COVER

As Wilkes embarks on another academic year, President Robert S. Capin takes time to ponder the events which shaped and molded life on the Wilkes campus during the preceding twelve months. One of the major milestones of this past year was the completion of plans enabling the College to begin construction of a new 205-bed residence hall which will provide living space for tomorrow's leaders and scholars.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT — 1980-1981

"Our progressive development as an institution depends, in nearly equal portions, upon a qualified and responsible student body; upon a dedicated and industrious faculty and staff; and upon loyal alumni, parents and friends who maintain an active involvement in the affairs of Wilkes College."

Wilkes College
Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania 18766

To trustees, alumni, and friends

The academic year of 1980-81 was one of continued progress and achievement for Wilkes College. It was an important year, economically and politically for our nation; a year of consolidation for American higher education; and a year of academic and fiscal advancement for our institution. I am certain that all who have a vested interest in Wilkes College will want to review the following Institutional Annual Report of this forty-seventh year in the history of Wilkes College.

This report, in the form of a year-end review, highlights in a summary fashion, the important events and activities of a significant year.

Some of the chief accomplishments for the year include:

Continued academic advancement, including the establishment of an affiliated program with Temple University in their pharmacy and dental programs.

The implementation of the Wilkes College Nursing Program: Hazleton, which replaces nursing diploma programs and allows Hazleton area nursing students to take Wilkes College courses in Hazleton.

The completion of a Long-Range Planning Document for the College.

A review of Policies and Procedures for Tenure, Faculty Evaluation, and Administrative Evaluation.

A concerted effort to renew a Reaffirmation of Values at Wilkes.

An active year in our expanding student affairs program.

Development and approval of plans to build a 205-bed residence hall.

Although these accomplishments have helped to strengthen and advance our institution, our job is far from completed. The challenge for the future betterment of Wilkes remains an exciting and worthwhile task in which I hope you will continue to participate. Our progressive development as an institution depends, in nearly equal portions, upon a qualified and responsible student body; upon a dedicated and industrious faculty and staff; and upon loyal alumni, parents and friends who maintain an active involvement in the affairs of Wilkes College.

I am pleased to present to you this 1980-81 Annual President's Report which summarizes our progress towards reaching a level of true distinction among the nation's foremost independent liberal arts colleges.

Sincerely,

Robert S. Capin

Robert S. Capin
President

ACADEMICS

The academic programs at Wilkes College continue to be of excellent quality. The College is blessed with a dedicated and highly qualified teaching faculty which numbers 156 with over half of them holding doctoral degrees from fine universities throughout the country. In a continuing effort to ensure that Wilkes graduates receive a broad and rigorous education which prepares them to be productive citizens, standards have been re-examined and re-emphasized throughout each of the academic departments.

- The electrical engineering program received accreditation this year from the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology (ABET), formerly the Engineers' Council for Professional Development (ECPD). The purpose of accrediting is to identify those institutions which offer professional engineering programs worthy of recognition.

"In a continuing effort to ensure that Wilkes graduates receive a broad and rigorous education which prepares them to be productive citizens, standards have been re-examined and re-emphasized throughout each of the academic departments."

- A new Freshman Honors Program will enable high ability, highly-motivated freshmen to enroll in a special two-semester course. The Program is an interdisciplinary course involving the fields of psychology, sociology, anthropology, history, literature, philosophy and the sciences.
- The College continues to offer students excellent opportunities in the health care field. Degrees are available in Nursing, Medical Technology, and, for eligible students, a seven-year Family Medicine Program leading to a B.S. Degree from Wilkes and an M.D. from Hahnemann Medical College. Other options include a Podiatric Program in cooperation with the Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine; Pharmacy and Dental Programs in cooperation with Temple University; and an Optometry Program in cooperation with the Pennsylvania College of Optometry.
- A new Bachelor of Fine Arts (B.F.A.) Degree Program has been introduced which will allow students to take a more intensive curriculum in art in preparation for graduate school or a career in the visual arts, or as a means to greater fulfillment as an artist.
- Approximately twenty students enrolled in the first class of our new four-year nursing program in Hazleton which filled a void left when the State withdrew its support for Hospital Nursing Diploma Programs. Some Wilkes courses will be taught to students at the Hazleton State General Hospital Complex where their clinical experience will also take place. These students will also experience classes and laboratory periods on the Wilkes campus each week. A new Nursing Department Chairperson, Dr. Virginia Nehring, was appointed in July, following the retirement of Ruth McHenry.
- $1,200 to Dr. Louis Rigley of the Biology Department for research on dolphins;
- $39,000 to Dr. Owen Faut of the Chemistry Department for research; and,
- $43,843 to Dr. Joseph Bellucci of the Education Department to work with elementary teachers on energy and pollution.

I am also pleased to report on activities relating to the continuing professional development of our faculty. Dr. John Orehtsky, Associate Professor of Engineering, was awarded a Fulbright Fellowship for work in Portugal while full-year sabbatical leaves were taken by Dr. David Leach, Professor of History, and Dr. James Bohning, Professor of Chemistry. One semester sabbaticals were taken by Dr. Clyde Houseknecht, Associate Professor of Biology; Mr. Chester Colson, Professor of Art; Dr. John Orehtsky, Associate Professor of Engineering; and Dr. Bing Wong, Professor of Mathematics.

Other areas of academic influence continue to flourish with increased enrollments in the Graduate and Part-time Undergraduate Programs as well as the Division of Continuing Education.

Further support of the academic program is provided by the Office of Career Services. It continues to offer guidance to undergraduates and alumni concerning graduate or professional school enrollment and permanent or part-time employment opportunities. The Cooperative Education Program also integrates a student's academic studies with productive working experiences in employing organizations. As reported in the August, 1981 issue of The Wall Street Journal, such experiences effectively augment students' academic preparation.

While many of our efforts are being focused on current academic trends, we have not lost sight of the future. With this in mind, a Long-Range Planning Committee was established and has subsequently completed a Long-Range Planning Document for Wilkes College. Released in May of this year, the 140-page Document has three major purposes: 1. to identify and describe the economic forces that will have an impact on Wilkes over the next five years; 2. quantify (wherever possible) the magnitude of these forces; and 3. articulate some of the implications of these economic forces for Wilkes. The Document is available for review at the College.

Additional highlights of the 1980-81 academic year can be found in the Chronology of Special Events at the end of this report.

As we strive to maintain our tradition of quality and excellence we secured several academic grants this year including:

- $24,970 to the Earth and Environmental Sciences Department for equipment for research;
- $60,000 to Act 101 for remedial assistance for economically deprived college students;
- $129,999 to Upward Bound where underprivileged students receive educational and cultural experiences to assist them in preparing for college;
- $32,436 to the Earth and Environmental Sciences Department for radiation monitoring equipment;

STUDENT AFFAIRS

Since our most important resource is our students, we continue to exert much of our time and energy into making their stay at Wilkes both enjoyable and educational.

