

WILKESuniverse

The voice of Wilkes University Alumni

FALL 2006

Watching the World

FRED GEDRICH '73 SERVES AS FOREIGN POLICY EXPERT AND NATIONAL SECURITY ANALYST

Earl & Sedor Photographic

Building a Great Wilkes

BY DR. TIM GILMOUR, WILKES UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE, BUT I'M ENTERING MY SIXTH YEAR AS PRESIDENT OF WILKES University. And it has been such an honor and pleasure to serve. When I accepted the presidency, I knew Wilkes was unique. It was unique because of its commitment to students and its active involvement in the region's development. My thought at the time — and even more so today — is that these are the very qualities that the colleges of the future must possess.

Building on these qualities over the past five years, we have become an even stronger institution. With the help of the entire university community, we have defined mentoring as the way we connect with and challenge our students, grown our enrollments by 30 percent, developed exciting new academic programs, begun to revitalize the campus, provided more competitive compensation and strengthened our finances — all things to be celebrated.

But as our journey to greater strength has progressed, there has been a surprising but significant turn of events. Without explicitly planning it, we have shifted from being an institution that was working hard to be very good to one that has the potential to be truly great. But to be great is even harder work and it involves significant change. The university community is rising to the challenge, but we are talking about change and it is both threatening and difficult. As one trustee recently said to me, "I admire your ambitions for Wilkes, but I'm not sure everyone has the faith in Wilkes you do." I responded, "That's my challenge — to help as many as I can see the enormous opportunities before Wilkes and to believe we can realize them."

I know building a great Wilkes University will not be easy. But I also know that the opportunities before us far outweigh any risks we might face. We will need the help of our alumni — your talent, time and treasure — more than ever.

As heartening as the news about Wilkes is the progress in Wilkes-Barre. My fitness program centers on walking around the campus and town. Lately, I've been feeling like a sidewalk superintendent to an awakening city. It is exhilarating. It's not just the projects about to be completed or underway — the new 14 screen theatre, the renovation of the Sterling Hotel, the development of the riverfront, the installation of new streetlights, or the plans of local retailers to expand or upgrade their establishments. It's the significant shift in tone and attitude among those with whom I work. There is a growing sense that our city will soon become a lovely, artsy college town on the Susquehanna.

I have to tell you it's fun to walk around campus and town and feel this sense of optimism and possibility. And it's even more inspiring to have the role I have been dealt in all of this. Come to Homecoming this fall and see it all — you'll be so proud of your alma mater, nestled in a great, reawakening city and in the process of defining a vital role for itself in the 21st century. !!!

WILKES UNIVERSITY

President
Dr. Tim Gilmour

VP for Development
Martin Williams

UNIVERSE EDITORIAL STAFF

Executive Director, Marketing Communications
Jack Chielli

Associate Director, Marketing Communications
Christine (Tondrick) Seitzinger '98

Sports Editor
John Seitzinger

Contributing Writers

Dr. Harold Cox
Dr. Kyle Kreider
Erin Sweeney M'07
Cindy Taren M'07
Julie Uehara
Emily Vincent

Layout/Design
Quest Fore

ALUMNI RELATIONS STAFF

Executive Director
Sandra Sarno Carroll

Associate Director
Michelle Diskin '95

Alumni Services Manager
Nancy A. Weeks

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION BOARD OFFICERS

President
Colleen Gries Gallagher '81

First Vice President
George Pawlusch '69

Second Vice President
Terrence Casey '82

Historian
John Pullo '82

Secretary
Beth Danner '02

Photography
Earl & Sedor Photographic
Mark Golaszewski
Howard Korn
Curtis Salonick Photography
Michael P. Touey

Printing
Payne Printery, Inc.

FALL 2006

Wilkes University is an independent institution of higher education dedicated to academic and intellectual excellence in the liberal arts, sciences, and professional programs. The university provides its students with the experience and education necessary for career and intellectual development as well as for personal growth. It instills a sense of responsibility and encourages its students to embrace the opportunities and challenges of a diverse and continually changing world. The university enhances the tradition of strong student-faculty interactions in all its programs, attracts and retains outstanding people in every segment of the university, and fosters a spirit of cooperation, community involvement, and individual respect with the entire university.

WILKESuniverse

FALL 2006

Contents

Features

- Cover Story:
10 Foreign policy expert Fred Gedrich '73 discusses world affairs
- Spotlight:
14 eMentoring the next generation of students
- 16 The case of the missing class ring

Sections

- 2 Association News
- 4 Development News
- 5 Sports
- 6 On Campus
- 18 Class Notes

On the cover: Fred Gedrich '73. Photo by Howard Korn.

The Gift of a Lifetime

Wilkes University's development office is offering personalized illustrations of how a gift annuity could work for you. It may be just what you are looking for to combine your charitable giving with your income needs.

A CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY IS A simple contract between you and Wilkes University. In exchange for your irrevocable gift of cash, securities or other assets, Wilkes agrees to pay one or two annuitants you name a fixed sum each year for life. The older your designated annuitants are at the time of the gift, the greater the fixed income Wilkes University can agree to pay. In most cases, part of each payment is tax-free, increasing each payment's after-tax value.

Seven Benefits of a Gift Annuity

1. Fixed and Secure Income for Life
Your payment rate will be locked in at the time you obtain your gift annuity. It will not rise or fall with the economy. Instead, it will be the same amount every year — and that can mean a lot in uncertain times.

2. Attractive Rates
When you compare Wilkes University's gift annuity rates with what you might receive from a savings account or certificate of deposit, you will likely be pleasantly surprised.

3. Regular Payments
When you establish your gift annuity, you decide how often you want to receive your payments. Whether you choose to receive checks or direct deposits every quarter, semiannually or only once-a-year, whatever you choose, receiving your regular payments on a specific, predetermined date is comforting and helpful for planning purposes.

4. Lifetime Benefit
Gift annuities are for life. No matter what your age now or how long you live, payments will continue right to the very end. This benefit of ongoing payments can provide security for you as you grow older.

5. Dependable Source
Wilkes University stands behind all our gift annuities. We have a reserve fund set aside to meet our obligations. We want you to feel safe and secure and to have confidence that your payments will continue without fail.

6. Relief from Taxes
Since part of your contribution for a gift annuity is considered a charitable gift by the IRS, you will receive an income tax charitable deduction to apply on an itemized return. Also, during your lifetime, you will be able to claim part of the annuity payment as tax-free income.

7. Simple Process
Obtaining a gift annuity from Wilkes University is easy. We provide you with a tailor-made illustration and materials you can share with your family and advisor(s).

For further information about Wilkes University's gift annuity program, use the postcard reply inserted in this page, send an e-mail to evelyne.topfer@wilkes.edu or call Evelyn Topfer at 570-408-4309.

Whatever your interest, with a little planning, your legacy can last forever.

William '52 and Connie Unphred

Agresti was named Pitcher of the Year for the third straight season after going 15-6 with a 0.76 earned run average. She also averaged 12.1 strikeouts per game. Agresti, who was named a second team

Coaches
t Region
nd earned a berth
ast Regional Alltm, also was a emic All-American.
nich earned Rookie
rs after hitting 42 runs and l record 14
ich excelled as a ing a 9-5 record and average. She also i on the East
arnament Team.
selected as the ence Coach of the nd time in the last
ite a roster that
o seniors and 14
s able to guide the erence title and 16
0 games.

NO POSTAGE
NECESSARY
IF MAILED
IN THE
UNITED STATES

BUSINESS REPLY MAIL
FIRST-CLASS MAIL PERMIT NO. 355 WILKES-BARRE PA

POSTAGE WILL BE PAID BY ADDRESSEE

WILKES UNIVERSITY
HOMECOMING HEADQUARTERS
OFFICE OF ALUMNI RELATIONS
84 W SOUTH ST
WILKES-BARRE PA 18701-9832

Wilkes Celebrates 60 Years of Intercollegiate Football

BY DR. HAROLD COX

Oct. 11, 2006, marks the 60th anniversary of intercollegiate football at Wilkes, part of the revival of intercollegiate sports at what was then Bucknell University Junior College (BUJC) following the end of World War II.

The establishment of a football team was a major undertaking. The college did not have a coach, property suitable for practice or game play, or any football equipment. These problems were solved quickly. George Ralston was recruited from the college's Veteran's Guidance Center staff to coach the team. An arrangement was made with nearby Kingston High School to use its field on weekends when Kingston was playing away games. Lastly, Wilkes-Barre city officials gave their permission to use the field in Kirby Park for the team's practices.

The team was assembled and organized in less than six weeks. The players were all student volunteers, the majority being veterans of World War II. At the same time, other enterprising students showed their support for the new team. A pre-game pep rally was scheduled along the dike, and one student named Reese Pelton organized a band to support the athletic events.

The first football team played six games with various junior college level teams. It gave up only two touchdowns and finished the season undefeated. The combined season score was BUJC - 95, opponents - 12. As an article in the 1947 BUJC Yearbook noted, "Rarely does a football team make such an imposing start."

The Gift of a Lifetime

Wilkes University's development office is offering personalized illustrations of how a gift annuity could work for you. It may be just what you are looking for to combine your charitable giving with your income needs.

A CHARITABLE simple of you and Unive exchange for your in of cash, securities of Wilkes agrees to pay annuitants you name each year for life. Th designated annuitan time of the gift, the income Wilkes Univ to pay. In most cases payment is tax-free, payment's after-tax v

Seven Benefits of a Gift Annuity

1. Fixed and Secure
Your payment rate in at the time you annuity. It will not the economy. Inst the same amount every year

Name: _____
 Class Year: _____
 Address: _____
 Preferred Phone: _____
 E-Mail: _____

- This is updated information
- Please send me a personalized illustration of a gift annuity
 - The amount I wish to give for a gift annuity: $ _____
 - This will be a gift of cash or stock
- I would like to know more about how to include Wilkes University in my estate plans

Simple Process

Obtaining a gift annuity from Wilkes University is easy. We provide you with a tailor-made illustration and materials you can share with your family and advisor(s).

For further information about Wilkes University's gift annuity program, use the postcard reply inserted in this page, send an e-mail to evelyne.topfer@wilkes.edu or call Evelyne Topfer at 570-408-4309.

Whatever your interest, with a little planning, your legacy can last forever.

William '52 and Connie Umphred

The Lady Colonels celebrate an NCAA playoff berth after a victory over rival King's College.

