St. Patrick's Day Party To Be Held At Genetti's

Plans for the St. Patrick's Day party were discussed at the Commuter Council meeting Monday afternoon. It was decided that the party will be held at Gus Genetti's since they had the best offer for the most reasonable cost. The date has been changed to meet with Genetti's schedule from Friday night, March 10, to Sunday night, March 12. Tickets will go on sale a week from Monday in the Commons and the cafeteria. The price per person has not been determined but because of the skyrocketing food costs the ticket price is expected to be higher than last year's.

In other council business, DeRobertis lead a discussion on the problem of student advising by faculty which has been on the agendas of the Student Life and Student Affairs committees. Most views expressed by members were that their advisors can not answer many of their questions with everyone agreeing that Ms. Doris Barker, Registrar, "is the only person on campus who knows the curriculum requirements." DeRobertis feels that a great number of teachers are not making a basic effort to advise.

Concerning the bus trip to New York City, which is this weekend, John Griffith, who is in charge of the trip, reported that due to six cancellations, there is going to be a loss of $40. This loss stems from the empty seats on the bus since the hotel reservations for these people have been cancelled. With the $78 loss from the 76er's basketball game bus trip, the council has lost over $110 on their sponsored bus trips so far.

Griffith, also Commons committee chairman, reported that a grip box has been placed in the Commons. The first couple of complaints reported dealt with the leaky roof, the prices for food, and the dirty bathrooms. This committee will meet with Mr. William Denion of the College food service company to discuss all complaints reported.

Mr. Art Hoover, Student Activities Director and CC advisor, requested for a list of volunteers from the council to help out in the Capitol Gifts Campaign. These volunteers will make personal calls to the alumni in their hometown areas seeking donations to the campaign. An April 11th kick-off dinner will start the campaign and these volunteers will begin their drive then. Over 17 council members volunteered and Hoover and DeRobertis were pleased with this amount. Any student-interested in working on the Campaign should contact Mr. Hoover.

St. Valentine's Party Was No Problem

Tom Bazzini, Inter-Dormitory Council president, stated at the IDC meeting Sunday night that the St. Valentine's Day party in the SUB went over well with no complaints or problems. This party caused a big controversy last week over the question of allowing beer on the first floor of the Sub or not. Beer was allowed for this party alone and according to Bazzini, there were no problems and everyone had a good time.

In other council business, it was announced that the council has received a good block of tickets to sell for the "America" concert at King's College, Tuesday March 14. Students may purchase these tickets at the IDC office for $8.50 during the week.

Pam Keller of Weiss Hall is organizing the first Wilkes College Backgammon Tournament which may be held in the SUB. The tournament would consist of the best of five rounds and an entry fee of 50 cents would be used towards prize money. There would be two divisions for advanced and beginning players. For further information contact Killer or Bazzini.

Student Government is notifying the TDR sorority, the Student Union Board, the Debate Union, Commuter Council, the Concert and Lecture Series Board, Inter-Dormitory Council, the senior class, the junior class, the sophomore class, and the freshmen class that budget requests for 1978-1979 academic year will be received in the SG office until Feb. 28. Budget forms may be secured from the SG office or the Activity Fund Director, Edward Baltruchitis. All requests will be reviewed by SG and the Activity Fund committee.

New Problems Arise For Evaluation Forms

Ross Mantione of the Computer Science Club reported at the Student Government meeting Monday night that several new problems have arisen with the Teacher Evaluation Forms. Before the data from the forms can be entered into the computer, each form must have its own number plus a course number and a teacher number. There are over 7,000 forms to be entered into the computer and the body started to number them at the meeting. This problem was not anticipated but Mantione offered a solution for next year's evaluation of the faculty. A scanner can be purchased at a reasonable cost which will read the data off computer cards blackened in by students. Most members of the body seem to approve of this but no action was taken.

Another problem that has come to attention is that uncooperative students reworded several of the questions and then evaluated. Holsberger stated that these will be classified as invalid and not entered into the tabulation. Also, about one third of the forms only have "staff" listed as the instructor and SG is going to have to investigate into each one of these to find out who taught each of these courses. Mantione also pointed out that in one case a professor's name was on the form for that course but another professor actually taught the course.