The best way to underscore the efforts of the Student Affairs staff this past year is to note that they continued to be creative, progressive, and highly productive.

All in all, 1980-81 was a good year in student life. The year began with what we felt was a positive orientation program in which freshmen were adequately introduced to the campus.

The counseling and advisement of students remains the chief responsibility of the student affairs office and continues to be the most important aspect of student life at the College. The staff again counseled every new student on an individual basis during the fall term which aided significantly in our retention rate and positive performance of students.

Housing was an area of concern for the Student Affairs staff this year as a fall overflow of resident students required last minute evaluation of housing availability.

As a result of the need for increased housing, the College acquired facilities at the YMCA and converted the area into a women's residence for ninety coeds. The Sterling Hotel again served as a residence hall allowing us to accommodate all the remaining students who would not be housed in College residence facilities.

Student Activities was a highly productive area in 1980-81. Under the direction of strong student leadership, the students enjoyed numerous social and cultural events throughout the year and made great strides in centralizing the efforts of student activities and offices into the Conyngham Student Center.

The Intramural Program has expanded, and there were better opportunities for students in the extracurricular area than ever before as evidenced in higher student morale.

During the year, the health of our students was maintained at an unusually satisfactory level. The health services were efficiently administered by our nurses, and no infections or epidemics were experienced. Our relationship with the Family Practice Residence Center was continued and their efficient service was an asset to the College and to our students.

Meeting the financial needs of students remains a significant aspect in the overall life of the College. During the year, we feel that the needs of students were reasonably well met; however, we must anticipate the future financial needs of our students in light of probable cutback in federal funding.

In the area of food service, an area which traditionally is a focal point for problems in student life, we were fortunate to maintain an efficient program at a reasonable budget figure. Much of the success in food service is due to a very cooperative management and an active, constructive student committee.

While the College athletic teams posted an overall win-loss record of under .500 with 114 wins and 125 losses, several teams had outstanding seasons during what was considered to be a rebuilding year. The cross country, women's volleyball, field hockey, men's basketball, wrestling, men's baseball, golf, and men's tennis teams all enjoyed winning campaigns.

"The counseling and advisement of students remains the chief responsibility of the Student Affairs Office and continues to be the most important aspect of student life at the College."

ADMISSIONS

While substantial numbers of private colleges throughout the country continue to be plagued by decreasing numbers of applications and dwindling enrollments, Wilkes College has continued to prosper. A total of 557 freshmen and an additional 150 transfer students were admitted for enrollment last September from better than 1,700 applications.

The overall full-time undergraduate enrollment for this past academic year was 2,087 comprised of 52.5% male and 47.5% female students. Approximately 55% of our students were commuters.

As a means of comparison, I offer you the following table of admissions statistics for the past two recruiting years:

	Inquiries	Applications	Acceptances	Registrations
1979	7,132	1,628	1,488	*750
1980	8,485	1,729	1,529	*755

*includes readmitted students

78% of last year's entering class were from Pennsylvania, with 11% from New Jersey, 7% from New York and 1% from Connecticut. Several other states and foreign countries were also represented.

While the admissions officers were successful in their recruiting efforts, they also achieved two additional objectives which strengthened the office. First, the office witnessed a long-overdue expansion in personnel and, second, it made great strides toward the nearly completed computerization of operations.

Since statistics published by the National Association of College Admissions Counselors indicate that an Admissions Office for a college the size of Wilkes should have an administrative staff of approximately seven, our ability to go from a staff of three to a staff of six in three short years without causing major budgetary or administrative burden for the College is of singular importance. More significantly, the fact that three of the new people (two replacements, one expansion) came on board last summer necessitated the development of a training program which, with its success, has allowed us to assemble a topnotch team of professional recruiters and counselors. Having such a team has enabled us to increase our recruitment visitations from 225 to 700 (800 by the end of next year) in just three years. Correspondingly, we have seen increases in inquiries, applications received, deposits received, and enrolled students. In spite of the heavy personnel involvement which these recruiting increases entail, the office has also increased the average number of on-campus interviews of prospective students by over 300 per year during this time period.

A second, although perhaps less dramatic area of significant achievement involves the nearly complete computerization of operations in the Admissions Office. Our ability to correspond and exchange information with prospective students has increased dramatically. Our applicants are not only receiving a better and more prompt response to their needs, but they are also receiving better information; in the long run, their decisions concerning Wilkes will be more informed, allowing us an improvement in student retention.

A third area of encouraging success has been in the increase and improvement of our on-campus visitation program. The Visitation Day this past Spring — our third — was such that we are convinced it should be a permanent addition to our annual calendar. The Junior and Senior National Honor Society Days, Science Expo, and numerous small-group events have helped us markedly to "open up" the campus to a wider constituency.

"While substantial numbers of private colleges throughout the country continue to be plagued by decreasing numbers of applications and dwindling enrollments, Wilkes College has continued to prosper."

ADMINISTRATIVE AFFAIRS

Much attention was devoted to the physical plant of the College during the past year. After several months of research and analysis, the Board of Trustees approved plans for the construction of a $3 million, 205-bed residence hall which will be located at the corner of South River and Northampton Streets on our campus. Construction of the new facility is now underway with an expected completion date of August, 1982. Additional information regarding the new facility can be found on page 12 of this special issue.

Improvement of our physical facilities continues as construction of the new residence hall proceeds. Work on buildings and grounds this past year includes:

New roofs and insulation on Pickering Hall, the Center for Performing Arts and several dormitories.

Repainting of Weckesser Hall.

Exterior painting of Sterling, Chapman, Catlin, Weiss, and McClintock Halls.

Cleaning, repainting, new roof and windows on Chesapeake and Delaware Halls.

Completion of Bedford renovation, including removal of exterior garage.

Mechanical repairs and interior painting at the Center for Performing Arts.

Interior painting and replacement of floor in the College Dining Hall.

Demolition of several garages and buildings as called for in our Space Utilization Study.

Resurfacing of several badly deteriorated parking lots.

"Although these accomplishments have helped to strengthen and advance our institution, our job is far from completed. The challenge for the future betterment of Wilkes remains an exciting and worthwhile task in which I hope you will continue to participate."

Site preparation for new residence hall.

General landscaping to enhance appearance of the campus.

I am pleased to report that with these renovations and additions our campus continues to provide a healthy setting for our students and represents a source of pride for the College and the community.

As the College approaches its 50th Anniversary (1933-1983), a committee comprised of both Wilkes and Bucknell officials has made great strides towards the planning and implementation of a gala Golden Anniversary Celebration. A special convocation will officially open the celebration which will commence in September of next year.

