'Academic Family' Honors Dr. Farley At Testimonial

The first testimonial to honor departing President Eugene S. Farley was held at the Treadway Motor Inn on November 22. The Wilkes College Faculty Women planned the event in tribute to the man who has stood at the helm of this institution for over 30 years.

Many of those present had been associated with Dr. Farley from the first days of the establishment of the College. The dinner was well organized, but the tone was largely an informal meeting of the Wilkes "Academic Family."

In addition to holding the dinner, the Faculty Women arranged for special souvenir programs to be distributed to those in attendance.

On the suggestion of Mrs. John Chwalek, a member of the committee, The Beacon staff prepared the leaflets in the form of an old issue of the newspaper.

Grants Stronger Voice To Students Of Wilkes

The announcement concerning the placement of students on faculty committees was recently made by Student Government. The following students were selected for the various committees: Academic Standing, John Blannett and Demetrious Papademetriou; Curriculum, Christine Hincken and Catherine M. Chandler; Educational Policies, Lewis D. Partridge

Wilkes Chosen One Of Seven In Case Study

by Kathy Kopetchne

On Sunday, April 12, a case study of Wilkes College will begin, and it will end on Wednesday, April 15. During these few days, several aspects of Wilkes College will be observed and discussed by a committee of men headed by Dr. Aldolph Anderson, president of Hartwick College.

But before April 12 many hours of hard work must go into making this case study successful. During the first week of December the first drafts of the sub committee reports will be presented to the Steering Committee. The Steering Committee is composed of members of the faculty, administration, and student body. The two students on this committee are Dave Lombardi and Ross Piazza, both of whom are members of the Student Government.

Early in January a draft of background papers will be distributed to faculty, Administration personnel, and students for their comments. Any revisions will then be done by the committee, and final papers will be ready for distribution by February 1. As of March 1 all materials will be mailed out to participants in preparation for April 12.

In the case study of Wilkes College three areas will be presented. The first will be Wilkes College's experiences in the development of and Bonita Gill; Student Publications, Anne Aimetti and Sally Donoho; Athletic Committee, Carl Cook and Ronald H. Labenski; Calendar-Handbook, David Hoffman and Kristine Shilcoski; Financial Aid, Charles Lengle and Bethany Venit; Library, Jeanette Abraham and Dennis Gourley; Graduate Studies, William Steel and Ann Uzups; and Research and Service, Bethany Venit and Bonita Gill. The only Committee left vacant was Admissions only because there were no eligible applicants.

The people chosen for these committees are entitled to the same privileges as any faculty member on the committee. They are allowed equal vote and equal opportunity to submit proposals for new ideas and policy change.

Since this is the first year for Faculty Representation it will be used as a model year. With the success or failure of these committees being the precedent for the future of Students on Faculty Committees.

These students plan to submit and discuss ideas concerning changes in the calendar, curriculum changes, food for athletes, and various other ideas concerning the welfare of the students on this campus.

- NOTICE - TRYOUTS

Majorette tryouts will be held Thursday, December 18, at 6 p.m. Practice will be provided for all those interested on December 9, 11 and 16 in the gym at 6 p.m.

Come prepared with a baton to learn the routine required for all girls trying out.

For further information, contact the majorettes' advisor, Mrs. Doris Saracino.

Students Organize To Propose Changes For Student Rights

Wilkes College action committee has succeeded in establishing the support necessary to present proposals it intends to present to the Student Government and IDC.

The first two meetings were held respectively in the Commons and gym. The first meeting with over 200 people established the goals of the group. The outstanding accomplishment of the first meeting was to develop a sense of unity and aim the student desires in one functional direction.

Many people came simply as observers, but did not leave that way. Problems cited seemed to be incidental to the fact that day students were sitting to each other in pursuit of a common cause. The issues discussed included: parking, off-campus living, curfews, The Beacon, housing, and cafeteria problems.

Everyone present agreed on what the problems were, although some difficulty was encountered when an attempt was made to arrive at a common solution. Everything from the extreme of taking over a building to using proper channels was discussed as reactionary measures. Taking over a building, however, was emphatically rejected by general opinion.

Dan Kopen, President of Student Government, pointed out that Student Government is the most effective means of achieving change on our campus. Many people refused to believe this based on Student Government's lack of previous accomplishments.

Kopen pointed out, however, that students should not confuse inactivity with effectiveness. He said that no proposals of the nature being considered had yet been rejected by Student Government. He pointed out that demonstrations here would accomplish nothing.

Kopen urged the students to give Student Government a chance.

On November 30, Student Government met and discussed the student goals. Formats for the proposals were discussed and decided upon. It was decided that curfews would be dependent upon age (over 21) or parental permission. Parental permission would be granted on special forms sent to parents.

Student Government members will vote on this proposal Sunday. Depending upon the vote taken in Student Government, the proposal will either be vetoed or sent to the Council of Deans and then the Administrative Council.

It was pointed out that off-campus living would better accommodate students with financial difficulties since they could live cheaper off campus. Also the advantage of dorm space was cited.

Discussion was brought up by Student Government members concerning off-campus living. One student felt that if a student was earning his own way through college he should be responsible enough to live where he pleases. If a student attends college through money provided by his parents, then parental permission would be required, which could be controlled simply through a parent's sending money directly to the college for room and board expenses. Additionally, since off-campus living would be an upperclassman privilege, a minimum freshman could be required to receive parental permission to live off campus. It was also pointed out that there is no logical argument against any motivation for better grades and harder study.

Because open housing was in the Administrative Council at the time of the Student Government meeting, IDC's proposal was given a formal vote of approval.

- NOTICE -

The Beacon will be reorganizing its staff for the second semester. All those interested in working for the newspaper are invited to a special meeting on Tuesday, December 9, at 7 p.m. in the Beacon office at 76 West Northampton Street, second floor.