Softball Team Garners NCAA Berth and Individual Award Trifecta

BY ERIN SWEENEY M'07

The softball squad fought its way to an overall record of 28-15 this spring, including a 12-2 record in the Freedom Conference. The team's performance earned the Lady Colonels a berth in the Freedom Conference playoffs, which were held at the Ralston Complex. Wilkes opened tournament play by topping Lycoming College in the opening round and then posted consecutive victories over rival King's College to claim its first Freedom Conference title and an automatic berth into the NCAA Division III Championship.

Wilkes, making its first NCAA appearance since 1999, traveled to Rutgers-Camden University for the East Regional Tournament. The Lady Colonels would finish with a 2-2 mark in the Regional Tournament.

"With such a young team, inexperience was a concern," commented head coach Frank Matthews. "With some solid veteran leadership, they were able to turn hope into a reality."

Wilkes captured three of the four Freedom Conference individual awards. Junior Laurie

Agresti was named Pitcher of the Year for the third straight season after going 15-6 with a 0.76 earned run average. She also averaged 12.1 strikeouts per game. Agresti, who was named a second team National Fastpitch Coaches Association East Region All-American and earned a berth on the NCAA East Regional All-Tournament Team, also was a District II Academic All-American.

Samantha Evanich earned Rookie of the Year honors after hitting .304, driving in 42 runs and slugging a school record 14 homeruns. Evanich excelled as a pitcher, fashioning a 9-5 record and 1.35 earned run average. She also garnered a berth on the East Regional All-Tournament Team.

Matthews was selected as the Freedom Conference Coach of the Year for the second time in the last three years. Despite a roster that included only two seniors and 14 freshmen, he was able to guide the team to the conference title and 16 wins in its final 20 games.

Wilkes Celebrates 60 Years of Intercollegiate Football

BY DR. HAROLD COX

Oct. 11, 2006, marks the 60th anniversary of intercollegiate football at Wilkes, part of the revival of intercollegiate sports at what was then Bucknell University Junior College (BUJC) following the end of World War II.

The establishment of a football team was a major undertaking. The college did not have a coach, property suitable for practice or game play, or any football equipment. These problems were solved quickly. George Ralston was recruited from the college's Veteran's Guidance Center staff to coach the team. An arrangement was made with nearby Kingston High School to use its field on weekends when Kingston was playing away games. Lastly, Wilkes-Barre city officials gave their permission to use the field in Kirby Park for the team's practices.

The team was assembled and organized in less than six weeks. The players were all student volunteers, the majority being veterans of World War II. At the same time, other enterprising students showed their support for the new team. A pre-game pep rally was scheduled along the dike, and one student named Reese Pelton organized a band to support the athletic events.

The first football team played six games with various junior college level teams. It gave up only two touchdowns and finished the season undefeated. The combined season score was BUJC - 95, opponents - 12. As an article in the 1947 BUJC Yearbook noted, "Rarely does a football team make such an imposing start."

Clockwise from top:
President Gilmour addresses the crowd of more than 4,000 graduates, friends and family.
A proud parent shows her support.

Alumni Association President Colleen Gries-Gallagher '81 presents the Alumni Leadership Award to Drew Amoroso of Wyalusing, Pa.

Award-winning journalist Charlayne Hunter-Gault delivers an inspiring keynote address.

59th Annual Spring Commencement

Wilkes University President Tim Gilmour conferred 273 bachelor's, 262 master's and 72 doctor of pharmacy degrees during the university's 59th Annual Spring Commencement on May 20, 2006. Award-winning journalist Charlayne Hunter-Gault, special correspondent for National Public Radio, delivered the keynote speech.

Photos by Michael P. Tenney

Theatre Arts Alumni Selected to Perform with National Players

Carlos Candelario '06 of Harvey's Lake, Pa., and Rachel Dyer '06 of Forestburgh, N.Y., have been selected to tour with the prestigious National Players Touring Company in Washington, D.C. National Players, now in its 58th year, is the longest-running classical touring company in the United States. This year, it will present William Shakespeare's Othello and Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Ernest.

Candelario will understudy the title role in Othello and Lane in The Importance of Being Ernest. Dyer will play support roles in Othello and Lady Bracknell in The Importance of Being Ernest. The company is scheduled to tour the United States in the fall of 2006. Alumnus Ben Shovlin '00 toured with National Players five years ago in Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing. Joe Dawson, chair of visual and performing arts, performed in Romeo and Juliet and The Taming of the Shrew in the group's 30th tour.

Rachel Dyer and Carlos Candelario will perform with the National Players Touring Company.

Wilkes Brings National Publishing Firm to Campus

Etruscan Press, a nonprofit cooperative of poets and writers, will relocate its operation and publication headquarters to the Wilkes campus. Previously housed with the English department at Youngstown State University in Ohio, Etruscan Press has created a full-time managing editor position and will provide on-site experiential learning opportunities for students in the creative writing program as well as Wilkes undergraduate students.

"While we delight in being able to provide a congenial home for Etruscan Press, we will benefit greatly from the national exposure of having the press here on campus," said Wilkes University President Tim Gilmour. "This partnership also sends a strong message about the cultural richness of the region. Having a university-based press with the prominence of Etruscan will put Northeastern Pennsylvania on the literary world's map."

From its inception in 2001, Etruscan Press has promoted books that nurture the dialogue among genres, achieve a distinctive voice and reshape the literary and cultural histories of which they are a part. Etruscan has published books by H.L. Hix, Milton Kessler and William Heyen, whose collection of poetry, Shoah Train, received a National Book Award nomination in 2004. During its brief history, Etruscan Press has garnered several prestigious grants, including The National Endowment for the Arts, The Ohio Arts Council, and the Nathalie and James Andrews Foundation.

Etruscan Press founders Bob Mooney (left) and Phil Brady (at podium) discuss the partnership with Wilkes.

Alumnus Flies American Flag Over Iraq For Wilkes Football Team

This spring, Wilkes University welcomed home a hero. U.S. Air Force Captain Tom Yeager '96 returned to campus for the first time in more than six years to make a special presentation to the Wilkes football team. An F-15 fighter pilot, Yeager flew an American flag over Iraq on a recent mission for Operation Iraqi Freedom. He presented the flag, along with a mission certificate, to head football coach Frank Sheptock and more than 80 members of the football team who turned out to meet and welcome the captain. The flag will fly at Ralston Field during the fall sports season.

Yeager, who credits his experiences as a student athlete and coach Sheptock for providing him with the leadership skills necessary to be a good soldier, spoke to the team about his career as a pilot, the war on terrorism and the importance of team building, leadership and mentorship.

"Wilkes University was a building block to where I am today," Yeager said. "I feel my time on the football field with fellow teammates and the leadership of coach Sheptock mirrors everyday life as an Air Force fighter pilot."

Yeager also showed the team a DVD with raw footage of the mission

Continued on Page 6

Pictured from left are: Dr. Paul Adams, vice president of student affairs; Addy Malatesta, director of athletics; Capt. Tom Yeager; head football coach Frank Sheptock; and Sandra Carroll, executive director of alumni relations.

on campus

he flew with the flag. While on campus, Yeager was given a personalized tour of new buildings, including the University Center on Main and the Henry Student Center, which was under construction when he last visited Wilkes. After a two-week leave to his hometown of Ashland, Pa., Yeager flew to California where he began Top Gun training with the Navy Hornets.

"One of my goals is to return and do a fly-by over campus for Homecoming," he said.

Graham Appointed Interim Provost

Dr. Bernard Graham, dean of the Nesbitt College of Pharmacy and Nursing, has been appointed interim provost. Graham replaces Dr. Maravene Loeschke who resigned in May to become president of Mansfield University of Pennsylvania.

Graham brings more than 35 years of experience in industry and education to the interim post. He was appointed dean of the Nesbitt College of Pharmacy and Nursing in 1993. He previously served as associate dean of the college of pharmacy at Idaho State University and as an associate professor of the college of pharmacy at the University of South Carolina. Graham also served as a senior health physicist and environmental group supervisor with Pennsylvania Power and Light in Allentown, Pa.

"I look forward to working with all of the university's academic departments, my colleagues on Dean's Council and members of President's Cabinet to help to set the university's strategic direction," Graham said.

The university has convened a committee to conduct a national search for a permanent replacement for Loeschke. Dr. Harvey Jacobs, associate dean of the Nesbitt College of Pharmacy and Nursing, will step in as dean in Graham's absence.

The Beacon Receives Award for Excellence in Content, Coverage and Editing

Wilkes University's student newspaper, The Beacon, received a first-place rating from the American Scholastic Press Association in its annual review and contest. The Beacon was given an unprecedented perfect score for both content/coverage and editing, and the reviewer cited outstanding writing excellence as chief among the traits that distinguish the paper.

This is the fifth year that the weekly college newspaper has received first place honors in the annual contest. Beacon advisor and assistant professor of communication studies Dr. Andrea Frantz is the 2004 Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication Small Programs National Journalism Teacher of the Year.

Dr. Paola Bianco with Dr. Darin Fields, dean of the College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences.

Bianco Publishes Anthologies of Spanish Literature

Dr. Paola Bianco, associate professor of Spanish, published a series of books for university use and high school Spanish advanced placement courses. The series consists of three editions of Spanish works and two volumes of Hispanic literature. The three editions are: "La Casa de Bernarda Alba," a play by Federico Garcia Lorca; San Manuel Bueno, Muerto, a short novel by Miguel de Unamuno; and a play by Tirso de Molina titled, "El Burlador de Sevilla," which deals with the mythic figure of Don Juan.

Photo by Michelle E. Barry

Former Provost-lecturer, journalist Bob Woodward (left) delivered the Max Baucus Lecture in Law and Humanities on April 23, 2006. The event marked the 25th anniversary of the lecture series which has brought renowned and award-winning journalists, medical and legal scholars and historians to campus. After a book signing, Woodward dined with communication studies majors and minors, including Gabie LeGrosso '06 (in right).

Attending the annual meeting of the Eastern Psychological Association were (back row, left to right): Dr. Bob Bohlander, associate professor of psychology; David Scarisbrick; Jason Kowalski; Adam Mason; Aaron Pascoe; Amanda Baronowski; Shanna Allen; April Ritz; Kalya Rupert; and Dr. Debbie Tindell, associate professor of psychology. Front row, left to right: Rebecca Storer, Lauren Peters, Cheryl Kramer, Virginia Merola, Erica Bucholz and Lindsay Nanz.

