YESTERDAY

TODAY

TOMORROW

There is so much more to Wilkes than just studying. Enjoying your free time is almost as important as studying. Many times as studying. Many times around campus, there are groups of friends sitting and talking. In a tree behind Chase Hall, next to the bookstore and along the walkways are places where friends have gathered. Talking with friend is not the only thing to do on campus. There are many events at Darte Center that are enjoyed Darte Center that are enjoyed by Wilkes students, faculty and the public. Before we socialize and are entertained, we learn in Wilkes latest addition on South Franklin Street, the Classroom Office Building. Wilkes provides us with a well-rounded academic and social life.

Tomorrow

As much as things change here at Wilkes University, so much still stays the same. You can remember the walks to class with one of your close friends that you never got to see enough of, like Sue George and Linda Chuong. Another thing that doesn't change on campus is the frequent visits to the John Farley Library. There are times when you would rather not be there, but there are also times when it is nice to sit and just read the newspaper in the solitude that only a library can provide.

Wilkes also never forgets what makes it the university that it is today. The John Wilkes statue reminds us of the reason why we are Wilkes. On a more contem- porary level, our Alma Mater is known for its small classes and teachers that interact with students enthusiastically.

Homecoming Weekend 1995 was a memorable one for alumni, present students and faculty of Wilkes University. It started off on Thursday with Homecoming elections. The candidates for Queen were Holli Root, Jodi Depue, Kristen McNally, Katie Holliday, Karen Bednarczyk, Kim Howells, Mary Jo Cunningham, Kellie Klein, Amy Kuzmick and Kim Kaskel. All of these lovely candidates had an equal counterpart that could possibly have been her King for Homecoming Weekend. The candidates for King were Scott Mengle, Sean Gorman, JJ Grube, Tom Horvat, Brian Adams, David Habowski, Andrew Carter, Ali Quereshi, RobertSteinberger, and Mike LaMura. The crowning of the King Ali Quereshi and Queen Kim Kaskel happened at halftime during the Wilkes/Kings football game.

during the Wilkes/Kings football game.

The Wilkes Colonels defeated their top rival 29 to 15. The impressive game played at Ralston Field had led players such as Elijah Powell and Mike Conaghan. The team showed their sttength to their coach Joe DeMelfi, and proved that the Wilkes Football team should be taken seriously.

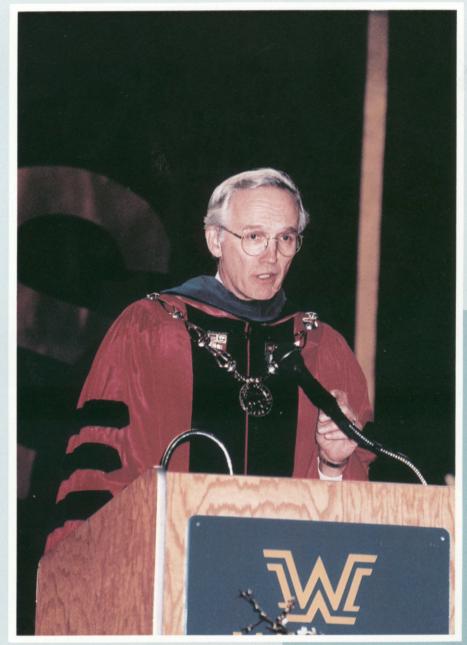

Wilkes Football team should be taken seriously. There was much celebration throughout the weekend. The football game was not the only thing to celebrate. Capin Hall held an Open House, the Darte Center had its thirtieth anniversary, the Edward Darling, Jr. Theatre was dedicated and the Pep Rally were all events to celebrate. One of the biggest events was the Homecoming Dinner Dance at Gennetti's ballroom. The students of Wilkes looked their best, dancing the night away. The theme was "These Are the Days". . . to remember. Nothing could be more truthful when it comes to Homecoming Weekends at Wilkes.

Clockwise from above:

- Art Club wins first place in the banner contest by telling the truth.
- Phil loosens his body as he loosens his tie.
- Dropouts from the '60's come back to Wilkes in style.

Freeing the Mind Through a Liberal Education

thoughts from the editor

A liberal education at Wilkes University has made me realize that as individuals most of us have lived our lives by the guidlines of a certain standard or moral code which puts limits on our lives, our imagination, our experiences, our knowledge, and our spiritual growth. Such a way of living can only be considered as a self-constraining, self-defeating, and eventually, a self-disappointing way of living. When individuals develop a pragmatic view of life determined by their special view or interest of religion, philosophy, morality, ethics, their rhetorical approach to any issue creates a causal relationship within the limits of their own interest. Whatever interests them less, or better stated, whatever isn't considered worth their while because of the closed-mindedness developed by their pragmatic determinism is simply rejected as false. This approach towards life prevents individual growth and creates only an illusion of "what is" because the only response these individuals can perceive is already predetermined by a selected and limited view. The philosophy behind the liberal arts education at Wilkes has made me realize that as individuals, we can not afford to view life as a subject of study which revolves around one law, but rather an object of study which revolves around an infinite body of man-made theories. And these theories, both past and present, when combined may imply a universal theory which may in fact shed some light upon past, present, and future reasoning with an eclectic view, but not however, an absolute law. History has shown human kind is right only for a moment because eventually he or she realizes that their views have been limited by the constant progression of deterministic reasoning.

A Few Words From the President

To The Graduating Class of 1996:

You leave a changing Wilkes University for a dramatically changing world. The Class of 1996 has had a very special role in the campus transformation. You were the beneficiaries of new and renovated buildings as well as of a changing campus ambiance typified by the new Fenner Quadrangle, the improvements to Ralston Field, and the new statue of John Wilkes. More alterations and additions are planned for the years immediately ahead, and I hope you will return to campus and take pride in the increasing beauty and enhanced facilities of your alma mater.