Carl Holsberger, SG president, seemed very dismayed at all these new and unexpected problems but is still very determined to get the results published accurately. Some members seemed negative about the idea of the teacher evaluation Forms but Holsberger said that the body can not back down now. He attributed most of these problems to the first hand experience of conducting the evaluation and feels that once this year's problems are ironed out, future evaluations will be less complicated.

The question of how many booklets of results to publish came up. It was originally thought that the booklet would contain 50 pages but it was later learned that it will contain over 100 pages. Cost becoming the main factor in this decision, a vote was taken as to publish 1,500 copies of the results as opposed to leaving five copies in the Library available to students. The 1,500 copies was voted in favor in a close vote of 10-8.

With the vast work ahead of SG, Holsberger is promising that the results will be published by pre-registration time.

In related business, the Computer Science Club was granted $300 to complete the job of entering all the data of the evaluation forms into the computer for the body.

Dave Evans, academic committee chairman, reported that a Suggestion committee may be formed to take suggestions from students, discuss them, and if worth while, follow them through the channels of the College. The committee would consist of three students, including a chairman, two faculty members and an administrator.

Holsberger reported that the student activity fee may be raised to meet the rising budget requests from various student organizations. He mentioned that this fee has not been raised since 1971.

The Veteran's Club was present at the meeting and is seeking help in their collection for old newspapers to raise money for kids. The club is sponsoring two puppet shows for disadvantaged children and needs to collect a lot of newspapers to recycle. Anyone interested in donating papers or helping out with the puppet show should contact the club in Parrish Hall (room 28) or call ext. 439.

Steve Kirschner, film committee chairman, announced that the next film to be presented is this Friday in the CPA. "A Man For All Seasons" will be shown free of charge at 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Under new business it was reported that Priapus House has been placed on social probation indefinitely because of a pulled fire alarm a few weeks ago.

Anyone with old tickets to the washer and dryers can turn them in for cash at the Business office. All washers and dryers are free now.

Sheree Kessler, chairman of the food committee, reported that at the last meeting with the cafeteria staff, more suggestions were expressed by students as opposed to complaints. Dr. Andrew Shaw Dean of Management and Mr. Charles Abate, Business Manager, will attend the next meeting to discuss food portion sizes. Kessler also reported that the Easter dinner will offer either ham, cornish hens, roast beef, or steak. The next committee meeting is this Thursday at 2 p.m. in the wing of the cafeteria. All interested students are urged to attend.

Party Policy Changes May Be In Future

After the controversy centering around last week's Valentine's Party and whether or not to allow beer on the first floor of the SUB, it was reported that a number of administrators and members of the Board of Trustees are concerned with the campus party situation.

This was reported at the Student Union Board meeting Tuesday, when Dean Edward Baltruchitis stated that "because things are mushrooming" the administration is worried about the risk the College takes in allowing such parties.

He said that because the drinking age is 21 and most students are under age, if "anything ever happened" the College could have a law suit to contend with. "The College doesn't want to take the legal risk," he stated.

He also implied that the party policy may be tightened or even eliminated. "The College may move in this direction," said Baltruchitis. "Let's wait until someone takes the responsibility to say something."

In reviewing the St. Valentine's Party, it was agreed that generally everyone was pleased with the outcome. The party was orderly, and beer was spilled only once upstairs in the SUB, and that was taken care of.

In other business, Bob Austin,

SUB director, announced that a sub-committee has been formed to review the present SUB party policy. Peggy Schutz was appointed chairman of the committee, which will recommend to the board possible changes in the policy, which has not been revised in years.

A unanimous vote of approval was given to the TDR sorority to have a wine and cheese party in the basement on March 3.

The theater department was also granted permission to use the SUB's tables and chairs for the upcoming production of "Kennedy's Children." Members of the production will install a dimmer in the chandelier for no charge.

On The Cover

YES!!!

There's nothing like the thrill of victory, as Mary Jo Frail seems to be saying, as Anita Meehan and Debbie Yedlock agree.

The coed cagers, along with the swim team, made history this year, finishing with winning records for the first time ever. The basketball team turned in a 10-7 record, while the swimmers finished 6-5. Both teams are competing in MAC tournaments this weekend.

Physics Club Will Dazzle Us With Lasers

Think of Star Wars, Star Trek, ray guns, even the last episode of the Hardy Boys and what do you think of? Lasers.

