreement for Beacon) in one out of three articles? NONE!! The students are led to believe the campaign rules are blasphemous, because the reporters say so. Let the 2,000 students make up their own mind and save space for the campaign rules to be printed. If they are so important as to spark comment on each page, present the facts, then make the comments. How can a secondary source downgrade something which has never been tried? The initial campaign may start off slow; but the progression of useful ideas is a necessity at this school. This year we are achieving this goal; so take advantage of potential positive outcomes. The Beacon is incorrect in assuming the students' answer to "The student's choice?" until the students let them know the answer. Let's get uninformed students aware of what is going on, instead of what some people think should be happening. A college newspaper should work for students, not against them.

Marla Brodsky
Vice-President, Student Government

disagreement's sake is not part of the Beacon's journalistic philosophy. To be impartial does not require the Beacon to be unquestioning or to refrain from editorial expression. It is this sense of fair play and objectivity which enables the Beacon to point out the opposing point of view rather than just blindly accepting policy set forth by any organization.

Letter Policy

Letters to the editor are welcomed from all interested parties. Letters MUST be typed neatly and submitted by 3:00 p.m. on the Sunday before publication. Letters may be delivered to the Beacon office, second floor of Parrish Hall, or the Beacon box in the library before this deadline.

All letters MUST be signed IN INK, but names will be withheld upon request. Class year and/or appropriate title should be included with the signature. This status will be verified by the editors. Any letter bearing a signature and/or title deemed as fraudulent by the editors after verification will not be published.

Editorial discretion will be used in all cases, especially where questionable language is used. All letters will be published as written, without corrections (except for the preceeding case), and the views expressed in letters are those of the author and not those of the Beacon or college.

NOTICE

Several submitted items and letters were received after the 3 p.m. deadline on Sunday and as a result, could not be printed this week. Students are reminded that all submitted materials should be placed in the Beacon box in the library or in the Beacon office by Sunday at 3 p.m. before publication to insure that these items be considered for publication in that week's issue. Please refer to the Letter to the Editor Policy and Submitted Materials Policy on this page for further details.

CC President Defends New Campaign Rules

To the Editors and all Wilkes Students:

Over the past few weeks Commuter Council, Student Government and the Inter-Residence Hall Council have been discussing the newly proposed election guidelines. The discussions held at these meetings have led to some revisions in the original draft which make the rules more equitable to all students interested in running for an elected campus office.

After the discussions held at Commuter Council, revisions concerning the number of names on the petition for nomination for Commuter Council representatives were agreed upon as was a reduction in the amount a candidate could spend on his campaign for printed material. The number of signatures required for nomination to Commuter Council was cut from 50 to 30 to better reflect the fact that Commuter Council representatives speak for approximately one half of their class and that 10 per cent of that figure would equal 30. The amount of money a candidate can opt to spend was reduced from $50 to $25 to encourage the candidate to use printed material but not abuse this option and to encourage the candidate to spend more time meeting the people he will represent.

Commuter Council along with Student Government is also considering establishing a centralized voting booth in the Stark Learning Center Lobby for the increased use of all Wilkes Students.

These revisions point out that these election guidelines were not hastily put into effect, and that the more student input that is received, the better these guidelines will serve all the Wilkes students. These revisions also point out that the major student bodies are cooperating on these new rules so that each person's opinion is heard.

In the next edition of The Beacon the new guidelines should be published so that all Wilkes students become familiar with the process of running for elected office.

Change for change sake accomplishes nothing. These new election guidelines however will encourage more student participation in elections and will make Student Government, Commuter Council and Inter-Residence Hall Council more responsive to student needs and opinions. A change such as this should be welcomed by all students at Wilkes.

Sincerely yours,
William R. Miller
Commuter Council President

Editorial reply: For a copy of the new campaign rules, see page 8. Further comments concerning the new rules are welcomed by the Beacon. (Please see Letter to the Editor Policy this page.)

Cast Of "Romeo and Juliet" Recreates Famous Tragedy

-----To Magical Transformations

Sunday, September 28, 3:30 P.M. — I leave the Dorothy Dickson Dart Center for Performing Arts after play practice. The dark stage is lit with a single naked light bulb on a lamp stand. The theatre looks empty and deserted. As I am leaving, I run into Mr. Alfred Groh, the director of the Concert and Lecture Series at Wilkes. I ask him when the National Shakespeare Company is arriving to perform Romeo and Juliet and he says they are arriving within one half hour. "The actors are coming, the players will be here soon!" It is almost as if we are in a small town in Elizabethan England hearing the cries of the simple folk as they wait for the traveling troupe of Shakespearian actors to entertain them.

4:00 P.M. — the transformation of the stage is amazing. In one short half hour the group has arrived and is setting up the stage. There is an old bus parked by the loading dock backstage and the crew is running around in faded jeans and work shirts carrying boxes and hanging lights. I wonder where all the beautiful actors and actresses are, this crew must only be the technicians. Mr. Groh told me to speak to Carole Baker, the company manager, and I finally find her among the steel girders and lighting cables. "Hi!" she says breathlessly after just shouting an order to one of the workmen, "Would you like to sit down for a minute and chat?"

Carole Baker is the company manager for the National Shakespeare Company. She books the shows at colleges and universities, reserves hotel rooms for the crew, does all the public relations on the road and plays psychologist when any of the actors or actresses needs to talk. This is her first year as company manager and her second year with the company. Last year she was an actress and this year she plays the nurse in Romeo and Juliet. "BBBBut," I stammer, "you mean all these ordinary looking people are the players?"