The 1981 Annual Campaign, under the capable leadership of Mr. Eugene Roth (Wilkes' Class of 1957), was very successful. The College raised $511,000 which exceeded the established goal by $11,000. Funds raised are being used to provide additional scholarship assistance to capable and deserving students.

A concerted effort throughout the year by the entire Wilkes community to revitalize and rekindle a Reaffirmation of Values was high on our priority list. This entailed the continuous challenge of reminding all of the campus constituencies that values remain an important and very part of the process of education.

I pointed out earlier in this report that a dedicated committee comprised of administrators, faculty, staff, and students spent many hours establishing a Long-Range Planning Document for the College. The lengthy report, which will aid us as we move progressively into the 80's, deals with many phases of the College including student enrollment, financial aid, personnel, physical plant, student services, admissions, and development.

The following Class Notes were compiled from updates received prior to August 1. Please send all information regarding marriages, births, promotions, employment or address changes, advanced degrees, or deaths to the Wilkes College Alumni Office, Weckesser Hall, Wilkes-Barre, PA 18766

50th ANNIVERSARY ALUMNI DIRECTORY TO BE PUBLISHED

Good news alumni . . . the college has responded to numerous inquiries and requests by authorizing the preparation of an updated alumni directory to commemorate the college's 50th Anniversary. This new directory will be a valuable reference volume to alumni, and it will be helpful on campus in planning alumni activities and programs.

The Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, Inc., has been selected as the official publisher after a thorough review of this firm's extensive experience and success. Recognized as the oldest and largest exclusive publisher of alumni directories, they have completed over the past two decades alumni directories for more than 400 colleges and universities.

The project will be undertaken at virtually no cost to Wilkes. The Harris

Company has contracted to compile, publish, and market the directory, financing the operation solely through the sale of individual directory copies to alumni only. The college will not benefit financially from the directory sales, but will derive substantial benefit from the completely updated records and other valuable information obtained.

The main body of the directory will consist of an alphabetical listing of alumni, with each entry to include name, class, degree(s), home address and telephone, and business or professional information, including title, firm name and address, and telephone. Two complete indexes of alumni, one arranged geographically by towns within states, and the other by class year will follow the main listings, providing ready references and cross references.

Updated material will be derived from brief questionnaires mailed to alumni this January and followed up by telephone for verification of information to be included in the directory. At that time only, alumni will be able to purchase a copy of the directory. Only enough directories to fill these pre-publication orders will be printed, and circulation will be restricted to alumni. Release of the directory is scheduled for Fall 1982.

WILKES COLLEGE APPOINTS 13 NEW STAFF MEMBERS

Dean of Academic Affairs, Dr. Gerald Hartdagen, has announced the appointment of 13 new faculty members who will begin teaching at the college this fall. The recent faculty appointments include:

Dr. Claude W. Anderson, III, assistant professor of mathematics and computer science, formerly of University of Illinois.

Sheila Carapico, filling a joint position as teaching associate in the political science department, is currently working on her Ph.D. in political science at the State University of New York at Binghamton.

Cynthia Chisarick, assistant professor of accounting, is a graduate of Wilkes College. For the past four years she has been an accountant with Albert B. Melone Certified and Registered Public Accountants of Pittston.

Fred Croop, assistant professor of accounting, received his M.B.A. from Wilkes in 1979 and has served as Business Manager for the Dallas, PA. School District since 1979. He has also served as a part-time faculty member at Wilkes in the Department of Commerce and Finance.

Gary Dolny, assistant professor of engineering, is currently a candidate for the Ph.D. degree in electrical engineering from the University of Pittsburgh.

Mildred Krzywicki, assistant professor of nursing, has served as Associate Director of Nursing Education at the Pottsville Hospital School of Nursing and Nursing Instructor at Luzerne County Community College.

Dr. Richard Minasz, assistant professor of chemistry, holds a Ph.D. in organic chemistry from the University of Pittsburgh and has extensive experience as a lecturer in both general and organic chemistry at Canisius College, the University of Pittsburgh, and SUNY Buffalo.

Mohammed K. Moussavi, assistant professor of engineering, has served as a part-time consulting engineer with Satellite System Engineering, Inc. and as a faculty member at George Washington University. He is currently working towards a D.Sc. degree in Communication Engineering from George Washington University.

Dr. Virginia Nehring, professor and chairman of the Nursing Department, completed her doctoral course work at the Boston University School of Nursing and, since 1977, has served as Director of the Associate Degree Nursing Program at Boise State University.

Dr. Purisai Sethuraman, assistant professor of chemistry, holds a Ph.D. from the Indian Institute of Technology in Madras and joins Wilkes after serving as a Post-doctoral Fellow at Georgetown University for the past three years.

Dr. Aysit Tansel, assistant professor of economics, received her Ph.D. from the State University of New York at Binghamton and has served on the teaching faculty of SUNY/Binghamton since 1976.

Richard Tutwiler, filling a joint position as a teaching associate in the sociology/anthropology department, is currently completing his Ph.D. work in Anthropology at the State University at Binghamton.

HOMEcoming COMMITTEE

Members of the 34th Annual Homecoming Committee met on campus regularly this past summer to make plans for this year's gala Homecoming scheduled for October 30, 31, and November 1.

Dr. Chang John Yu, assistant professor of engineering, received his Ph.D. in ceramic engineering from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. For the past two years he has served as Research and Development Manager for Centralab, Inc., North American Phillips Company of Los Angeles.

WILKES PROFESSOR HAS CHEMISTRY BOOK PUBLISHED

In today's synthetically supplemented world, most people would agree that it is beneficial to have at least a nodding acquaintance with the chemistry of things. Whether we are reading contents from a food label or trying our hand at organic gardening, we are faced with having to understand the chemistry which affects our daily lives.

Dr. William Stine, a professor of Chemistry at Wilkes College, has written a book which recognizes the requirements of the layman who needs or simply wants to know about the chemistry which confronts him on a regular basis.

The book is entitled "Applied Chemistry" and is published by Allyn and Bacon, Inc., Boston.

According to Stine, "The non-scientist faced with the necessity or desire to learn chemistry is often treated like a second-class citizen," he said,

Ms. Mildred Gittens, Honorary Chairman; Carol Pawlusch, Andrea Petrusek, Mary James, Tanya Hallez, and Marta Baker. Standing: Chris Baron, John Baron, Dick Raspen, Dr. Carl Urbanski, Margaret Scholl, Bob Silvi, and Gina Davies.

"Necessary areas are treated superficially and in a way that is less than desirable for both student and instructor. This book gives a clear picture of practical applications of chemistry rather than principles."

Stine first became aware of the need for a practical approach to chemistry while teaching. "Principles of chemistry are fine for the chemistry major," he states, "but not for the student who is non-science or the student who is taking an elective chemistry course . . . they are more interested in everyday applications."