No experience in journalism is necessary to join the staff. We are especially looking for a cartoonist, general reporters, photographers, and people eager to learn page layout, headlining and copy-reading.

Come to Tuesday's meeting to meet present staff members and ask questions.

OF, BY, AND FOR THE STUDENTS

An action group dedicated toward working for reforms on Campus has held several meetings recently and began to form the foundation for its proposals. The issues of open housing, no curfews, improvement in the cafeteria, solutions to the parking problem and off-campus housing were discussed.

Our reactions are mixed. The first is adverse in respect to the organization of the committee or whatever it calls itself. We are informed that there is no leader or leaders to this valiant cause. We wish to remind the dedicated individuals who comprise this group that many a noble cause has died a premature death due to lack of leadership. Several hundred persons are incapable of making decisions or compromises so sorely needed in such undertakings.

Lack of leadership opens the doors of the more radical element to "volunteer" its services in the name of common good. We doubt that either extreme — lack of leadership or radical leadership — can add to the success of this venture.

We also criticize imposing an absolute time limit upon Student Government to achieve the projected aims. It is mature enough to approach the student organization in order to achieve the aims through proper channels in a rational way. But insisting on instant solutions defeats the rationality of the method. Just because Student Government acts on or approves a proposal does not put that proposal into effect. Such things must be approved by the Council of Deans and the Administrative Council. Clear consideration by these groups necessarily takes more time.

We understand that several radical suggestions concerning action to be taken in the event of a defeat of the proposals were presented to the groups in the Commons and the gym. May we remind each conscientious individual that takeovers of buildings, picket lines and riots point up immaturity and irresponsibility. As Dan Kopen, President of SG, pointed out recently, demonstrations here would accomplish nothing. At best they could influence people, but there is a danger that the result would be negative.

Another disapproval we strongly wish to voice, is the interference of people who are not students of Wilkes. If the student body is sincere in its requests (a much nicer word than demands), then the student body will work to achieve its goals through the channels provided. The issues pertain solely to the College, so there is really no need or excuse for outside influence or agitation.

But let us not give the impression that our opinion of the goals of the sincere group is one of disapproval. On the contrary, we view most of the goals of the committee as steps to take the College forward toward a more liberal and progressive atmosphere.

The Beacon has supported the principle of open housing many times before. There is no need to reevaluate our position — which maintains that Wilkes students are mature enough to handle this sorely needed way of gaining privacy.

The idea of no curfews for women may seem drastic to the Administration here, but it is successfully being used on many campuses. For those who fear that it will upset parents, we offer the suggestion that was used this past semester at Millersville State College. Curfews were eliminated and keys were issued, but for the initial year, parents were sent a questionnaire to indicate whether their daughter would have no curfews at any time, no curfews only on weekends, or the curfews in effect at the time of their registration this semester. This threw the final issue into the hands of the parents — eliminating any responsibility on the part of the college. Students would be left with no recourse but to argue with their parents.

We honestly feel that forcing the College to solve the eternal parking dilemma is unrealistic and unfair. The College cannot wave a magic wand and create land that does not exist. Therefore, we feel that fighting the issue and making demands without any tangible suggestions will accomplish nothing.

We feel just as pessimistic about trying to improve the food in the cafeteria. But we do endorse a realistic plan to permit students to choose whether they wish to eat in the caf on a regular basis. It is unfair for the College to make a profit while we pay double in order to eat off-campus.

Finally, we wholeheartedly support the idea of off-campus housing. It makes sense to let juniors and seniors manage themselves. Dormitory life is profitable in many ways, but after two years, whatever it has not accomplished is a hopeless case. Maintaining a budget, and running one's own life independently by living off-campus would be an invaluable step in learning how to live in the outside world.

Our final point is that we wish the group luck in achieving its goals. We believe that even if it achieves compromises on several of the issues, it will be satisfactory.

It would be good to face the fact, however, that these issues are pretty much "icing on the cake." If we don't get them, it won't be the end of the world. If we do get them it will be a great leap forward.

Student Requests Answers Concerning Vacations;

Suggests Combining Many Breaks, Forming One

To the editor:

I am writing to find a reasonable answer to a puzzling situation. I would like to know who designed the academic schedule, and why. We are supposed to go home for the Christmas holidays on December 19. We return on Monday, January 5, for a week of classes. Exams are scheduled from January 12 through the 17th. We are then off again on January 26th. Would you mind telling me how one plans any vacation within those wretched limits? We can go home or return for three weeks, return for a week of classes, exams, and then we are off for another week or week and a half depending upon one's schedule.

Thanksgiving Festivities

Welcomed Introduction

To The Holiday Season

To the editor

To IDC, and the cafeteria staff, On behalf of the student body, we would like to take this opportunity to express appreciation for the outstanding job everyone concerned did with the annual Thanksgiving dinner.

The dinner this year was the best in our memory — the combined atmosphere of candlelight, piano music, dressing up, and tasteful food made the evening memorable.

We hope more such evenings are planned for the near future. Again, we thank you.

The Beacon Staff

Isn't there some way to combine the vacations into one long vacation? After all, I'd rather take one long vacation early and enjoy a long vacation during which I could relax and read books or exams starting on the face.

When we are finally free of pressure, we only have a week to enjoy ourselves. Maybe this is minor in comparison to other issues, but I'd appreciate any help anyway!

REPORTER AT LARGE

My sister, Mindy:

This is written in a philosophical mood — this Sunday marks the year since I was accepted as a student at Wilkes. I easily recall the date — Pearl Harbor Day, December 7, 1966.

I doubt that you remember the day — after all you were only 10. I recall the day vividly, however. I opened the letter from John Whitby — from that moment on I knew I wanted to be part of Wilkes College.

It was an exuberant feeling. After all the college boards, applications, visits to campuses and nail biting — it was all over!

Suddenly I belonged somewhere. It's a secure feeling, at best. At its worst, it is frightening. It is looking into the four years ahead and seeing a sea of nameless faces.