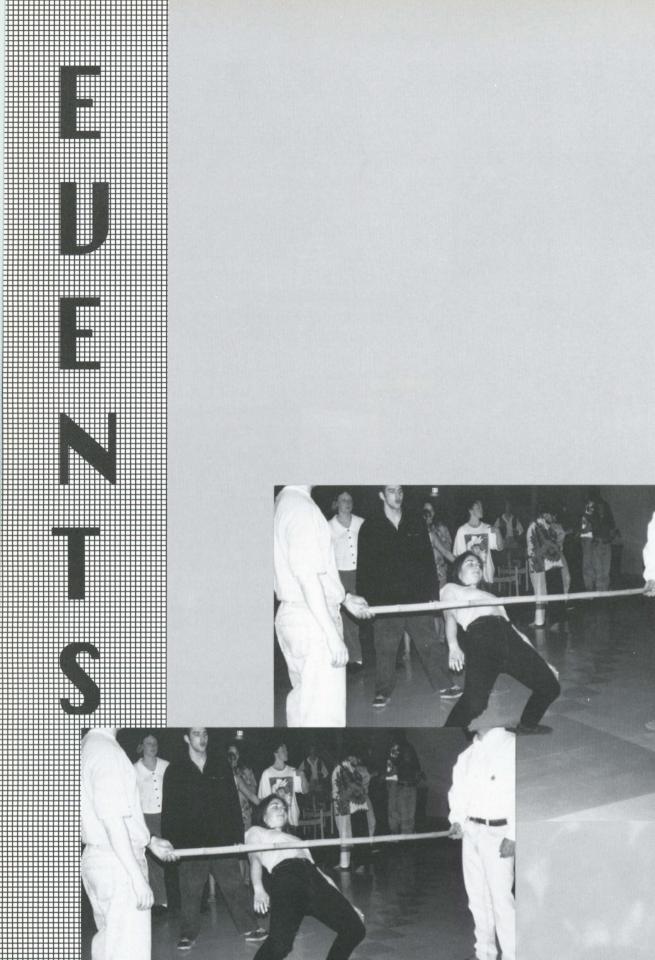

I write this letter just after participating in the Senior Awards Ceremony in the Edward Darling Theatre where the quality of our class and the opportunities flowing from your Wilkes education were everywhere in evidence. You continue the traditions of academic excellence that go back to the earliest years of Wilkes. You also have consolidated the tradition of community service that was still in its infancy during your freshman year. You have availed yourselves of the cooperative education and internship opportunities more than any previous class. In these and other ways you have set new standards and established new traditions affecting both the academic program and the co-curricular program at Wilkes. In athletics, both in men's and women's sports, you have reached new heights that your successors will be motivated to climb--and exceed.

In short, you have helped me make Wilkes a better place. We hope your pride in your alma mater will continue to grow and that the leadership of your class in joining with a growing Wilkes Alumni Association will help strengthen the alumni's involvement and support of the University. Come back often. Stay in touch. Be Wilkes proud and encourage others to become beneficiaries of a Wilkes education.

Good luck to the Class of 1996!

CLUB DAY

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL OCCASION

Every fall, between Stark Learning Center and Chase Lawn, Club Day is held to recruit new and old members into signing up for clubs and special activities that coordinated by students to keep Wilkes students entertained and be active in volunteer services activities. Some major clubs make their appearance on a sunny day were Amnicola, Manuscript, Circle K, and Volunteer Services and Campus Interfaith. Among these clubs there was a tarot cards reader (sponsored by the Programing Board) on location reading students their fortune and giving their horescope for the year.

Club Day is not just another event. It is an event that students can come out and join clubs that they are interested in or just to get to know other students on campus and off campus. You can join as many clubs you can handle. Come out and support our school and students leaders who keeps us on our toes.

Amy Mazur and Mary Hession try to attract volunteers for their interesting program.

The Second Annual Hunger and Homelessness Week was held from November 11th through the 18th. The week was designed to cause the Wilkes community to pause and consider poverty as it affects everyone's lives, city, country and world. It was also held to motivate students and the general public to become involved in a week of learning and awareness. The week was organized by a panel consisting of students, faculty and administrators and was sponsered by Wilkes University's Campus Interfaith and Volunteer Services.

Highlights of the week were: a lecure on Migrant Workers in PA, the Walk Against Hunger, the Oxfam Fast, the Hunger Banquet, working at the Soup Kitchen, a Meditation, and the film "With Honors".

INTO IHE STREETS

The Wilkes University Office of Volunteer Services sponsered a week of volunteer activities in honor of National Volunteer Week. Into the Streets is a national outreach, recruitment and education program created to increase the quality and quantity of college students involved in community service and community problemsolving. This year's issues included: Mental Health, Senior Citizens, Literacy, Children and Youth, and the Environment. Students volunteered from aweek long agenda of activities ranging from raking leaves with children at Kirby Park to picking up litter off the streets of Wilkes-Barre or playing games with senior citizens to teaching computer literacy skills to the public. The service to solve problems in the community was a huge success. Many students became aware of the little things they could do to make a significant difference. As a result, everyone profited...... a new generation went Into the Streets!!!

Into the Streets is a powerful tool for Change.

"Information Night" was a success thanks to students' efforts and cooperation.

Red Cross Blood Drive

It is as vital as life itself. It is blood. Wilkes University held three blood drives in the 1995-1996 academic year. The first one was in early October. The first blood drive had 123 participants. This is over the goal of 120 participants. Amy Mazur, the Director of Volunteer Services, was pleased that Blood Drive '95 was a huge success. The blood drives were held in the Marts Center's Rumours lounge. It took place between 10 am and 4 pm, so everyone had an opportunity to donate. Giving blood is not a big chore, but as incentive there were prizes. Some of the prizes were cordless phones, gift certificates, and long distance phone cards.

The other two blood drives were in 1996, one in February and one in May. All of them had refreshments such as soda, pizza, hoagies, and snacks. Giving blood to save someone's life can be more rewarding than you think.

Left: Former Dean of Student Affairs, George Ralston, finds the donation procedure rather simple, since he has donated his blood at countless Wilkes and Red Cross blood drives. Phuong Bui volunteered some of her time for the Paint-A-Smile program.

"If it is to Be, It is up to Me!"

Volunteer Services and Campus Interfaith, located on the third floor of Conyngham, offers students many exciting opportunities to become involved and make a difference. The programs allow students to make more friends on campus and in the community. Amy Mazur, head of Volunteer Services, and Mary Hession, head of Campus Interfaith, have worked hard for the past three years raising enthusiasm on campus and have established a newsletter, a homepage, and a volunteer hotline to show for their efforts.

