Marjorie Czulewicz New Queen

Queen And Her Court To Be Crowned At Homecoming Game On Saturday

The selection of Miss Marjorie Eve Czulewicz, a senior biology major from Wilton, Conn., as the 1973 Wilkes College Homecoming Queen was made known by Peter Jadelis, president of Student Government, the governing body of the 2,300 Wilkes College fulltime students.

Miss Czulewicz was joined in the tribute paid to her by the students by three princesses — Monica DeLucca, nursing major and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. DeLucca, Hazleton; Joanne Bartle, art major and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis G. Bartle, Montgomery, N.Y.; and Kathleen Mansbery, English major and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mansbery, Warren Township, N.J.

The Homecoming queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Czulewicz. She will be officially crowned as queen at the halftime ceremony of the Wilkes-Upsala football game on Saturday afternoon at Ralston Field. National Alumni President Reese Jones '59 and Rick Simonson '69, general chairman of Homecoming Weekend, will officiate the ceremony.

The selection of the Homecoming Queen is the high point in the student body's participation of the annual event, which this year is aimed at approximately 8,500 alumni — 3,000 of whom reside in Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties.

This year's selection of Miss Czulewicz marks the 25th time that a queen has been chosen and the event insofar as campus importance is matched only by the effort that is put forth by the approximately 800 dormitory students and members of campus organizations to decorate their buildings and set up outside exhibits.

Other student activities for the weekend include a bonfire on Thursday and a dinner dance to be held at the Treadway on Friday, October 12. Individual dorm parties are scheduled for Saturday in the surrounding area restaurants.

To launch the annual homecoming will be the judging of campus displays on Friday, by an alumni committee comprised of Sandra Bloomberg '71 and Matt Kopetchny '69.

The Wilkes grads will meet on Friday at 9 p.m. in the Hotel Sterling for the "Homecoming Huddle," which will include a pep rally, refreshments and a film of the Wilkes-Upsala grid encounter last year. Coordinating the festivities are J.J. Jarzenbowicz '59, Joe McGraw '69, Marcella Vinovski '70, and Joann Wargo '72.

The first festivity on Saturday's agenda will be the "Major's Meeting," where the alumni will have the opportunity to meet with the faculty members who were related to their former fields of concentration.

Rounding up the morning's schedule will be a soccer match, pairing the Colonel booters of Thomas Rokita verses Stevens Tech. Starting time is 11 a.m.

The annual pigskin battle between the Colonels and the Vikings of Upsala is slated for 1:30 p.m. at Ralston Field. The game is crucial in the Middle Atlantic Conference champion race.

Running in conjunction with the football tilt will be the Wilkes College cross-country team in action against Rider. The 4.7-mile race will start and end at Ralston Field.

Following the game, the schedule turns to the Artillery Park practice field, where alumni can recall the day's events at a "Fifth Quarter" gathering. Refreshments will be available. Garf Jones '72, Bill Dongas '69 and Pat Ratchford '73 are the directors of this event.

The alumni are invited to attend an optional smorgasbord beginning at 6:30 p.m. followed by a dance at 9. The graduating classes of 1938, 1943, 1948, 1953, 1958, 1963, and 1968 will celebrate their respective reunions.

Taking care of the details are John Kennedy '68, Virginia Thomas '69, Kathy Skvarla '71, Carl Urbanski '57 and Judy Weltman '61.

An Ecumenical Service will be held on Sunday at 11 a.m., in the Center for the Performing Arts. The

Alumni Given Homecoming Preview

Wilkes College alumni residing in the Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton areas were given an up-to-date report on campus activities plus a Homecoming preview at the home chapter's quarterly meeting held recently at the Hotel Sterling.

Meeting informally prior to the start of the program were, left to right: Carl Zoolkoski '59, president of the local chapter; Art Hoover '55, director of alumni relations; Judge Arthur Dalessandro '49; and Rick Simonson '69, Homecoming chairman.

Dr. Donald W. Tappa, dean of Academic Affairs at Wilkes, kicked off the meeting by outlining the new programs which have been instituted at the college in the last year.

Simonson reviewed the plans of his committee for the 26th Annual Homecoming Weekend, which starts Friday. Joe Skvarla, Colonel football assistant, rounded out the agenda with a football forecast of this year's squad and showed films of last year's Wilkes - Lycoming game.

Editorially Speaking

Tuition Increase For '74-'75

We learned this week that a tuition increase is imminent for the 1974-75 school year. Before everyone starts squawking, it would pay to look around and see what everyone else is paying to get an education.

Although the final figures have not yet been released, it appears an increase of $150 - $200 is coming. This would put the tuition at about $2,000 per year.

Looking at some of the other tuitions of schools of Wilkes' caliber, we see King's College at $1,950, Lebanon Valley at $2,050, Moravian College at $2,350, Ursinus at $2,070, Gettysburg at $2,550, Franklin and Marshall at $2,550. These figures are for the school year of 1972-73, when Wilkes College's tuition was $1,900.

This editorial is just to point out that even though perhaps the figure of $2,000 for a year's education seems high to some, compared to our peer schools we are either equal or below their tuition level. This is a credit to the administration and board of trustees.

Don't Blame The Innocent

It seems to us that in the September 27 issue of the Beacon, the word "stable" caused plenty of problems in the lead story. It seems that everyone had figures on admission levels, with the exception of the Beacon reporter who filed the story.

When this reporter attempted to receive figures on admissions so that she could decide for herself whether admissions were up or down, she was not given these figures. Yet if one looks at the Letter to the Editor column in today's Beacon, plenty of statistics are evident.

Our reporter's use of the word "stable" was meant to say that in comparison with other institutions across the country, Wilkes is stable on the enrollment issue. It didn't say enrollment "increased."

This editorial is not meant to soothe those who read the article the way they wanted to, but rather to protect the innocent who tried their best to do a good job, yet received harassment as a payment. This is what the Beacon reporter received in payment for her job.

We hope that this unfortunate misunderstanding does not happen again, but if it should, let's not take it out on the innocent who are merely trying to do a job.

Student Questions Beacon Relevance

To the Editor:

I was always under the impression that a campus newspaper covered events pertaining to the school. Apparently the Beacon doesn't seem to think so.

In last week's edition, an article about U.S.C. still retaining its hold on first place appeared as did Paul Domowitch's Pro Picks. Space was also provided for a Sports Quiz column. The one item which took up a great amount of space on Page 7 was a column with the Beacon forecasters. It took up approximately one third of the page.

As these articles went to the press, other, more important events failed to make the Beacon.

1. Wilkes soccer team won its opening game of the season against Upsala.

2. Fred Murty of the Wilkes Judo Club, finished first in competition at Clarion State last Saturday and was named Grand Champion of the tournament.

3. Intramural football began.

4. Our cross country team played Scranton the Friday before publication. Who won?

These four items are of much greater concern to our campus than "who scored Washington's only touchdown in the 1973 Super Bowl?" Surely a Wilkes soccer victory merits more space than Paul Domowitch's Pro Picks. Fred Murty's victory is more important to us than the leading Beacon forecaster. Intramurals should be recognized above the top college football team.