"Yup," she replied with a smile, "the youngish guy hanging the lights is Romeo and the tall heavy-set man who is putting up the scrim plays Juliet's father." I then spoke to Carole some more about her personal career in acting. She was born and raised in El Paso, Texas, and came to New York City after graduating with a B.A. in Theatre Arts from the University of Texas. She did some commercial work then decided she needed more experience in classical theatre. She auditioned for Mario Stettler, director of the National Shakespeare Company in Norfolk, Virginia. When Carole found out she was cast in May of 1978, she was understandably ecstatic, she had been in competition with 1,000 other actresses from all over the United States. Carole uses no special method in her acting; sometimes she draws on personal experiences for her scenes, sometimes she does not. "I don't think I will be doing any more Shakespeare after this year and even though we don't get paid much, the experience has been most valuable."

The National Shakespeare Company is the oldest Shakespearian touring company in America. It was started 19 years ago by Philip Miester and his wife in New York. The cast that played Romeo and Juliet Sunday night has been rehearsing in the Catskill Mountains of New York for only six and one-half weeks. They are also performing two other shows on their tour this year; Shakespeare's tragedy Richard III, and A Comedy of Errors. They will be on tour from now until December 14 and will go back on the road from January 10 until May 15. Sun. night Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, got a special treat because it was the company's opening night for the 1980-81 season. Some of the actors felt they could have used a bit more rehearsal but I felt their professional Shakespearian training certainly was evident last night.

5:00 P.M. the same day — I wandered downstairs to the costume room where I found a tiny, graceful looking young girl trying to hang up some costumes that she had just ironed. "Could you help me with these?" she questioned in a soft piping voice, "I just can't seem to reach the rack." Then she introduced herself. "Hello, I'm Katheleen Henderson, I play Juliet."

"Are you the costume mistress?" I questioned, and she replied that yes, she and Katie Thorpe, who plays Lady Capulet, Juliet's mother, ironed and washed and took care of the costumes while the company was on the road.

Katheleen Henderson (Juliet) is 5'2", slim, with large blue gray eyes and long, blondish-brown hair. She was born in Brooklyn, New York, and attended the famous High School of Performing Arts for two years. She then trained with the well-renowned Stella Adler, one of the oldest drama coaches in the United States. She is 24 years old and this is her first year with the company. She also competed against 1000 other actresses for her role as Juliet. "It is the most exciting and tiring thing in the world to be on the road. You stay in different hotels in different towns and cities, and you get to meet all of America. Small-town American audiences are much different from New York audiences. They are less critical and more appreciative. You know, the audience becomes your friend on the road because so much of your personal life is taken away. The actors and actresses in this troupe have already become my family, we are becoming very close. Even though it's hard work, I wouldn't trade this experience for the world. How many 24-year-old girls are traveling all over the United States doing what they love the most?"

6:00 P.M. — I leave the theatre to grab a bite to eat and the actors go back to the Hotel Sterling to rest, exercise, jump rope and do yoga to prepare for the show.

7:00 P.M. (still Sunday night) — The actors are now on call. That means they have to be at the theatre getting in makeup and costume and preparing for the show. They are putting the last-minute finishing touches on the set and setting up the props.

8:00 P.M. Sunday, September 28, the Wilkes College Concert and Lecture Series presents the National Shakespeare Company performing Romeo and Juliet — As the curtain opens, I stare at the stage astonished. Four hours ago there was only a bare light bulb. Now the stage is washed with warm red and yellow lights which illuminate a painted scrim and tasseled curtains. As the players move and speak on stage, I become more surprised. Four hours ago guys in grubby jeans and three tired-looking young women entered the theatre, now at 9:00 they are transformed into the beautiful Shakespearian actors whom I expected to see. It seems like 24-year-old Kathleen Henderson has regressed 10 years as she plays the haunted young Juliet.

10:00 P.M. — I go backstage to congratulate the actors and actresses. They all seem pleased with their performance of Romeo and Juliet. Oh, my gosh, I forgot to interview Romeo... Well, I caught him as he was walking out of the makeup room. "I'm Mitchell Sugarman," he replied with a beautiful smile, and I hail from Sacramento, California." He told me he studied with a private drama coach in Los Angeles and has taken dancing and singing lessons for 8 years. This is his second year with the company and he is enjoying the experience. Then he quickly jaunted off to help someone take down the set.

As I was interviewing him, for some odd reason, I felt like a giggling adolescent asking her favorite dreamy rock star for his autograph. Who knows, maybe I have a weakness for Shakespearian actors, especially handsome ones.

12:00 midnight — I'm sure the cast is sleeping now, taking a well-deserved rest after an exhausting day. Tomorrow at 1:00 P.M. they will load up their old, dilapidated bus and drive to Trenton, New Jersey, to perform Richard the III. I am sort of glad I didn't see them leave on Monday; I would have been a little sad. Because Sunday night those 12 actors and actresses brought glitter and excitement to the Wilkes College Theatre and left with it as fast as they had swept in Sunday afternoon.

Mimes to Perform at the CPA

"A MIME'S EYE VIEW"—Tony Montanaro and two assistants will provide Wilkes with a mime's eye view—a look into the silent world of the art of mime.

The classic art of mime will be demonstrated in a program of mime episodes called "A Mime's Eye View," by Tony Montanaro and two assisting artists. The program will be presented at the CPA under the auspices of the Concert and Lecture Series at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, October 7.

The program will feature mime episodes in the silent style, but will include other forms of theatrical expression including folktales, fantasies, fables and other selections from literature using voice, music, narrative, and movement.

Tony Montanaro's group first performed "A Mime's Eye View" in New York City in the early 1960's to critical acclaim. Montanaro continued performing and touring to college and community stages throughout the country until 1972. At this time, Montanaro took time off from touring and founded a theatre and school, which led to many projects. He produced and directed the theatre's touring units from this home base. He also became involved in television, conducting a year long artist-in-residency for a public television station in Maine.

After six years off the road, Montanaro has created new works to perform, and is again on tour. Last year he toured in the western and northeastern United States. This year, he plans to take the group on an international tour in addition to his U.S. tours.