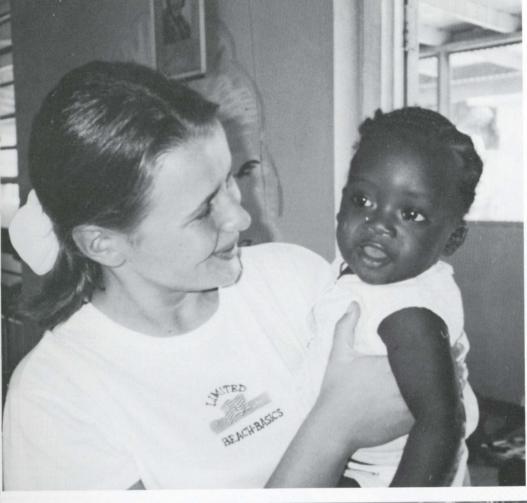

One of their programs, called Talk it Out, meets once a week for dinner, conversation and planned service projects. Other volunteer programs involving the community include: SHARE (a program especially designed for elderly persons which gives participants $30.00 worth of food for $14.00 each month), R.E.A.C.H. (a program for disadvantaged youth and their families), Association for the Blind, the Blood Drive, American Red Cross, and Adopt-A-Grandparent (a program which visits the elderly at the Little Flower Manor who do not receive visitors).

Whenever there is someone in need, you can be sure these services will be there to help. And thanks to Amy and Mary, Wilkes can continue to provide service to the community through students' efforts and generosity.

Amy Mazur volunteered at a children's center in Jamaica while researching a possible break trip sight for future volunteers.

It whooped the lame pony!

Rusted

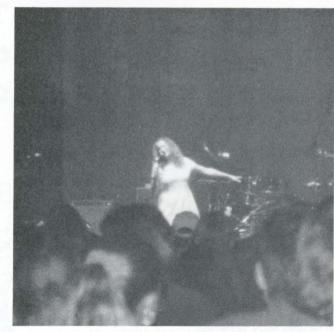

The concerts at Wilkes are second to none. Wilkes was graced by a few big names in the 1995-1996 academic year. On October 31, Halloween night, Rusted Root played for 3000 fans in the Martz Center. The band, originally from Pittsburgh, had an altogether different sound than what is usually offered today in the music industry.

The six member band played hits such as "XTC", "Rain" and "Lost in the Crowd." The fans, some in Halloween costumes and some in street clothes, listened, sang along and danced to the cutting edge music.

Another upcoming artist who opened for Rusted Root was Joan Osborne. She performed probably her most memorable song of 1995, "One of Us." Everyone seemed very pleased by both performances.

Oh the things that college students will do to make some fast cash! When the "Blizzard of Bucks" game show came to the Wilkes University campus in the spring of 1996, many students came out to see if they would have their chance to get in the money blizzard machine. Everyone there tried their best to get as much cash as they could, but how easy was it really? Making yourself a public spectacle of ridicule and grabbing at the dollars in a blizzard machine may not have been as easy as it looked. But everyone had fun and a few walked away a little bit richer.

WinterWeekend

The Weekened to end all weekends...

Of all the bachnalian events in the Wilkes Calendar, one reins supreme. That event is Winter Weekened, two days and three nights dedicated to madness, mayhem, and a generous helping of fermented beverages.

This year, during the weekend of Feburary 16-18, Wilkes let its hair down and let it all hang out. The weekend became a whilrwind of partying and merriment comparable in scale to the the wild Dionyscian passions of old. Friday night kicked off a large scale brain cell safari that carried well on into not only Saturday morning, but Saturday night and Sunday as well. The Lord of Misrule was at home at Wilkes that weekend and Brother Bluto smiled down from the heavens onto the campus and in a way, all was right with the world.

"Hands On" service to the community

Most students usually look forward to fall and spring break to relax, travel, or spend time with family and friends. But some students decide to give of themselves instead. That's exactly what happened during the fall break trip to a halfway house in Maryland. At St. Martin's Home for Women and Children, seven students sorted and packed food in the center's food bank, hung clothing for the clothing bank and babysat for homeless women at the shelter.

This year's spring break trip traveled to South Dakota's Rosebud Indian Reservation. Eight students repaired houses by painting and doing carpenter work while learning about the Sioux Indian culture through first hand experience.

As an end result, the students participating in the trips discovered the importance of teamwork in the midst of diversity.

Area high school and elementary school students, college students from Wilkes and Kings University and Wilkes faculty and staff gathered together along with fifteen Japanese students from Tamagawa University to take part in this cultural event. This was the fifth year Wilkes hosted a program for these students from Tokyo, Japan. During the night, these Japanese education majors intoduced the public to traditional games, crafts and other activities. Some of these activities included origami (the art of folding paper), calligraphy, dressing up in kimonos (beautiful Japanese dresses), and storytelling of Japanese fables. Mix and Match

On February 2, 1996, the student governments of Wilkes University and Kings College sponsored a Mix and Match at the Kirby Center on public square, free to all students from both schools. Before the Mix and Match, students filled out a questionnaire about their interests and priorities in life. At the Kirby Center that night, students received a list of their matches. At first some students tried to find their match, but soon people just, played or watched "The Dating Game," danced, talked with friends, and mingled with students from both neighboring schools.