WILKES CIRCLE K CLUB WINS HONORS

Fifteen members of Wilkes College Circle K Club attended the Pennsylvania District Convention of Circle K Clubs in New Kensington, bringing home many awards and trophies, in competition with the clubs of 22 other colleges. They received the first place trophy for "Inter Clubbing", and the first place trophy for "Achievement", which is given to the Club whose projects are most in tune with the goals and ideals of Circle K. A second place trophy was received for "Single Service", which was their Haunted House project, proceeds to Multiple Sclerosis. Another second place trophy was awarded for "Special Service", which consisted of three projects: Multiple Sclerosis, Special Olympics and Project Care. Stan Freeda was elected governor, the highest office in the Pennsylvania District, consisting of 23 colleges. Jeff Gavlick was elected lieutenant governor of the Northeast Division; Sal Alaimo, Jr., received the first place trophy in the oratorical contest on the current theme of Circle K, "Caring . . . Life's Magic." Jacci Sunder was given a Secretary Award for prompt submission of all reports.

WILKES HIKES TUITION FEES

The Board of Trustees has announced that tuition at the college for the 1981-82 academic year will be increased to $4,200 while room and board charges will be set at $2,100. The new costs reflect a $450 increase in tuition and a $200 addition to room and board fees.

"The increase is necessary if the college is to maintain its programs of quality for its students," said Robert S. Capin in making the announcement. "We made every attempt to keep the increase at a minimum, and, in doing so, we were able to keep the total percentage increase below the current rate of inflation."

The increase will assist in maintaining academic quality and will also be able to help meet increased costs.

WILKES DEBATERS COP AWARDS

The Debate Union recently captured seven awards including a fourth place team award at a tournament at Shippensburg State College which attracted teams from 51 colleges and universities representing 11 states and the District of Columbia.

The debate team of Jon Sparks, Fred Deets, Forty Fort and Patti Sparlow, Kingston, defeated 11 schools in Lincoln-Douglas Debate, with Sparks being named third best debater at the tournament.

Member of the public speaking division, Colleen Gries, Dallas, finished with fourth place in sales. Linda Esrov, Kingston, received a fourth place in original oratory and Darlene Schaffer, Ashley, earned a second place in sales and a fifth in impromptu speaking.

Donna Krappa, Dupont, won a fourth place in prose interpretation. Darrell Lewis, Shickshinny; Joe Rubbico, Exeter; and Nancy Ginter, Bloomsburg, completed the Wilkes squad.

These awards raise the number of trophies won by the Wilkes squad to 52 this year and represents 21 consecutive tournaments that Wilkes has attended and won. During the past eight seasons, the team won 388 trophies.

The debate and speech divisions are coached and directed by Dr. Bradford L. Kinney, Kingston.

WILKES BIOLOGY STUDENTS PRESENT PAPERS

Several biology majors at Wilkes College attended the 1981 Eastern Colleges Science Conference to present research papers on scientific investigations carried out during the academic year. The annual event allows undergraduate students from approximately 80 colleges and universities to present their work in a professional setting before peers and faculty from participating institutions. Presentations were previewed at Biology Seminar Night held at Wilkes.

Debra Feldman and Robert Wallace, working with Dr. Peter Siver, did research on "Competition Between Two Planktonic Microalgae in Dilute and Concentrated Media." Diane Kuzminski presented a paper entitled "Rapid in vivo Test for Potential Mutagenicity." Her research was jointly sponsored by the Biology and Chemistry Departments under Jessica Jahngen and Dr. Lester Turoczi.

Dr. Louis Rigley worked with student Debra Prater who presented a paper entitled, "Recognition and Preference by the Female Vole." Dr. Rigley also worked with Valerie Van Dyke who presented a paper entitled "Feeding Behavior in the Dolphin."

Dr. Charles Reif worked with student Edward Stachowiak to present a paper entitled "Estimating Areas of Lakes;" Stachowiak is a sophomore biology major.

The conference, which is held on different campuses each year, took place this year on the campus of the Jersey City State College, Jersey City, NJ.

It's Election Time!!

Every two years, the Alumni Association through the election process chooses sixteen individuals across the country to act as the guiding influence for the Office of Alumni Relations and our programs, as well as to serve as contacts "in the field" within the various geographic areas.

You can help in the selection of those Alumni who will serve in 1982 and 1983 by becoming involved in the nominations process. Send us the names of persons whom you would like to see on the official ballot — we will then contact each of them to determine their willingness to serve if elected. The following offices are to be filled: President, Executive Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer,

STUDENT LEADERS NAMED

Student Leaders were elected at the college to fill the posts of president for the three governing student organizations on campus.

Ana Nunez, a senior chemistry major, was elected president of Student Government.

Joseph Knox, a resident of Wilkes-Barre, was elected president of Commuter Council.

William Lourie of Mount Holly is also an active member of the Wilkes Community and has been elected president of the Inter-Residence Hall Council.

WEEKENDER STUDENTS HAVE GOAL IN MIND

A desire to learn, to get a higher education, to become eligible for better promotions in the job, and to begin a new career are several of the most common reasons non-traditional, adult students give for enrolling in the Weekender Program at Keystone Junior College.

Patricia A. Davis, 31, Scranton, who earned her two-year associate's degree from the Keystone Weekender Program, and who has graduated from the Wilkes College Weekend Program with her bachelor's degree in business, said that she began her college as a KJC weekender because "It was a way for her to get the college education she wanted in a comfortable atmosphere with older, non-traditional aged college students."

Mrs. Davis, the mother of five children, said that her husband, Albert, encouraged her to go to school.

and a Vice-President from each of the twelve geographic regions.

Send the names and offices for which you nominate them to the Office of Alumni Relations, Attn: Nominating Committee, Wilkes College, P.O. Box 111, Wilkes-Barre, PA 18766. And as you consider fellow Alumni, please consider yourself as a possible candidate. In other words, if you are interested in serving the College and the Association in an elected capacity, submit your own name to the Committee for consideration. The nomination letter need not be signed; time, however, is important. Please try to get any nominations to us before October 2, although later nominations will be considered as time permits.

"I enrolled in the Keystone-Wilkes Weekender because I felt more comfortable going to school with people my own age, who shared the common situation of combining job and family responsibilities with school work," she said. "My biggest problem in returning to school was getting back into the habit of studying and finding the time to do it."

Mrs. Davis' goal is to become a certified public accountant and to earn a master's degree in business. She presently is employed as an accountant at Pollock and Smith, Clarks Summit.

"Someday, I'd also like to teach accounting in the Weekender Program," she noted.

WILKES ROTC RECOGNIZED

The Air Force ROTC Detachment has recently been moved to higher status by the Department of the Air Force because of increased enrollment during the 1980-81 academic year.

The Air Force recognized the unit for surpassing all previous enrollment records. Due to the increase, the Detachment has moved its offices to Church Hall in order to better accommodate the expanding Aerospace Studies Department.