There are things which the students want to read about. Don't deny us Freedom of the Press, Beacon.

Sincerely yours,
Bernie Fagnani

Statistics Given On New Students

To the Editor:

This letter is written in response to Bernard Vinovski's report on Wilkes College enrollment for 1973. It is heartening to know that Wilkes College is going "contrary to trend" with regard to college enrollment at the national level. However, lest we be lulled by this confident (Beacon, Sept. 27) report, let us examine several salient points.

The total number of new incoming students (freshmen and transfer), according to the Dean of Admissions, is down a total of 58 from last year. Fifty-eight full time students x $925.00-semester equals $107,300.00. This year the total number of incoming freshmen is down 85 from a college high of 656 in 1970. These totals represent "incoming" students. Did all of last year's upperclassmen return this year?

In 1970 the number of incoming students (743) included 49 biology majors (6.6 per cent of the total). Of the total incoming students for 1973 (683) 151 are currently biology majors (22 per cent). Much of this increase is due to the Wilkes-Hahne-mann cooperative medical program, and the trend toward pre-medical education nationally. I personally feel uneasy; however, when one-quarter of the entering students profess only one of the "variety of accredited academic programs offered".

This article cannot be judged valid and important unless accompanied by statistics to support these claims of "stability". In addition, I question why it has to be that statistics of such importance should be so hard to determine and obtain, and their validity so widely suspect. Only with full realization of the unique problems facing us, which I feel the article did not reveal, can we all be effective "sellers" of our "product".

Reed D. Acheson
Dept. of Biology

Member, Admissions Committee P.S. In the time period cited, the faculty of the department of biology has increased by one full-time teaching member (11 per cent increase). The faculty of the biology department represents 4 per cent of the total teaching faculty at Wilkes College.

Wilkes Ex-Queen Is Lionel Green

To the Editor:

If possible, we would like to have this open letter to the student body printed in the next Beacon, as we feel it will clear up a few points.

To the student body,

If we were to ask someone what the origin of Homecoming Queen is, what the significance is, or who the candidates were, I would nine times out of ten get no answer. The entire farce of a campuswide Homecoming Queen election was the target of a "satirical" campaign to have Lionel Green elected as Homecoming Queen. We felt that to have Lionel Green run as a write in ballot, was to draw attention to the taken for granted Queen election. It worked.

Lionel received the most votes but was disqualified as he failed to meet the requirements that the SG presented at its October fourth meeting. Lionel was quoted by one of us at the SG meeting as saying, "I do not wish to be Homecoming Queen," yet Lionel Green was faced with the harassment of a student government representative who approached him Thursday night with an insulting attitude and asked, "Lionel, do you or do you not want to be Homecoming Queen for a day?" Lionel answered no, and with that reply the representative said "Good, that's all I wanted to hear..." and took off. Now I have a question. Why was Lionel harassed after it was made clear that he could not win, even when the ballot results read that he was disqualified?

The group of us who organized Lionel's campaign had a point prove; Lionel thought of it humorous affair that would give those who deserved it — a good shot in the arm. We organized a campaign for several reasons.

1. The entire election was being taken for granted as could be verified by election results of last year. Not enough people cared.

2. The preparation for the election was poor.

3. People were ready to disqualify Lionel before there were actual written requirements.

Now I further ask, what kind of election is that? The election may be just for Homecoming Queen as so many student government reps spoke of "with more important things to worry about" but to us, as campaign organizers) the person selected to represent Wilkes College must be a sincere representative, therefore, making the election more than just an election. To us, election deserved primary consideration as it was just one of the unrepresentative elections that run on this campus. The blame not solely on those who run elections poorly, but on all of us, student government that take many things for granted.

I spoke with Lionel and he asked me to quote him on this: "My sincere congratulations to Margie and princesses as I know they represent Wilkes with the respect that such positions deserve. Also, sincere thanks to those who supported the event, as they showed a true sense of concern marked by a needed humor, especially the members of Dirksen House, the Men's Webster and Women of Hollenback." We doubt that many will take an election for granted in the future, we may even speculate that many people voted in this election that any of the other recent elections. We feel that we have accomplished something to the benefit of all Wilkes College.

In conclusion, we can apologize to Lionel for all harassment he had to put up with to accomplish a goal with no immediate benefit to him. Lionel is a man who cares enough to put his neck on the line. We should have more of Lionel type on this campus. So to Lionel say "Thanks Lionel!"

In One Man's Opinion

by Rich Colandrea

FOOD REPLY

Dear Rich,

Inspired by your article, "Very Tasty," I can now look back on three years of eating in the Wilkes cafe with mixed emotions — thoughts of whether or not I could make it upstairs to the bathroom. Certainly the food sticks to the walls better than it sticks to your ribs.

I must admit, however, that there was one bright spot in this otherwise dark area of my college career. Webster and the Colonels finally found something good about the food — you are able to throw it (if the grease doesn't make holding it impossible). We paid the price, but throwing it seemed far better than eating it.

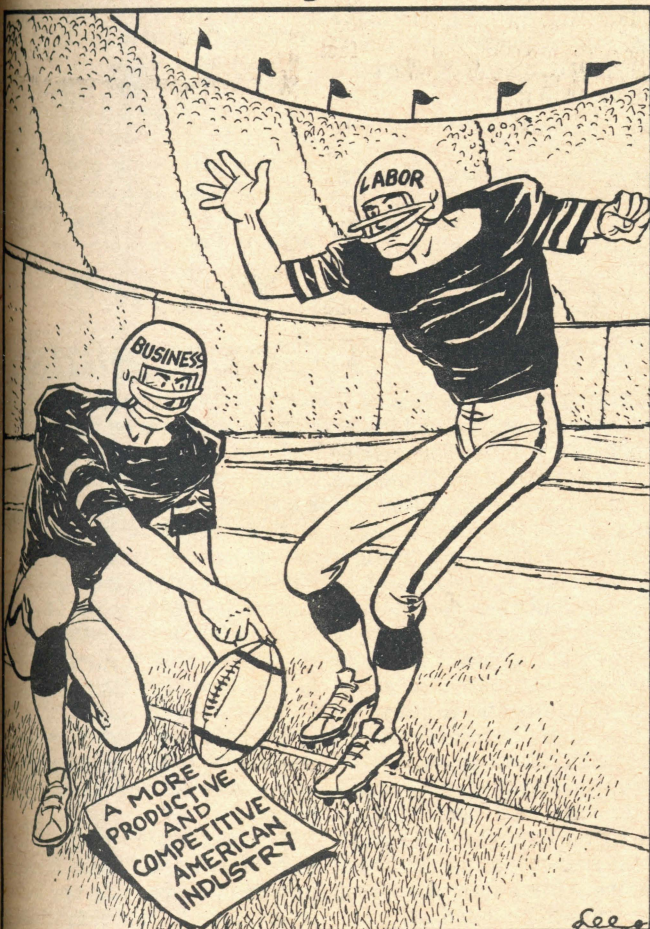

So much for student innovation, for the cafe has come up with some ideas not to be outdone or, unfortunately, forgotten. Only they could come up with an Italian week, teaching students never to trust anything covered with tomato sauce. Only they could teach students 101 uses of hamburger, all of them equally poor, and all on consecutive days. Need I mention the watermelon or peanut butter soups?