Thomas P. Shelburne Television Center Dedication

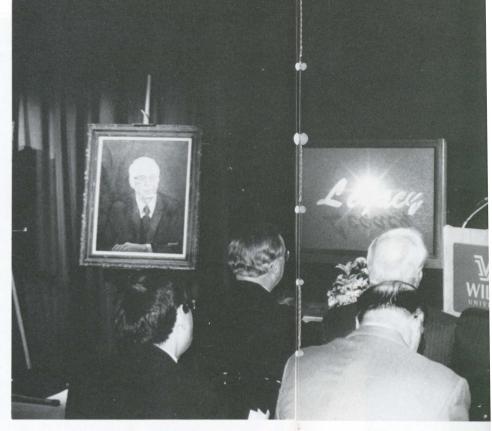

STUDIO A On Air

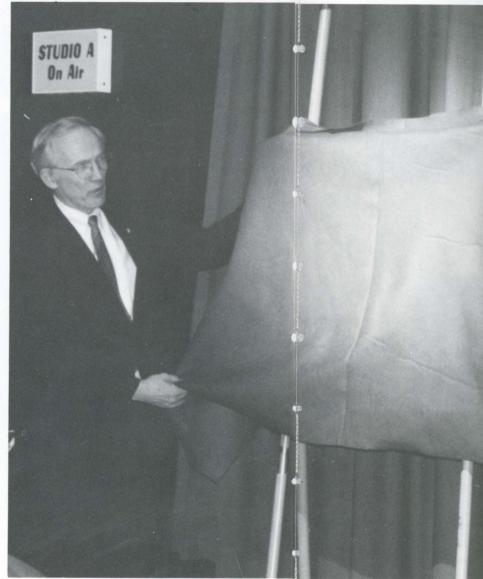

After two years of planning and an investment of nearly $750,000 representing the first phase of construction, the Thomas P. Shelburne Television Center marked its grand opening in April, 1996. This facility serves not only as a powerful statement of Wilkes University's commitment to the future of its students and the importance of the electronic media, but as a living memorial to one of northeast Pennsylvania's most beloved and innovative broadcast pioneers.

Mr. Shelburne began shaping a vision for the electronic media in the Wyoming Valley in 1946 when he began as a partner at WILK radio and television. Eventually, a later merger created WNEP-TV, the local ABC affiliate and market leader of this area. Known for his commitment to award-winning regional productions and community service, Tom Shelburne represents the very best in broadcasting and serves as an appropriate model for all incoming and prospective broadcasting students.

The 5,500 square foot facility contains: two production studios, two modern control rooms, three seperate editing suites, a master "head end", four field cameras, and an adjacent long distance learning and teleconferencing center. The facility is not only innovative and exciting but so is the atmosphere inside the Department of Communications. Currently, 160 students are majoring in four concentrations: radio/television production, organizational communications, journalisim, and rhetoric/public communication; all comprising the fourth largest area of study on campus today. Additionally, weekly productions such as "Wilkes Today", "WOW!" and "Colonels Corner" involve a significant number of students, both major and non-major at the center.

While we were enjoying winter break, a blanket of thick snow covered the ground. Some of us were enjoying the warmer temperatures of our southern homes, but most of us were not fortunate enough to escape the Blizzard of 1996. There were over forty counties under a snow emergency which means that unless it is an emergency, do not drive. Therefore, the malls, grocery stores and entertainment centers were closed unless their employees could walk to work. Not to mention it was cold outside--about 15 degrees below zero. The wind gusts were up to 45 miles per hour at times. These were no conditions to go out and take a sleigh ride. Scraping off cars, salting pavements and shoveling heavy snow off of roofs were the main activities of the days in early January. Just days after the area started to recover, and we got back to school, Mother Nature stepped in again.

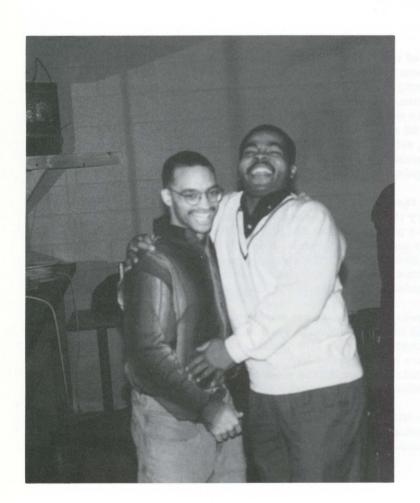

Does everyone remember what they were doing the night of the evacuation? Probably so. After the Blizzard of 1996 came heavy rains and a January thaw that drenched and inundated the Wilkes campus and the surrounding Wyoming Valley. This was a perfect combination to make the Susquehanna River rise. The river was almost at full capacity. This made people wonder if the 37 foot levee could hold the powerful water. Wilkes-Barre took precautions and evacuated the areas surrounding the river, including Wilkes students. The students that could go home, did, while the 150 remaining students were transported by bus to College Misericordia. These students got buses at the Martz Center and traveled to Dallas for a one night stay.

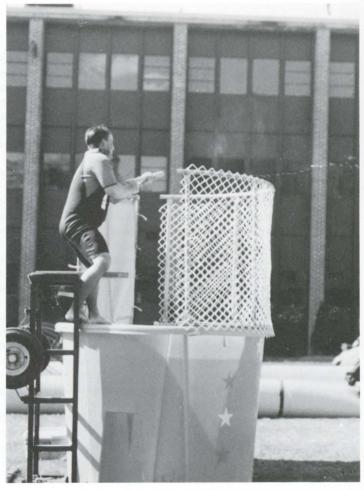

Wilkes was busy removing computer lab equipment and valuable art work from the basements and first floors of COB and the Stark Learning Center. All of the commotion started at about midnight. Even at this time of night, Wilkes got the news out through Residence Life Assistants, Security, and area media. By three in the morning, the bused students were in the gym of Misericordia. Residence Life thought that the procedure went very smoothly. The students from Wilkes were pleased with the neighboring college and the hospitable treatment. College Misericordia provided the students with free snacks, a television, games and basketballs.

There was relief in sight when the Susquehanna River near the campus was not going to flood and it started to recede. By Sunday, practically everything was back to normal, so there was no reason for students not to get back in gear by going to classes bright and early on Monday morning.

MULTICULTURAL STUDENT COALITION,

ana

LAL TION

Unitedat Wilkes, andwiththe World

The 2nd annual Block Party was held on the Greenway between COB and Stark this year. The turnout was unbelievable. There were more games this year compared to last year. Some of the Block Party attractions are Aerobatron, Biosphere Bowling, Dunk Tank, High Striker, Sumo Wrestling, Battle of the Bands, Beer Tent, Food Vendors and many more. The Off Campus Council (OCC) sponsored this event with the support of Student Government, Inter-Residence Hall Council, Programming Board, and the Alumni Association.