ROBERT B. MORRIS (1933-1981)

Whenever the Alumni Office receives word of the death of a graduate we are saddened not only by the passing of the individual, but also because part of the College dies as well. And when that individual is one who contributed both as a student and as a staff member, the loss is doubly felt.

Such is the case of Robert B. Morris, a member of the Class of 1959, who died on April 15, 1981, in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Bob was a native of Forty Fort, PA, and graduated from its high school in 1950. After a four-year tour with the U.S. Navy, he entered Wilkes as a Commerce and Finance major and immediately became involved in the life of the College. He was a member of the wrestling team, an officer of the College Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, senior class president, and was presented the Alumni Association's award as the Outstanding Graduate of the Class of 1959, while maintaining a position on the Dean's List in recognition of his academic endeavors.

Bob served the College as Assistant to President Farley from 1959-1962 and as our assistant wrestling coach. He earned the M.S. in Education in 1962 and the D.Ed. in 1964, both at Penn State University. His professional career was a varied one, serving as Dean of Men, Dean of the University College, and Dean for Undergraduate Studies at SUNY, Albany. From 1976 to 1979, he was Dean of Students at Indiana University in Gary. Until his death, he was Vice President for Student Affairs at SUNY, Delhi.

Many groups will miss Bob's participation, for he was dedicated to family and to community and professional service. He was an active member of his church, and published numerous articles in national education and student personnel journals.

We send our condolences to his wife PATSY (REESE), '57, and to his children Pamela, Susan, and Jeffrey. While Bob lost his 16-month battle with cancer, know that his contribution to Wilkes and to higher education are remembered, respected, and appreciated.

WILKES PLANS COURSE FOR FRESHMEN

A special two-semester course entitled "Freshman Honors: Problems of Inquiry" will be offered in the fall of 1981 at Wilkes College.

The course is designed for the high-ability and highly motivated freshman and is geared to provide both an intellectual challenge and a format for an exciting and interesting learning experience.

Students will be introduced to a variety of materials including films,

In an effort to diversify the content of the Quarterly-Alumnus, we are requesting submission of manuscripts for consideration for publication. Articles may range from 500 to 2,500 words on topics of general interest to our readership or of special interest to a group of readers. Please submit manuscripts in double-spaced typewritten form to Director of Alumni Relations, Wilkes College, P.O. Box 111, Wilkes-Barre, PA 18766.

Manuscripts not selected for immediate publication will be held on file in the Alumni Office for possible publication in a future issue.

short stories, novels, essays, and case studies. The question-and-answer approach to the learning process will be followed in an attempt to involve both student and faculty in the group discussion.

The goal of the course will be to deepen, enrich, and sharpen students' understanding of all the disciplines in which they will study during their college years.

The concept for the course is to introduce the basic problems of knowledge and the difficulties which all people share in an attempt to understand the world in which they live.

According to Dr. Jean Driscoll, chairman of the Department of Political Science and co-director for the course: "The course should be an exciting exploration of some of the ways of knowing developed in the disciplines of psychology, sociology, anthropology, history, literature, philosophy, and the sciences.

SERVICEMEN GAIN DEGREES IN ABSENTIA

Service in the armed forces prevented five members of the class of 1961 from receiving their diplomas at the commencement exercises in the Wilkes gymnasium.

The five men are: Thomas D. Morgan, Plymouth; Donald C. Kivler, Nanticoke; and Norman P. Kornblau, Robert J. Smith, and Gerard F. Rogers, all of Wilkes-Barre.

Tom Morgan, the only of the five who was still in college when he was called to the colors, is serving with the 967th Armored Battalion at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. At Wilkes, Tom sang with the Mudgutters and the Choral Club, and was president of the Debating Society. Many alumni will also remember him as a cheerleader.

Certified to teach on the secondary level last January, Don Kivler, who was active at Wilkes in Education Department functions and in the Economics Club, is now stationed at the U.S. Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md.

Norm Kornblau, who holds a lieutenant's commission in the Army Air Force, is at Mather Field, Calif. He took a Bachelor of Science degree in Commerce and Finance.

Now living with his wife in Norfolk, Va., Bob Smith is — obviously — in the Navy. Active in the Debating Society and the International Relations Club at Wilkes, Bob also received his degree in Commerce and Finance.

Gerard F. Rogers, once a member of the Naval Reserve, is currently being trained as an infantryman at Fort Jackson, S.C. While at Wilkes, he participated in German, Psychology, and Sociology Club activities and played in the college band. Up to the time of his call to service, he worked in the Testing Bureau here.

TRIBUTE TO TEACHER

One of the pleasantest events on the Wilkes campus this spring was the testimonial dinner given for Dr. Frank J. J. Davies of the English Department.

Dr. Davies himself was the first to point out that his being selected for the honor really did not signify. What was significant — and altogether gratifying to the entire faculty, we suspect — was the fact that Wilkes students recognized quality instruction when they encountered it, that they were properly grateful to a teacher who was doing a conscientious job of work.

There is a further reason for our pride in the students who planned the dinner — a reason Dr. Davies did not comment on. As many of the alumni know, Dr. Davies is not and never has been an easy mark — or marker, for the matter of that. The testimonial dinner went a long way towards proving that a teacher can exact a high degree of scholarship and still be not only respected but liked. Loved, even.

CLASS NOTES

Promotion of former captain ANDREW W. WINIARCZYK to the rank of major has been announced by the Army. A chemical engineering major (in a rather different sense) at Wilkes, Major Winiarczyk is now professor of military science and tactics at Christian Brothers College in St. Louis, Mo., where he is in charge of the ROTC. He is a veteran of ten years' service. He commanded a medium tank company of the 14th Armored Division in France and Germany during World War II and afterwards served with occupation forces in Korea. . . . LEON J. SHUMOSIC, '51, has been accepted as senior cost clerk at the Newark, N.J., plant of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. A native of West Nanticoke, Leon was a member of the Economics Club and received his Bachelor of Science degree in Commerce and Finance. . . . ROBERT HALL, '51, has reported to Sampson, N.Y., to begin training with the Army Air Force. A member of the Wilkes football, baseball, and ice hockey teams, Bob received his B.S. degree in Commerce and Finance. . . .

THEATER ALUMNI RAISES THE CURTAIN

This past May the Wilkes College Theater Alumni marked its first birthday with the production, "Recollections in Three Acts," in which former Cue and Curtain members returned to Chase Theater to do scenes from previous dramas, comedies, and musicals. This production served to increase the enthusiasm the members have shown in strengthening the association. Past President Bert Stein states, "Our's is a progressive organization, and our work on the campus in such activities is but a prologue to what we hope eventually to do. Our thoughts are constantly on the future fulfillment of our goals."