Psychology Students Present Research to Psychology Association

Fourteen psychology students attended the annual meeting of the Eastern Psychological Association in Baltimore to present posters of research they conducted with faculty mentors Dr. Debbie Tindell and Dr. Robert Bohlander. The research focused on memory recall, cognition and word fragmentation.

Students Present Research at PA Academy of Science

More than 40 biology and chemistry majors presented research papers and posters with their faculty mentors at the 82nd annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science (PAS) in Hershey, Pa. Wilkes University had one of the largest contingencies of undergraduates at the meeting. PAS provides forums for both junior and senior scientific research presentations and discussions and also encourages colleagues to meet from different academic institutions and industries. Dr. Valerie Kalter, associate professor of biology, serves as president of PAS.

Senior biology major Abigail Redmond was one of 41 students to present research at the Pennsylvania Academy of Science's annual meeting earlier this year.

Student Athletes Raise Money for Charity

More than 225 Wilkes University student athletes and coaches participated in the second annual Colonels Charity Challenge to benefit the Children's Miracle Network and the Gift of Life donor program. The Colonels Charity Challenge featured nine endurance and strength events, including a sand bag challenge, 800-yard run, 200-yard dash, tire throw, kettlebell throw, tire flip, farmers walk, obstacle relay, and a team van or shuttle pull. The event helped to raise more than $3,000 for the charities.

Field hockey player Davon McKay prepares to let go during the tire throw competition.

Watching the World

Fred Gedrich '73 is a Foreign Policy Expert and National Security Analyst

BY KYLE KREIDER, PH.D.

Fred Gedrich '73 (left) and political science professor Kyle Kreider discuss world affairs and national security during a meeting in Washington, D.C.

MY ROLE AS A PROFESSOR of political science makes me a keen observer of issues affecting our global world. So it was with great pleasure that I took advantage of an opportunity to meet and interview Wilkes alumnus Fred Gedrich '73 during a recent trip to Washington, D.C. Fred is a former U.S. Department of Defense and State Department official who is now a foreign policy expert and national security analyst.

In his 28 years of government service, Fred traveled throughout the United States and to U.S. missions in more than 50 countries. He has also attended UN World

Summits in Monterrey, Mexico and Johannesburg, South Africa.

Fred has appeared on the BBC, CNN, Fox News Channel and MSNBC and has been a guest on hundreds of radio stations throughout the country discussing U.S. relations with other countries and international organizations as well as the global war on terror. An accomplished writer, his articles have been published and used by United Press International, Le Monde, CBS News, The Miami Herald, American Enterprise Institute Magazine and National Review. He is also a contributing author to "War Footing: 10 Steps America Must Take to Prevail in the War for the Free World."

Fred splits his time working as executive vice president for MobilVox, Inc., a software engineering and wireless technology firm.

For this cover story, Fred shared his informed opinions on a number of topics affecting our country's national security and political landscape, including the war in Iraq, global terrorism, national security, freedom and democracy, and the state of our post-9/11 world.

Q – Tell us about how you moved from a Wilkes graduate to the State Department in the 1980s to a foreign policy analyst now?

A – After graduating from Wilkes in 1973, I accepted a position with the Department of the Navy. I transferred to the Department of Defense in 1983 after receiving a master's degree from Central Michigan University. At Defense, my duties included evaluating major aircraft, missile, shipbuilding and space programs. In 1987, I moved to the U.S. State Department. My first assignment at State took me to Paris, Warsaw and Nairobi. Some other notable assignments included Beijing during the Tiananmen Square Massacre, Beirut under hostile conditions, several African countries undergoing political and economic turmoil, Haiti during the embargo, and the newly independent states in the former Soviet Union shortly after the collapse of the communist empire. Many of those experiences, as well as my strong interest in U.S. national security and foreign policy issues, opened the doors to radio and television appearances and publication in the print media after my retirement from federal service.

Q – On to the hard questions. In your opinion, can the United States win the war in Iraq?

A – Certainly. However, final victory will require continued patience, resolve and sacrifice by the U.S. and its allies, and the bravery and commitment of millions of Iraqis thirsting for freedom, liberty and peace after enduring decades of abuse, oppression and war under the tight-fisted rule of Saddam Hussein. Unfortunately, the quick military victory over Saddam's regime by coalition forces has not quelled the violence in Iraq. Much of the mayhem is being perpetrated by several thousand foreign terrorists loyal to al Qaeda's Sunni-bred terrorists Osama bin Laden and Abu Musab al Zarqawi and about 20,000 Saddam loyalists. Operating mostly in four Sunni Triangle provinces, they use asymmetric warfare tactics in contravention of Geneva conventions and protocols by hiding in civilian populations, wearing civilian clothes, and deliberately targeting innocents, mostly Shi'a, for slaughter. Nonetheless, 14 of Iraq's other provinces, possessing Iraq's substantial oil reserves, are relatively secure and improving economically. Iraq's three free elections last year and recent formation of a permanent, unified government representing the country's three major groups strongly suggests the terrorists and insurgents will eventually fail. Freedom and democracy will not come easy to Iraq. Its neighbors include the terrorist states of Iran and Syria and Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. In those countries, the concept of individual liberty is disdained and conditions allow groups like al Qaeda to gestate among the populations.

Q – How long will and should the U.S. military be in Iraq?

A – However long the U.S. considers it to be in our national security interest. In 1998, President Clinton made it U.S. policy, by signing the Iraq Liberation Act, to depose Saddam Hussein's regime. In 2002, Congress voted overwhelmingly to pass the "Joint Resolution to Authorize the use of U.S. Armed Forces Against Iraq." It chronicles Saddam's weapons of mass destruction programs, their use, and his crimes against humanity. Both chambers of Congress recently voted to reaffirm the U.S. commitment to the Iraqi people. In the three years that have elapsed since the U.S.-led coalition forcibly removed the Hussein regime from power, Iraq has regained its sovereignty, held three free elections, and formed a permanent constitutional government. This remarkable achievement occurred in considerably less time, and with far fewer casualties for the U.S., than occurred during another era in Germany, Japan and South Korea. Thanks largely to President Truman's leadership and foresight, those three countries eventually flowered into vibrant democracies and the world is better for it. President Bush envisions the same result for Iraq. It shouldn't be overlooked that the U.S. still has 75,000 troops in Germany, 40,000 troops in Japan, and 33,000 troops in South Korea protecting U.S.

While in South Africa attending the UN World Summit in Johannesburg, Gedrich traveled to a village near the Mozambique/Zimbabwe borders.

security interests in those geographic spheres. Leaving Iraq before the new government has a chance to take root and properly defend the country, as some American politicians are now suggesting, would be viewed as weakness by terror groups like al Qaeda and terrorist states like Iran, Syria and North Korea. A premature departure would also put Americans, Iraqis and citizens of other countries at greater risk by ending this resource-abundant country to enemies who would like nothing more than to turn it into a terrorist-haven and totalitarian state.

Q – Has the U.S. presence in Iraq distracted us from dismantling al Qaeda and finding Osama bin Laden who is thought to be in hiding in Afghanistan?

A – No. Al Qaeda reportedly has cells in more than 60 countries, including Iraq. And the group has deliberately attacked and killed innocents in the U.S. and Iraq and also in places like Bali, Beirut, Casablanca, Dhaka, Jakarta, Istanbul, Jularia, Jerusalem, London, Madrid, Nairobi and Riyadh. Since 9/11, the U.S., with the assistance of allies, has reportedly been able to capture or kill more than two-thirds of al Qaeda's leadership including the group's chief planner of the 9/11 attacks, Sheik Mohammed, and its leader in Iraq, the late al Zarqawi. Regarding bin Laden's whereabouts, various intelligence reports have him hiding in Afghanistan, Iran, Pakistan or Yemen. While it is important that he be eventually brought to justice for attacks on the U.S. and other crimes against humanity, he has become increasingly irrelevant to the war, mainly because it does not appear that present circumstances allow him to exercise direct command and control authority over his terrorist network.

Q – Will the Iraq war remain a polarizing issue in the U.S. and allied countries?

A – Yes. Having two major U.S. political parties guarantees passionate differences on war and peace decisions and consistent challenges to administration policy. That is precisely how our political system works, and it sends a powerful message to friend and foe alike that our country's disagreements are settled at the ballot box.

and in congressional chambers through civil discourse and the rule of law – rather than the dark places inhabited by some of the world's most sinister forces where scores are customarily settled by bombs, bullets and terrorism. However, I do not expect the political rifts which occurred between some Free World countries over Iraq to continue. France and Germany, two major critics of the U.S.-led military intervention in Iraq, are now working closely with the U.S. to prevent the terrorist state of Iran from developing a nuclear weapons program.

Q – You've traveled extensively to more than 50 foreign countries, two UN Summits and have been at the epicenter of many world events. Is American hatred or resentment on the rise?

A – On a government-to-government basis, I would answer the question in the affirmative. According to Freedom House – a democracy-focused group co-founded by Eleanor Roosevelt – the 191 member nations of the UN are split into two main groups: 87 free nations and 104 nations that are not. The latter group includes 44 of the most repressive regimes and human rights abusers in the world and the UN committees designed by the U.S. to remove states. Most UN members, including some of our putative Free World allies in Europe like France, do not like the U.S. status as Free World leader and President Bush's stated national security strategy of defeating global terrorism by promoting and expanding global freedom and democracy and using pre-emptive force to eliminate threats to U.S. security. And they collectively show their disdain for the U.S. by collectively voting against U.S. supported positions in the general assembly about 75 percent of the time on important issues such as terrorism, arms control, and human rights. However, from the perspective of the estimated 2.3 billion people living under oppression and another billion or so living in abject poverty in developing countries, the answer is quite different. If given the chance, the vast majority of [oppressed people] would migrate to the U.S. in a nanosecond. The long lines customarily seen at overseas U.S. consulate offices offer the best proof of their feelings toward the United States. In their eyes, the U.S. is a bastion of freedom and the land of hope and opportunity.

Q – Five years after the September 11th attacks, in your opinion, what is the current state of national security in the U.S.?