The world of lasers is here now on campus in the form of the Physics Club's Laser Show.

The Laser Show will be presented tomorrow night from 7 to 9:30. It will be held in the Dorothy Dickson Darte Center for the Performing Arts. Admission is 50 cents if tickets are purchased in advance or 75 cents at the door. Tickets can be purchased from any Physics Club member or in Room 143 in Stark.

The show will feature a sound and light. Slides and movies will be shown with background music.

While this is happening, lasers will display the audio spectrum of the background music through various images formed.

Background music will include jazz, disco, and soundtracks from Star Wars and Jonathan Livingston Seagull.

The Physics Club also has planned a few surprises to be included in the show.

This will be the Club's second laser show. The first one was presented last fall. There was a good response to the last show, but there were a few minor problems which have since been taken care of.

A laser is a compact beam of highly energized light. It is composed of photons emitted from a gas and projected in a very thin beam. Although lasers can be dangerous if they are powerful enough, tomorrow night's show will be completely safe.

Denison Hall Students Upset With Dorm Conditions

To The Editor:

We here at Denison Hall feel that some aspects of our housing situation and the housing situation in general should be brought to the attention of the student body, the faculty and the administration.

Perhaps the best way to express our feelings and convey the abuses is through the Eastern Indian story concerning the Indian host and his American guest.

It seems one day, after being a guest in the house for a week, the American brought up in passing conversation the situation of his room. The American, it seems, had a strong disliking towards the cockroaches that littered the floor, the dresser drawers and the closets of his room. He had kept quiet because he was a guest and thought it wrong to intervene in such domestic matters.

Finally, the American could no longer tolerate the roaches and so brought the situation to the attention of his host. The Indian host was very sympathetic but took no action because roaches were very common in the area and said everyone must be willing to adapt to and tolerate this trivial discomfort. The American returned to his room, feeling selfish and at the same time determined to ignore the roaches to the best of his abilities.

While the American was standing on a stool in the corner (the only safe spot from the hoarde of roaches) he noticed a most disturbing event. As several roaches were carrying off his belongings, three rats appeared and devoured the roaches. Immediately the American relayed these events to his host. The host was again sympathetic but could only reason that the rats would take care of the roach population and the American would just have to learn to live with the rodents.

The American then returned to his room to find two king cobras dining on the rats. He ran and told his host. The host reasoned, since the rats had eaten the roaches, and the snakes would eat the rats, all the American would have to do is make a slight adjustment in his squeamish attitude towards the snakes. The American avoided his room for several days but finally needing sleep he courageously ventured back to his quarters only to find two mongooses ravageously tearing at the flesh of the cobras.

The American was somewhat desensitized by this time and therefore did not report the mongooses to his host until the last day. The host was outraged. He immediately directed his servants up to the room to clear out the roaches, the rats, the snakes and the mongooses. Hence, the American had one comfortable evening in his room.

Moral: Everyone has a toleration level and it is only a matter of time before it is surpassed.

We at Denison Hall have surpassed our toleration level (translation - WE ARE PI-ED!!)

In our humble abode (dorm) there lives cockroaches, mice, squirrels and rats. These creatures are annoying, but our complaints do not end there.

The shower on the second floor that does not work would ordinarily cause problems, but we, being ingenious and innovative, have adapted. We shower under the various leaks in the roofs. This bathing practice, of course, is directly related to the amount of precipitation. In the spring and the fall we are able to bathe with some frequency because of the generous supply of rainfall, but in the winter it mostly snows and the snow gathers on the rooftop. We are all waiting for the thaw so that we can resume our regular bathing practices. A simple solution would be to fix the shower. This has been suggested and in turn we have been promised that the shower would be fixed. This promise has been made at least once a semester for the last four years. The list of our complaints goes on and it includes such trivial things as lack of heat and hot water.

With all jesting aside, the recent revelation that rats inhabit the basement of Denison has brought about the culmination of a lot of petty annoyances. Yet these inconveniences do add up and we feel something should be done. All conventional means to rectify these problems have failed and now we hope we can gain some assistance in solving these problems.

The Men Of Denison Hall

Sandra Shotwell will present a voice recital at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, February 25 in the Gies Recital Hall of the Music Building.