You remember every scary thing you've ever been told about college. The profs are supposed to be ogres who flunk you if you misspell one word. You just know your dorm mates will be sophisticated, with near-genius IQ's. Sometimes during your senior year, you want to cancel out on the whole idea and stay home where everyone loves you and addresses that he had nothing new to say?

He found what he wanted to pass along in the lyrics of a song. "To reach the impossible dream / to reach the unreachable star . . ." I stared at the long-stemmed red rose, trying to see the future.

I don't really remember what I would have told you then was my impossible dream, Mindy. Perhaps writing my very own column, serving as editor of the college paper, tutoring children, starring on Broadway writing a novel. I've reached a few stars, and left many far behind me.

Now the impossible dream reaches farther ahead — just past the time I have left to spend on this campus. The dream is just as elusive as the one I dreamed sitting in the high school stadium that June day.

The last time I saw you, you were trying to decide whether you were interested in being a commercial artist. You were intense, concerned, worried. . . . You looked at me in exasperation and said, "You're lucky to be in college and know what you want." My dear little one — there aren't many of us on this campus who really know what we want. No magic formula transforms us into adults.

You also said, "I wish that I could skip high school and come to college right now." I must smile as I remember the wistful look on your face. You see, I remember what it was, and I know what it is. I know the frustration of believing that nothing is relevant. I recall deciding to at least a hundred times. I remember the pain of relationships that ended, and the anger that so many people were not what they should have been.

I remember as a freshman getting involved in a political movement formed from the start. The disillusionment left me bitter. I remember wanting to reform the college, the government, the world. . . . The awakening left me forlorn.

But you see, I remember a great deal more. On the December day when I was 17, I did not foresee the friends I would find — people who accepted me for what I was or am. I did not see the spirited fun of bonfires or parties, the stimulation wrought by an imaginative teacher (no, I have yet to meet one who flunks a student because of one misspelled word), the confusion of trying to find oneself amid the myriad philosophies batted around by others. I have found the great education not in any book, but from the common experience of living with all kinds of people in a dormitory.

I remember little of conjugating the verb devoir, the history of Babylon, the definition of ethnocentrism, or quotations from the Aeneid. It is only recently that I have realized that those things provide only the foundation for liberal education.

I do remember long discussions with friends on religion and politics, long walks along the River Commons where I took the time to discover the beauty of simple things, the joys that have been abundant, and the tears that have been part of it too.

Mindy, you are probably asking yourself what my message is. Honestly, I do not know. I know that you are on the threshold of the very best years of your life. I know that for me so much has happened in the yesterday that opened the door and the day that is today.

I hope when it is your turn, that you do not make the mistake of looking too hard for what you already have. Dr. Farley summed it up best once when he commented, "You must take what you believe is relevant from what we give you." That's the key to it all.

Love,
Maureen

Who's A Hypocrite?

by Eric Sevareid

The youthful avant-garde, both black and white, is persuaded that feeling is where it's at, not thinking, that the soul is superior to reason. Perhaps it should surprise no one that they demand that the churches fork over a half billion dollars to black Americans, in reparation for the historical sufferings of Negroes. To discount allowed, apparently, the big role played by the churches in abolishing chattel slavery in this country. And one of the loot is to be shared with the descendants of the 300,000 or so white men who died fighting against slavery in the Civil War.

Many young rebels, black and white, disclaim any personal responsibility for what their parents did wrong, and properly so. But their parents are to be held responsible for what their parents or grandparents did wrong. Nice work if you get it.

True pacifists aside, the young

Love And Sex Relationship Studied; Emphasis Placed On Worth Of Love

by Roy V. Hollabaugh

In Dr. Bertocci's lectures on "Sex, Love, and the Person," the most prominent fact emphasized was that sex and "other" problems intermix. He suggested that one must mature to where the conversion can be made from "sex for sex's sake, to sex for love's sake." Dr. Bertocci developed the thesis that any relationship must be meaningful enough to overcome the problems connected with sexual adjustment.

Dr. Bertocci concluded "sex for sex's sake" transpires, in most cases, with persons who are running from insecurity. In these cases the sexual act does not create a satisfying meaning within the individual and he is left with nothing else to do but search for another sexual encounter. Love was the missing element; in the doctor's words, ". . . sex without love, loses its meaning." Another important factor is the transition from "I need to be loved," to "I want to love." Upon developing this attitude, you can use sex as an effective means for communicating this desire to love. Viewed in this light, sex as a part of love is creative, and creativity is essential to the growth of love; sex without love short-circuits creativity.

Naturally, following love comes marriage. Marriage is a legal state in which two persons develop their values together. The doctor asserted that marriage was necessary in forming meaningful love and sexual relationships because with marriage one is bound by more than just physical attraction. Marriage should be generated by a love that is great enough to overcome sexual problems. This love should be essentially a love of one another's values, so when you encounter sexual problems you have this love to rely on. In other words, this love of values and physical love must be combined; they are combined in marriage and in marriage the sexual relationship of the couple is given time to develop into a meaningful conveyance of their love. With time each new sex act between the couple will have a new meaning, and each new meaning will help them develop depth in their relationship.

It is also imperative that the transition from the "need to be loved" to the "desire to love," takes place in forming a family. A successful home, and family, is where the individuals love together, rather than just live together. The parents must learn to give their love to their children, and quench their thirst for love between themselves. The family should function as a unit, each member an essential part of the unit; the love generated within the family should serve as the cohesion needed to hold the unit together.