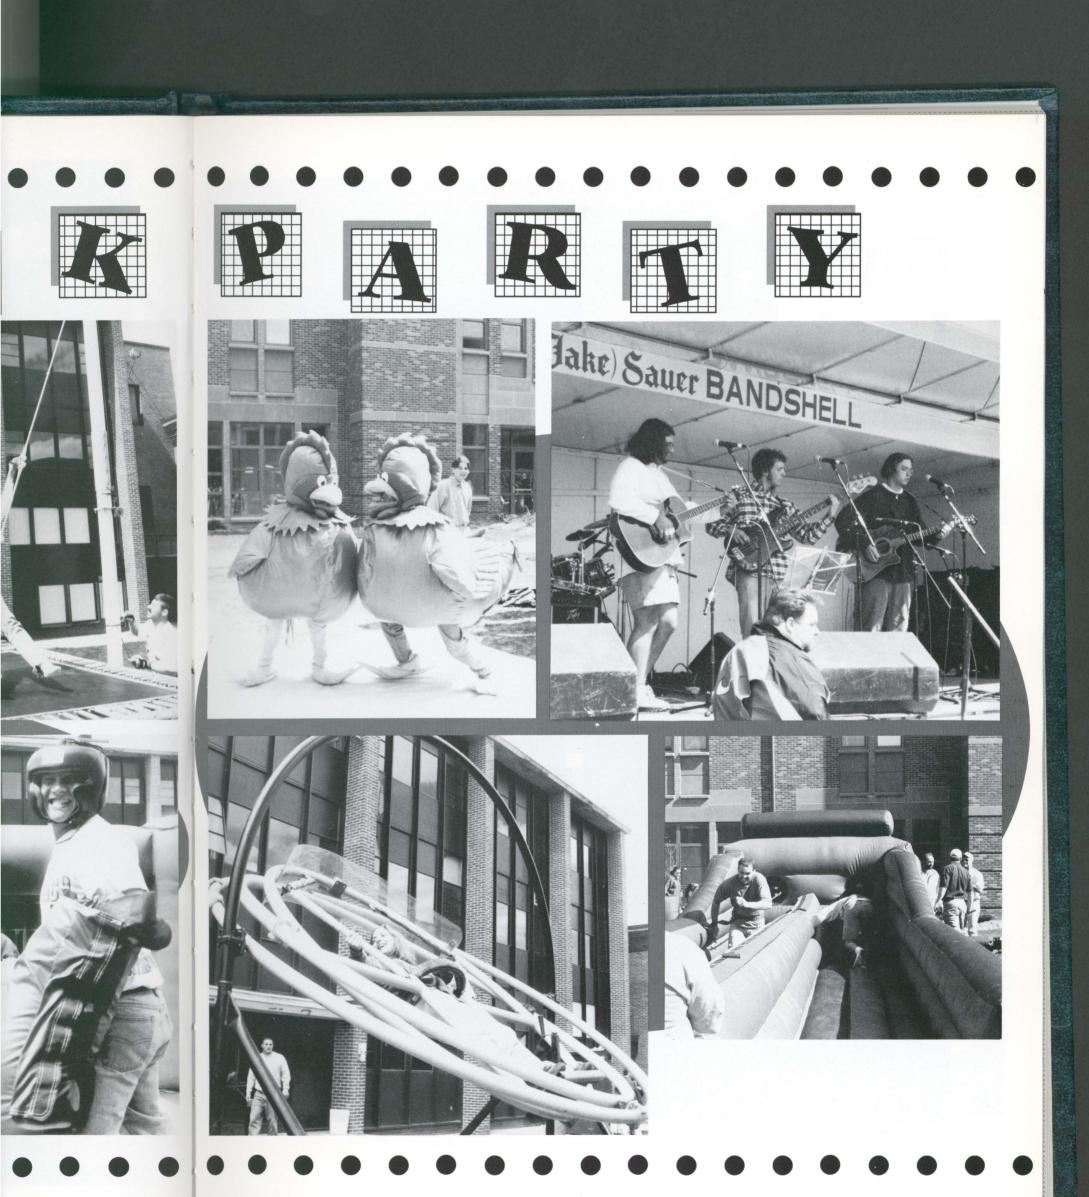

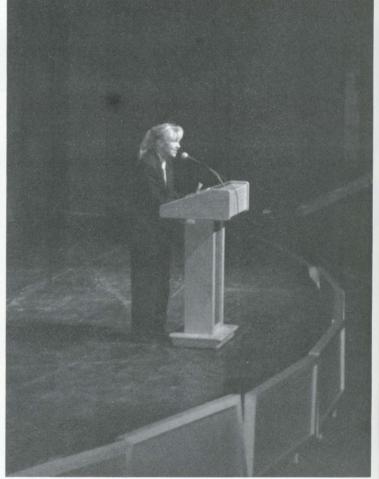

Guest Lectures

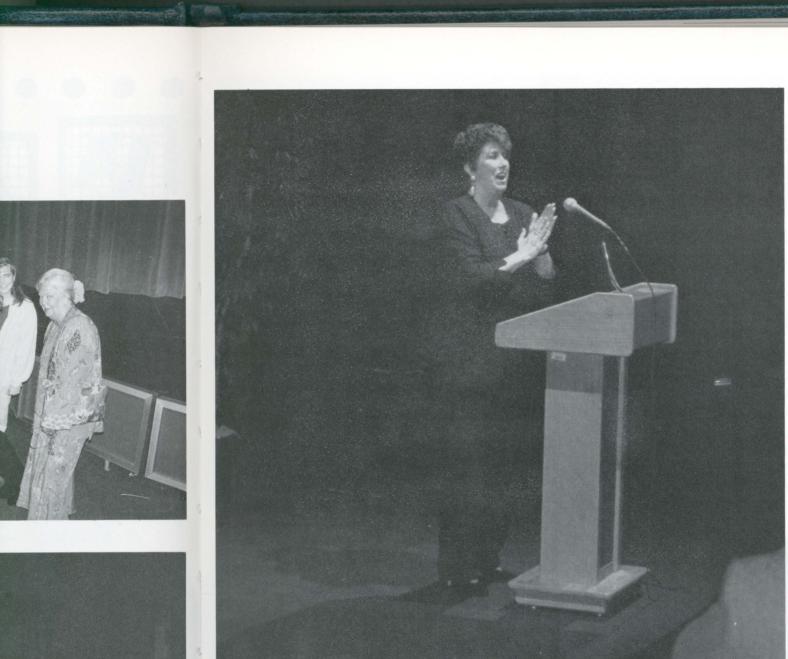

In September and October of 1995, Wilkes University was happy to welcome guest speakers Katie Kostner and Marcia Wallace, respectively. Miss Kostner spoke about the dangers of date rape and how to avoid it by sharing her own heart-wrenching story of when she was raped at William and Mary in Virginia. Ms. Wallace, of the television show "Webster," shared her story of her battle with breast cancer to inspire and inform others about this type of cancer.