Cagers Finish Worst Year In Over Decade

The Wilkes College basketball team closed out its worst season since 1964 on Monday night with a heart-breaking 70-69 loss to the Bloomsburg State Huskies at the Wilkes gym. The Colonel cagers ended the year with a 5-18 overall mark and a 2-12 slate in the MAC.

The game went back and forth until Bloom sub Jeff Slocum hit two free-throws with :33 seconds left to give the Huskies a 68-67 advantage. After Jeff Baird missed a desperation 15-footer at :06, Slocum hit two more free-throws and Kenny Hughes tallied a lay-up at the buzzer for the 70-69 final. Wilkes top scorer John Zapko, averaging 19.6 per game, was held to just eight points in the season ending loss. The Bloom D didn't hold Zap, the bench did, as he sat out most of the game with foul trouble. IUT was the first contest of the year in which he had not tallied double figures.

A DETAILED SUMMARY OF THIS YEAR'S MENS BASKETBALL SEASON WILL BE PRESENTED IN NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE.

A great injustice was given to John Zapko this past week. The 6-6 forward from Fairless Hills, Pa. was nominated for the annual ECAC team of the week. Zap didn't make the squad although he tallied 93 points (23.2), 59 rebounds, over 50 per cent shooting from the field and 15 of 21 free-throw attempts, in the Colonels' four games for the week. Those players from the ECAC who were chosen had far less statistics than Zapko, but they did play for teams with better records. What does the ECAC player nominations stand for, the player or his team? Dave Ogre, an intern working at the ECAC office, when questioned on the Zapko issue, stated he would check into it, but nothing can be done. Although the evidence shows him wrong, Ogre said the players are not picked just because of their team's record.

Where does this leave Zapko? Nowhere, but with a 22.3 scoring average for the week and no recognition. The ECAC is again proving it is just a joke.

"Scheduling in the MAC is a real problem for all of the Athletic Directors involved," commented Wilkes AD, John Reese. "It is more complicated than it would seem to an outsider at first glance."

There has been considerable controversy concerning the matter of the poor schedules that the basketball teams have had to endure this year and John Reese is the man responsible for assembling those schedules. Fingers have been pointed and accusations hurled, but Reese feels hurt that he has been accused of wrongdoings for selfish motives. A delicate balance has to exist between all of the sports and it is the Athletic Director who has to maintain that balance. Granted, being a coach and an Athletic Director is difficult, but Reese feels that this argument of nepotism is unfounded.

"That Letter to the Editor in last week's Beacon really hurt me deeply," stated the AD-coach. "It was inaccurate and founded solely in rumor. If the author would have called me, I would have gladly explained the whole situation to him."

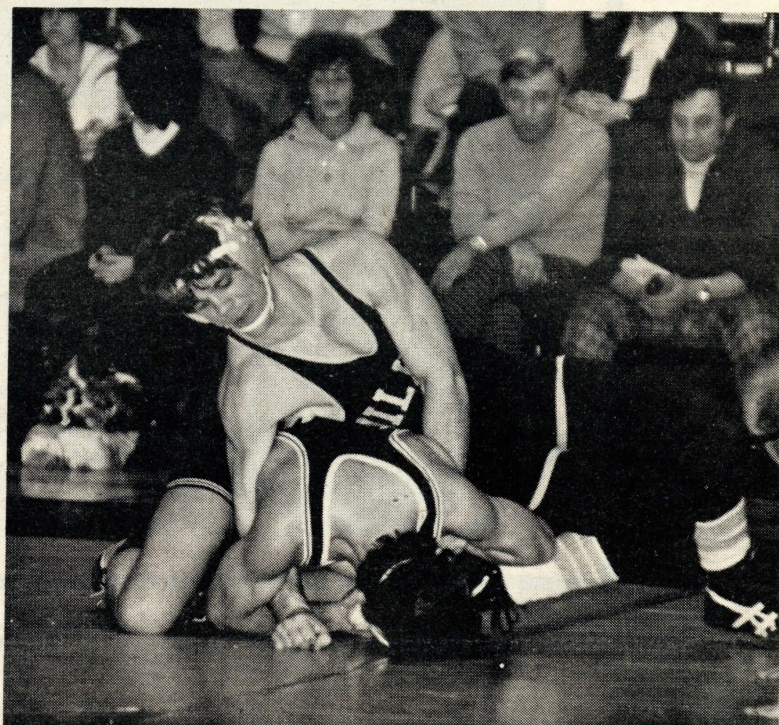

According to Reese, the MAC scheduling is done two years in advance and initial contacts with Oklahoma were not made until last year's National Tournament in March. The final booking of the January home date with the Sooners was not made until mid-June of this year; long after the basketball schedules were signed, sealed, and delivered.