During the summer, the nominating committee met to make the necessary arrangements for the election of new officers. Election results were: Paul Thomas, '51, President; Bert Stein, '52, Vice-President; Steve Cooney, '60, Treasurer; and Jane Obitz Lind, '56, Secretary. These officers will preside over the theater Alumni meeting Homecoming weekend. At a final meeting of the Executive Planning Committee on August 12 at Bert and Addie Stein's home, plans for the coming year were formulated. They will be submitted to the Alumni members for approval.

1970 WILKES GRADUATE PROVES THAT BOOKS AND BEAUTY DO MIX

If your image of a librarian is a little old lady who tells you to be quiet and not disturb the books — you haven't seen Joan Harvey!

Joan Harvey, a member of the Wilkes class of 1970, is an assistant children's librarian at the Osterhout Free Library on South Franklin Street in Wilkes-Barre. But she's also a tiny (five-foot), 105-pound, brown haired, blue-eyed bundle of charm who holds the title "Miss United Fund."

For all her charm, Joan is quick to point out that the Miss United Fund title is not just part of another beauty queen pageant, however. Her primary responsibility in the next few months will be to urge people throughout the Wyoming Valley to give generously to the United Fund cause — hopefully reaching a goal of $1,503,000.

All of this excitement has happened very quickly to the bubbly young librarian. She was approached in August to represent the Osterhout in the pageant, and as Joan describes it, "I hesitated about three seconds and said yes."

Of the contest itself, Joan says she found every part of it to be fun, especially meeting the other contestants, who represented 23 area organizations. "It wasn't like we were competing with each other. We just all wanted to do the best job possible. We had fun, but we were also aware that it wasn't only for fun. The United Fund was in the back of our minds — and for that reason we wanted to put on a good show."

She confides that she didn't think she'd even make the semi-finals, and what happened after that is pretty much a blur. All at once, Lee Vincent's orchestra was playing the Miss America theme song, and last year's winner, Judy Zeedock, was placing a tiara on her and handing her roses. Then came the camera flashes and the microphones.

WILKES HIGH IN MAC RECORDS

Although insufficient league games will again bar Wilkes from any Middle Atlantic Conference team and individual football statistical honors, the Colonels nevertheless will be keeping an eye on the MAC logs which find eight Blue and Gold marks still withstanding.

A memorable Saturday afternoon on September 30, 1967, found defensive halfback Dan Malloy grabbing off five interceptions against Moravian. The amazing feat was only one pitter shy of the NCAA record but stands alone in the MAC annals.

Joe Wiendl still holds two entries in the MAC journals on the strength of 90- and 56-yard interceptions against PMC in 1967. Wiendl compiled the one-game standard of 146 yards and then proceeded to establish the one-season interception mark with 220 yards.

The Blue and Gold also hold two records in the placekicking department with Bill Staake's nine placements against Haverford in 1967 and Paul Purta's 1965 season total of 23 points via the PAT route still highwater marks.

Teamwise, the charges of Coach Roland Schmidt have set standards for yards gained in a game, 654 versus Haverford, 1967; game rushing yardage, 473 versus Haverford, 1967; and fewest yards allowed in a season, 27.1 average, in 1965.

CLASS NOTES

Dr. June Turley, the former JUNE WILLIAMS, has been promoted to research manager in the Dow Interdiscipline Group of laboratories with responsibility for both X-ray and emission spectroscopy in chemical physics research. She resides with her husband, SHELDON, '48, at 1208 Wakefield Drive, Midland, Michigan. . . . RICHARD BELLAS recently received his doctor of medicine degree from the University of Arkansas and was promoted to the rank of major in the Air Force. Major Bellas is serving his internship at Baptist Medical Center, Little Rock, Arkansas, where he resides with his wife, Mary Ann, and their three sons, Joseph, John, and Robert. . . . RICHARD REES is an assistant professor of education in the department of curriculum and instruction at Montclair State College. He resides with his wife and children at 57 Koyen Street, Fords, New Jersey. . . . A daughter, Jean Allison, was born on May 28, 1971, to Mr. and Mrs. RICHARD RASPEN. They reside at 90 Charles Street, Wilkes-Barre. . . . FRANK HUSBAND and SANDRA DUNCAN were married recently. Frank is presently working as a special education teacher at the White Haven State School and Hospital. Sandra is a second grade teacher in the Dallas School District. They reside at 420 Market Street, Kingston, Pennsylvania.

freshman recruits in camp and is looking forward to the 1981 schedule. Of its nine games, the Blue and Gold will be home at the friendly confines of Ralston Field on four occasions. In addition to the traditional Middle Atlantic Conference foes, Wilkes will meet non-league Trenton State and first-time opponent John Hopkins University, the latter contest serving as this year's Alumni Homecoming feature on October 31.

The most successful of last year's Wilkes fall sports teams, the cross country unit, will be even stronger in 1981. Last year, under coach Ron Righter the Blue and Gold harriers compiled a school record 14 wins in a 14-7 year.

New coach Bart Bellairs will have some key lettermen returning with a host of highly-touted newcomers. Expected to lead the Wilkes running attack this fall is senior captain Ken Pascoe of Nanticoke.

Another successful team a year ago was the women's volleyball team of veteran mentor Doris Saracino. Last year, the ladies went 11-8, setting the school record for most wins in one season.

But Saracino and Co. were hit hard by graduation and 1981 could become a rebuilding season for the Colonelettes. Expected to bolster the Wilkes attack are the co-captains junior Cheryl Frystak of Montrose and senior Cathy Dudick of Wilkes-Barre.

Coach Gay Meyers and her women's field hockey team also might be involved in a rebuilding season. Last year, the ladies started out fast, winning six and tying one of their first eight encounters. But the lady Colonels dropped three of their last four to finish with an overall mark of 6-4-3.

Gone via graduation are two of the top three scorers with only junior Diane Hall of Ephrata, Pa., (nine goals) back to aid the offense. Among the schedule highlights is an encounter with "big-time" foe University of Pittsburgh.

Also looking to improve in 1981 is the men's soccer team of coach Ernesto

Lopez. With the loss of co-MVP John Brill and leading scorer Dung Chi Duong to graduation, Lopez has been forced to check elsewhere on his team for offensive firepower.

And the answer might rest with junior Carlos Ribiero of Union, N.J. The 1981 slate will be tough with such top-notch opponents as national powers Bloomsburg State and Scranton. Wilkes will meet cross-town rival King's College on Nov. 11.

Another Wilkes team trying to turn things around is the women's tennis team, which went 1-11 last year and has been 2-33 over the past three seasons. One of the highlights for coach Nancy Snee's crew last fall was the play of freshman Cathy Price of Exeter.

Price went on to garner the team's "MVP" award while playing number one singles and represented the college at the Middle Atlantic Conference tournament. With a host of letterwomen returning and some recruits in camp, Snee is looking for a few more wins in 1981.