Wilkes is fortunate to be one stop on Montanaro's schedule this fall, so be sure to see the group's performance on Tuesday night. It is certain to be a fascinating experience.

What's Happening

The First Presbyterian Church on South Franklin Street will present the third film in its film series on Thursday, October 2, at 8 p.m. at the church. The film is "Distant Thunder," a foreign film about a young Brahmin who begins to question his values and his lifestyle. Cost of the film is $2.50.

A mixed media installation piece, "Experimentive Direction in the Visual Arts," by John Stascek is currently being exhibited at the Sordani Art Gallery until October 5. Hours of the gallery are from 1-5 p.m., Sunday through Friday, and from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. on Saturdays.

The SG Film Committee will show another movie this week in the CPA. "House Calls," starring Walter Matthau, Glenda Jackson, and Art Carney, will be shown at 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Friday, October 3.

The Concert and Lecture Series will present two cultural events this week. On Tuesday, October 7, Tony Montanaro and two other mimes will perform "A Mime's Eye View," a program of mime episodes. On Wednesday, October 8, The National Players will present a Victorian farce, "Charley's Aunt." Both programs will start at 8 p.m. in the CPA.

There will be an SG-Slocum clambake at Ralston Field on Saturday, October 4. The cost for an entire day of food and fun is only $3.50. Starting at 2 p.m., there will be hamburgers, hot dogs, and other good food, with clams available for $.75 a dozen. The $3.50 ticket also is good for admission to the Student Center party that night.

The class of '83 will hold a party in the Student Center on Friday night, October 3. The party starts at 9 p.m. and will continue until 1 a.m. Tickets will be sold starting Thursday in the Student Center and in the cafe.

Concert and Lecture Series ..... To Offer Famous Victorian Farce

A Victorian farce, "Charley's Aunt," will be performed by the National Players on Wednesday night at the CPA at 8 p.m. The play is the second program this week to be sponsored by the Concert and Lecture Series.

The comedy was first performed in London at the Royalty Theatre in 1892. It became an overnight sensation due to the humorous situations that occur in the comedy. The popularity of the play has grown immensely. There are several road companies on tour in various counties performing this famous comedy. Many notable actors have appeared in the play at one time or another, including Rex Harrison, Noel Coward, and Jack Benny.

The play is about two Oxford students, Jack and Charley, who are in love with two young women. Jack and Charley invite the girls to their room for lunch to meet Charley's wealthy aunt. However, the aunt finds she can not go to the luncheon, thus creating a problem for the two men: the girls cannot sit Jack and Charley unchaperoned.

However, the two find a friend rehearsing for a school play - and his costume happens to be that of an old lady. The friend agrees to pose as the aunt for the afternoon, but this is not an end to the complications because Charley's real aunt eventually does show up. But she assumes another name upon learning that an imposter is using her. In the end, everything turns out for the best and the play ends happily. So take an hour or two out of your schedule to enjoy a first-rate comedy performed by a national respected company of actors and actresses. Remember - "Charley's Aunt" in the CPA, Wednesday night 8 p.m.

"Romeo and Juliet" Performers Popular with Wilkes Audience

Combining superb acting and beautiful costumes, the National Shakespeare Company recreated the famous romance, "Romeo and Juliet" in the CPA on Sunday night. A large crowd of students, faculty and members of the public attended, expecting to enjoy the popular love story, and they were not disappointed. In fact, several members of the audience gave the performers a standing ovation.

As expected, the actor who played Romeo, Mitchell Sugarman, and the actress who played Juliet, Kathleen Henderson, were the most popular with the audience, but several of the other performers were also received well. Jerry Peters, who portrayed Romeo's friend, Mercutio, gave an agreeable performance, and the audience appreciated his humorous antics.

All the performers played their parts realistically, but those mentioned above turned in truly memorable performances. The actors and actresses handled the emotionally charged scenes well, neither over-playing nor under-playing the violence and passion involved in the situations.

The performance did have its flaws, however. Although these flaws were relatively minor, they did detract from the overall quality of the play. The most noticeable flaw occurred during one of the fight scenes, in which Mercutio and Tybalt (played by Louis Fischer) were dueling. In the middle of a flurried exchange of rapier thrusts, Peters (who played Mercutio) lost his shoe. Although he was able to put the shoe on his foot again with little break in continuity, it was enough for the audience to notice. As can be expected, the audience found the situation humorous. The action continued, but the mood was lost.

It was unfortunate that the mishap occurred when it did - during a tense scene, just before Mercutio is killed. The situation did relieve some of the tension in the situation, but it came at a time when comic relief was not in order. Unfortunately, the disruption of the tension at this particular time detracted from the overall enjoyment of the play's true atmosphere, because it seemed to set a precedent for the remainder of the audience's reactions to the tense or solemn moments of the tragedy.

For instance, when Tybalt is killed, and his body carried out by the servant, Peter (played by Peter Whitehouse) the audience laughed. Although one could find some humor in this situation, since Peter carried Tybalt out upside down, the solemn atmosphere of the play at this point should have prevented any laughter. However, because of the previous element of unexpected comic relief before Mercutio's death, such a serious mood was destroyed.

However, it should be emphasized that the actors and actresses did perform extremely well. It was only by accident that the atmosphere of the tragedy was disrupted. The performers did their best to restore the appropriate mood, and consequently, the final moments of the play were flawless.

Overall, then, the play went over well with the audience. The actors and actresses gave a realistic and sensitive performance of the violence and passion between members of the Capulet and Montague families. It was only unfortunate that a small flaw marred the audience's perception of the tragic atmosphere of one or two situations.

Mascot Selected

San Diego has a chicken, Philadelphia has the Phanatic and Wilkes now has a Colonel. Two girls tried out for the position on Saturday, September 27, at the football game.

Sharon Michner, a freshman biology major, said, "It's an outlet for my rowdiness." A freshman elementary major, Cathy Reynolds stated, "We need to show spirit and I want to help."