Dr. Bertocci described premarital sex in terms of the psychological problem it creates today instead of the biological problem it created for the generation before us. A generation ago one abstained from premarital sex because of the likelihood of pregnancy occurring. Today, in our scientific era, the contraceptives available to men and women greatly reduce, if not eliminate, the chances of impregnation occurring. But, as I said, our problem today is not a biological one, it is a psychological one. Since sex out of marriage does not allow the individuals to conveniently work out their sexual problems, many of these sexual experiences are unsatisfying, emotionally as well as physically, and even frustrating. The pill, which may induce premarital sex, is, as the doctor put it, "the problem of our generation." The pill, while enhancing the temptation to participate in premarital sex, also enhances the opportunity for unwarranted fears and apprehensions to be embedded in one's mind, and the experience gained from premarital sex may be very detrimental to the psychological balance of the persons involved.

Sex should say something. How can a meaningful sexual relationship be developed if it is not accompanied with the love that is essential to it, plus the time that is needed to reach sexual compatibility? It is true, the pill will greatly increase the quantity of sex available; however, the pill will not give quality in sex. Quality in sex is only obtainable through much effort, understanding and love between two people. Dr. Bertocci suggested that a "Doctrine of Repression" be initiated to create a standard by which we should live; we should institute within our lives moral, rather than biological, reasons for being chaste.

"Sex, Love, and the Person" if together, according to the doctor, should be together in marriage. As Dr. Bertocci stated: "Marriage is a problem in itself, but I would suggest that many of the answers to this problem may, however, be found in marriage. As well as the 'pill' being a problem of our generation, I think the impracticability of college students getting married, even though they may be in love, is also a perplexing problem of our generation. The ideal way is to repress our desires until sex, love, and marriage are at last obtainable. If we can repress ourselves to when we can have these three together, then we will have better 'sex,' better 'love,' and we will be better 'persons'."

SG Members Plan Activities For Commons

Two committees of Student Government have been working on plans to make The Commons more useful and beneficial to Wilkes Students. Some of their ideas have already been placed into practice, while others are planned to be adopted in the future.

Last week, a jukebox was installed on the first floor of the building, and various club nights have been set up.

The first of these club nights was held on November 5, and was sponsored by the Biology and Chemistry Clubs. They presented a film entitled "A Plague on Your Children", which concerned the effects of biological warfare. Another such night was scheduled for November 19 when the Spanish Club presented the film "Don Quixote."

Checkers, chess, pingpong, pitch and shuffleboard tournaments are also planned, and the dates for these will be announced at a later time.

A Coffeehouse and folk night is being planned for December 23. It will include entertainment by campus talent, and possibly, a film.

Plans of a more projected nature include sponsoring weekly films in the Commons, which would be separate from the films already provided by Manuscript. There are also hopes of setting up Chase Annex as a student center complete with pinball machines, ping-pong

Operas To Be Conducted By Former Wilkes Student

An alumnus of Wilkes College and the Julliard School of Music, Gordon Roberts, will conduct two operas to be presented by Young Musicians, Inc. The performance will take place on Friday, December 12, at 8:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, Scranton.

Selected for presentation were The Medium, by Gian Carlo Menotti, and The Bear, by William Walton. The Medium is one of the most popular operas of the twentieth century, having played almost two years on Broadway. Critics have acclaimed it as one of the finest works of its genre by a contemporary composer. Ghostly effects and suspenseful drama insure an intense audience involvement.

An outstanding cast has been selected to present the opera. Miss Joanna Bruno, who will sing the role of Monica in The Medium, was chosen for that role by the composer, Menotti, for his production of the opera this past summer at his festival in Spoleto, Italy. Her success was so singular that Menotti asked her back for next summer's festival. It is believed that Miss Bruno is on the threshold of world acclaim.

Students at Wilkes will readily recognize another principal in The Medium, Mrs. Helen Ralston. She is widely recognized as one of the great musicians of this area, and has contributed extensively as a soloist to countless oratorio and other choral programs, as well as being a distinguished recitalist.

Neil Rosenshein, another principal, has participated for the last two summers in operas at the Aspen Musical Festival, Aspen, Colo.

The second opera, The Bear, has had only one American performance, at the Aspen Music Festival during the summer of 1968. The cast, which premiered the opera for Americans at Aspen, will present This production is considered a major step forward in the artistic development of this area. Students interested in attending may obtain tickets at the Wilkes College Bookstore, Charles and Mary, and the Book and Card Mart.

AFTER GRADUATION . . .

For Graduating Seniors who are interested in making a difference in themselves and Society, and who have that Leadership Charisma, the American Management Association will have a representative from its Management Internship Program here on campus. Wednesday, December 10, he will discuss the Internship Program and how it leads to meaningful management careers in Business, Government, Education, etc. Those men and women interested should contact the Placement Director for further information.

Malone To Hear

by George Paglia
Wilkes College has a new addition to its faculty, Dr. Kenneth Malone, who is the President of Wilkes, and is the Assistant President of the American Management Association. His position is compared to that of a vice president, a man whose primary duty is to represent the president's representative. Farley is not available.
Mr. Malone has come to Wilkes to join our administration. He is a former employee of an American Oil Company for 20 years in Arabia. He gave him a fine chance to see much of the world, allow him to visit Europe on vacations, and time enjoying himself. Some of the finer slopes of the Association with Wilkes is a family affair in the home. Mr. Malone was on this Campus when it was Bucknell Junior College, his education at Bucknell University, where he received his Degree in Engineering in 1967. Mr. Malone's son, Kenneth, graduated from Wilkes in 1967, since gone to Penn State to work for his PhD. Kenneth's daughter, Judy, is enrolled as a junior here, and is the third Mr. Malone graduate from our school. The long acquaintance between Mr. Malone and Wilkes allowed him to witness much of the growth of the college. When asked how he felt about the change, he commented that often the fight to tear down the power

Maloney Assistant To Head of College

by George Pagliaro

Wilkes College has a new face in Wilkes Hall. He is Mr. Kenneth Maloney and is the Assistant to President of Wilkes, Dr. Eugene Farley. His position could be compared to that of a vice president, a man whose purpose is to assist the president, and serve as the president's representative when Dr. Farley is not available.