I thought that by this year they would have figured out how to hold meatballs together without adding a piece of bread to each, but then again, I never could predict the cafe's next move. What an outrage it is to have to pay extra for another piece of pizza, or pay for seconds of anything (not that most rational people would want seconds)!

Fear not, however, eat your jello, if you can chew it (don't wait for it to melt, because it won't), with a smile; thank the nice people for the hair you're given with your meal to supplement your poor diet; smile as you think about how true the saying, "Eat it today — wear it tomorrow" really is. Maybe someday they will come to the realization that even Alka-Seltzer and Clearasil with the meals isn't going to help.

Sincerely yours,
Puerto

LABOR-MANAGEMENT PEACE PROPOSED

Labor leaders are being urged by a top management spokesman to support specific issues on which business and labor have a common interest.

E. D. Kenna, president of the National Association of Manufacturers says, that business and labor have a mutual interest "in our government's urging the tearing down of tariffs, quotas, rigged specifications and all other hindrances to American businesses in foreign markets." Mr. Kenna also pointed out to labor that:

"We should share an interest in government economic policies that permit the earning of the necessary profits to make possible plant expansion and modernization and provide the additional jobs necessary to produce these goods and services that are the keys to prosperity."

Labor and management should cooperate for the good of the entire nation and join in a united front to make American industry more productive and competitive.

End To Wage-Price Control Urged To Help Consumer

"Wage and price controls have failed to check inflation, have caused shortages of consumer goods and services, and should be completely terminated," according to Burt F. Raynes, chairman of the board of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"The manufacturers of this country are eager to get on with their job of providing the public with needed products and services in order to help our nation meet its economic and social goals. Controls are not only a distraction from that essential task, they have become a serious obstacle to its achievement," Mr. Raynes added. He pointed out that shortages of essential materials have already become evident, and will become more so if controls are continued.

Mr. Raynes' statement was made in announcing a NAM policy position adopted unanimously by its board of directors, declaring the manufacturers' conviction that an end to wage and price controls will be in the best interest of consumers.

The NAM chairman explained that in taking this position, the Association recognized that a process of economic education was necessary in ending controls. "We believe that consumers are beginning to learn that controls create shortages of essential products and do not serve their true interests. The NAM will devote its efforts to rallying public support for administration action to terminate the originating abroad, or of U.S. goods sold in foreign markets. If we keep controls give a false sense of domestic prices of exportable goods security against inflation," Mr. Raynes pointed out. "The most important thing to be done in curbing inflation is to control the growth in federal spending — which from any delay in removing has increased over the last 25 years controls. Course On Death Being Offered

A special course at Johns Hopkins University here includes filling out your death certificate, planning your funeral, visiting a mortuary and touring the state morgue.

Texts include "Death and the Modern Man" and "The Meaning of Death."

The 24-year-old instructor for the graduate-level course on death is the head of the Religion and Philosophy Department of Baltimore's Cardinal Gibbons High School.

Stephen J. Vicchio, who taught a similar course last year at the Baltimore County campus of the University of Maryland, said when he was five years old all the power went off in his home and then news of his grandfather's death came.

"Thereafter, I associated darkness and mystery with death," he said, adding that he continued to have unhealthy thoughts about death until he picked up Dr. Elizabeth Subler-Ross' book "On Death and Dying" in 1970.

"It started building until now I am really involved," he said.

Vicchio said very few persons come to the class out of morbid curiosity. Most attend "because they really have fears, misgivings and apprehensions about death," he said.

"Certainly there are a lot of people like that. I still have a lot of fears. It helps me to help them," Vicchio said. "There are some that have come to accept death and come here to share that."

About 20 students meet each Tuesday evening in a basement classroom in Gilman Hall to discuss such practices as cannibalism and the modern American funeral and such philosophical questions as afterlife.

The Wilkes-Barre Blues

Dorming is a unique situation for many Wilkes College students. There are many situations to adapt to. There's the Valley, there are classes, then there's the Valley, there's homesickness, then there's the Valley — you get the idea.

Many times it's very difficult to put into words just exactly how such situations affect you personally. Three very enterprising and imaginative Wilkes men have gotten together, however, and summed up their feelings for their "home away from home," Wilkes-Barre, Pa. They've entitled their effort "The Wilkes-Barre Blues." We now present it to you.

Lyrics by Bob Gojanovich, Don Stiliano and Bob Hensey

I got them Wilkes-Barre Blues,
And I don't know what to do.
We fear a raid by the man,
And I flunked my health exam.
But I don't get down on livin',
Cuz I'm goin' home
Thanksgivin',
And I know I'll get the --- out of here.

I got them Wilkes-Barre Blues,
And I've been payin' my dues.
Studied all night for a test,
But I got a "D" at best.
And I know our women miss us, here.
But they say we'll be home for Christmas,
And I know I'll get the --- out of here.

CHORUS
Haina, haina, haina, haina,
We're from Wilkes-Barre,
Pennsylvania
Haina, haina, haina, haina,
We're from Wilkes-Barre
Pennsylvania.

I got a Wilkes-Barre pain,
Deep inside my achin' brain.
Freddie's food will make you burst,
If it doesn't kill you first.
I got a splittin' headache,
But pretty soon's semesterbreak,
And I know I'll get the --- out of here.

I got the Wilkes-Barre hate,
Cuz semesterbreak was great.
Registration is a drag,
My new roommate is a fag.

I got a bad math teacher,
But we'll be home for Easter,
And I know I'll get the --- out of here.

REPEAT CHORUS

I got them Wilkes-Barre Blues,
And love is what I seek.
Dean Ralston said no waltzin',
No open house this week.
Placko is a bummer,
But we'll get home this summer,
And I know I'll get the --- out of here.

REPEAT CHORUS

I'm a Haina,
And I live in Wilkes-Barre
Gibbons and Steigmaier
Are my only beers.

Jersey greasers, they surround me,

But I don't want no sympathy.
Oh, Babe it's a nice day, haina?
Would you like to come and be my baby?

And we'll go bowling at Jimmie's allys.

Gotta get back to Martz Trailways,

Leave this valley,
Gotta get back to Jersey.
No, no, no, no, no, no, no, no,
no, no, no, no, no.

REPEAT CHORUS.

Barbara Yanchuk — Girl Friday

Wilkes Student Finds Police Work Unusual

by Sandy Akromas

Finding a job for summer vacation is nothing new to most college students, but at least one Wilkes College senior is still finding it difficult to believe her summer employment turned out the way it did.

When Barbara Yanchuk applied last April for a simple, ordinary secretary-clerk, office-type job, she had no idea what she was getting herself into.

A senior at Wilkes College, Barbara submitted an application to her hometown's police department, located in South River, N.J.

A friend of the Yanchuk family, Police Commissioner Joseph Bodnar, recommended Barb for the job. So, with the conclusion of the 1973 Spring Semester, Barb returned home and began one of the most unusual office jobs she had ever endeavored.