The outcome? According to Joe Galli, President of Student Government, both girls will serve as the Colonel during alternate games. He added that hopefully, an official Colonel mascot uniform will be available before Homecoming.

"CHARLEY'S AUNT"-Charley and his friend, Jack, entertain two lady friends while Charley's "aunt" acts as chaperone.

Grievance Board Established To Hear Student Complaints

A few Wilkes seniors are in the process of establishing a relatively unique and somewhat daring committee on campus. If successful, this committee will provide an opportunity for any student to openly or confidentially voice a comment, suggestion, or grievance concerning any aspect of Wilkes College.

The need for such a board was first articulated by Dr. Howard Williams, chairman of the Commerce and Finance Department, who feels there is presently no adequate forum for students to convey suggestions or gripes to the faculty and administration. Many students, protecting their own interests, will be either silent about their grievance or unwilling to carry such a matter any further than the door of a department chairman. Consequently, many problems go unsolved.

This idea was conveyed by Dr. Williams to several Commerce and Finance students, including senior Colleen Gries, who organized and developed the board, and is its chairman. Gries will be assisted by Norm Witco and Bill Koscinski, senior representatives; Molly Sammon, junior representative; Kirk Foreman and Martha Mazzetelli, sophomore representatives. One junior and one freshman are still needed to meet the representation goal set by the board. The members will be proportioned from accounting, business administration, and economics majors.

The board's first meeting is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, October 1, at 3:00 in the conference room on the fifth floor of Parrish

Hall, and will be conducted in two sessions. The first session will be open to any students and faculty members who wish to offer comments to the board. Students should be aware that if they wish to appear before the board with a gripe but do not want their identity disclosed, they may do this. Also, the format is not limited to matters concerning faculty and curriculum alone. The meeting will then be closed to board members only, at which time they will discuss the comments.

One week after the meeting, the comments will be reported to Dr. Williams, who will act as a liaison between the SAB and the faculty. Dr. Williams' responsibility of receiving and acting upon the board's final recommendations will be shared by Professor Joseph Chimola.

In addition to the Boards' regular functions, they are also planning to survey last year's alumni to find out what benefits they feel they received or were denied at Wilkes. The board feels the graduates will be more willing to offer constructive criticism than most students presently enrolled. The Alumni Office is supplying the names and addresses of the graduates.

The board will also place a suggestion box on the 5th floor of Parrish Hall.

Bill Aiding Students Passed By US Senate

Last Thursday, the Senate passed what has been called the single most important bill for students in the next five years. The bill, the Conference Report of the Reauthorization of the Higher Education Act, H.R. 5192, passed the Senate by the lopsided margin of 83-6. To become law, the bill needs only President Carter's signature.

The bill contains many items that are of interest to students and was lobbied hard by Steve Leifman, lobbyist for COPUS. Among the provisions of the bill are: gradual increase in the BEOG program from $1,800 to $2,600, a gradual increase in the percentage of cost that the government will pay in the BEOG program from 50 percent to 70 percent, a raise on the ceiling on the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) from $5,000 to $10,000 and a raise on the ceiling on the Guaranteed Student Loan from $7,500 to $12,500. There is also a grace period of six months past graduation before these loans must be repaid. This bill does, however, call for an increase in the interest rates charged on these loans. Interest rates on the NDSL was raised from 3 percent to 4 percent, while the GSL jumped from 7 percent to 9 percent.

One other major point for students in this legislation is an article that prohibits the payment of sub-minimum wages to students on College Work-Study programs.

On the whole, this bill is probably one of the best things that will come out of Congress for students in recent years. COPUS played a role in making it possible and we hope to be able to continue working in this capacity. But, we can't do it alone. If you are interested in joining COPUS, we meet every Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. in the COPUS office on the second floor of Weckesser Hall. New members are always welcome.

Historical Impact Evaluated

tion, the design of the building allows several trees to be preserved "which enhance the appearance of the intersection of River and Northampton Streets.

The dormitory would be located so that it would not dominate Chesapeake and Delaware Halls which "received national attention in the architectural press around the turn of the century."

Butler Hall is seen as having no practical value for the college, and the reconstruction of its exterior which is in poor condition, is seen as not financially feasible for the college.

The buildings at 76 and 78 West Northampton Street are regarded as inefficient for use as dormitories, and if they were preserved, the college would not be able to develop the River Street frontage successfully.

The conclusions of the committee are that the removal of the buildings in question will not have a negative impact upon the character of the historic district, and the committee felt that they are "not worthy of inclusion in any historic property registration program."

Also, "The construction of a new building of the form proposed by the college will enhance the architectural character of the area in question." In addition, "the block of West Northampton Street between River and Franklin Streets should be deleted in the River Street Historic District Inventory of Historic Places. Louis Czachor Nomination for Freshman Student Government representatives and Commuter Council representatives will be held today in Stark Learning Center room 101 at 11:30 a.m. Those interested in the positions are reminded that they must present a written statement of intent and a petition containing 50 signatures for SG positions and 30 signatures for CC positions.

New Campaign Rules

1. All persons who wish to be candidates for any office in a Student Government supervised election, must get 50 signatures, I.D. numbers and telephone numbers, from members of his or her class. CC reps must get 30 signatures. In order to be nominated the presidents of Student Government, Commuter Council, and Inter-Residence Hall Council, must receive 200, 100, and 100 signatures respectively. Every candidate must present a written statement of intent as well as signature petitions when being nominated.

II. HOW TO CAMPAIGN

A. General Rules

1. Any candidate may use a maximum of $25 on their campaign. Presidents of Student Government, C.C., and IRHC shall be allowed a maximum of $50. Campaign monies must be funded by that candidate and funds may not be contributions from supporting groups. All receipts must be turned into the Student Government office 48 hours before the election. Receipts must indicate phone number and supplier of materials.