Mr. Maloney has come a long way to join our administration. He was a former employee of the Arab-American Oil Company, spending 20 years in Arabia. This position gave him a fine chance to see much of the world, allowing him to travel Europe on vacations and spend time enjoying himself by skiing some of the finer slopes of Austria.

His association with Wilkes College is a family affair in the Maloney home. Mr. Maloney was a student at this Campus when it was still Wilkes Junior College, continuing his education at Bucknell University where he received his Master's degree in Engineering in 1949.

Mr. Maloney's son, Ken, graduated from Wilkes in 1967, and has gone to Penn State where he is working for his PhD. The assistant's daughter, Judy, is still enrolled as a junior here, headed to be the third Maloney to graduate from our school.

The long acquaintance between Mr. Maloney and Wilkes has allowed him to witness much change. When asked how he felt about the elements on campus, he commented that often these people fight to tear down the power structure, offering nothing to replace it, and as has often been the case in the past, they pave the way for the rise of dictatorships. He clarified himself further by saying, "Change is a part of living, but I feel change should be orderly and beneficial and I'm going to be part of that change here at Wilkes."

Certainly, Mr. Ken Maloney is proving to the people with whom he has worked that he is eager to be a constructive part of that change. He has become concerned with various student organizations and his aid and advice has been welcomed. Change has not been an easy commodity to secure here at Wilkes, but, with men like Mr. Maloney coming to Wilkes, it might become easier.

SG To Give Dinner For Students

Student Government plans to say thank you to all those students who have helped it with special projects and committee functions on December 15 with an Appreciation Dinner.

David Hoffman, chairman of the event and tri-chairman of social events, said that the dinner would be held at the American Legion in Wilkes-Barre. The roast-beef dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. Music will be provided for dancing and entertainment.

Chairmen of all Student Government committees have submitted lists of people who have participated in any activity. This includes students ranging from freshman orientation week, homecoming ushers, and the newly appointed students on faculty committees.

Student Government feels that this is just a small way to say thank you and show its appreciation for the work and interest students have shown in Student Government.

on other campuses

Spurred on by student's requests to be heard on issues, TEXAS TECH has given its students an area where they can voice their opinions at anytime. The place, called the "Free-Speech Area" by the Administration, is being opposed by the liberals on campus because it is located away from where the students converge, but most of the students feel that the idea of a speech area is a good one and should become an example to other colleges.

It seems the Greeks at KANSAS STATE outsmarted the naive freshman girls at registration in September. Freshman girls completed one of the many cards requesting personal information without realizing that they were not for college information but for the file box of Sigma Nu Fraternity House.

Although students at DICKINSON have written evaluations of professors to be distributed to the students, there has been no formal acceptance of student involvement in the evaluation of courses and instructors.

At IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY student opinions are considered very carefully in the evaluation of the quality of teachers and their method of teaching. Vice-President for academic affairs, George Christensen, said, "I always ask for the student response to a teacher's effectiveness."

ACTION IN SOCIETY of DICKINSON College has discussed the possibility of establishing a "free university" which would consist of two divisions. The first would include open classes held on campus, and taught by students or professors on subjects relevant to today's life. The second would be concentrated in the community of Carlisle and would consist of practical courses such as cooking, sewing hygiene, and diet. The AIS feels that this program would be well worth the work and research involved.

The UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND is offering a semester in Israel at Tel Aviv University, open to students who have completed one year of college study at a recognized institution. Students will have opportunities to work in kibbutzim, take field trips and have contact with Israeli young people as well as Israeli leaders. Students may take three or six credits of Hebrew language. The other courses, all three credits each, will be offered in English.

Amnicola To Photo Residents

by Paulette Leofflad

The Yearbook Staff met with I.D.C., A Student Government Representative, and Mr. Hoover in November to reach an agreement on the dormitory picture issue. It was decided at this meeting that dorm pictures will be used. The Yearbook Staff will make out the time schedule and I.D.C. is in charge of enforcing it. Candid shots of dorms will also be used.

A new feature of this year's amnicola is the arrangement of faculty pictures. To change the pace of previous years, the faculty pictures will be taken in informal groups. More color will also be in this edition.

Senior pictures are in the progress of being taken at Lazarus. If anyone has not received an appointment they are to contact Lazarus.

The Yearbook Staff this year is endowed with the most members ever, and an Art Staff has been added. Experienced photographers are needed for the staff, if anyone is interested, they should stop by the amnicola office in the Student Organization Building on North Hampton St.

With these encouraging notes, people should support the coming subscription campaign during the first week of February. The price of the book is $2.

New S.G. Committee Begun To Create Recreation Ideas

A new Student Government committee, concerned with the recreation needs of Wilkes students, has been formed. Simply called "The New Committee," it is, according to one of its members, "not a decision-making body. We simply make proposals and try to get them carried out. We have no personal funds — all our money comes from Student Government."

The committee, composed of Tish Rigby, Bruce Sabasik, Howie Toone and Tony Tangey, was begun one month ago in a post-IDC session with Mike Brooks, chairman of the IDC recreation committee. It has developed into an organization which meets weekly and has already managed to have a jukebox installed in the Commons.

"We're very upset about the jukebox, however," said the committee member. "We gave the vending company the names of 35 groups that we wanted included in the selections, and it used only about three or four of the ones we suggested. We also tried to get a system whereby you could have one play for a dime, four for a quarter and nine for a half-dollar. What we got was one for a dime, three for a quarter and seven for a half-dollar."

The committee hopes to expand its activities as it develops. It already has plans concerning the conversion of the east room of the Commons' second floor into a temporary student center with two pool tables, two pinball machines and a computer quiz. It is also reviewing the possibility of using Chase Theater as another student center and of setting up a second bookstore, possibly in the proposed Stark Hall complex.