All prepared to type letters and take shorthand, Barb was in for a big surprise. One of her many duties consisted of recording tickets, such as: drunk driving, over-time parking and speeding tickets. She had to file the tickets and send copies to the capital at Trenton.

Typing the who, what, where, why and how of periodic accident reports was also a part of her 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily routine. Details were extremely important, so that Barb had to record the precise information due to the fact that insurance companies involved to receive copies of the mishap.

Since she reviewed and various kinds of day-to-day investigations — assault and battery, arson, breaking and entry, possession, and even two murder cases — Barb was sworn to secrecy not to divulge any information concerning the crimes.

For the first time in her life, Barb viewed autopsies from the murders committed in South River. "Looking at a guy's split skull is really sickening," she commented. The Wilkes' cheerleading captain never expected to see pictures of dead men!

In connection with the severe crimes, Barb had to type criminal's confessions, and relevant facts on fingerprint cards.

Barbara also lent a hand to Reverend George Conway '70, captain of the 1969 football team and current chaplain and teacher of religion at the Hotchkiss School in Connecticut, will officiate.

A coffee hour will follow at the Commons. Serving on the committee are Barbara Barski '72 and Rick Simonson '69.

The 1973 Homecoming will come to a close with a concert by the Earl Scruggs Revue and John Hartford on Sunday, at 8 p.m. in the Wilkes College Gymnasium on South Franklin Street.

Tickets will be available Monday, Oct. 8, through Friday, Oct. 12, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Center for the Performing Arts.

Commuter Council Listens To Complaints

At last Thursday's meeting of Commuter Council, several intercommuting students attended the sounding board session of the meeting to voice their complaints. Suggestions included obtaining a press grill for making sandwiches in the Commons. Several comments were given on the parking situation, along with some suggestions on how to ease it. Also, it was asked whether commuting students to attend the ecumenical service which is a part of the Homecoming Weekend activities.

The service will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday, October 14, in the Commons. A motion was made to have the future Commuter Council meet in the upstairs in the Commons to a slight response in attendance at the meetings. Motion was voted on and passed unanimously.

The October 14 meeting of the Council will be held at 5 p.m. in the Commons instead of 6 p.m. This was done in order not to conflict with the Homecoming bonfire and pep assembly scheduled for that night. Requests that commuters attend the activity and display their school spirit.

An invitation was extended to all students to be accepted or not," stated the placement director. The interview is the student's tool in the acquisition of employment. Their foremost objective during an interview is to convince the man that they want to work. Promptness, courtesy, directness of response, and proper dress are also determinants in being hired for a job.

For seniors to secure interviews, they are required to register with the placement office by completing a qualification record form for appointment with Chwalek. It is advisable to discuss any plans or problems. The form will be returned by November 15. It would be to a great advantage if he registers with the placement office even if he has already obtained a position for graduation; the person may be placed in the placement bureau in future years, credentials or references.

Wilkes Planning Event For Elderly

The Wilkes Community Effort is sponsoring an evening out for approximately 100 residents of Luzerne County, 60 years of age or older, on Wednesday, October 17, on the Wilkes College campus.

The guests will be greeted by the young women from Sturdevant Hall, who will act as hostesses for the evening. Among the WCE hostesses are, left to right, bottom row: Nancy Mathers, Trucksville; Diane Cook, Rahway, N.J.; Laureen Carney, Sag Harbor, N.Y.; Charmaine Broad, Hammondsport, N.Y.; Betty Anne Wood, Fairlawn, N.J.; Giacomina Buzzelli, Old Forge.

Second row: Amy Albanese, Danville; Mary Ann Grimes, Hawley; Nancy Schultz, Salem, N.J.; Joan Chemnitz, Glen Ridge, N.J.; Marcy Stern, Kingston.

Third row: Ava Fenko, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Dawn Zercoe, Parsippany, N.J.; Karen Capwell, Littleton, Col.; Sharon Clune, Port Jervis, N.Y.; Christine Hudak, Roselle Park, N.J.; Dianne LaCava, Danbury, Conn.

Laureen Carney, a program assistant in the WCE office, is in charge of the program.

The program will begin with the hostesses greeting the guests in the lobby of Pickering Hall (the main men's dormitory). They will then proceed to the dining hall for a 5:45 p.m. dinner, and then the 8 p.m. performance of "The Crucible" at the Center for the Performing Arts.

A special section of the theater will be set aside for those attending under the WCD, an organization that formed more than a year ago to aid victims of the flood. It is supported financially through a grant provided by the Haas Community Fund.

Eligible residents wishing to obtain tickets for the program are invited to register at the office of the Wilkes Community Effort, Franklin Hall, 165 South Franklin Street, Wilkes-Barre, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. by Thursday, October 11. A charge of $1 will be supplemented by an allocation from WCE to offset the overall expenses.

Wilkes Community Effort Plans Several Volunteer Programs

Since the flood of '72, Wilkes Community Effort has organized activities to involve people in helping others in the community.

Now WCE is trying to set up a program whereby volunteers would work with United Rehabilitation Services, a service that aids handicapped persons to the fullest extent with their physical, mental, social, vocational and economic problems.

The need for student volunteers is great. Various programs have been set up for the clients of URS Programs, such as escorting 10 clients to a show that is presented at the Little Theater in Wilkes-Barre.

If you enjoy bowling, here is an opportunity to bowl with 15 clients on the second and fourth Saturdays each month for 25 cents a game. Male students only are asked to spare some of their time and become a friend to some of the clients and to accompany them downtown.

Perhaps some of you are interested in social work. Here is your chance to interview some flood victims and get their responses to needs that still need to be fulfilled. Volunteers to give one or two hours, between the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., to aid in the day care facility lectures, perhaps demonstrations of needlepoint and various other talents of the sort.

The need is great. Groups are welcome to go over to the URS for tours and to talk to the professionals to see just what has to be done. Anyone interested may call Christine Federovich at URS headquarters located at 35 E. Union St., Wilkes-Barre, 824-9907, or contact Mrs. Jost at the WCE office located at 65 South Franklin Street.

Now the Luzerne and Wyoming County Bureaus of the Aging have requested Wilkes students and faculty to help them in organizing a chorus for the senior citizens. Their ultimate goal would be to present a concert here on campus.

They would also like the students and faculty to present shows or to work with professionals at Retreat State Hospital. Tasks would include such things as putting on shows or giving a party.

The movement is growing and a continuing emphasis is being placed in your direction. Please help by contacting Mrs. Jost, who is located in the basement of Franklin Hall.

Chwalek Advises Upcoming Graduates On Employment

College seniors were strongly advised to start now if they want to have a job by the time they graduate in May.

The advice was given to a large segment of the more than 500 students in the upcoming graduating class at Wilkes College during the annual employment briefing program held at the Center for the Performing Arts.

Handing out the words of employment wisdom to the seniors was veteran college placement director, John Chwalek, who has been telling Wilkes seniors how and where to get jobs for the past quarter century.

"Students have to meet the never ending competition...they should seek employment where the jobs are offered, and not rely on a position in their hometown," Chwalek announced.