Mardi Gras!

Food Fest 1996!!

Once again this year, the students were ever so happy to try out all the new kinds of food that could be found at Mardi Gras in Pickering Cafeteria. What kind of food was there? Everything from heavenly cheesecake to gourmet coffee to chicken fingers and pasta. Everyone went there hungry and went away more than stuffed.

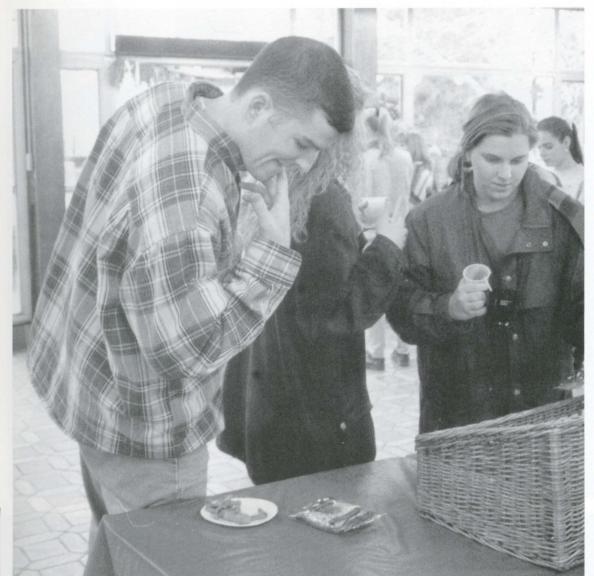

Photos clockwise from left:

- --"Hmmmm. Now what do I want??"
- --"Now make sure you tell all of your friends about how good this food is, okay?"
- --Trying a little bit of everything....
- --"Are you sure I'm going to like this, ma'am?"
- --Even our great cafeteria workers were having a good time at Mardi Gras!

Spotlight on Programming Board

The WUPB is responsible for bringing a wide variety of entertainment acts to campus. This year, our campus had the opportunity to see commedian Tim Settimi, consult psychic Wilma Carroll and be mesmerized by hypnotist Mark Pittman. Batman Forever, Apollo 13, Father of the Bride II and Toy Story were just a few of the movies offered free on Friday evenings.

In the past two years alone, Alanis
Morissette, Rusted Root, Joan
Osborne, LIVE and Comedian Adam Sandler have performed to sold out crowds. These concerts are selected, organized and run by the board who work together as a team and make our students laugh, sing, dance and "body surf."

A Super Season of Colonels Football!!

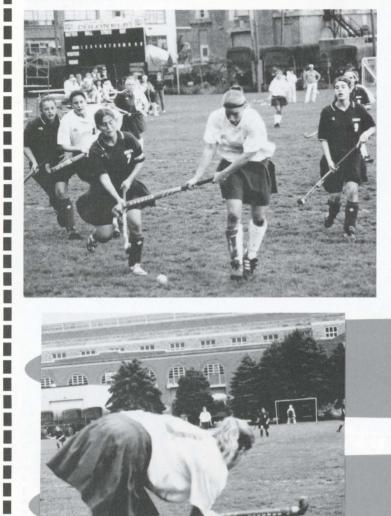

With an overall seaon record of 5 wins and 5 losses, the Colonel Football team had a great season. The competition, though was tough this year with the Colonels facing tough opponents such as Susquehanna and FDU-Madison. The Colonels were not phased, though, by Wilkes' rivals, the Monarchs of Kings College, who they easily beat in the Homecoming Game.

Field Hockey

Once again, the women's field hockey team managed to finish what they started out to do. The players were determined to make the NCAA, and they did for the first time in Wilkes history. This is an event that will leave a strong imprint on those who will return next year.

The hockey team defended their title of MAC Freedom League once again for the third time in a row. Because of the players' commitment, they were able to accomplish their goals as a team. Many thanks to those parents who came out and supported the players in times of triumph and defeat.

The team's success is due to the caring, understanding and support the players got from their coaches. Thanks for a great season!

After what can only be called a rebuilding year, the Lady Colonels finished the year with a disappointing 0-10 record. Led by seniors Kim Howells and Chris Mayeski, the women's tennis team continued to improve for the future.

Men's Soccer

The men's soccer team had their ups and downs, but they manged to stay together throughout the season. They gave their best efforts in every game and their determination is unthinkable.

The team may be struggling, but they are out to have fun. Competition is important but if there is no fun involved, it's like having a team without spirit. Best of luck to the team next year.