"The thought that I would keep the gym open for the wrestling team and no one else is absurd. Wrestling Oklahoma was a great opportunity for this entire school, and we had to be back to the campus to prepare for the Southern Swing anyway. That Southern Trip was financed by the home schools entirely. They gave us a guaranteed income for making the trip, so it didn't cost the school anything extra," stated Reese.

The costs of scheduling the teams over the break period are prohibitive also. It costs a lot of big bucks to bring back to campus all of the winter athletes. That is why we encourage our teams to get involved in Christmas Tournaments so they can stay in shape," added Reese. "Rodger Bearde elected to take his team to the St. Michaels Tournament in Vermont in early December instead of a Christmas Tourney. That is why their break was so long."

This year was also the first that the double-round robin competition was put into effect in the MAC. With only 26 possible dates to work with, it is a difficult job to accommodate everyone. Since the schedules are on a rotating basis, all of the games that were away this year will be home next year and visa versa.

Just in closing thought; it seems as though the whole issue has been blown out of proportion. No one seems to notice whether you are in Timbucktoo or Altoona when you are winning.

GHOSTS AND NIGHTMARES- Casper Tortella, the friendly one on top, has been methodically spooking his opponents consistently throughout the year in the 142 pound class. With the "Ghost of Casper Present" lurking, a lot of his opponents are having nightmares.

Final: Outlaws Whip Softees

The Outlaws, to no ones surprise, have captured the mens intramural "A" league basketball title with an easy 75-60 win over the Sons of Softee in the playoff final.

At the outset, Softee scored the first six points, but a patented Outlaw spurt minutes later put them 15 points ahead and they maintained that bulge the rest of the way. Six Outlaws reached double figures, while Bob Brezinski was a bright spot for Softee with 20 points.

Perhaps the key man for the Outlaws was Gary Toczykowski who drew the assignment of stopping Softee center John Lack, the team's leading rebounder and third leading scorer. Toz singlehandedly stifled Lack, preventing him from scoring at all, and led his squad to the 1978 Wilkes Intramural Basketball Association (WIBA) title.

Outlaw team members include Dave (you still owe me a six-pack) Taylor, not-so steady Freddie Herman, Mike Capperal, "Disco" Tom McIntyre, Mike (I won at last) Vassil, Andy "Chicken Arm" Kresky, Bill "Also Chicken Arm" Polaha, and Toczykowski.

The four divisional leaders in the "B" league are the Barens, Sofia's Bar and Grill, The Bombers, and The Buckeroos. With playoffs just around the corner, Beacon analysts have predicted that they eventual champion will be the Bombers.

In a rematch of last week's game, the highly-touted, and deservedly so, BARENS annihilated the WAR (play more like peace) HEADS, 74-42, as all the Barens showed up this week. Joe Carr ripped the cords for 21 points on 10 of 12 shooting from the field. Most of the 5,000 fans on hand to see the game were heard to exclaim on the way out, "The Barens are back, the Barens are back." The Barens will meet PREP H in a game which will decide the Division I title on Monday night at 9:00. The Warheads, although John Lychos won't admit it, are an also ran with no talent. Lychos by the way tallied TWO POINTS in the loss to the Barens, giving him the elite tenth point in his intramural career.

The rankings:
WIBA "A" Division [final]
1. Outlaws 7,847
2. Sons of Softee 5,860
3. Snakes 4,222
4. Organizations 3,108
5. Canadien Club 1,007

WIBA "B" Division [current]
1. Bombers 6,007
2. Sofia's Bar and Grill 4,973
3. Stars and Bars 2,868
4. Buckeroos 1,962
5. Barens 968

Tourney Competition For 2 Teams This Weekend

Colonelette Cagers At Delaware Valley College

The women's basketball team ended its season this week in a way no other coed cage team has - with a winning season. The Colonelettes 10-7 season record marks the first time since women's basketball was established at Wilkes that a team has not had a losing year.