The placement office secures contacts with business firms and school districts, arranges interviews with the prospective company, and for the graduates, offers vocational counseling.

Though the placement office tries to assist the seniors with proper qualifications and recommendations for a company, it is primarily up to the student whether he or she is hired.

"Our office is only the 'go-between' in relation to the student and industry. It is the student's responsibility to be accepted or not," stated the placement director. The interview is the student's tool in the acquisition of employment. Their foremost objective during an interview is to convince the man that they want to work. Promptness, courtesy, directness of response, and proper dress are also determinants in being hired for a job.

For seniors to secure interviews, they are required to register with the placement office by completing a qualification record form for appointment with Chwalek. It is advisable to discuss any plans or problems. The form will be returned by November 15. It would be to a great advantage if he registers with the placement office even if he has already obtained a position for graduation; the person may be placed in the placement bureau in future years, credentials or references.

Blood Drive Sets Goal; Strives For 300 Pints

by Chuck Riechers

"Blood Donor Day," the biannual blood drive sponsored jointly by the Red Cross and Human Services Committee, will be held Tuesday, October 16, 1973, from 9:45 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. at the gym. The drive, handled by the Human Services Committee at Wilkes, assists the Red Cross in meeting blood quota needs. The Human Services Committee has been established to sponsor projects that benefit the campus and the surrounding community. This semester, the committee is planning for a 300-pint collection. Allowing for a 10 per cent deferral rate, 330 donors are needed to achieve 300 pints. This figure represents one eighth of the students and faculty. Wilkes College blood needs are covered if a 240-pint quota is met. However, due to a blood shortage, the Red Cross is requesting that the Human Services Committee aim for a collection of at least 300 pints. Traditionally, Wilkes has always given more pints than King's College. However, competition will be stiff this year, according to a Red Cross report. The Human Services Committee requests that posters remain posted until after Blood Donor Day. Last year, 60 per cent of the posters were ripped down prior to the event. Due to the life and death nature of the drive, this matter shouldn't be treated so lightly. This year, the committee will resident assistants and dorm presidents, to improve participation. Canvassing will be done among the faculty since they are a part of the college and can have blood needs filled as well. Blood pledges will be issued. A pledge is not a commitment. A pledge serves only as an estimate for the Red Cross and a reminder to the donor. According to Committee Chairman John Barrett, the previous two collections have been the best ones. In the fall, 1972 collection, 208 presentees donated 170 pints of blood. The spring of 1973 collection netted 180 pints from 244 presentees. Inclement weather took its toll at the spring collection, resulting in a high deferral rate due to sickness. Plaques are awarded to the club, committee, male or female dorm giving the most percentage-wise. Sturdevant Hall leads the women's dorms. Leading the men is Dirksen House, second floor of Pickering Hall, a two-time winner that is likely to emerge as a three-time winner.

Dr. Micheline Accepts Merck Grant

A check for $10,000 for future development of Wilkes College was presented to the institution during the week by two key administrators of the Merck & Company offices in Danville. A brief ceremony was held on the steps of Weckesser Hall, administration building on the Wilkes campus. Shown, left to right: Thomas F. Kelly, director of development; R.G. Giebelhaus, personnel manager and A.G. Hoerrner, plant manager, both of Merck & Company; and Wilkes President Francis J. Micheline. The two visitors were taken on a tour of the campus and its various facilities. Afterwards, they expressed amazement at the restoration achievements which have just about removed all scars from the millions in damage caused in June, 1972, by Tropical Storm Agnes.

Tax Clinic Scheduled For Friday, November 16

Invitations have been sent to almost 1,000 tax practitioners throughout a six-county Northeastern Pennsylvania area informing them of the 20th Annual Tax Clinic to be held on Friday, November 16, in the Center for the Performing Arts at Wilkes College. Chairman of the affair is Professor Robert S. Capin, member of the Wilkes College Department of Commerce and Finance. The annual event is sponsored jointly by Wilkes College and the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The clinic is designed to provide the latest detailed developments in the tax structure of the nation. It is specifically tailored for accountants, lawyers, bankers, industrialists and those interested in obtaining up-to-date information on the subject. Participants attending the tax clinic will be provided with a booklet containing outlines of each of the topics discussed by the speakers. After registration at 8:30 a.m., the participants will be welcomed by President Robert T. Kelly, C.P.A. of the Northeastern Chapter of the Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Dr. Francis J. Micheline, president of Wilkes College and Dr. Robert Werner, chairman of the Department of Commerce and Finance at Wilkes College will also address the businessmen and women. Martin Helpert, of Laventhal, Krekstein, Horwath & Horwath, New York, will give a talk entitled: "Mini, Maxi or Average," at 9:15 a.m. to 10 a.m. Following a half-hour coffee break, the clinic will resume with "Fringe Benefits & Executive Compensation," by Francis M. Gaffney or Arthur Anderson & Company, New York. At 11:15 a.m., the agenda calls for a lecture by John M. Hofman of Price Waterhouse & Company, Philadelphia, to speak on "Sub-Chapter 'S' Revisited." Guest speaker Langhorne B. Smith of Coopers & Lybrand, Philadelphia, will precede lunch with a discussion concerning personal holding companies. The afternoon's program will be split with a second coffee break at 2:45 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. Beginning promptly at 3:15 p.m., Bruce Lane of Frish, Lane & Edson, Washington, D.C., will present "Tax Problems of Real Estate Developers."

WCLH-Wilkes Radio Plans New Fall Schedule

This past summer, WCLH worked long and hard to provide its listeners with extended hours of programming. In the early part of June, WCLH began broadcasting at 8 a.m., and continued this format until classes began in the early part of September.

On October 1 WCLH began its fourth semester of broadcasting. Station Manager James Kelley announced the following fall schedule: Monday through Thursday, noon to 1 a.m.; Friday, noon to 3 a.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 3 a.m.; Sunday, 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

The station is on hand at all times offering the best in listening to the students and general public alike. Recent evidence of this was the live coverage of Concert & Lecture guest speaker, Senator Thomas Eagleton. WCLH plans to offer live coverage of future events of this type.

The radio station also marked the death of Dr. Eugene Farley by devoting some of its regular program hours to a memorial special done by staff member, Brent Spencer. The special program consisted of the favorite music of Dr. Farley and the recitation of poems written by his wife, Eleanor Coates Farley.

Some new additions to the fall schedule are the live coverage of all

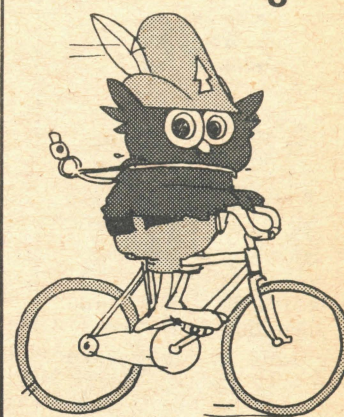

Wilkes home football games. Broadcast times for these games will be 1:30 p.m. Plans are also in progress for weekly reports from student governing organizations such as Student Government, IDC and Commuter Council. A tentative day and time of Wednesday from 5:05 to 5:15 has been set. An expanded rock schedule has also been introduced this fall. Rick Kutz, music director for the station, announced that rock is played Monday through Thursday nights from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m., Friday night from 11 p.m. to 3 a.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 3 a.m.