A – The U.S. faces continued challenges in the global war on terror and from other escalating global security threats. Lax U.S. border controls and immigration law enforcement provide enticing opportunities for our nation's sworn enemies. Americans should be mindful that many terrorists are eager to carry-out bin Laden's infamous 1998 fatwa stating, "It is the individual duty of all Muslims to kill Americans: military and civilian." Although they've tried, terrorists have been unable to strike the U.S. Homeland again primarily because of changed national security strategies from the pre-9/11 period when terrorism was treated chiefly as a law enforcement issue. The Patriot Act, NSA Terrorist Surveillance Program, tracking terrorist financing, and U.S.-led military interventions in Afghanistan and Iraq are some things that have contributed in keeping the homeland safe. Iran's efforts to build nuclear weapons, North Korea's nuclear weapons and long-range missile delivery capability, China's strategic ambitions, economic power and military build-up, Castro-Chavez's attempts to destabilize the Western Hemisphere, and the growing reach of the Islamofascists are other worrisome U.S. national security issues.

Q – On a lighter note, what are your fondest memories of Wilkes?

A – The many discussions with students and faculty in the classroom and "The Commons."

If given the chance, the vast majority of oppressed people would migrate to the U.S. in a nanosecond.

The small college environment at Wilkes sparked my intellectual curiosity and provided an outstanding educational foundation allowing me to enter the exciting universe of ideas, opportunities and experiences awaiting every college graduate.

Q – More than 600 students graduated from Wilkes this past May, most of whom are trying to find the keys to success. What advice would you give them?

A – Be fearless in pursuing dreams and changing interests and treat failure as a learning experience. It is remarkable what one can accomplish by stepping outside the comfort zone and exploring the many wonderful opportunities this world has to offer. [E]

Friedrich with U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations John Bolton after a meeting on 9/11 return and Iraq.

If you would like to contact Fried Gedrich, visit his message board on the Colonel Connection at: <http://community.wilkes.edu>

{e} Mentoring the Next Generation of Wilkes Students

Why the next class of freshmen may be the most knowledgeable students to ever enter Wilkes

BY JULIE UEHARA

MENTORING HAS ALWAYS been at the core of Wilkes University. This fall, Wilkes is building on its commitment to mentoring with the introduction of a new e-Mentoring program for incoming freshmen.

"Wilkes' e-Mentoring program is designed to give all freshmen a student-level outlet for advice both online and face-to-face," said Philip Ruthkosky, director of student development. "As the transition from high school to college often presents a difficult blend of academic, social and cultural challenges, this program is intended to help in the transition and provide a supportive environment for academic and personal growth."

For their first semester at Wilkes, each new student is paired with an e-Mentor from a similar major. In May, the incoming freshmen received a personalized letter from their e-Mentor offering support and inviting them to contact them with questions or concerns prior to orientation. "This is one of the more exciting and unique elements of the program," Ruthkosky added. "Incoming freshmen will have access to students before they arrive on campus. While still in high school, they are learning from the experiences of their e-Mentors, asking questions and learning about topics that normally wouldn't arise until they've moved on campus.

"Based on the amount of information they are receiving early on, this may be the most knowledgeable freshman class to ever enter Wilkes," Ruthkosky said.

Capitalizing on the popularity of social networks like MySpace and Facebook, the cornerstone of the e-Mentoring program is the Freshman Mentoring Network, an online community designed exclusively for freshmen. The Freshman Mentoring Network is a non-intimidating place for students to send confidential notes to their e-Mentors, post discussion topics on message boards, access academic support resources and receive tips on common first-year challenges such as time management, roommate relations and studying skills.

"The e-Mentoring platform is great because it marries mentoring with an online component that today's students are already savvy and comfortable with," said Mark Allen, dean of students. "It sends a clear message to our new students that mentoring is part of the culture at Wilkes and they will be provided with that support right from the beginning."

To help develop the e-Mentoring program, a survey was conducted last year to gather the thoughts, concerns, suggestions and experiences of the then-freshman class. The survey results showed that two-thirds of the students believe they would have benefited from a mentor during their freshman year. Their feedback also was used as topics on the Freshman Mentoring Network message boards about common first-year issues.

With such a positive response from the student body, it was not hard to recruit mentors for the program's inaugural semester.

One of the 60 students who has been hired and trained as an e-Mentor is Jenna Strzelecki, a

The message boards give mentors the opportunity to share their experiences with all the freshmen in a sort of open forum.
- Jenna Strzelecki, Senior

The e-Mentoring platform marries mentoring with an online component that today's students are already savvy and comfortable with.
- Mark Allen, Dean of Students

Wilkes' e-Mentoring program is designed to give all freshmen a student-level outlet for advice both online and face-to-face.
- Phillip Ruthkosky, Director of Student Development

I thought this was a great opportunity for new freshmen that might have trouble adjusting to college life.
- Valerie Martinez, Sophomore

senior business administration major who has been using the Freshman Mentoring Network to communicate with her mentees. "We have been using the e-Mentoring network to send notes and keep each other up-to-date with college and orientation preparation information," she said. "I think the best feature on the network is the message boards. They give mentors the opportunity to share their experiences with all the freshmen in a sort of open forum."

Anthony Troianiello, an incoming freshman and one of Strzelecki's mentees, agrees. "The e-Mentoring program has been very helpful, and the online network is an easy way for me to ask questions and receive answers," Troianiello said. "I also like the message boards. They give you a lot of helpful information that you may have not thought about."

Although the Freshman Mentoring Network is a key component to the e-Mentoring program, interaction is more than virtual. The e-Mentors also are the orientation leaders, which means they will meet and get to know their mentees during the two-day freshman orientation in which they will participate in several team building activities and community service together. Throughout the remainder of the semester, mentors and mentees are encouraged to keep in touch both online and face-to-face as well as participate in events scheduled through the university.

Another Wilkes e-Mentor is Valerie Martinez, a sophomore political science and communication studies double major. Her decision to become an e-Mentor had much to do with her experiences and the support she received during her freshman year.

"When I first came to Wilkes, I was overwhelmed with trying to adjust my schedule so that I could participate in all the activities I wanted, and I also felt guilty for leaving my family, especially my mother," she explained. "At my orientation, I had a wonderful orientation leader who not only made me feel welcome but became a good friend. I was also lucky to have an RA (resident assistant) who was there for me my first semester and helped me meet people and adjust to the culture of Wilkes."

"Because of my experiences, I thought this was a great opportunity to be there for new freshmen that might also have some trouble adjusting, not only to the college life, but the people and the transition process that one must go through." [U]

Lost & Found '67 Graduate Reunites With His Class Ring...Twice

BY EMILY VINCENT

THE PHRASE "ONCE IN A LIFETIME" does not apply to Jim "Bimmie" Mason, a 1967 graduate of Wilkes (College) with a degree in mathematics. The retired math teacher who now lives in Jim Thorpe, Pa., has a fascination with numbers, and the numbers have been good to him.

He worked for 30 years as a math teacher and still tutors students. He likes to read books on mathematics. He has incorporated mathematical patterns into the masonry and carpentry of his house, including a tribute to the square root of two and a hidden binary code of 2000 to mark the millennium year.

Number coincidences also seem to occur in his life. Mason was at a restaurant near Allentown, Pa., where a waitress told him about her boyfriend who was born in 1986. When the check arrived, it was for $19.86. A few days later, Mason received a phone call from a former student who graduated in 1986. Mason laughed at the coincidence.

The ring ties me back more to my earlier days at Wilkes. That is where it all began - where decisions were made and where I decided what to do with my life.

Mark Golaszewski

Wilkes-Barre, PA: Jim Mason purchased the ring at Bartikowsky Jewelers after graduating from Wilkes College

Deposit, NY: Where Jim Mason taught and lived when the ring was lost - both times

Syracuse, NY: Where the ring was found the first time in the early '70s. Once Mason was located, the ring was sent back to him in Deposit.

Deposit, NY: The ring was found, for the second time, in the sewer system after being lost for 31 years

Jim Thorpe, PA: Where Mason lives now and keeps his ring in a safe place.

One Ring

The call was from Donna Fricker, a former student and advisee of Mason's while he taught at Deposit Central School in Deposit, N.Y.

"When Donna called me, I thought it was time for a class reunion," Mason said. "Instead, she was calling to tell me that my college class ring was found in the sewer system in Deposit. I didn't even know that the ring was lost in the first place."

Mason purchased the ring from Bartikowsky Jewelers in Wilkes-Barre after graduating from Wilkes. He moved to Deposit for a teaching position.

Mason explained that he began dating a teacher from a nearby school who lived in Deposit in the early 1970s. When the two broke up in 1975, Mason said the ex-girlfriend asked him if she could keep his class ring for sentimental reasons. He agreed, and that was the last he saw of the ring...or so he thought.

Thirty-one years later, Mason's class ring turned up in the Deposit sewer system. Workers from the village's Department of Public Works were repairing and cleaning the sewer system line when worker John Romanofski discovered the gold ring. He brought it back to the village office where Fricker works.

Fricker and a co-worker examined the ring, which was in good shape, noticing Wilkes College and 1967 appearing on the outside of the ring and the initials JMM engraved on the inside. The co-worker e-mailed Wilkes University to let them know that a class ring was found.

Nancy Weeks from Wilkes University's Alumni Office received the e-mail. "I received an e-mail from a woman stating she had found a Wilkes class ring with initials on it and a class year," Weeks explained. "She asked if I could look up the information and call her back with it. I found the initials matched up with Jim Mason's information and advised the woman to send the ring to me as I would be more than happy to distribute to Jim."

When the village office learned that the ring's owner was Mason, Fricker decided to contact him directly and notify him of the discovery in Deposit. "He just laughed when I called him," Fricker said. Coincidentally, Mason was going to be in town that weekend, and a village trustee presented the ring back to Mason.

Two Losses

Reporter Deborah Stever of the Deposit Courier, the local weekly newspaper, heard about the found class ring. Like Fricker, Stever is a former student of Mason's. She witnessed the ring being returned to Mason, interviewed him and wrote a story for the paper.

"It was a real fun story to cover," she said. "It was more fun because I knew him and hadn't seen him in a long time. It's one of those stories that you laugh the whole time you're writing it. It has a happy ending."

And the year that Stever graduated from Deposit Central School? 1975 - the same year that Mason lost the ring.

From interviewing Mason for the story, she learned that this is not the first time that Mason has lost his college class ring. In 1971, Mason received a letter from Syracuse, N.Y., stating that a Wilkes College class ring had been found.

Three Alumni

The sender of the letter contacted Wilkes, and the college was able to narrow the list of possible alumni down to three people. If the rightful owner could correctly identify the color of the stone in the ring, it would be returned to him.

"I had attended a math conference in Syracuse and didn't realize that I lost the ring," Mason said. "I didn't wear it all the time. I knew that it was misplaced, but I didn't think it was in Syracuse."