There is no set membership on the committee, and anyone who is willing to contribute ideas is invited to attend a committee meeting at 7 p.m. on Thursday in the Faculty Lounge of the Commons.

Wilkes PR Director Aiding Media Party

The Wilkes College Public Relations Office is playing a major role in the planning of a two-county gathering of news, advertising and public relations media on Saturday evening, December 20, at the Greenwood Motel and Restaurant.

Livingston (Pop) Clewell, college public relations director, who is one of the founders of the local public relations society, announced during the week that plans have been progressing for a holiday get-together of the three groups.

The affair will make history inasmuch as it will be the first time that individuals from the three classifications have met for a joint meeting and fun session.

Chemical Society Receives 3rd Honor

For the third successive year, the Wilkes College Chapter of the American Chemical Society has been cited for excellence during the 1968-69 academic year. It was selected from 518 chapters in the nation.

Captain Herb Kemp

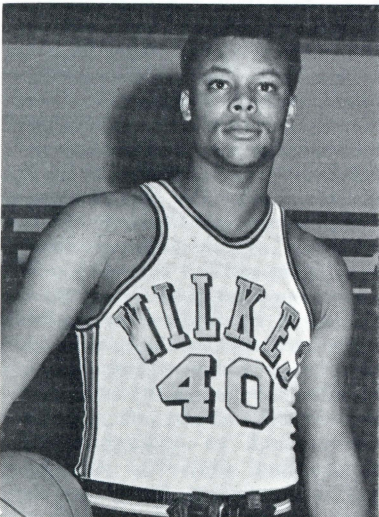

A Leader Of Men

Grapplers Open Season Tomorrow;

Oneonta First Foe In Quad-Meet

by Stan Pearlman

Herb Kemp is a student who is concerned, concerned about the lack of an existing strong relationship between day and dorm students, concerned about strengthening the relationship between the college and the community, and finally, since he is captain of this year's edition of the Colonel cage team, concerned about improving last year's 13-11 record. In regards to the cage team's record last year, Kemp believes that the problem with the team occurred on the road. "We won only three games away from home the entire season, and it was probably the result of our depending too much upon fan support rather than our own effort and initiative in trying for wins. This year we're going to have to assume more pride in ourselves and in our game. The crowd support should act only as a supplement to our own effort."

Kemp also realizes that unlike last year when he wasn't captain of the team, this year people will be watching him for direction. He states, "this year I'll have to set the example not by talking, but rather by my own actions. I'll also have to try to eliminate the physical and mental mistakes I was guilty of at times last year."

The Colonel grapplers open up the new campaign tomorrow with a quadrangular meet with University of Buffalo, Montclair State, and Oneonta participating. Wrestling coach John Reese will begin his 17th season at the helm. In sixteen years, his teams have compiled a record of 135-25-6.

Oneonta finished third in last season's quad-meet, behind Buffalo and Wilkes, first place winner. This year, Oneonta's team is not too well-known, although the Oneonta coach claims to have a respectable squad. Buffalo is progressing quite well and will provide some stiff competition.

The Colonels will begin the meet tomorrow, wrestling Oneonta at 1 p.m. Buffalo will meet Montclair State. The second round will take place late Saturday afternoon. At 8 p.m. Wilkes will oppose Buffalo and Montclair will face Oneonta. Each wrestler will wrestle three matches of six minutes, 3 two-minute rounds, each team will then have wrestled three dual matches.

The Colonels enter their first meet after two respectable scrimmages against Princeton and Army. Against Princeton co-captain Andy Matviak pulled a rib muscle which set the tone for the day. Five grapplers were injured at West Point, none of them serious. Coach Reese stated the wrestlers looked good in both encounters.

In typical conservative fashion Reese commented, "We have a veteran team but we must work on a lot of things." Based on their results in the scrimmages and practice sessions, the coach has listed the following to see action tomorrow:

At 118 pounds are four possibilities. Bob Fluhinger, Jay McGinley, Ed Garabedian, or sophomore Bill Lukridge will start. Co-captain Andy Matviak will wrestle at 126 pounds. Matviak holds the record for most pins in a season (1967-68) and won a Wilkes Open Crown in 1968.

Co-captain John Marfia will be at 134 pounds with assistance from Al Favata. In a quadrangular meet, a wrestler does not have to be in every meet so Favata will probably see some action. Marfia was the MAC champ in 1969 when he finished 11-1. He holds a 30-6 lifetime record, eleventh on the All-time list.

Sophomore Tom Morris will wrestle at 142, followed by Dennis Verzera at 150 pounds. Dennis was last year's MAC champ at 145 pounds learners on the squad. Coach Reese has four possible wrestlers at 158. If Al Zellner make the required weight, he get the starting nod. Zellner, sophomore with a 6-3 collegiate record. Backing him will be Brian Lott who was injured the of last season. Freshman Mandiago and Ray Burnacki are other choices.

Gary Willets will wrestle 160 pounds. He was third in the last season and has a 19-4 lifetime mark, winning 13 of last year.

Rich Ceccoli and Freshman Rupard will be at 177. Ceccoli compiled a 15-3 record in two seasons while Rupard has potential to be a great one.

Ron Fritts will wrestle 182 although he can go at heavy weight. Fritts holds the school record for the quickest pin, 14 seconds against Lycoming last year. He has 11 matches last season while he has only one. Leo Roan and Tom Grant will be at heavy weight. Grant saw action last year due to injuries but compiled a 2-1 mark, both via pins.

Coach Reese and his players go out tomorrow to better last season's mark of 14-1. As Reese said, the biggest turnout in the history of the team was at the season's season, the students and Wilkes should also have a big turnout. Tomorrow at 1 p.m.

Roosevelt House Star T. Higgins Voted MVP

As Intramural All-Star Team Is Selected

Tom Higgins was recently announced to be the Intramural League Most Valuable Player by Glen Arneson, director of the league. Higgins played for champion Roosevelt House at the tight end position.