A fall schedule of regular programs will soon appear in the Beacon. Consult these listings for programs which will interest you. WCLH-FM can be found at 90.7 on the FM dial. Tune in.

COPIES AVAILABLE
Anyone wishing a copy of the memorial issue of the Beacon honoring the late Dr. Eugene Farley may pick them up free of charge at the Public Relations Office located on the second floor of Weckesser Hall.

WCLH TO BROADCAST GAMES
WCLH, the college radio station, will broadcast the Wilkes-Upsala football game this Saturday over 90.7 FM. The radio station will broadcast all home football games from Ralston Field.

Food Problems Discussed By Inter-Dorm Council

by Chuck Riechers

Food was a popular discussion topic at the last Inter-Dormitory Council meeting. The Food Committee met last Thursday to discuss conditions in the cafeteria. The results of that meeting prompted many to openly discuss cafeteria-related problems.

Line two in the cafeteria will close at 12:15. Those desiring Sanka coffee must request it from the checker. Irish Night is tentatively planned for the last Sunday of October.

Those who had problems with the breakable but not bendable bacon served in the cafeteria may now be heartened by knowing that the situation has recently seen improvement.

The fact that lines sometimes open a few minutes late should not be a concern. Those few minutes are being utilized to make sure the lines are well-stocked when the lines open, saving time in the long run.

Several complaints were aired. Jane Matalavage summarized by requesting that complaints should be told to Food Committee members, who could then press for solution of grievances.

If a food item is not edible, don't be intimidated and accept it. Simply step back and wait until food of acceptable quality is available before moving forward in line.

The present Intramural games are undergoing expansion. Starting in the spring or fall season bowling, tennis, track, wrestling, table tennis and handball will be added to the list of Intramural activities. In future games there may be some faculty supervision. Recently there was a sharp increase in injuries incurred while participating in Intramurals. An Intramural director, responsible for coordinating Intramural activities, has been proposed as a solution for better means of communication. An Intramural trophy case is to be installed soon.

IDC is investigating the extension of library hours to 12 midnight on weekdays and possibly extend the weekend hours. Considered is a plan whereby the library could be used for research until 12, but book checkouts would cease at 10 p.m.

The Unity Committee is planning a march of all freshmen and upperclassmen to the Homecoming game Saturday, October 13. The group will meet at the River Commons near the CPA at noon, and proceed to Ralston Field. Dorm banners will be welcomed. Anyone interested in serving on the committee or desiring further information should contact Co-Chairmen Grant Phillips or Leon Gondell at 823-9145.

Steve Placko, assistant dean for Residence Hall Life, announced that he has found a good deal on a theft insurance policy. The National Student Association is offering a $50 deductible policy at $6-$12 per year. Steve has ordered a ticket dispenser, soap dispenser and ironing board for the laundry room.

The Kosher Kitchen idea will not be pursued further, due to a lack of participants. IDC President Lee Auerbach has discussed the condition of walkways with Charles Abate.

Student Government

A Pocono Downs Party is scheduled for Saturday evening, October 20. Premium beer, pretzels, chips Halloween candy will be served. The band, "Another Pretty Face," will perform for the occasion. Costumes required. Prizes will be given for the best male and female costume. Tickets are on sale in the gym lobby and are required.

Tickets are available to Wilkes students and their dates Monday, October 15 through Wednesday, October 17. Wilkes students with an I.D. may purchase a ticket for $2.50; a ticket for a date will cost $4. On Thursday, October 18 and Friday, October 19 Wilkes students may purchase tickets for $2.50. Any tickets available Thursday and Friday will also be sold to outsiders at a cost of $4.

Tickets are available in the gym lobby Monday, October 15 from 8 to 10:30 a.m. and from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. The ticket office is open Tuesday, October 16 from 12 noon to 2:30 p.m. On Wednesday, October 17 the office is open from 8 to 10:30 a.m.; 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.; and 7:30 to 10 p.m. Thursday, October 18 tickets will be sold from 12 noon to 2:30 p.m. Tickets will be sold Friday, October 19 from 8 to 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.

Free tickets for Wilkes students for the Homecoming Concert Sunday, October 14 to be held in the gym at 8 p.m. are available until Friday, October 12. Tickets are being sold in the Commons from 10-3 and the New Men's Dorm from 5-7 Monday through Friday. After 7 p.m. tomorrow, a Wilkes student may no longer obtain a free ticket with an I.D. At that time, all tickets will cost $4. Tickets will be sold the door for $4.

The clue for the SG contest radio WCLH is, "It's traditional a discipline." One may submit many guesses as desired, provided each guess is submitted on a 3x5 card containing the contest guess as well as the name and address of the contestant. There is a $15 gift certificate redeemable at Moondance Record Shop, Park Square.

Tickets for the Homecoming Dinner Dance at the Treadway available at the Bookstore. The price of $15 a couple includes buffet and open bar.

Freshmen nominations to Student Government and Commuter Council will be held Tuesday, October 11 a.m. in Church Hall. Nominees must attend in order to be nominated.

Club To Hold Balloon Race

As Homecoming Weekend approaches, campus clubs are beginning to plan their annual display activities. The Russian Club will conduct their annual Homecoming Balloon Race.

Started during the 1971 Homecoming festivities by Past-President James Kelly, the event has become a yearly tradition. Tickets are sold prior to the Homecoming Football Game. At the game a huge net filled with helium balloons. Attached to each balloon is the name of a ticket holder. During half-time festivities, the net is opened to fill the sky with hundreds of blue balloons. The finders of these balloons are asked to mail the enclosed ticket back to the college.

The owner of the first balloon returned and the owners of balloons which traveled the first, second and longest distances awarded cash prizes. Thanksgiving Day is set as the deadline for receiving ticket returns. The price of this year's ticket is only 25¢. They are available from any Russian Club Member and at the Homecoming Football Game.

Don't be surprised at the Homecoming Game when you see balloons tied to the wrists of students and the fans wrists too is a project of the Russian Club. The blue balloons sporting "Wilkes College" will be sold at the entrance to Ralston Field.

Five Colleges Join Wilkes ROTC

Five Northeastern Pennsylvania colleges — King's, Marywood, Misericordia, Penn State (two area campuses) and Keystone Junior College — have approved a consortium agreement which will enable their students to participate in the training being offered by the Air Force ROTC Detachment at Wilkes College.

This was made known in a joint announcement by Lt. Col. Richard L. Wing, professor of aerospace science, and Wilkes President Francis J. Micheleni.

Col. Wing announced at the same time that provisional agreements to participate have been indicated in discussions with key administrators at Lackawanna Junior College and Luzerne County Community College.

The purpose of the agreement is to make the Air Force ROTC General Military Course and/or the Professional Officer Course available to qualified students of the participating institutions who desire to earn appointments as commissioned officers in the United States Air Force.

Provisions of the consortium agreement to extend AFROTC instruction to students at institutions not hosting such detachments were announced by Col. Wing.