Mason responded to the letter, stating that the stone is blue. With the matched description, the ring was promptly returned to Mason.

Four-ever His?

To this day, Mason does not know how the ring ended up in the Deposit sewer system.

"I have a theory that my ex-girlfriend was mad at me and flushed it down the toilet," he joked. "It's still a mystery because she doesn't remember ever having the ring."

Based on her experience working in the alumni office, Weeks said this type of thing has not happened before and that Mason's story is quite unique.

"Although I hear that schools have this sort of thing happen on occasion, it is not common at Wilkes," she said.

When asked what Mason should do with the ring now, everyone agreed that he should keep it in a safe place.

"He should write a note about the ring and pass it along to one of his nephews," Fricker suggested.

Stever said Mason should definitely not give it away again. "I'm not sure how many lives this ring will have," she said.

The experience of losing his class ring - both times - has made the ring mean more to Mason than before. "It is more of a memento to me now," he explained. "The ring ties me back more to my earlier days at Wilkes. That is where it all began - where decisions were made and where I decided what to do with my life."

Odds are slim that Mason will give away or lose the ring again, but if he does, the numbers are on his side that it will be returned to him. After all, the third time is a charm. [U]

If you would like to contact Jim Mason, visit his message board on the Colonel Connection at: <http://community.wilkes.edu>

CLASSnotes

1955

Doris J. Merrill is a World War II veteran residing in Nanticoke, Pa.

1959

Alan Balcomb Sr. was inducted into the South Brunswick High School Hall of Fame in South Brunswick, N.J., as the school's most successful boys' basketball coach. He led the team to its only state championship in 1968 and won more than 300 games in his career. Alan also was a part-time assistant coach for five years to Pete Carrill, men's basketball coach at Princeton University. He has retired from teaching and coaching. His daughter, Melanie, is now the head women's basketball coach at Vanderbilt University in Tennessee.

1960

Clifford Kobland, Ph.D., is a professor of communication studies at the State University of New York at Oswego. He has been married to his wife, Barbara, for 46 years. The couple has four grandchildren.

1961

Benjamin J. Matteo has been in the public accounting practice for more than 47 years, in addition to his involvement with various civic and charitable organizations. He instituted a holiday food basket distribution program that is still in operation. Matteo and his wife, Josephine, have been married for 54 years.

1966

Richard Bucko, Ed.D., is a recently retired principal from the Moorestown Township Public Schools in New Jersey. He now teaches for Fairleigh Dickinson University and manages his educational consulting business. He lives in Medford, N.J., with his wife, Marilyn.

1967

Barry M. Miller just completed his term as president of the National Association of Exclusive Buyer Agents. One of the highlights of his year in office was the lengthy interview with Consumers Union and the front cover article inclusion in the May 2005 issue of Consumer Reports. Barry's company, Buyers Only America Realty, has just opened its investor buyer division. He resides in Denver, Colo., with his wife, Margie, and their children, Lisa and Katie.

1968

Lee M. Philo is a veterinary service officer with 33 years of military service. He is assigned to the 109th Medical Detachment in Stanton, Calif. In 1972, he earned his doctorate in veterinary medicine from the University of Pennsylvania, and in 1986, he earned a second doctorate from the University of Alaska Fairbanks.

1970

David M. Bogusko is retiring this year after 32 years with the Hartford County Public Schools in Maryland. He resides in Bel Air, Md., with his wife of 33 years, JoAnne, a special education teacher.

1971

John Jack Flynn is a freelance writer/editor in Fairfax, Va. His business, JJF Productions, offers speechwriting and other creative writing services. He retired in 2003 as senior writer/editor for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C., after more than 30 years of federal and military service.

Joseph Ishley resides in Macon, Ga., with his wife, Elizabeth, and their son, Joseph.

1973

Louise Ann Becbe was promoted to senior medical program clinical specialist in April 2006. She is involved in managing clinical research trials for a major pharmaceutical company. She and her husband, Richard Thornton, look forward to celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary in September.

Joseph Grilli is the director of corporate outreach/new initiatives at College Misericordia in Dallas, Pa. He resides in Jenkins Township, Pa., with his wife, Lisa, and two children.

Dr. William J. Reese is a professor of history and educational policy studies at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where he received his Ph.D. He is the author of America's Public Schools: From the Common School to No Child Left Behind (The Johns Hopkins University Press 2005). His other books include Hoosier Schools, Past and Present (1998), The Origins of the American High School (1995) and The Social History of American Education (1988).

1974

Debbie Dunleavy is the marketing director for First Liberty Bank & Trust in Scranton, Pa. A former WYOU-TV Channel 22 anchor for nearly 20 years, she won the station's first-ever Emmy for a series on breast cancer.

1975

Gary Kratz is a supervisor of the construction services department at PG Energy in Wilkes-Barre. He resides in Forty-Fort, Pa., with his wife, Kristen.

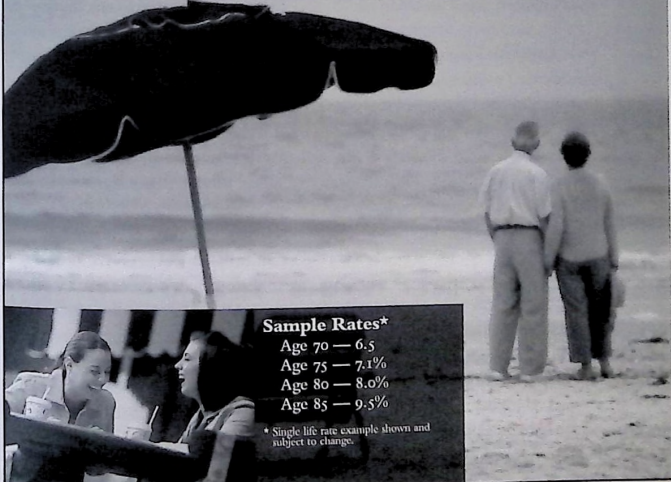

1977

Demetrius Fannick was the leading defense attorney for Hugo Selenski in one of the most high-profile murder cases in recent Luzerne County history. He resides in Dallas Township, Pa., with his wife, Mary Ann, and their daughter, Maggie.

1978

Cynthia Glawe Mailloux, Ph.D., RN. is the chair of the nursing department at College Misericordia in Dallas, Pa. She resides in Mountain Top, Pa., with her husband, Peter, and two children, Bradley and Clifford.

Let your success live.

Donate to the Wilkes University Gift Annuity program and share your success with tomorrow's leaders.

While there are many benefits to a Gift Annuity — fixed and secure income for life, attractive rates, and tax relief to name a few — the greatest benefit is the difference you help to make in the future of our students.

Call 570-408-4309 to get more information.

Sample Rates*

Age 70	— 6.5%
Age 75	— 7.1%
Age 80	— 8.0%
Age 85	— 9.5%

* Single life rate example shown and subject to change.

WILKES
UNIVERSITY
www.wilkes.edu

UPclose: Edward Mollahan '81

Ed Mollahan was recently appointed to the 2006

Advisory and Leadership Council on Employee Welfare and Pension Benefit Plans by U.S. Secretary of Labor Elaine L. Chao. The council's role is to review, research and recommend policy to the Department of Labor.

Mollahan is a senior vice president at JPMorgan, where he is responsible for new applications, new business development, client management, and consultant programs in the corporate and public pension segment.

Mollahan joined JPMorgan in 1982 and has held various positions in the pension area, including performance measurement, accounting and client services. He has served in his current position since 2001. He is a Chartered Pension Investment Professional and is affiliated with several industry associations, including the International Securities Dealers Association (ISDA), the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans (IFEPP), the American Bankers Association (ABA) and the Private Equity Industry Guidelines Group (PEIGG).

In addition to receiving a bachelor's degree in business administration from Wilkes University, Mollahan has attended the Executive Education Program at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. He resides in Andover, N.J.

Ellen K. (duFosse) Wengen owns a Curves fitness center franchise in Northeastern Pennsylvania. She is involved with the Lupus Foundation of Pennsylvania, participating in numerous fund-raising events. She resides in Lake Winola, Pa., with her husband, Paul '79, who is the president of a division of L-3 Communications, Space and Navigations.

1979

Gary R. Blockus is a sports writer for The Morning Call newspaper in Allentown, Pa. He was named Print Journalist of the Year for 2006 by the National Wrestling Media Association. He began covering wrestling, both on the radio and in the newspaper, while attending Wilkes. In addition to high school and college wrestling, Blockus has covered international wrestling, including the 1996 and 2004 Olympic Games. He resides in Laury's Station, Pa., with his wife, Lois, and their children, Jared and Marissa.

John Koze was recently elected vice president of membership for the Orange County Chapter of the American Society of Training and Development in California. He is a leadership and training consultant to Fortune 500 businesses. Koze is a former resident of Ashley, Pa.

1980

Bob Gactano has been an art teacher at Crestwood High School in Mountain Top, Pa., for 24 years. He is a member of the Plein Air Painters, artists known for painting outdoors. His work has been exhibited from southern Vermont to New Hope, Pa.

James T. Martin was recently selected for the Leadership Wilkes - Barre class of 2007. He is presently a cardiovascular sonographer with the Wyoming Valley Health Care System. He has been with the system for 24 years. He resides in Forty-Fort, Pa., with his wife Donna, and their children, James and Kaitlyn.

Susan (Isaacs) Shapiro is employed as a learning disabilities coordinator at the University of Pennsylvania. She was recently appointed to the board of trustees of the Academy in Manayunk, a school for children with learning disabilities that begins its first academic year in September 2006. She resides with her husband, Amiram, and their children, Ben and Ron, in Gladwyne, Pa.

Italia (Wells) Davies resides in Nassau, Bahamas, with her husband, Fr. Stephen E. R. Davies, and their children, Bryant, Stephen and Simone. She works as the deputy director for the Anglican Central Education Authority in Nassau and surrounding islands.

1981

Mark I. Himelstein has published Solace, a book of poetry. He earned his master's degree in computer science from the University of California at Davis/Livermore. He holds four patents and has published a number of technical papers. He is currently the president and CEO of Heavestone, Inc., a software development and management consulting firm. He resides in Saratoga, Calif., with his daughter, Sammi.

1982

Tony Vlahovic is president and founder of Momentum Fitness in Princeton, N.J. After overcoming cancer at age 14, pitching for the Boston Red Sox for four years and ultimately losing the use of his left leg due to a car accident, he opened the fitness center in 1998 to help post-rehab patients as well as to train athletes and help average citizens get into shape. A cancer wellness program is another feature of the center, available free of charge to patients and survivors.