Women's Soccer

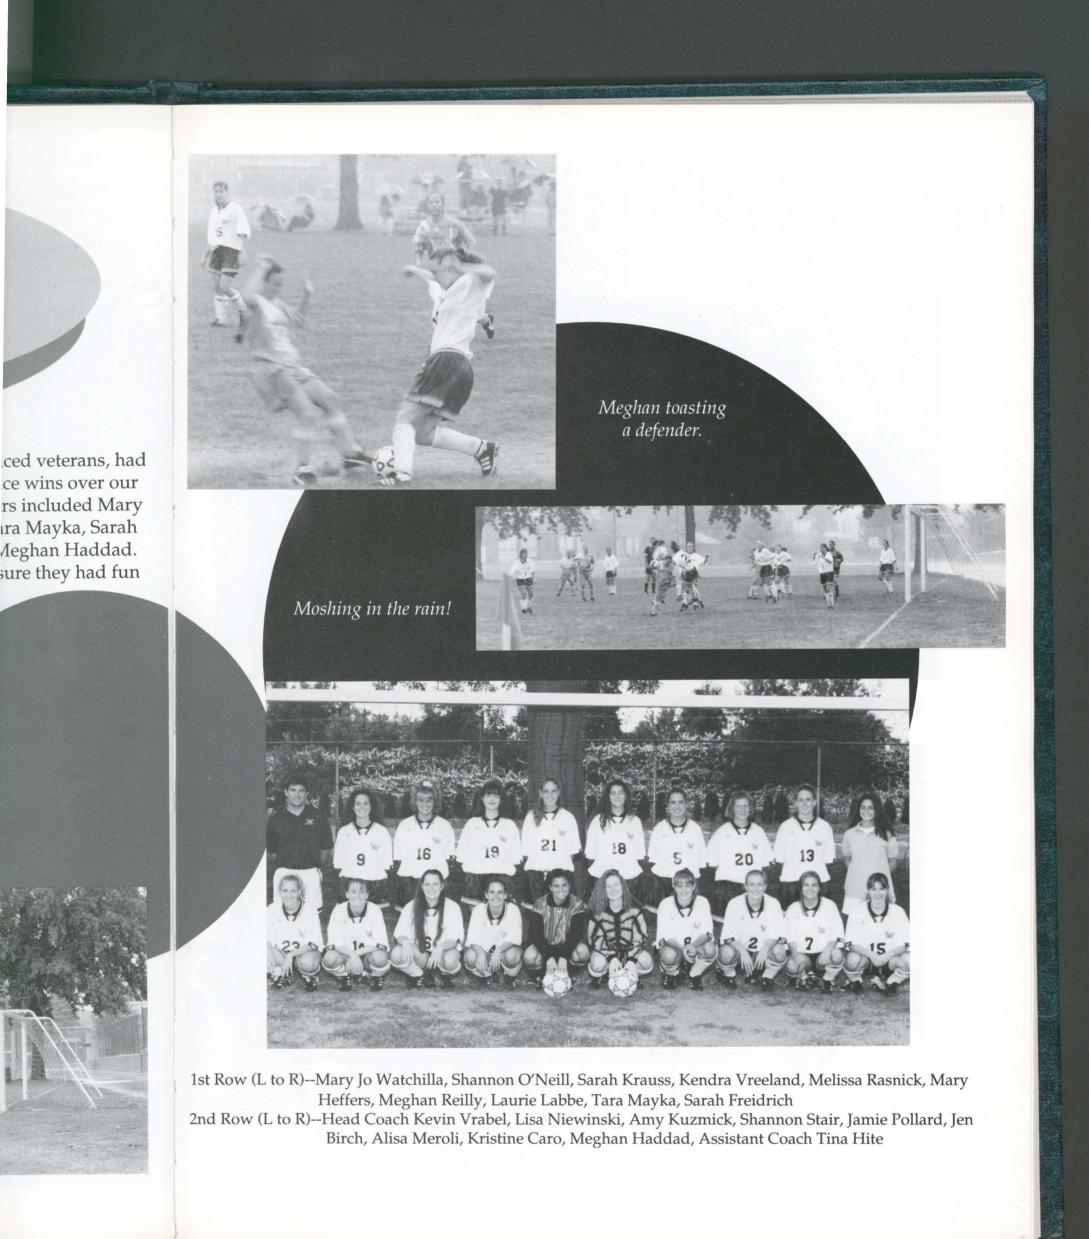

The 1995 installment of Women's Soccer, packed with fresh faces and experienced veterans, had a season of disheartening losses to their opponents, but also one with some nice wins over our neighbors at Kings and teams like Juniata and Susquehanna. Returning players included Mary Jo Watchilla, Shannon O'Neill, Sarah Krauss, Missy Rasnick, Mary Heffers, Tara Mayka, Sarah Freidrich, Lisa Niewinski, Amy Kuzmick, Shannon Stair, Jamie Pollard, and Meghan Haddad. The team ended their season with a record of 5 wins and 11 losses, but we're sure they had fun

A Good Season for the Lady Colonels Volleyball Team

With a final record of 12 wins and 12 losses, the Lady Colonels Volleyball team made their campus proud. Senior Tammy Swartwood earned her thousandth assist. Wendy O'Connor and Carrie Wilkes both set school records for their numerous kills and digs. Plus with all their other super atheletes like Samantha Smart, Katie Barnhart, and Rebecca Baker, how could the ladies not have a successful season? Tammy is quoted as saying, "Our goal is a winning season." With all the accomplishments of this '95-'96 team, it's apparent that they reached this goal.

The men's basketball team accumulated numerous titles throughout the 95-96 season. After finishing with a 28-2 record, including a 12 game winning streak, the Colonels finished with the best season in Wilkes history. After storming through the regular season, the Colonels defeated a tough Moravian team and were declared MAC Champions. Led by seniors Dave Macedo, Matt LaBuda, Chris Parker and Jason Turner, the team was invited and seeded number two in the Middle Atlantic Region of the NCAA Division III Championship. After two impressive wins in the first two rounds, the Colonels suffered a tragic loss to Franklin & Marshall College. Despite the loss, the Colonels lived up to their impressive number one ranking by Sports Illustrated.

The 1995-96 Women's Basketball team showed heart both on the court and with local children this year. The team hosted a kids night in October, where the players probably had just as much fun as the kids. As far as the season goes, the Lady Colonels finished with a decent record of 8-15.

BASEBALL

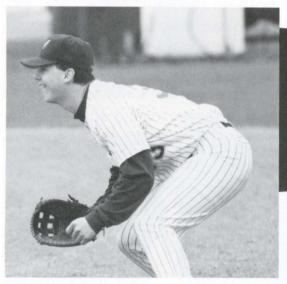

Although Wilkes Baseball did not always have the amount of student support it would have liked, the team probably enjoyed their successful season anyway. With amazing victories such as a 4-1 upset over Elizabethtown and disappointing losses to King's College, the team had a rollercoaster season that unfortunately did not end with a berth in the playoffs. Key players for Wilkes this year included senior Grant Yoder, Brian Kaschak, Ryan Flynn, Mark Grzebin, Randy Yeager, Augie Mitschke, Jim Domzalski, Mike Evans, Will Woronko, Curt Kroesen and Chris Tyukody.