One of the features of the agreement is to hold required classes on the respective campuses of the participating institutions when at least 20 students, in any combination or ratio, are enrolled.

The Air Force will provide tuition and fees, in accordance with existing Air Force policies, to the various colleges for all AFROTC cadets on Air Force scholarship status who are enrolled as members of the Air Force ROTC detachment at Wilkes College.

A subsistence allowance of $100 a month, in accordance with existing Air Force policy, will be provided to all cadets who are on scholarship status and/or are enrolled as members of the Professional Officer Corps of the detachment.

The governing authorities will furnish necessary uniforms and accessories to all enrolled members of the Air Force ROTC detachment which it hosts. Also provided will be adequate classroom and related administrative facilities to support the aerospace studies instruction of all enrolled members of its AFROTC detachment who receive instruction on its campus.

Financial and academic records transactions will be carried out in accordance with terms of the agreement between the Air Force, the host college and the institutions participating in the consortium.

Both Colonel Wing and President Micheleni expressed their enthusiasm over working agreements with the other institutions of higher learning. Both called it a "step forward" in providing greater opportunity for regional students and cited it as an example of progress in education through mutual cooperation by the participating institutions.

Wilkes, 'Pack' Heavy Favorites

PAUL'S PRO PICKS

Well, our upset special of the week didn't come through last week, but we still managed to have our first respectable week of forecasting since the season began a month ago. Let the records show that we polled 10-3 this time, giving us an overall record of 34-16-2.

I had a lot of comments thrown at me about our upset pick, most of them challenging my sanity. But, I thought the Chargers could pull it off, in what has to be a very unpredictable NFL season. Our only other two miscues were going with Baltimore in the New England-Colts contest, and favoring Chicago in their battle with the lowly New Orleans Saints.

And now down to some serious thinking, and our picks for this week:

DALLAS AT LOS ANGELES

This has got to be the game of the week, with both clubs sporting great records. Los Angeles is unbeaten and has played surprisingly well under Head Coach Chuck Knox. John Hadl is happier than he's been in years and has an 80 per cent completion average thus far.

The Cowboys lost a tough one to Washington Monday night but were in control of the game until the final quarter. Their ground game is better than the Rams, and their experienced secondary is confident that they can stop wide receivers Harold Jackson and Jack Snow. We like Dallas in this one.

Dallas 10, Los Angeles 7

KANSAS CITY V. GREEN BAY AT MILWAUKEE

I think this game will probably be decided in the last quarter by a field goal. Kansas City's veteran defense proved that they rank with the best, when they stopped Oakland two weeks ago.

Green Bay's offense is unsure, with the signalcalling position up for grabs, but the Pack is still the best bet in this game.

Three Tied For Beacon Top Spot

George "Bullseye" Pawlush, adding a comfortable lead over the rest of the Beacon prognosticators after two weeks of action, saw that he had gone up in smoke this week, after he miscalculated on six of ten games. George, who is said to be a distant relation to Jean Dixon, the great seer, was terribly disheveled over the disappointing results.

Bob Corba, assistant grid coach at the college, came through with the week's best performance, having only two miscues, and is right in the thick of the race after sitting in last place last week.

The only female forecaster in the group, Denise Welsh, had a very good week, and is only one game off the pace.

Missouri New Entry In Top Ten

Ohio State held onto its number one ranking in the Beacon poll this week, by virtue of their 27-3 rout of Washington State. There wasn't too much shuffling of the top ten teams, although many of them had rough going against weak squads.

The only upset Saturday was Texas Tech's astounding victory over Oklahoma State. State was averaging over 50 points a ballgame but couldn't get things rolling against Tech, and were trounced 20-7.

Your friendly Beacon prognosticator came through with 13 games correct out of 15. Two that we almost pegged dead on the nail this week, were the Oklahoma-Miami contest and LSU-Florida. We took the Sooners to edge Miami, 21-20, and the actual score was 24-20 in favor of Oklahoma. We picked LSU to trounce Florida 24-0, and the final result was 24-3 Tigers.

So much for last week. Here's the Beacon top ten:

1. Ohio State
2. Michigan
3. Penn State
4. USC
5. Notre Dame
6. Nebraska
7. Alabama
8. Tennessee

9. Oklahoma
 10. Missouri
- Let's take a look at this week's big battles:

Oklahoma at Texas

Both of these teams have been unsure of themselves at times. The Sooners battled top ranked USC to a 7-7 deadlock only two weeks ago, but last Saturday they had to rally to oust Miami of Florida 24-20. Texas has also had up and down days. In fact, it was Miami that beat the Longhorns in the season opener. We think the Sooners have a little better defense than Texas and can stop Roosevelt Leaks and the Texas wishbone, so: wishbone, so:

Lycoming Tops Soccermen 5-2

The Wilkes College soccer team was defeated last week, 5-2, by Lycoming College of Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

Colonel center forward, Stellios Patsiokas, who seems to be the most consistent Colonel scorer, booted two penalty kicks for Wilkes' only tallies.

Sophomore fullback Tom Trost and Jerry Blade played steady defense throughout the contest.

Wilkes Routed; Offense Fails

Lambert Hopes Are Dealt Severe Blow

by Paul Domowitch

The Wilkes College gridders will try to get back into winning form this Saturday, when they host the Upsala Vikings in the Homecoming contest.

Last weekend, the Schmidtmens saw their Lambert Bowl hopes go right down the drain when they were upended by a surprisingly strong Moravian eleven, 23-6.

Despite giving up 23 points and over 230 total yards on the ground and through the airways, the Blue and Gold defense played well.

They were continually forced to stop Moravian deep in their own territory, after the Colonel offense failed to move the ball or fumbled it away.

Playing more or less conservative football, Wilkes was stifled time and time again, gaining a mere 62 yards on the ground, and 84 through the air, most of that coming on a hopeless fourth period Colonel drive.

Billy Horan, the excellent junior wide receiver for Coach Schmidt, was sidelined with a pulled hamstring muscle against Moravian, but it remains to be seen why the Colonels don't go to the air more, especially on third down and long yardage. It is true that the defense expects the pass and you will have the element of surprise in your favor, but the Colonel offense was fooling no one. They are just too mechanical and predictable.

On defense, Wilkes was just too tired. After holding the Moravian drives, they were quickly pressed into immediate service when the Colonels were held on four downs. Jeff Grandinetti, Rich Lack and sophomore Steve Leskiw were exceptional on defense, but it was to no avail. Bob Gratz, the Mules' outstanding tailback, picked up almost 125 yards rushing, most of it coming on delays and traps.

Let's take a look at this week's opponent, Upsala: The Vikings are a defense oriented club with a lot of promise this year.

They have lost only 11 lettermen from last year's 3-5 club and should present formidable opposition.

Last season, the Vikings garnered only 1393 yards in total offense, but their defense allowed only 1311.

They are loaded with promising running backs, one of them, freshman Carl Schaad was one of the leading scorers in New Jersey scholastic football last year, accumulating 128 points and 18 touchdowns while racking up 1300 yards rushing.

They are inexperienced at the signal-calling position, but whoever gets the nod will be supported by a massive forward wall.