1983

Thomas George Urosevich is an associate in optometry for the Geisinger Medical Group in Mount Pocono, Pa.

1985

Jeffrey K. Box has been named president and CEO of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Alliance, a regional community and economic development organization located in Pittston, Pa.

1988

Gary Jack Taylor is employed by RCN as a senior LAN administrator. He resides in Dallas, Pa., with his wife, Elizabeth.

1989

Frank Castano is the director of Luzerne County Children and Youth and the wrestling coach at GAR Memorial High School in Wilkes-Barre.

1990

Amy Dominica (Adamczyk) Taylor is employed as a marketing and special events director at Frost Brown Todd LLC in Louisville, Ky. She resides in Louisville with her husband, Gregory Lawrence Taylor, Esq.

Sue (Auch-Schwelk) Boyer is employed by the Boyer Insurance Agency in Conyngham, Pa. She resides in Sugarloaf, Pa., with her husband, Don, and their son, Steven.

Rob Johansen is employed as an actor at the Indiana Repertory Theatre. He resides in Indianapolis with his wife, Jennifer.

1991

Robert Charles Cella is employed by BioHorizons in Birmingham, Ala., as a northeast regional manager of sales. He resides with his wife, Maureen Anne (Rogers) Cella, in Conshohocken, Pa.

Thomas J. Obrzut Jr. was named one of the Lehigh Valley's top 20 business leaders under 40 by the Eastern Pennsylvania Business Journal. He is the owner/publisher of Pulse Weekly, a weekly arts and entertainment paper based in Allentown, Pa.

1992

Brian DeAngelo has been employed by the New Jersey State Police as a state trooper for 12 years. He resides in Upper Freehold Township, N.J., with his wife, Brandi, and their children, McKinley and Rylee.

UPclose: Robert A. Bruggeworth '83

Bob Bruggeworth is President and CEO of RF Micro Devices (Nasdaq: RFMD), a Greensboro, NC-based global leader in the design and manufacture of high-performance radio systems and solutions for mobile communications applications. Since joining RF Micro Devices in 1999, Bob was the Vice President of Wireless Products. Bob was appointed President in June 2002 and CEO in January 2003.

Throughout his career, Bruggeworth has succeeded in building and expanding electronic businesses in the U.S. and Asia. RF Micro Devices' revenue has more than doubled since Bob was appointed CEO and RF Micro Devices is quickly approaching $1 billion in annualized sales.

Before joining RFMD, he worked for more than 10 years with AMP Inc., now a division of Tyco Electronics, ascending the corporate ladder from product engineer to divisional vice president in overseas offices.

Founded in 1991, RFMD has become the leading provider of cellular power amplifiers, which are the semi-conductor components that transmit your conversations, via cellular frequencies, from your cell phone to nearby cell towers.

UPclose: Gina Taylor '94

Gina Taylor is the head of acquisitions for small business customers for OPEN, the Small Business Network of American Express. With a team of approximately 50 individuals, Taylor is responsible for leading the acquisition strategy and ensuring that OPEN wins with small business customers.

In one of her earlier roles, she worked directly for the chief credit officer of the U.S. business on a number of initiatives including creating and launching a "new" risk training curriculum that is still used today to train over 1,300 risk and information management employees as well as another several thousand business partners.

She then was then promoted to vice president in risk management and was responsible for launching a new customer management strategy, which is now used in the U.S. and approximately 26 markets around the world. She also launched the first phase of a global customer experience initiative which will enable automated service across all key markets and through all key channels such as the internet and customer service.

Taylor received her MBA from Drexel University, where she lectured in micro economics as a graduate assistant. Upon the completion of her MBA, she joined Signet Bank in Richmond, Va. as an analyst. She was recruited by the headquarters office of American Express in New York City in 1997.

Diana Kantor has adopted two children with her husband, Scott.

Marnin J. Michaels was elected a principal by Baker & McKenzie International, a Swiss Verein, where he specializes in international taxation. He is chairman of the European Regional Private Banking Steering Committee. Michaels authored a treatise (Thomson Publishing) on U.S. withholding tax. He also has been elected to the board of trustees of the Zurich International School, one of the largest international schools in the world. He resides in Zurich, Switzerland, where he has lived for the last eight years.

Julie Orloski is a fund development director for a local chapter of Girl Scouts of America. She resides in Tunkhannock, Pa., with her husband, Bob, and two daughters, Karen and Sarah.

Terrie Lynn Schoonover is the owner of Schoonover Accounting and Tax Service. She has 23 years of accounting experience. She resides in Asylum Township in Bradford County, Pa., with her husband, Ralph, two children and three stepchildren.

Thomas T. Whittman, Jr. works for his own construction company, Whittman Construction, in the Philadelphia/South Jersey region. He resides in Marlton, N.J.

1993

MaryAnn (Kasko) Lugiano received her master's degree in education in 2001. She resides in Jackson Township, Pa., with her husband, Robert Jr., '92 and their sons, Bobby and Michael. She has worked as a K-8 general music teacher at the Jim Thorpe Area School District for 10 years. Robert also is a music teacher of 10 years, teaching grades 6-8 at the Wyoming Seminary Lower School.

Tsukasa Waltich is an adjunct professor of fine arts at College Misericordia in Dallas, Pa. She has a master's degree from the State University of New York at Binghamton.

1994

Steven S. Endres, P.E., is a national accounts manager for Novozymes Biologicals Inc. He and his wife, Gina, recently welcomed a new addition to their family: a son, Gabriel Steven Endres. Steve resides in Vineland, N.J., with his wife, son and two daughters, Taylor and Carly.

Nancy (Stanislaw) Crake is employed by JPMorgan Chase as a senior recruiter. Her husband, David '94, is the director of bank operations for Barclaycard U.S. They reside in Newark, Del.

Becky Fox recently opened a general dentistry practice in Cumberland County, Pa. A member of the American Association of Women Dentists, she recently obtained her fellowship with the Academy of General Dentistry and certification with the Academy of Laser Dentistry. She resides in Mount Joy, Pa.

Jennifer Heinzlerling resides in Landing, N.J.

Amy Lynch-Binieck is an adjunct English professor at College Misericordia in Dallas, Pa. She is working toward a doctorate in composition at Indiana University of Pennsylvania. She resides in Plains Township, Pa.

Robert P. Michaels was recently promoted to chief operating officer at the Institute for Human Resources and Services, Inc. He recently completed his MBA degree at Wilkes University.

Katherine Zoka received a master's degree in education at Wilkes in 1997 and is employed by the Wilkes-Barre Area School District as a mathematics teacher at GAR Memorial High School.

1995

Edward J. Ciarimboli was recently named a Pennsylvania Rising Star in the 2005 listing of Super Lawyers published in Philadelphia Magazine.

Jake and Sheila (Bubba) Colc were married in 2001 and live in Nazareth, Pa. They have a son, Jacob, who is two years old. The couple recently had a daughter, Sophia, on April 4, 2006. Jake is the director of construction for ESA Environmental Specialists, Inc. in Bethlehem, Pa. Sheila is a fourth grade teacher in Phillipsburg, NJ.

David Allen Hines was recently appointed acting deputy director for budget administration within the department of budget and planning, office of the chief financial officer of the government of the District of Columbia in Washington, D.C.

Christie (Meyers) and Paul J. Potera '94 celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary on May 17. Paul is a teacher at Wyoming Valley West High School in Plymouth, Pa. Christie is a teacher at Dallas Middle School in Dallas, Pa. Christie also recently received her certification as a supervisor of curriculum and instruction following the completion of a master's degree in education at College Misericordia. They have a son, William Ronald Potera.

1996

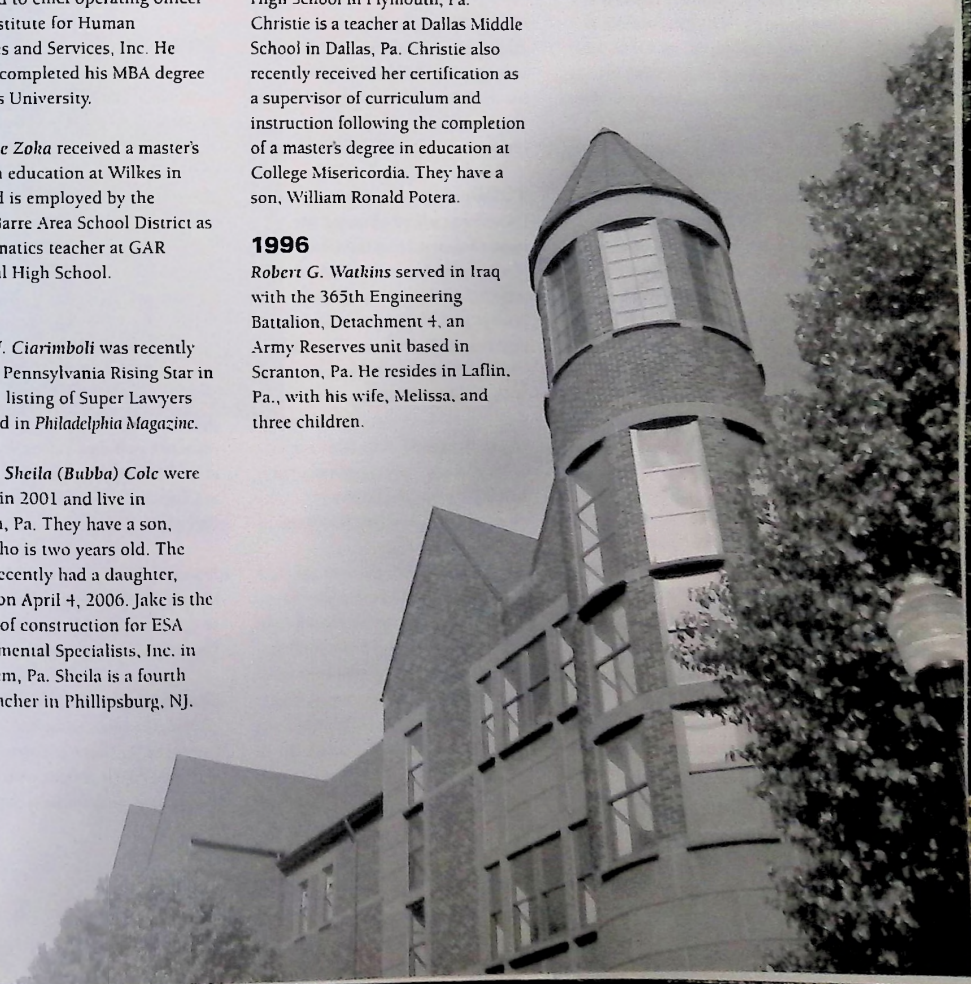

Robert G. Watkins served in Iraq with the 365th Engineering Battalion, Detachment 4, an Army Reserves unit based in Scranton, Pa. He resides in Laffin, Pa., with his wife, Melissa, and three children.