2. All campaign materials must be signed and dated by the candidate in the lower right hand corner (on the front) before the material is posted. All candidates must submit a copy of their signatures at nominations to the Governmental Affairs Committee prior to posting any campaign materials. Any unsigned materials will be removed by Student Government members and/or the governmental affairs committee members and taken to the S.G. office, where they may be claimed. Any exception to this rule must be presented to the Governmental Affairs Committee.

3. No candidate shall use any Wilkes College activity posters, used or unused, front or back, for campaign purposes.

4. No campaign materials may exceed 14" by 22". No campaign materials from any one candidate may take up more than 10 per cent of any one bulletin board.

5. Campaign materials affixed to trees may only be tied or taped. No campaign materials shall be nailed, thumbtacked, or stapled to trees.

6. No "off campus" campaigning will be allowed. "Off-campus" shall be defined as the river-common, city-owned property, and non-college owned property. An exception is made for the tree-lawn area adjacent to college property.

7. No candidate shall post more than one sheet and banner on campus.

III. PUBLIC FORUM

1. Each candidate for presidential elections is required to make a statement of platform at an organized public forum.

IV. CAMPAIGN ETHICS

1. No candidate shall remove or deface an opponent's campaign materials. No candidate shall encourage others to remove or deface an opponent's campaign materials. No campaign materials of any one candidate may cover that of another candidate.

2. No campaigning, soliciting or loitering shall be permitted within a 30-foot radius of the ballot box. This includes the candidate, his or her co-workers, or any campaign materials. No campaign material visible from the ballot box will be permitted during an election.

V. GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE AND RECOURSE

1. Violators' nominations for any office will not be accepted for a period of one term. One term of office shall extend for the academic year.

2. If any candidate wishes to contest an election, he or she must do so before noon of the day following the election. All cases will be heard and decided upon by the governmental affairs committee. The vote on such a decision shall be as soon as possible after the contestment.

VI. RUNNING THE ELECTION

1. Ballots from all elections shall be placed in a secure box and shall be counted only the governmental affairs committee.

2. No write-in votes will be recognized.

3. Absentee ballots will not be accepted in any election.

4. Voting in all student government supervised elections will be done only with an officially validated Wilkes I.D. card.

VII. ELECTION RESULTS

1. All candidates must remove their campaign materials following an election by noon of the following day.

2. Election results will not be announced until all campaign materials have been removed. The earliest that the results will be announced shall be noon of the day following the election, provided all campaign materials are removed. Results will be posted in Stark Lobby, Housing Office, Student Center, library, Student Government Office, and Parish Hall.

VIII. REGULATIONS FOR ALL CAMPUS BUILDINGS

1. No campaign materials shall be posted on walls, doors, or glass surfaces. Campaign materials may be posted on any bulletin board in the buildings. All campaign material that is posted elsewhere will be removed by the employees of that building and returned to student government.

IX. BULLETIN BOARDS

1. All bulletin boards are under the jurisdiction of the associate dean of student affairs and the student government publicity committee.

X. Any violations of the above guidelines shall be reason to declare an election invalid by a majority decision of the governmental affairs committee.

Campaign Suggestions

A. All candidates are encouraged to have at least one CAMPAIGN MANAGER. Campaign managers may help with the campaign, but may not substitute for candidate.

B. Each candidate is encouraged to seek organized support from a delegation of students led by the campaign manager. Support may not include financial contributions.

Astronomer Arthur R. Upgren To Present Lectures Oct. 9, 10

Dr. Arthur R. Upgren, director of the Van Vleck Observatory, Wesleyan University, will be on campus Thursday afternoon and Friday, October 9 and 10. Dr. Upgren is a Harlow Shapley visiting lecturer, one of a select band of astronomers chosen by the American Astronomical Society to represent the profession to colleges and the public. The name Harlow Shapley belonged to one of the great 20th century astronomers whose research did for man's place in the Milky Way what Copernicus had done for man's place in the solar system. The astronomical society seeks to honor Shapley's memory by selecting worthy men to perpetuate his efforts in public education.

Dr. Upgren's visit is cosponsored by the department of physics, of earth and environmental sciences and the Sigma Xi Club of Wilkes College.

During his stay at Wilkes College, Dr. Upgren will be available to consult with students and will deliver three lectures, two of which are recommended to the general public and the third will be at a somewhat more technical level.

The first lecture on Thursday evening at 8 p.m. is entitled "Light Pollution: The Artificial Illumination of the Night Sky." This problem has plagued amateurs and professionals alike but serious studies of the subject are few. Professor Upgren must be numbered among the few contributors to the field. The lecture will be presented in Stark Learning Center, Room 1, at 8 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

The second lecture will be given at 11 a.m. Friday, October 10, in SLC 166. "New Discoveries Among the Planets From Space Exploration" will feature some spectacular slides and is intended for a general audience. The public is invited to attend. There are no prerequisites, save a lively curiosity.

At 3 p.m. Friday, October 10, the third lecture, "Distances to the Stars" will be presented in SLC 1.

This should be of special interest to students of the sciences and engineering, if Professor Upgren is persuaded to explain the details of the methods of determining stellar distances.

Professor Upgren is a native of Minneapolis, Minnesota. He received the baccalaureate degree from Minnesota in 1955, the masters degree from Michigan in 1958 and the Ph.D. degree from Case in 1961. Following the receipt of the doctoral degree he spent two years as research associate at the Sproul Observatory, Swarthmore. His next post was at the United States Naval Observatory in Washington, D.C. from whence he moved to his present location, first as acting director and now director of the Van Vleck Observatory and chairman of the astronomy department at Wesleyan University.

While on campus Dr. Upgren will use SLC 441b when he is not lecturing. Students are encouraged to call on DR. Upgren in his office.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Happy Birthday, Dr. Fahmy, from your two favorite students at Wilkes College.