ATHERTON COMES HOME

Jim Atherton, 1954 Wilkes graduate and former Colonel cage standout, has returned to the campus to serve the college as our new men's basketball coach. Jim, who for the past 13 years compiled an impressive career mark of 228-86 at Luzerne County Community College in Nanticoke, replaces Ron Righter who resigned to take the assistant position at Washington State in the Pac-10.

Atherton, who was selected to the all-time basketball squad at Wilkes for his outside shooting, will serve Wilkes only as its head basketball coach while keeping his duties at LCCC as director of student affairs and athletics.

"I'm very elated," offered Atherton, considered one of the finest basketball coaches on the East coast. "As an alumnus, I have great pride in Wilkes.

It's an excellent college and I'm honored to coach here." While at LCCC, Jim's teams captured six conference titles, including a 55-consecutive win streak at home. LCCC was also involved in post-season play in 11 of his 13 years.

Jim, who resides in South Wilkes-Barre with his wife Patricia and their five children, was the subject of a special sports feature in the Winter-1977 issue of the Quarterly. Atherton is shown being greeted on the Wilkes campus by 1981 co-captain Kevin Walker of Springfield, N.J.

FALL SPORTS PREVIEW

A feeling of confidence is in the air as the six fall season sports teams of Wilkes College prepare for the 1981 campaign. The Colonel teams will be trying to come back from an overall record of 37-47-5 during the 1980 fall season.

Coach Rollie Schmidt's gridders will be looking to improve on their 3-6 mark of 1980. Schmidt has a host of top-notch

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1981-1982

Up to this point, the material in this Report has highlighted much of the work that has been done during the past academic year. While many of those projects will require our continued guidance and evaluation, there continue to be many new areas that we must explore.

As we enter into the 1981-1982 Academic Year much remains to be done. In an effort to guide us through the next twelve months we have established, as in years past, Institutional Objectives that pinpoint four major areas of concern. Those objectives are to:

I. DEVELOP AND IMPLEMENT PLANS FOR CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW RESIDENCE HALL

- Establish a management system for coordination of the Construction Program
- Create a communication system to keep key personnel and agencies of the College informed of the status of the construction
- Establish procedures for the transfer of new facility to the College
- Develop a procedure to insure smooth occupancy of the facility
- Implement fund-raising and financing plans to provide the required resources for the project

II. STUDY THE EFFECT OF FINANCIAL AID REDUCTIONS AND TAKE STEPS TO MINIMIZE THE IMPACT OF A POTENTIAL REDUCTION IN ENROLLMENT

- Establish an Ad Hoc committee to:
 - Study the probable reductions which will be made in financial aid for 1982-83
 - Assess the impact of anticipated reductions on students at Wilkes
 - Provide an analysis of the probable consequences of financial aid reductions on student enrollment at Wilkes
- Ask the Long-Range Planning Committee and the Faculty Policy Committee to:
 - Study the report provided by the Ad Hoc Committee
 - Discuss the projected impact upon the College
 - Recommend steps which can be taken to minimize the impact
- Implement recommendations

III. COMPLETE PLANNING STAGES FOR FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

- Finalize arrangements with Bucknell University for those events in which Bucknell will take part.
- Clearly develop other non-Bucknell related events
 - Complete history of Wilkes College
 - Establish program of events with key community groups
 - Complete Anniversary edition of Alumni Directory
 - Finalize plans for alumni special events
 - Prepare plan for media communications
 - Define faculty departmental activities
 - Establish special cultural events programming
 - Plan with student organizations for appropriate student activities
- Publish calendar of key events
- Establish budget for extraordinary expenses

IV. EXPLORE THE FEASIBILITY OF DEVELOPING A MARKET PLANNING AND RESEARCH PROGRAM WHICH WOULD ALLOW THE COLLEGE MORE EFFICIENTLY TO:

- Identify the individuals and groups it serves
- Assess the extent to which it meets the needs of those it serves
- Identify potential constituencies it could serve consistent with the nature of the institution

Such a program would involve determinations as to the practicalities of:

- An assessment of the College's current position with respect to its actual and potential areas
- The design and implementation of a Market Research project which would identify the type of marketing effort needed by the College
- The planning and implementation of a range of market strategies

While these projects will form the core of our efforts for the next twelve months we shall continue to strengthen each of our areas as outlined in this report.

With your valued help and assistance the tradition of Wilkes College shall continue to grow and prosper.

SOUTH RIVER STREET: A NEW LOOK FOR

Over the past few years the South River Street section of the Wilkes campus has become the center of academic and cultural activity for both the college and community. In addition to the educational opportunities afforded by the facilities on that part of campus, the refurbished and renovated physical plant provides an impressive landscape for travelers who journey down South River Street past our campus. We invite you to take that journey.

RESIDENCE HALL

In September of 1981 construction commenced on our new 205-bed, four-story residence hall which will provide living space for tomorrow's leaders and scholars.

Designed architecturally to blend with adjacent buildings, the new structure is scheduled for completion in August of 1982 and will house students beginning in the Fall of that year.

The fully air-conditioned facility is designed for energy efficiency and low cost maintenance.

CONYNGHAM STUDENT UNION

The Conyngham Student Union building, given by the Conyngham family and refurbished with the help of funds raised by the College through its Alpha Campaign, is a multi-functional unit which is available to campus clubs and organizations for student activities and for relaxation. The Student Union building is also the home of all Student Government offices.

The basement of the Union serves as a social center where students can plan and hold various activities throughout the year.

A cafeteria on the main floor is available to students, faculty and staff each day which encourages an informal exchange between all constituencies of the College on an ongoing basis.

The Conyngham Student Union provides a home away from home for all members of the Wilkes family.

ANNETTE EVANS ALUMNI AND FACULTY HOUSE

Donated to Wilkes by a "Friend of the College," The Annette Evans Alumni and Faculty House provides office space for the Health Sciences Department and the Special Programs Office.

The Gracious English Tudor structure is used extensively for meetings, social functions and as a lounge for both alumni and faculty.

At one time, the charming building located at 146 S. River Street served as the home of Dr. Eugene S. Farley, the first President of Wilkes College.

STARK LEARNING CENTER

The Stark Learning Center, constructed at a cost of $7 million in 1972, connects with the Stark Hall of Science which was completed in 1958 and enlarged in 1963. The Center is named in honor of the late Admiral Harold R. Stark, former Chief of Naval Operations and Honorary Chairman of the Wilkes College Board of Trustees.

The Stark Learning Center is the hub of academic activity on campus and contains classrooms, laboratory space, faculty offices and studios for the programs in electrical and materials engineering, earth and environmental sciences, art, mathematics-computer science, nursing and psychology.

The College Computer Center is also located in Stark with facilities and services available to students and faculty involved in computer programming, research, and large-scale problem solving.

The Wilkes College Stark Learning Center — a modern facility with flexible educational opportunities for today's student and tomorrow's leader.