Higgins, in addition to being a fine football player plays varsity baseball. In four regular season touch-downs, he averaged slightly more than a touchdown per game. In the championship game, Higgins scored on a 55-yard pass-play from quarterback Jim Rakowski. In the closing seconds of the game, he dove for and caught another pass which gave Roosevelt House the extra point and the title.

Arneson, part of a four-man selection crew which includes Bob Ockenfuss, Bob Pickton, and Richard Delvine, also announced the 1969 All-Star team. Terry Hurley and Harry Wright led the balloting for these selections.

Hurley and Wright, both quarterbacks for YMCA and Priapus respectively were tied. Higgins was named to the team and was joined by Carl Cook, Priapus; and Tom Page, YMCA at end. Hurley and Page led their team to the championship game, only to bow to Roosevelt. Bob Martucci, Webster House, and John Sequiri, Grissom were cited for outstanding work on the line at tackle. Al Zellner and Joe Tunnel led the balloting for the defensive team. Both played at defensive halfback for the Y and Roosevelt, respectively. Paul Gore, Priapus, was also selected at halfback. Buddy Sutton, outstanding linebacker for the Y was named to that position. Don Trust, YMCA, and Woody Woodraska, Roosevelt were selected for their work at defensive end.

Thus runner-up YMCA led the team with five selections followed by Priapus and Roosevelt with three. Grissom and Webster Houses had one apiece. Both YMCA and Roosevelt House finished in first place in their divisions. Priapus and Grissom, with identical 3-1 records were tied for second place behind the Y. Webster House also finished with three wins and one loss behind undefeated Roosevelt House.

Swimmers Dive Into

New Season Dec. 9

by Steve Jones

The Colonel aquamans, under the capable instruction of Coach Robert Corba, will launch their season December 9 at home against Harpur College, attempting to start the season with a big victory.

Looking to improve last season's mark, which included only one win at the expense of Philadelphia Textile, the team will depend on a blend of experience and new talent. Returning lettermen for Coach Corba will be co-captains Olin Lavory and Ray Salsburg,

Robert Corba

Doug Krinke and Dave Kaufman. Other Colonel mainstays will be Skip Fazio, Mike Hughes, Jim McDonald, Elliot Rief, and Rick Marchin. Marchin was cited by Corba to be a "freshman with a lot of promise."

All 15 team members are equally determined to turn in their best performances for a respectable season. This year's schedule includes nine meets. Each meet consists of 11 events, both team and individual, and provides plenty of competition. The season will culminate in the Mid-Atlantic Tournament, held in Elizabethtown March 7.

Swimming requires a great deal of conditioning as any of the major sports and it's the coach's job to get the team into that shape. Says Coach Corba, "We've got a hard-working team that should manage to do a fine job of pick up at least a few points over last year's record."

To see that the outlook can be anything but optimistic, Corba points to the fact that the team has a lot of experience and talent.

All home meets will be held at the YMCA and start either at 7 p.m. or 8 p.m. Bleachers are provided for spectators, who can play a part in the team's success. Any member who wishes to participate in the improved swimming team may still do so by contacting Corba.

The Sportfolio

by Pete Herbst

The football season isn't quite over yet as some new developments came up. Final Middle Atlantic Conference statistics were revealed recently and the Colonels, naturally, had a few firsts.

Offensive end Bill "Beamer" Lazor was the leading pass receiver in Eastern Division competition this past season. Lazor caught 22 passes in conference games for a total of 361 yards.

In team figures, the Gold Machine ranked second in total offense also in rushing offense.

As in the past, however, the Colonels were first in total defense and first in scoring. Wilkes scored 150 points in five games for an average of 30 points per game. On defense, the Schmidtmens permitted 1,161 yards in 334 plays for an average of 232.2 yards per game.

Junior fullback Bob Gennaro and sophomore tailback Ted Yeager came in another first when they ended the season with six touchdowns apiece for a total of 36 points. Bill Staake ranked second in punting with an average of 38.5 yards per kick.

Some of those statistics are rather interesting. At the beginning of the season, Coach Roland Schmidt believed his team's strength would be at offense as the defense could not be as proficient as it had been in previous campaigns. Happily, though, the defense came around to finish first in total defense. Of course, Gennaro's and Yeager's stats are not surprising at all since both established at their positions and do quite a job each Saturday afternoon.

Bill Staake's punting average is amusing if you compare his mark of 38.5 yards per kick to a team in the National Football League. The New York Giants, who have now lost seven straight games, have had trouble with finding a respectable punter. Ernie Koy, their third string fullback, made an attempt at it but his booming 13-yard punts were turned off the coaches. Their place-kicker, Pete Gogolak, then became the punter. He wasn't too bad and he would have stayed there if he not missed three field goal attempts in a game. Because the timing motion for punting and place-kicking are different, Gogolak's efficiency at making field goals suffered. Finally, the Giants succumbed to reality, forgot about what little pride they had left and signed Larry Johnson, the ex-New York Jet. Johnson had been cut at the beginning of the season to be replaced by Steve O'Neal and had since returned. However, Johnson is an excellent punter, if somewhat old and if blockers give him some protection, he might be able to punt.

Perhaps if Mr. Staake would not have objected to living in New York and if the Colonel season had ended a bit sooner...

The all-star team of the intramural touch football league was announced this week by Glenn Arneson, director of the league. As it was pointed out in the article, only five teams were represented on the team. That is, five teams out of 11. The method for choosing the all-stars is somewhat lacking, although it may be the only available way. Consider these facts: most league teams play the same six-man team on both offense and defense. With each team possessing a minimum of six players, then the total number of players in the league is, at a minimum, 66. More than likely, the number is over 100. Surely there are a lot more than 12 players who deserve credit for their play throughout the season.