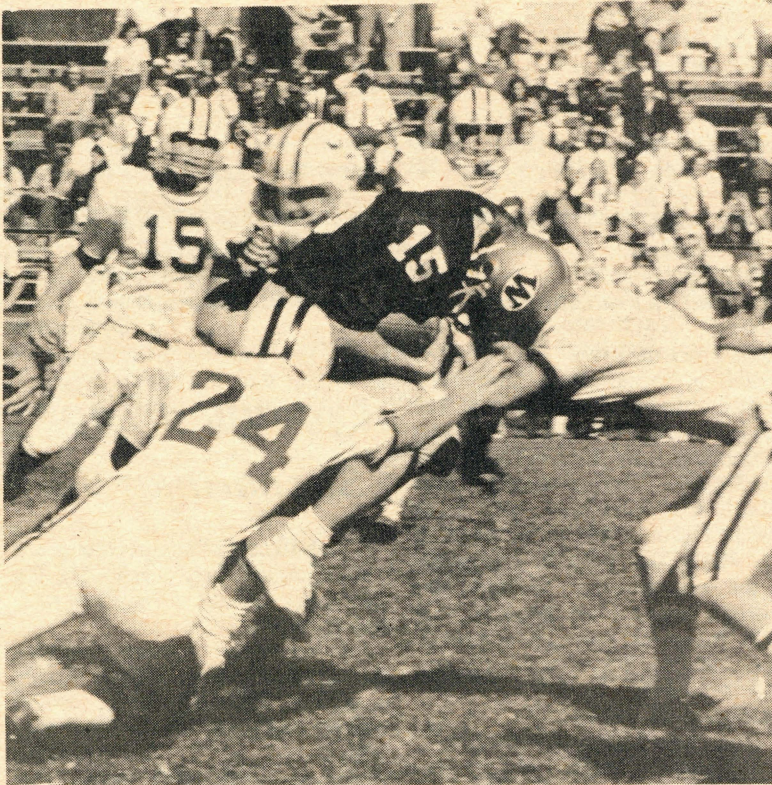

Whether or not Coach Schmidt can get his gridders up for Saturday's encounter remains to be seen, but from our standpoint, we see it Wilkes 13 - Upsala 0

Hockey Team Defeated Again

Whenever a coach has to rebuild a team, it means that he or she must face a very challenging season. Coach Gay Meyers is now in the middle of one of those seasons. On September 25, the inexperienced Wilkes defense was able to hold the Albright offense to two goals, but was unable to get the ball up to its own offensive line, so the Colonelettes were defeated, 2-0. The J.V. team was also defeated by Albright, 1-0.

Last Thursday, Kutztown came to Ralston Field and defeated Wilkes, 4-1. The Wilkes goal was scored by freshman Penny Bincini on a pass from Donna Donces.

Ellen Schwartz played an excellent game both offensively and defensively. The Colonelettes had a strong first half. Despite the fact that Kutztown was on the attack for over 20 minutes, the Wilkes defense held them to a half-time score of 1-0. Unfortunately, Wilkes lost its momentum in the second half.

THE SQUAD OF '68

With this being Homecoming Weekend, I thought it would be appropriate to go back into the past for a minute, back to the Golden Age of College football.

From 1965 until 1969, the Golden Horde were a spectacle to see. A flawless defense with a power-packed offense, the Colonels came national prominence when they reeled off 32 consecutive victories, the third longest win streak in NCAA college division history, copping consecutive MAC titles and being the proud possessors of the Lambert Bowl, which signifies Eastern supremacy in Division III twice.

During this era, probably the greatest team ever to wear the Blue and Gold colors for Wilkes was the great 1968 unit. While averaging more than 30 points a game, the '68 Colonel defense limited the opposition to a 6.5 per game.

Right now I am going to take a look at some of the seniors of Roland Schmidt's squad of '68 gridders, who played together as a unit for three years before culminating their efforts into a grid team that earned a national number one ranking.

Let's first take a look at the defense: Headlining the defensive backfield was safety Joe Wiendl, who will long be remembered in the annals of Wilkes College athletics. A 12-letterman, Joe capped his career off by being selected 2nd team All-American in his final season as a Blue and Gold griddier. He is now the associate athletic director at Tampa University, Florida.

Jay Holliday and Danny Malloy were the other two seniors in the defensive secondary. Holliday still holds the team record for interceptions in a season with seven, and Malloy picked off five enemy airmen in a contest, which is an MAC record.

Heading the linebacking corps that year were P.J. Kane and Mike Connolly. Kane was an awesome tackler, who was responsible for much of the Colonel defensive success. In 1970, P.J. was named to the All-American Wilkes All-Star grid team, and is currently an assistant football coach at Hanover Area High School.

Mike Connolly never received much recognition for his work, but a number of people who were close to the scene in '68 regarded Mike as the toughest and most respected men on the defensive unit.

Adding the finishing touches to a bona fide All-American team was the defensive line; ends Joe Koterba and Paul Merrill; and tackles Bill Layden and John Howe. Koterba, Merrill and Layden were All-MAC performers that year, and Layden was further showered with honors when he was selected to the 2nd team All-State.

Now it is time to look at the offensive unit of the squad of '68. The pointmakers, the unit that took the ball over for the score after the defense continually did their job.

The offensive line was an excellent one, led by senior Bruce Combs, a junior center George Conway, Angelo Leverro and end Mike Babers. Comstock only stood at 5'11" and 205 pounds, but he was one of the most punishing linemen Wilkes College has had or will ever see. Bruce was selected All-MAC FOUR years in a row, as was Billy Layden.

One position missing from that line is the split end, because I want to save the best for last. Joe Skvarla was a wizard at his position. He had moves, he had speed, he had hands, and he had guts. Joe is, without doubt, the best receiver in the college's history, and in his senior year was selected 1st team All-State. The other end on that '68 All-American squad? ... Why it was Ted Kwalik, who is now starring for the San Francisco 49ers in the National Football League. Without a doubt, Skvarla would have gone on to a professional career himself, but during the baseball season of 1969, Joe was seriously ill, and his grid career went up in smoke.

The backfield was a good one that year. Senior Vince Yarmel transferred from Toledo and provided the blocking back Coach Schmidt needed. A little kid from Catawissa, Pa. That little "kid" was none other than Tom Yeager, the mighty mite who, during his collegiate career, shattered the Wilkes College rushing record in the books.

The signal-calling position was occupied by two men in 1968. Zakowski, the great quarterback from Hanover Township, and the field general Wilkes has ever seen, was in charge of the controls from the beginning of the season. But, as so often happens, "Zak" was injured in to replace him came hero Rick Simonson. Rick came off the bench and led the Colonels like a veteran, throwing a team record eight touchdowns in '68 and failing to flinch to the ever-present pressure of the fantastic winning streak.

And so you have it, a team who, with the help of a couple of brilliant coaches, the presence of a top-notch coaching staff, put Wilkes College into national prominence. People who saw them play say there will never be a team like them, while a few others still can't believe they were for real. Well, let me tell you something, they were for real, and while great teams will come and go, no one will ever forget the miraculous squad of '68.