Riot Breaks Out At Rock Concert

While rock was being played on the inside, rocks were being thrown on the outside. That's how one could explain the riot that broke out Thursday night, shortly after 8:30 p.m. at the Kingston Armory while the group, Blue Oyster Cult, was performing.

According to Ronald Labatch, news coordinator for WCLH Local News, "the riot occurred when a group of people tried to crash the gate to get into the concert. They didn't have any tickets and the 18 or so security guards were unable to hold the crowd back." When the Northeast Security guards were unable to control the crowd, police were called in for assistance. Responding were police and fire units from the cities of Wilkes Barre, Kingston, Forty Fort, and Edwardsville. State police were also on hand.

In order to somewhat disperse the unruly group, local fire departments turned high pressure water hoses on the people. Tear gas was also used and the city's K-9 corps was brought in to help. In the scuffle, 20 people were hurt and 41 people were arrested. Of those arrested, 22 were juveniles. Road manager for Blue Oyster Cult, Steven L. Schenck, was one of the arrested. Hearings for those arrested will be sometime this week.

Athlete Of The Week

The Wilkes College Soccer team "zoomed" past crosstown rival King's College on Saturday at Ralston field by a score of 4-2. A large crowd was on hand to see the contest, and Dung Chi Duong rose to the occasion as he was involved in every goal the Colonels tallied. "Zumi," as he is otherwise referred to, scored two goals and had two very impressive assists. His outstanding offensive display has earned him Beacon "Athlete of the Week."

Zumi, from Los Angeles, California, is a Viet Nam refugee who was forced to leave his hometown of Saigon because of the communist take-over in 1974. He came to Wilkes-Barre originally, and attended Bishop Hoban High School, where he graduated in 1977. Later that year, Zumi's family moved to Los Angeles. However, Zumi loved Wilkes-Barre so much that he decided to attend Wilkes College.

When asked how he originally became interested in soccer, Zumi explained, "I played soccer in Viet Nam since I was a little boy. Soccer is the national sport in Viet Nam, just like baseball is in the U.S.A." When he attended Bishop Hoban he couldn't play soccer because the school didn't have a soccer program. However, when he came to Wilkes he picked up where he left off in Viet Nam. Zumi was named captain of the soccer team for this year, his final year at Wilkes.

"I am really happy I have been named Athlete of the Week and I would like to thank the rest of the team for helping me get this award. The most important thing to me is not the award, it is the victory over King's." Zumi went on to explain that the team was really up for the game and emphasized the importance of winning the game against King's because, "This will bring more school pride to Wilkes College."

Although Zumi has had some trying times in his life, it seems he has adjusted well to the American way of life. The Beacon sports staff wishes Zumi congratulations, not only because he is an outstanding athlete, but because he is an outstanding person as well.

Blue And Gold Falls To 0-2; Meets Upsala On Saturday

Senior Rick Burd set a school record — 294 yards and five touchdowns — in leading the undefeated Lycoming Warriors to a 40-0 thrashing of the Colonels at Ralston Field before a good Parent's Day crowd.

Burd, a 6'3", 195-pound senior from Lock Haven, connected on 12 of 20 attempts, including two long-bomb passes to his brother, junior Mike Burd, before leaving the game late in the third quarter.

After a scoreless first quarter, Lycoming got on the board with their first score of the afternoon when Burd (Rick) hit Burd (Mike) for a 65-yard touchdown strike. Freshman Lance Spitler added the first of four extra points to put the Warriors ahead 7-0.

Lycoming's second score of the day came with 2:39 left in the second quarter when Burd hit sophomore wide receiver Jeff Wert on a 23-yard T.D. pass to cap an 81-yard scoring drive. Spitler's PAT made the score 14-0 which is how the first half ended.

With only 2:11 gone in the third quarter, Burd connected with Wert for a four-yard touchdown, which all but closed the door on the Colonels' hopes for a home opener victory. At 9:15 in the quarter, Burd hit brother Mike with a 77-yard T.D.

QB Hall On The Move

bomb. Spitler's PAT logged the score at 27-0 in favor of the Warriors. Burd ended his record-setting performance with a 10-yard T.D. pass to Wert with 3:22 left in the third quarter. Burd's replacement, Pete Waldron, ended Lycoming's scoring on the day when he threw a 21-yard T.D. pass to freshman John Betz with 2:12 left in the game.

The Colonels' closes chance to score came in the first quarter of play when they had a first and goal from the Warrior's one-yard line. This field position came about when freshman George Hall hit junior Tony Madden with a 27-yard pass from the Warriors' 32-yard line after a shanked Lycoming punt. But the Warriors' defensive line toughened up and denied the Blue and Gold a score by stopping four consecutive running plays out of the I-backfield.

Lycoming had a total 557 yards total offense compared to the Colonels' 181. The colonels will carry an 0-2 record into next week's game against Upsala at East Orange, New Jersey. Upsala is also looking for their first win of the season next week, with a 0-2-1 record. Last year, the Blue and Gold beat the Vikings by a score of 20-3.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION: Lycoming had a combined 369 yards through the air for six touchdowns and no interceptions, compared to the Colonels' 109 yards and three interceptions...Carmen "Homer" LoPresto led all Wilkes rushers with 19 carries for 49 tough yards...The Blue and Gold's defensive line and linebackers did another good job in shutting off the opponents' ground game...Rick Burd connected at will against the Colonels' secondary, but then again, whose secondary doesn't Burd connect against at will?...Jerry Goss looked impressive at quarterback and if coach Schmidt options to use Goss as QB, George Hall could be a BIG help in the defensive backfield...Tony Madden had a number of good matches in the game and is one of the better Coolonels receivers in recent years...Anyone wishing to get in contact with Eddie White (Colonel Sports Information Director) may do so at his new extension, 444.