1997

Ann Blasich recently accepted a job at the Georgia Institute of Technology as an assistant director in the division of professional practice, where she will help engineering students find co-op positions. She resides in Atlanta.

1998

Michael Barrouk was recently named assistant vice president at PNC Bank in Wilkes-Barre. He also received his MBA from Wilkes University.

Kerri (Gosling) Fasulo is the acquisitions marketing manager for Empire Blue Cross Blue Shield. She resides in Pleasant Valley, N.Y., with her husband, Justin '96.

Kristi Lynn (Fehlinger) Layland is employed by SERVPRO of central Luzerne County, Pa., as a sales and service manager. She resides in Exeter, Pa., with her husband, Marc.

Jason F. Poplaski concentrates his legal practice in general litigation with Stevens & Lee Professional Corp. He was an assistant public defender for Lycoming County in Pennsylvania. He also has served as a law clerk for the Honorable Margherita Patti Worthington of the Monroe County Court of Common Pleas and Mark A. Ciavarella, Jr. of the Luzerne County Court of Common Pleas.

Lynn (Maguschak) Shymanski was named Wilkes University's Outstanding Adult Learner for 2006. She is employed full-time as a certified medical technologist at Wilkes-Barre General Hospital. She returned to Wilkes to pursue a degree in mathematics. Lynn and her husband, Paul, reside in Forty-Fort, Pa., with their son, Aiden. They are expecting a second child in November.

Toni Ann (Steinson) Loftus is a registered nurse with the U.S. Army Reserves. She resides in Mountain Top, Pa., with her husband, Paul Anthony.

Christine (Gaydos) Veith works in housing and residence life at Seton Hall University in South Orange, N.J. She resides in South Orange with her husband, Scott, and their son, Jack Joseph.

Mari Jo Watchilla-Thomas is employed as an engineering lab manager for Midlantic Engineering, Inc. in Pittston Township, Pa. She resides in Taylor, Pa. with her husband, Christopher Thomas.

1999

Lisa Johnson-Ford obtained her master's degree from the University of Massachusetts in 2004. A board certified adult acute care nurse practitioner, she practices at a gastroenterology clinic. She resides with her husband, William Ford, M.D., in Skippack, Pa.

Kimberly (Kutch) Augustine is employed as a training manager at Sanofi Pasteur. She resides in Olyphant, Pa., with her husband, Christopher.

Margaret Redmond is an assistant director of emergency services for the Wyoming Valley Healthcare System, where she oversees operations in a 25-bed emergency department. She resides in Dallas, Pa.

Laura (Chowanec) Rutkoski is employed as an operations representative for Prudential Insurance. She resides in Scranton, Pa., with her husband, Bob, and their son, Brady Robert.

Tracy Zaykoski-Kayhanfar is employed as a manager of environmental technology for Sanofi Pasteur in Swiftwater, Pa. She resides in Nanticoke, Pa. with her husband, Andrew.

2000

James L. Caffrey is a facility engineer at the Wilkes-Barre VA Medical Center and a certified health care facility manager through the American Hospital Association. He received his MBA from Wilkes and also is an adjunct professor in the architectural engineering program at Luzerne County Community College. He resides in Hughestown, Pa., with his wife, Stephanie, and their two children, Jimmy and Meghan.

Amy Drobish is a social research associate in breast cancer research at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She resides in Raleigh, N.C.

Bryan Glahn and his wife, Jennifer Klaipts '02, are employed as teachers in the Northwest Area School District in Pennsylvania.

Charles John Medico is employed as a critical care pharmacist with Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, Pa. He resides with his wife, Amory Jane, in Mountain Top, Pa.

Heath Neiderer has been employed as a finance assistant and community relations representative for C-SPAN and is now a marketing representative for the network. He travels to high schools around the

Michael Miller served in the U.S. Army from 1993 to 1996. He is employed by Wells Fargo as a loan officer. He resides in West Pittston, Pa., with his wife, Renee Moirski '00.

In hopes of increasing the attendance of our alumni and friends on Homecoming Weekend, we're putting together class committees. If you would like to help network with your classmates to get the class "out," please let us know how you will help.

Name: _____
 Class year: _____
 E-mail: _____
 Phone Number: _____

- I would like to help as:*
- Class Committee Chair
 - Class Committee Member
 - Class Gift Committee Member

From Wilkes University's MBA program as a member of the Delta Mu Delta honor society. She is employed as the manager of direct marketing and advertising with ERA Franchise Systems, Inc.

Jamie B. Howell, Pharm.D., was married to Vito Forlenza on Sept. 24, 2005. Jamie earned a master's degree in health policy from the University of the Sciences in Philadelphia. She works at a pharmaceutical company in New Jersey.

School and assistant varsity softball coach at Bishop Hoban High School, both in Wilkes-Barre. She resides with her husband, Louis Patrick Lyons, in Wilkes-Barre.

Melinda Ann (Rushkowsky) Heffron is working toward her master's degree in reading at King's College and has received her English as a Second Language (ESL) Certification. She is employed by the Luzerne Intermediate Unit 18 as an elementary ESL teacher. She resides in Wilkes-Barre with her husband, Gregory.

remembering:
Dr. Charles B.
Reif '79

passed away on April 93. A native of earned his doctorate 1 and joined the 1942, where he ssor of biology and first chairperson. t at Wilkes until his 9, with the exception r of duty in the South I.S. Navy in 1944 and rried to Carolyn Lee years. Following he married Dorothy g. They spent the last esota. ed a diverse range cts, largely centered the ecology of lakes. often involved ith students and s, were published in ournals such as the Journal of Freshwater Ecology and the Journal of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science.

An ardent painter of nature scenes, Dr. Reif displayed his work at the Sordoni Art Gallery, the Hoyt Library, and with the Wyoming Valley Art League. At Wilkes, he and his students established the Charles B. Reif Scholarship Fund. He established the Charles Reif Undergraduate Research Endowment for the Pennsylvania Academy of Science and the Raymond Lindeman Award for the American Society for Limnology and Oceanography. Many of Dr. Reif's former students have achieved success in medicine and academia.

1998

Michael Barrouk was recently named assistant vice president at PNC Bank in Wilkes-Barre. He also received his MBA from Wilkes University.

Kerri (Gosting) Fasi is employed as a sales representative for Empire Blue Cross & Blue Shield. She resides in Pleasanton, Pa., with her husband, Justin.

Kristi Lynn (Fehling) Peck is employed by SERVPRO of Luzerne County. She is a service manager. She resides in Exeter, Pa., with her husband, Justin.

Jason F. Poplaski is a lawyer in legal practice in Gettysburg with Stevens & Lee, P.C. He was an associate and a defender for Lycor Bank in Pennsylvania. He is currently a law clerk for the Margherita Patti V. Law Firm in Monroe County. He is also a Pleas and Mark A. Law Firm in the Luzerne County Courthouse in Common Pleas.

Lynn (Maguschak) Shymanski was named Wilkes University's Outstanding Adult Learner for 2006. She is employed full-time as a certified medical technologist at Wilkes-Barre General Hospital. She returned to Wilkes to pursue a degree in mathematics. Lynn and her husband, Paul, reside in Forty-Fort, Pa., with their son, Aiden. They are expecting a second child in November.

Toni Ann (Steinson) Loftus is a registered nurse with the U.S. Army Reserves. She resides in Mountain Top, Pa., with her husband, Paul Anthony.

Laura (Chowanec) Ruthoski is employed as an operations representative for Prudential Insurance. She resides in Scranton, Pa., with her husband, Bob, and their son, Brady Robert.

NO POSTAGE
NECESSARY
IF MAILED
IN THE
UNITED STATES

BUSINESS REPLY MAIL
FIRST-CLASS MAIL PERMIT NO. 355 WILKES-BARRE PA

POSTAGE WILL BE PAID BY ADDRESSEE

WILKES UNIVERSITY
DIRECTOR OF PLANNED GIVING
DEVELOPMENT OFFICE
84 W SOUTH ST
WILKES-BARRE PA 18701-9832

Kimberly (Kutch) Augustine is employed as a training manager at Sanofi Pasteur. She resides in Olyphant, Pa., with her husband, Christopher.

Margaret Redmond is an assistant director of emergency services for the Wyoming Valley Healthcare System, where she oversees operations in a 25-bed emergency department. She resides in Dallas, Pa.

Amy Drobish is a social research associate in breast cancer research at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She resides in Raleigh, N.C.

Bryan Glahn and his wife, Jennifer Klaipts '02, are employed as teachers in the Northwest Area School District in Pennsylvania.

Charles John Medico is employed as a critical care pharmacist with Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, Pa. He resides with his wife, Amory Jane, in Mountain Top, Pa.

remembering:
Dr. Charles B.
Reif '79

Dr. Charles Reif passed away on April 19, 2006. He was 93. A native of Minnesota, Reif earned his doctorate in zoology in 1941 and joined the Wilkes faculty in 1942, where he served as a professor of biology and the department's first chairperson.

Dr. Reif taught at Wilkes until his retirement in 1979, with the exception of a two-year tour of duty in the South Pacific with the U.S. Navy in 1944 and 1945. He was married to Carolyn Lee Hoffa Reif for 46 years. Following Carolyn's death, he married Dorothy Towne Schlichting. They spent the last six years in Minnesota.

Dr. Reif pursued a diverse range of research projects, largely centered on his interest in the ecology of lakes. His works, which often involved collaborations with students and fellow professors, were published in peer-reviewed journals such as the Journal of Freshwater Ecology and the Journal of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science.

An ardent painter of nature scenes, Dr. Reif displayed his work at the Sordani Art Gallery, the Hoyt Library, and with the Wyoming Valley Art League. At Wilkes, he and his students established the Charles B. Reif Scholarship Fund. He established the Charles Reif Undergraduate Research Endowment for the Pennsylvania Academy of Science and the Raymond Lindeman Award for the American Society for Limnology and Oceanography. Many of Dr. Reif's former students have achieved success in medicine and academia.