CHASE HALL

When prospective students visit the Wilkes campus for the first time, Chase Hall provides for them their initial stopping place. Home of the admissions office, Chase Hall was presented to the College in 1937 by Rear Admiral Harold R. Stark as a memorial to Fred Chase and his wife, who was Admiral Stark's sister.

Extensive renovations during 1980 have kept the historical tradition and significance of the 65-year-old structure intact.

Admiral Stark was born in Wilkes-Barre over 100 years ago and attended Wilkes-Barre High School. He became a member of the Wilkes Board of Trustees in 1947 and became Chairman of the Board in 1960.

The long time friend and benefactor of Wilkes was accorded the unique distinction of appointment as Honorary Chairman of the Board of Trustees, a lifetime appointment conferred upon him by the Board following his retirement in 1965.

Chase Hall, which also houses the political science and psychology departments, serves as a constant reminder that one man's vision and generosity can mold future generations and lifestyles.

KIRBY HALL

One of several campus buildings listed on the "Pennsylvania Register of Historic Sites and Landmarks," Kirby Hall was given to the College in 1941 by Allan P. Kirby in honor of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morgan Kirby.

The beautiful three-story structure is the home of the Language and Literature Department and, as history would have it, was the site of the first marriage in Wyoming Valley back on April 1 of 1769.

In 1980, with the help of funds raised during the College's three-year Alpha Campaign, Kirby Hall was completely renovated including a new tile roof and specially made windows. Support from the F. M. Kirby Foundation helped to make this possible.

Kirby Hall, featured in the Winter, 1981 issue of The Quarterly, stands as a symbol of strength for both the College and Wyoming Valley.

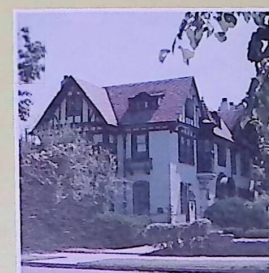

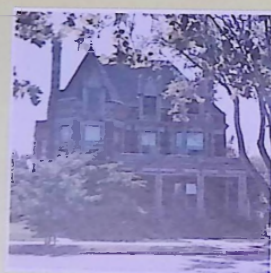

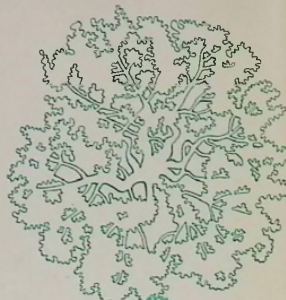

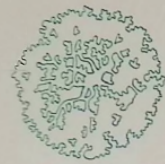

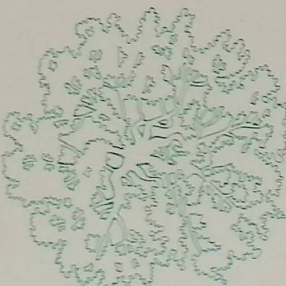

BEDFORD HALL

When Attorney and Mrs. Paul Bedford bequeathed their former residence to Wilkes in August of 1967, they requested that the College use the facility in a fashion that would help prepare students for the future.

Today, Bedford Hall serves as a residence hall for upperclassmen. Students residing in the charming structure come to Wilkes from different parts of the country and are seeking varied degrees which allow for a diversified living experience during the students' residence at Wilkes.

Bedford Hall underwent extensive exterior refurbishment in 1980 and is one of several showcase buildings on campus.

The Bedford Hall lawn area is the site of many outdoor social events throughout the year including an annual carnival which raises funds for local charities.

DOROTHY DICKSON DARTE CENTER FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS

The Dorothy Dickson Darte Center for the Performing Arts, presented to Wilkes by Dorothy Dickson Darte in memory of her parents Allan Hamilton Dickson and Kate Pettebone Dickson, is the hub of cultural activity on the campus.

A 500-seat auditorium with 2,640 sq. ft. of stage area provides a beautiful setting for Concert and Lecture Series Programs, Theatre Productions, Music Concerts, Major Lectures, Films and Assemblies.

The facility, dedicated in April of 1970, is also made available to community groups who wish to hold their special programs on our campus.

Adjacent to the CPA is Gies Hall which is the home of the College music department. While major concerts and recitals are held in the CPA, individual student performances as well as practice sessions are held in an acoustically designed auditorium in Gies Hall.

The Dorothy Dickson Darte Center for the Performing Arts and Geis Hall — serving the cultural needs of the College and the Community.

In keeping with this special issue of the Quarterly and President Capin's Annual Report, I'd like to brief you on one aspect of our Planned Giving Program's progress.

A highlight of my first two years in this role has been the discovery that there are so many Wilkes friends who include the College as part of their regular philanthropy. These men and women not only give to our annual fund and contribute to special scholarship, endowment, or building needs... they also form the base of a planned gifts network.

Among such friends are those who have recently told us that Wilkes is included in their wills, that is, their estate planning. During the past year the College has received several such bequests, from the $500 and $1,000 level up to a charitable remainder trust of an entire estate, which will ultimately come to Wilkes. The Pooled Income Fund is of particular interest to one of our loyal donors who has purchased units in it via several gifts, thereby earning tax advantages, life income for himself and his beneficiary, and supporting this school which means so much to his hometown.

I've just described two kinds of estate planning that have given us financial support... life income plans and bequests made under wills. They are the essential ingredients of this program; the donor makes a planned gift now to benefit Wilkes later.

Some people believe that wills are an unnecessary provision for a far-off inevitability. Not so! Your will is the cornerstone of your estate plan which has two aims: property disposal according to your wishes and protection against tax shrinkage. The friends described above discovered that bequests to Wilkes satisfied both goals.

A bequest by will, large or small, can be tailored to fit your circumstances. You may have priorities to take care of before Wilkes becomes a beneficiary. In that case, Wilkes could be named a contingent beneficiary. Remember that a bequest can be made to honor your family name or a teacher or friend who influenced your life. Wilkes' rolls are replete with such meaningful memorials; those fine names are a continual tribute and reminder of the people who built and supported this unique educational institution over the past decades.

Wilkes is certainly grateful for its ever-widening circle of planned giving friends. If you are, or plan to be, a part of that circle, it may be comforting to recall Thoreau's words: "Philanthropy is almost the only virtue which is sufficiently appreciated by mankind."

THE RHYTHM OF TIME

*You must build a firm foundation
Within you, a State, a Nation,
Not let Hope be your constructor,
Expect Time to change the structure.*

*You should be a careful workman,
If you wish to get fine work done,
Giving strength where strength is needed,
Hearing words before unheeded.*

*Time can only work by using Strengths or faults you've been excusing,
The foundations you have charted,
Or the building you have started.*

*Time moves on with steady rhythm,
Causing firmness or indecision,
Moving on in strength or weakness,
Magnifying each uniqueness.*