Perhaps a better way of selecting the all-star squad is available. Since there are two divisions in the league, choose two separate all-star teams, with one condition: that each team is represented with at least one player. This method opens up new possibilities. There could be an all-star game at the conclusion of the season and a most valuable player that game chosen, in addition to the MVP throughout the season.

This would mean that the same number of players are chosen, six, eight, to a squad, but those six represent only their division, that is, half the total number of players in the league. The all-star game would then be a good culmination of league play, which is run rather well through the efforts of Glenn Arneson and his assistants.

As long as I'm on this topic, congratulations to Tom Higgins on being named most valuable player. I still remember a move he put on me in our first game of the season. Tom faked inside and I went with it as he ran around me. I vividly recall him catching the pass and scoring as he watched 15 yards away. Congratulations.

Results of the first annual Knute Rockne Bowl are in. Randolph-Macon, the school which got the nod over Wilkes, defeated the University of Bridgeport, 47-28.

Macon halfback Howard Stevens scored three touchdowns as he ran for 195 yards to lead the squad from Ashland, Georgia, over the Purple Knights. Macon quarterback Doug Toan clicked on three scoring drives of 13, 2, and 13 yards.

The win gave the Yellow Jackets their ninth win against one loss and the Knights finished the year 8-2.

Colonels Burn Blue Devils, 81-62, With Great Defense For First Win

by Rick Bigelow

The Wilkes College Colonels opened their 1969-70 campaign on a winning note Monday evening as they routed the Madison-FDU Blue Devils, 81-62. Coach Ron Rainey's squad combined its patented ball-hawking defense with an outstanding shooting exhibition to emerge victorious over its taller hosts.

The Wilkesmen displayed a well-balanced attack as four cagers hit for double figures. Frank Januzzi, filling the vital sixth-man role, came off the bench early in the first half to spark the attack. Januzzi hit on eight of 10 shots from the floor, mostly on long one-handed jumpers.

KEMP

The 6'3" Kemp believes that being chosen as captain implies a trust that the other members of the team have in his leadership ability, and the fact that they can talk over any problems with him and then work them out together as a team. He feels that setting a good example for the rest of the team. He feels that setting a good example for the rest of the team will be his most difficult task as captain of the squad.

The new captain has set quite an example in past seasons. He was named All-East in 1968 and led the squad last year in scoring and rebounding with 16.7 and 10.7 averages, respectively. In addition, he holds two Wilkes rebounding records.

Kemp is a Business Management and Industrial Relations major and has a desire to eventually get into public relations work. His interest in meeting and working with other people will certainly make him suitable for this job.

As for goals, Kemp lists only one, "anyone can set artificial goals, but you have to be pragmatic about it. Peace of mind is the greatest goal any man can achieve."

Complementing Januzzi in the scoring column were Rich Davis, 20 points; captain Herb Kemp, 16 points; and Wally Umbach, with 13. Davis, 6'5" junior center from Plymouth, enjoyed his finest game in Wilkes livery as he registered on eight of 16 field goal attempts and completely dominated both boards. Bob Ockenfuss joined forces with Kemp and Davis as the trio brought down a total of 38 rebounds.

The Blue Devils jumped out to an early 5-0 lead as Joe Schriver and Jim Harmon, the potent one-two scoring punch, hit on short-range jumpers. Kemp and Davis rejuvenated the Colonels' attack and narrowed the margin to 11-6 at the 14:20 juncture. The two squads traded buckets up until the 11:10 mark when Davis hit on three consecutive lay-ups. This action gave the Wilkesmen an 18-17 lead which they never relinquished.

Schriver kept the home forces in the ball game by converting jumpers from the corner throughout the first session. Davis played a masterful defense against Harmon, holding the 6'8" center to three field goals in the first 20 minutes.

Rainey's crew greeted the Devils with a pressing game at the outset of the final half and quickly spurred to a 45-35 lead. During this stretch, Jay Reimel and Umbach blanketed the Devils' offensive attack. The margin was upped to 59-41 as Januzzi, Kemp, and Davis led the scoring parade.

Coach Paul Lizzo's Devils were dealt a setback when Shriver fouled out of the game with 8:50 remaining to play. The 6'4" sparkplug hustled at both ends of the court and played the role of floorleader.

The remainder of the contest proved to be a run-away as the Colonels ripped the net from all angles. With 3:50 left to play, Januzzi hit on three consecutive jumpers which gave the Colonels their biggest bulge, 74-49. Harmon converted several lay-ups in the waning minutes, which knocked the score down to 81-62.

Coach Rainey had the following comment after the game, "We're always glad to win that first one. This year it is more important than ever because we play our first four on the road—the boys really needed this one and I'm glad to leave here with a victory. I don't think Madison was really up for us, but I think we could have done the job in an event. We worked real hard for this one and I'm just glad things turned out the way they did."

The Colonels are on the road again tomorrow afternoon as they take on Susquehanna.

master's programs. The second area will be the undergraduate liberal arts core curriculum as it relates to contemporary knowledge. The third area will be the Administrative and faculty structure as it affects curricular innovation and inter-disciplinary program planning.

Dr. Michelini and his committee meet every other Friday at 8:30 to keep the preparations for this case study up to date. A proposed schedule has been prepared and consists of such things as four Seminars, dinners with the various committees, individual or small groups conferences, and a tour of the campus.

Wilkes College is one of seven colleges chosen to be a case study. It was chosen because observation and discussion of the way it does things is expected to be rewarding for others with like interests.

HYPOCRITE

militants claim they hate war and love peace. They hate this particular war in Asia, but they love their own substitute wars on campuses and elsewhere. They are, in fact, warriors, containing within their breasts all the hate, fear, envy, aggression and boredom out of which so many wars have been born. They assume the right to commit acts of common criminality, but demand exceptions from the common penalties.

One of the basic complaints of young revolutionaries is that adult society is full of hypocrisy. But it appears that hypocrisy is one phenomenon that has managed to bridge the generation gap.