The lady cagers accomplished this feat in style, winning eight of their last nine games, averaging 75 points per game and three times hitting the 90-plus mark.

The game that put Wilkes over the .500 mark for good was a come-from-behind thriller that went down to the wire and three seconds, as Wilkes defeated MAC second-seed Elizabethtown, 73-70.

E-town enjoyed a ten-point halftime bulge and twice held off the Colonelette comebacks. The third attack proved to be fatal, however and a basket by Debbie Dynamite Yedlock put Wilkes ahead with less than four minutes remaining.

With 18 seconds left in the game, the Colonelettes went ahead, 71-70, and then added another point when Anita Meehan went to the foul line. But never let it be said that the fans don't get their money's worth, for only three seconds on the clock. E-town had the opportunity to tie the game on a two shot foul.

The first missed and Wilkes called a timeout to regroup. A minute later, E-Town was slapped with a technical for calling too many timeouts, missed the second foul and had no chance to rebound. Mary Jo Frail sunk the technical free throw, as Wilkes took a game from the Blue Jays they thought was in the bag.

Super second half efforts by Frail and Gloria Pasternick, who together accounted for 25 of 41 second half points, sparked the comeback.

Diane Kendig was high scorer with 20, followed by Frail with 19, and Pasternick with 14.

On Monday night the cagers travelled to Baptist Bible College, where they won easily, 97-40. Senior Karen Olney ended her regular season career on a high note scoring a career high 24 points, while Anita Meehan finished out her career with a fine performance. The cagers, coached by Sandy Bloomberg and Sharon Wilkes, are now at the Delaware Valley College campus competing in the MAC Tournament.

Colonel Swimmers At Widener College Campus

The Wilkes College swim team met up with some rugged competition when they travelled to Binghamton, N.Y., last Wednesday.

The Colonel aquanauts faced Binghamton (SUNY) and Utica in a tri-meet. The Wilkesmen split the twin decisions by losing to Binghamton, 79-34, but bouncing back to defeat Utica, 75-35.

The Binghamton swimmers (rated one of the best swim teams in New York) dominated the aqua marine waters of their pool as they white-washed Wilkes and their fellow New York staters from Utica. Even though it was the day after Valentines Day, the "Bingo" swimmers showed no love for their foes.

The big moments against Bingo for Wilkes came from Jim Edwards, 200 IM; and the 400 Free Relay Team (consisting of Edwards, Kevin Augustine, Jeff Jones, and Tony Pinto). They were the only members of the Colonel team to pick up first place honors against Binghamton.

For Wilkes' Cindy Glawe, it was a long afternoon as she was uprooted from her normal first place spot by Bingo's Jeff Wilson. Cindy tallied 180.10 in her optional dives and 159.10 in the required ones. However, it was not enough to catch Wilson who's total was 219.68 and 167.15, respectively.

Against Utica, the Colonels (ettes) could do no wrong as every member of the Colonel team gathered points on the scoreboard.

Out of the 11 swimming events, Wilkes captured eight first places. First place finishes were won by: Jeff Jones, 50 and 100 Free; Jeff Boberick, 500 and 1000 Free; Tony Pinto, 200 Butterfly; Kevin Augustine, 200 Free; 400 Medley Relay (John Moffatt, Rob Doty, Kevin Augustine, and Bill Manly); and the 400 Free Relay team of Pinto, Jones, Edwards, and Augustine.

In the diving competition, Wilkes' Cindy Glawe won both the required and optional events while Greg Lepkowski placed third in the required diving.

This tri-meet set the Colonels record at 5-5 and set the stage for the dramatic attempt for the first winning season in the school's swimming history.

On Saturday, February 18, history was made! The Colonels behind a tremendous performance by Alan Shaw, whipped Cathedral College of Long Island, New York, 66-34 to garner their first winning season ever.

In key events, Shaw really came through for the Wilkes cause as he garnered a first place finish in the Breaststroke event. He was also a part of the medalist 400 Medly Relay team (John Moffatt, Kevin Augustine, Bill Manly, and Shaw.)

Refreshed with the knowledge that they are the most successful swimming team in the school's history, the Colonels depart for the MAC championships today at Widener College. Colonels expected to finish high are Cindy Glawe and the 400 Free Relay team of Edwards, Agustine, Jones, and Pinto.