Women's Tennis Team Falls To Three Division II Powers

Imagine yourself trying to long jump fifty feet, run a three minute mile and swim the entire length of the Susquehanna River. This was how the Wilkes women's tennis team felt when they had to play three Division two schools this past week.

Talk about the agony of defeat! Wilkes lost three straight matches by the score of 9-0. If you think that's bad, wait until you see what happens when Wilkes has to face Bloomsburg this week. Many people say the Dallas Cowboys have a tough schedule, but they have yet to hear the agenda of the Wilkes women's tennis team. When the Colonelettes discover that they had to play five Division two schools in a row, they knew they were in trouble.

These schools do not contain your ordinary "Hackers Haven" tennis teams. They work all hours recruiting top high school players and spend countless hours practicing throughout the school year. For their first fun day of tennis, Wilkes took the road against Scranton University. The Royals showed no sympathy in handing the Colonelettes their first 9-0 loss. There was one bright spot in the match. Number one seed Cathy Price stunned the Scranton team by taking a set off their best player 2-6, 6-4, 4-6.

The blue and gold then hosted another excellent team in Lock Haven State. Lock Haven was an all-freshman team that trounced Wilkes 9-0. Another sparkling performance by Cathy Price made the loss somewhat respectable. Price fought hard in losing a marathon 5-7, 7-5, 2-6 battle. East Stroudsburg invaded Wilkes-Barre on Monday led by former Wilkes standout Laura Canfield. The Colonelettes won a grand total of four games in singles and doubles compared to 108 for Stroudsburg.

The fun is not yet over for the Wilkes "netters." This week they will travel to Bloomsburg State and today will host Scranton University. Bloomsburg is one of the toughest Division II schools in the country and Wilkes will need a miracle to beat them. It's tough to say how the team will do the remainder of the season. Their schedule is much easier after the Scranton match. Coach Snee has held extra practice sessions most of the year and her players are looking forward to playing teams that they can compete with.

Cross Country Gains Victory

After losing two straight, the Wilkes College Colonels cross-country team got back on the winning track with a big victory as they edged Philadelphia Pharmacy, 27-29, in the 1980 home opener.

Ken Pascoe, last year's team MVP, looks again to be this year's MVP. Ken took first with a winning time of 34:00 over the 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) course at Kirby Park. Dan Thomas followed in the runner-up slot at 34:39. Philadelphia Pharmacy took the next three spots with Ken Kondracki, formerly of Nanticoke High School, taking third with 34:58; Mark Scholl, fourth at 35:28; and Jim Rodgers, fifth at 35:37. Ed Eppler (35:46) and Neil Pascoe (35:54) followed with sixth and seventh, respectively.

Jim Bell finished 11th at 36:46, but it was a key 11th as he outkicked Philadelphia Pharmacy's Mike Wolfe in the last 150 yards which enabled the Colonels to win the meet. Other Colonels runners were John Supinski, 38:40; John Dill, 38:57; and Mike Tsivina, 43:00.

Coach Righter commented after the meet, "I'm very pleased. The guys ran with all their heart. They knew how important this meet was to them. Philadelphia Pharmacy was 5-0 after defeating Division 2 power Philadelphia Textile. Dan Thomas performed admirably and Neil Pascoe is beginning to mature as a freshman."

The harriers, now 3-2, were to have hosted Muhlenberg and Scranton on Wednesday, and then play host to Baptist Bible and Philadelphia Textile Saturday.

Skeletons From The Closet

Most of us thought the career of a sports legend had come to an end on September 15 of 1978. In November of that same year the Beacon carried an article entitled, "Requiem for the Heavyweight," which I hoped would stand as a pugilistic obituary for one of the greatest boxers of all time. It is now fall of 1980 and as All Saints Day approaches, the skeletons are coming out of the closet early, very early. The skeleton I am referring to emerged early this summer covered with 252 pounds of brown flesh. Maybe it was the smell of the "long green" Bob Arum produced, the urge to hear crows diatonically chant his name, or the bogus feeling one gets from making too many cockroach killer commercials that compelled him to seek his crown again. The exact cause may never be known.

political demise of Richard M. Nixon, the boxing ends of Floyd Patterson, Jimmy Ellis, Jerrey Quarry, Joe Frazier, Ron Lyle, George Foreman, Jimmy Young, Duane Bobeck and Ken Norton, to name only a few. Stealing a line from the Grateful Dead, "What a long strange trip it's been."

In 1970, Muhammed Ali said, "When you can whip every man in the world you just never know peace." Considering the fact that tonight Ali will step into the ring, to face his ex-sparring partner, Larry Holmes, the quote becomes a textbook example of irony. Could it be that Ali has neverknown peace and never will. When the Brown Bomber Joe Louis was asked how good he thought Ali was, Louis replied, "I don't think anybody will ever know how good he is. There's nobody around to test him." To find peace, all heroes test themselves. Ali has already tested Christianity with his conversion from its Cross to Islam's Crescent. He has tested the establishment. When it asked him to go to Viet Nam, he replied, "They can get themselves another nigger. 'Cause every day they die in Viet Nam for nothing. I might as well stay here and live and die for something." Tonight Ali will test things he may not be able to overcome — time and himself. Just as the sport of boxing exists as a limit of the authorized savagery a society will permit, so will Ali stand as a

What is known is this: Cassius Clay, Cassius X, Muhammed Ali, the Black Superman, is back.

It has been 20 years since the Rome Olympics in 1960, 16 years since the Sonny Liston fight in Lewistown, Maine in 1964, 13 years since his suspension from boxing and subsequent imprisonment in 1967, five years since the third and final Frazier fight in 1975, and two years since Ali-Spinks II, in all, Muhammed Ali's boxing career has been longer than this writer's life. Ali's career has spanned the civil rights movement, the Vietnam War, the peace-love Woodstock generation, the deaths of Malcolm X and Martin Luther King, the

Record Now At 1-2..... Lopez Smiling After Booters Defeat Rival King's 4-2

Coach Ernesto Lopez had much to smile about this weekend. In a dazzling display of teamwork and talent, the Wilkes soccer team trounced arch rivals King's College by the score of 4-2. The game was not only action-packed but was also filled with emotion. Both Wilkes and King's had a sizeable number of fans, and each team was obviously out to win at all costs. Wilkes proved to be the better team.