In memory of our friend

Anthony "Badger" Marseco

During Tony's years at Wilkes he had a large impact on students as well as faculty. He was loved by all, young and old alike. He always had something nice to say whether it be giving good advice or paying someone a compliment. He was a perfectionist in all his endeavors. He was very charismatic and very self-motivated and tried his hardest to pass this on to his friends. There isn't enough that can be said to express our deepest thoughts and feelings for Tony and the job his parents did in raising such a great individual. Wilkes University Receives Beautiful, Donated Dianos

This year, Wilkes received a gift of two pianos from Mr. Harold Pryar. The pianos were put in the Dorothy Dickson Darte Center for the Performing Arts and in the Conyngham Student Center. One of the generously donated pianos is an 1897 antique.

"Mr. Pryar was a dedicated employee of Wilkes years ago, and now that he has retired, his dedication continues by donating the pianos to the University," says Thomas Hadzor, Vice President of Alumni Development and University Relations.
Mr. Pryar is a former ABM maintenance employee at Wilkes University.

"I feel being president of the Off Campus Council has enhanced the "I feel being president of the Off Campus Council has enhanced the relation between apartment students, the university and the community. For example, during the month of October, 1994, Wilkes apartment students and dorm students were targeted for robberies. After several break-ins, I helped establish a student crime watch. Over 75 students attended an informational lecture on how to make the crime watch successful. I also made it aware to the chief of Security that it was important to include apartment students in the escort service. He worked with myself and CJ Copley to include apartment students in the program. With our help, the administration of Wilkes allocated funds to purchase the security car." car."

"Whether you are considered a leader or a follower, I believe that everyone has the ability to make an impact on the lives of other people.
At Wilkes, I had the opportunity to work with many talented individuals. When I look at the members of the Class of '96, I see enthusiasm, intelligence and an incredible drive for success. A phenomenal group of people will graduate from Wilkes this year--I'm thankful that I was exposed to them."

"I feel that the time I served as a representative on Student Government allowed me to voice my opinion and that of my peers. Through my ability to be able to bring forth new views, we were able to gain rights and privileges that may otherwise have gone unheard. The New Student Orientation program was also a very important way in which I feel I enhanced the university. By being an orientation leader, I feel that I made it easier for the new students to feel involved and more comfortable. This, in turn, allowed them to concentrate on their goals as students."

"As a student at Wilkes, I have learned the value of team work and it is through that team work that accomplishments are made. Myself, along with fellow students, were able to boost the interest and membership of the Nursing Student Organization a good percentage. Through increased interest, more community projects were attempted and made successful. Through these projects all parties involved became winners--the students, the university and the surrounding communities."

"Through the various activities that Wilkes has afforded me, the opportunity to participate in Student Government, the New Student Orientation and the Resident Assistant program. I have been able to enhance the university as a whole, grow as an successful in the business world."

Ericka Kramer
"I feel I have enhanced this university by being an active member on campus and in community activities. As captain of the women's basketball team, a leader in the classroom and an active member among my peers, I feel I've shown, by example, the opportunities Wilkes can offer."

"I believe that I have contributed to the Residence Life program at the university by helping to foster an environment of community. In my first two years as an RA, I organized numerous socials and educationals to bring the members of my houses together. We did a lot of neat things. I will always remember the sit down candlelight dinner we had for Christmas in Doane. By getting to see my girls often and by spending so much time with them, I hope to have enhanced their experiences as dorm students. I also tried to acknowledge the accomplishments of each girl when they had something important happen--a recital, winning a scholarship, or just needed a pick-me-up--by putting a sign on the front door. This meant so much to the girls and I still see some of these signs in their rooms today. By taking a little time and going the extra mile, they felt recognized as individuals--plus it made my job a little more fun."

"In my four years at Wilkes, I have done my best to make the university a better place for present and future Wilkes students, faculty and the community. "I worked closely with Dr. Jane Elmes-Crahall to improve the Financial Aid Office and situation. We worked to get a book of scholarships published, more aid for upperclassmen, and better explanations of financial aid forms."

Tony Reed "During my time at Wilkes, I have done all that I could to help enhance the university for myself and others. I guess the most notable accomplishment to me would be in helping to expand the efforts of the Wilkes University AIDS Awareness Committee from a brand new club five or six of us formed freshman year, to what it is today. We have raised tens of thousands of dollars to present the nationally known quilt, various speakers, presentations, and other educational offerings. We have even expanded into lecturing on prevention in local high schools and I have gotten offers from my home, 60 miles away, to do presentations." presentations."

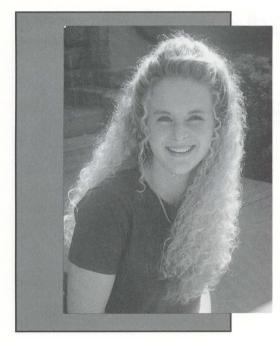

Susan Richardson
"During my years at Wilkes, the women's field hockey team has developed into a well respected program. As a senior and captain this fall, we set a school record by reaching the NCAA field hockey tournament.

Because of this achievement, many top schools in our division wish to play Wilkes. The caliber of play has reached amazing levels and now Wilkes' hockey program has become more attractive to high school seniors interested in the university."

"I feel that I have demonstrated leadership and have enhanced Wilkes University most through my position as a Resident Assistant for the past three years. I have helped students academically, socially, and eased their transition into the challenging environment Wilkes has to offer. I am thankful I had this opportunity and I know it has helped me grow as a person!"

"I feel that my time at Wilkes has really represented a partnership between myself and the university. I used my abilities and talents to become involved in several activities and organizations at Wilkes, and contributed to others through them and Wilkes, in turn, allowed me to grow intellectually, morally and helped me to decide on a career for the future. Being involved in the Wilkes University Guthrie Scholars program has helped me in immeasurable ways to prepare for a career in medicine, allowing me to participate in clinical experiences I would not have had otherwise. I hope that my contributions to debates and discussions I participated in at the university gave some people things to ponder, and I feel that I've helped other students through tutoring and in other ways. I can only hope that I have, in some way, had as positive an impact on Wilkes University as it has had on me and my life."

Cheryl Lynn Stauffer

Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow--Facing the Future Together

Yesterday we went to class, hung out with friends, studied, drank, and goofed off. Today we say good-bye to all that and move forward in tomorrow, helped by our experience, our teachers, and our friends. We carry with us the fruits of past dreams and the seeds of new ones to be planted in the fertile soil of another year.

Amnicola wishes you the best of luck in all your future plans, be they work, school, or family. We hope you carry something with you from this past year at Wilkes forever.