Twenty minutes into the first half, Zumi collected a pass from the left and sent a sizzler past the King's goalkeeper. That goal did the trick. Before the goal, it had seemed that the two teams were evenly balanced and whichever emerged as the victor would just be the lucky one. But hardly fifteen minutes after that goal, Zumi sent in the second one and from then on, it was obvious who the victor would be.

The second half was even more action-packed than the first. The King's team was out to upset Wilkes, and the Colonels were out to hold the lead. For a while it seemed as if the former would achieve their aims. Early in the second half, they scored their first goal. But even before their fans had stopped cheering, Carlos at right wing collected a pass and sent the ball screaming into the goal mouth. With the score at 3-1, King's began to use rough tactics, knocking a few Wilkes players down with alarming frequency.

This almost started a fight and only the coaches' intervention avoided

it. With tempers still charged, King's scored their second goal, bringing the score to 3-2, but again it was as if Wilkes had deliberately planned to give them a whiff of the sweet scent of victory and then suddenly take it away. Tony at the left wing beat a King's defender and shot the fourth goal in. Nothing could have saved King's after that. Wilkes kept up a constant series of attacks which had the spectators wild. When the final whistle blew it was happy pandemonium amongst the Wilkes players. The record now stands at 1-2, and with the same quality of play seen on Saturday, many other opponents might find themselves in a tight corner.

Bowling Results

Last Friday night, Poky's bowled in their usually graceful style with Kathy Kulp stroking a 169 and Jon Pliskin rolling a 193. Stan Ray, of Decaying Human Flesh, rolled a 200 and 203 in vain. His team lost those two games. On the brighter side, the 752 Crew breezed by, winning all three. Jack Kijek, the team captain bowled a 202. No Names have run into a bit of hard luck.

They lost two, while Gary Mitchal rolled a 190 and Greg Price stroked a 200. Other high scores are: Steve Levitski, 209; Sandy Coleman, 167; and Bill Petrick, 205.

We are still looking for new members. Bowling is a lot of fun. Why not go to the alleys every Friday at 4:00? We are not looking for people who are super fantastic bowlers, just people who are willing and able to have a good time. For info or to be placed on a team, contact Robbie Bale on Ext. 112.

SUMTHIN' EXTRA

BY PETE STEVE

I never thought I would see the day that a professional athlete would be placed in the same category as a common criminal because of his aggressiveness in a sport, but that day has apparently arrived.

In the September 25th issue of the Wilkes-Barre "Times Leader," an article by Associated Press Sports writer Tom Seppy was published dealing with the House Judiciary Committee's crime subcommittee's hearing on violence in professional sports.

The subcommittee was scheduled to discuss a bill proposed by Rep. Ronald Mottl (D-Ohio), which would declare it a federal crime for professional athletes to participate in extra-ordinary forms of violence during a sporting event.

Listed to appear before the subcommittee were the commissioners of all major professional sports, former hockey player Henry Boucha, and two academicians. Apparently, the commissioners were supposed to represent the sentiments of their respective leagues, Boucha was there to render an actual account of violence in sports, and the academicians would report the scientific facts behind "man's drive toward violence."

The irony behind this whole situation is the so-called authorities the subcommittee has scheduled to appear before them. Granted, Boucha has experienced a vicious attack in sports and could deliver an accurate account of the consequences of such an attack. But this is all he can deliver. It would be one specific player's opinion on one specific incident.

The academicians, the subcommittee has requested to appear, can without a doubt provide valuable scientific information on human behavior, but will this information cover the behavior of every player, the violence intensity of every sport, and the specific characteristics of each situation which may arise concerning violent attacks?

The final group of "authorities" the subcommittee will listen to is the group of commissioners from every major professional sport. To me, this is the most ironic "authority" the subcommittee can ask to appear.

These men are the very ones who allowed violence to "get out of hand" in professional sports in the first place. These men who will undoubtedly say that they are in favor of eliminating violence from their supposedly well-organized sports, are the same men who were blind to the increase in violence in their sports over the past ten years.

It is the commissioners who had the opportunities to curb the amount of violence in sports early in its "snow-balling" history, and elected to be ignorant of the severity of violent attacks. They permitted the "physical players" to continue their overly aggressive ways of playing reportedly for the growth and betterment of the sport. But no matter what these gentlemen fed to the general public, it was not long after that everyone knew the real reason violence was allowed to continue was because of that always influential element, money!

It is an unwritten law that man enjoys to see physical and material violence take place. Like one of his basic drives, violence is bred in the mind of every man, woman, and child. Playing upon this element, the commissioners allowed incidents of violence to occur in exchange for higher gate returns.

Although it is the players who perform the violent attacks, why should they suffer the penalties of legal prosecution because of something the governing bodies of the sports fail to prohibit, and in many instances encourage. Many of the "physical players" are not as talented as their teammates and are only on the team because of their aggression. It is wrong for a person to try to earn a living at the only thing he knows how to do best, especially when it is encouraged by those who are supposed to "know better?"

My answer to this question has to be no! I agree that violence should be eliminated from sports as soon as possible. We have no need for elbows in the face, sticks over the head, baseballs speeding at the back, or tackles which end an opponents career. But the solution to the problem is not to throw every athlete who loses his temper in the heat of competition into jail. The solution lies in the "educating" of the commissioners of each sport, who ironically will be passing judgement on the future of "physical" athletes. This situation is so vicious and yet so ironic, it makes one want to laugh into tears!