Heath Neiderer has been employed as a finance assistant and community relations representative for C-SPAN and is now a marketing representative for the network. He travels to high schools around the country to show students and teachers how to use C-SPAN as a learning tool in the classroom.

Jennifer (Kovacs) Peckally and Michael Peckally welcomed their first child, Olivia Michele, on March 20, 2006. Jennifer is a third-grade teacher at Our Lady of Good Counsel in Southampton, Pa., and Michael is an assistant principal at Franklin Towne Charter High School in Philadelphia. Michael is finishing his master's in educational leadership at Neumann College. They reside in Newportville, Pa.

2001

Edward T. Bednarz III resides in Havre de Grace, Md., with his wife, Jennifer, and their son, Edward IV.

Katie (Pearson) Desiderio graduated from Wilkes University's MBA program as a member of the Delta Mu Delta honor society. She is employed as the manager of direct marketing and advertising with ERA Franchise Systems, Inc.

Jamie B. Howell, Pharm.D., was married to Vito Forlenza on Sept. 24, 2005. Jamie earned a master's degree in health policy from the University of the Sciences in Philadelphia. She works at a pharmaceutical company in New Jersey.

Michael Miller served in the U.S. Army from 1993 to 1996. He is employed by Wells Fargo as a loan officer. He resides in West Pittston, Pa., with his wife, Renee Majeski M'01.

Lisa Ruggiero is an interpreter/claims processor for the Social Security Administration. She resides in Hazleton, Pa.

John Williams is employed as a laboratory supervisor for Siberline Manufacturing Co., Inc., a global supplier of effect pigments. Williams has been with Siberline since 2001 and resides in New Philadelphia, Pa.

JoAnne Zarick was recently promoted to vice president, operations officer at Landmark Community Bank. She resides in Scranton, Pa.

2002

Aliccia Yvonne (Fink) Lyons is employed as an English teacher, graduation project advisor and drama advisor at Coughlin High School and assistant varsity softball coach at Bishop Hoban High School, both in Wilkes-Barre. She resides with her husband, Louis Patrick Lyons, in Wilkes-Barre.

Melinda Ann (Rushkowskii) Heffron is working toward her master's degree in reading at King's College and has received her English as a Second Language (ESL) Certification. She is employed by the Luzerne Intermediate Unit 18 as an elementary ESL teacher. She resides in Wilkes-Barre with her husband, Gregory.

remembering: Sylvia S. Savitz '98

Sylvia Savitz died May 5, 2006, in Bal Harbour, Fla., with her family at her bedside. She was preceded in death by her husband, Abe Savitz. While raising three children, Savitz attended Wilkes College periodically. She spent the summer of 1998 in residence at Wilkes University, completing her education as the oldest living graduate at the age of 83. Two years later, she received her master's degree from the University of Miami.

She and her family established a student scholarship, which is presented annually to a student of exemplary character who is in financial need, and the Abe & Sylvia Savitz & Family Leadership Development Center at Wilkes University. Located on the second floor of the Henry Student Center, the lounge is intended for use by all members of the Wilkes community, particularly for meetings and small gatherings of any organization or informal group on the Wilkes campus.

A native of Wilkes-Barre, she and her late husband lived on Riverside Drive for many years prior to their move to Florida.

Sara Zuchowski is a physician assistant at the Elkland Laurel Health Center in Elkland, Pa. She earned a master's of health science degree from Lock Haven University, where she was inducted into Pi Alpha, the national honor society for physician assistants.

2003

Del Lucnt recently lectured at a conference at Wilkes University. He is currently on a research fellowship at Stanford University.

Sherri Moletress is the assistant principal at Wind Gap Middle School in Pennsylvania. She also is a seventh- and eighth-grade social studies teacher at Oley Valley Elementary School in Berks County, where she has worked for 10 years.

Erin Schultz married Aaron J. Morech '03 in August 2005. Erin is employed as an English teacher in the Dallas School District and is pursuing a master's degree in education at Wilkes University. Aaron is employed as a network engineer at Lightspeed Technologies. The couple resides in Forty-Fort, Pa., with their dog, Nikko.

2004

Leann Dawn Benkowski was recently married to Jason David Stettler. She is employed by the Children's Service Center of Wyoming Valley Inc. She resides with her husband in Kingston, Pa.

Sarah M. Bogusho graduated from the University of Delaware this past May with a master's degree in student affairs practice in higher education. She has accepted a position in the residential life office at Lebanon Valley College in Annville, Pa.

Kari-Ann Jean Chapman and Thomas Michael Hubiack '05 were married June 18, 2005. Kari-Ann is employed as a nurse by the Milton S. Hershey Medical Center in Hershey, Pa. Thomas is employed as a pharmacist by CVS pharmacy in Lancaster, Pa., where the couple resides.

Stephanie Smith Cooney, Pharm. D., recently became vice president and co-owner with her dad, David Smith, of Gatti Pharmacy in Indiana, Pa. She resides with her husband, Robert '03, in Freeport, Pa.

Michael Battista Kayrish is a registered nurse with Geisinger South Wilkes-Barre in the emergency department. He resides in Wilkes-Barre with his wife, Maureen (Hughes) Kayrish, who is attending Wilkes.

Jamie Markovchick is an officer for the U.S. Secret Service. He resides in Weatherly, Pa.

2005

Jeffrey Brittain, a captain in the U.S. Air Force, began his military career as a second lieutenant in November 2002 upon receipt of an academic scholarship from the Air Force. He was one of six students nationwide to be selected for this scholarship, serving in the Biomedical Services Corp. He resides in Puyallup, Wash.

Bridget Giunta is the administrative coordinator for the mayor of Wilkes-Barre. She was hired following an internship in Wilkes-Barre city hall.

Samuel J. Lawrence is a lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force. An air battle manager, he is assigned to the 325th Air Control Squadron, Tyndall Air Force Base in Panama City, Fla.

Maureen Mulcahy was recently hired as a lean enterprise project manager by the Northeast Pennsylvania Industrial Resource Center.

Lisa Samala, Pharm.D., is a certified pharmacist in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Lisa has been practicing at Wal-Mart since September 2005. She resides in Clarks Summit, Pa.

Eric Wolf works full-time in the gene therapy program at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, where he has recently enrolled in a master of biotechnology degree program. He resides in Yardley, Pa., with his wife.

2006

Miranda Heness has recently accepted employment as a recruiting assistant in human resources at Staples in Englewood, N.J.

Regina Hinkel, Pharm.D., works as a full-time pharmacist with Eckerd Pharmacy.

Master's Degrees

1991

Judith Ellis was recently named first vice chairperson of the Greater Wilkes-Barre Chamber of Business and Industry.

Earl Houseknecht is employed as executive vice president of National Penn Bank. He is a board member for the Lehigh Valley Volunteer Center. He resides in North Whitehall Township, Pa.

1992

Gregory E. Fellerman was recently named a Pennsylvania Rising Star in the 2005 listing of Super Lawyers published in Philadelphia Magazine.

1996

Joseph Madiany is the vice president of Nova Savings Bank in Philadelphia. He resides in Glenolden, Pa.

Joe Shirvinski is a principal at Annville Elementary School in Annville, Pa. He earned a second master's degree in education leadership with principal's certification in 2004. He resides with his wife, Wendy, and their children.

2000

Nicole (Foosse) Titus is a recipient of the Japan Fulbright Memorial Fund, a program that allows primary and secondary school educators to travel to Japan in an effort to promote greater intercultural understanding. She is a mathematics teacher at Fort Greely Middle School in Delta Junction, Alaska.

2001

Renee (Majeski) Miller is employed by the Wyoming Valley West School District as a first-grade teacher. She resides in West Pittston, Pa., with her husband, Michael '01.

Dana Siggins is a special education/emotional support teacher at Shoemaker Elementary School in Macungie, Pa., which is in the East Penn School District.

2002

Barbara K. Buxton, M.S., R.N., is an assistant professor at the University of Scranton. She was an assistant professor of nursing at Wilkes University. She is a doctoral candidate in nursing at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee.

Megan (Shaulis) Sevenski is employed as a special education teacher at Hanover Area School District. She resides in Dallas, Pa., with her husband, Benedict Mathew.

Amy Vargason is a fifth-grade teacher at H. Austin Snyder Elementary School in Sayre, Pa. She recently participated in the University of Minnesota's "GoNorth" program. She resides in East Smithfield, Pa., with her husband, Randy, and three children.

Michael Francis Wagner is employed as a science teacher in the Jim Thorpe School District. He resides with his wife, Lynn Halowich Wagner, in Forty-Fort, Pa.

2003

Raffaele LaForgia is the principal of Butler Elementary School in Allentown, Pa. He and his wife, Janine, have a daughter, Cynthia, and are expecting another child.

Joe Long is a men's basketball coach at Luzerne County Community College in Nanticoke, Pa. He is working on a second master's degree from Wilkes in educational leadership. He resides in Pottsville, Pa., with his wife, Jenny, and two sons, Joey and Jack.

2004

Beth Ann (Enright) Dougherty is employed as a financial analyst at WebSchems.net in Harrisburg, Pa. She resides with her husband, Dr. David Dougherty, in Middletown, Pa.

Chris Stone is a conductor and orchestra director at Hershey Middle School in Hershey, Pa.

2005

Jason Ferentino is district manager for Brammer Pharmaceuticals. He is secretary of the St. Rocco's Holy Name Society and a third degree member of the Knights of Columbus.

Blanca McNeal Kessler teaches Spanish II at Quakertown High School in Quakertown, Pa.

In Memoriam

1938

Thomas Warren Melson, 89, of Indian River Estates in Vero Beach, Fla., died March 18, 2006, at Indian River Estates Medical Center after a lengthy illness. Born in Forty-Fort, Pa., he moved to Vero Beach in 2001. He was an accountant and had operated his own accounting service in Pennsylvania before retiring. He was a veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Army. He was preceded in death by his wife of 62 years, Amy Melson. Surviving are his daughter, Christine Melson of West Hartford, Conn.; son, Richard Melson of Chicago; and brother, Robert '35 of Wyomissing, Pa.

1950

Lois (DeGraw) Huffman died July 14, 2005. She had resided in Harrisburg, Pa., for the past six years. After graduating from Wilkes, she worked with the railroad in New Jersey for a time, but her career soon turned back to her love of books. Her employment over the years included Walden Books and the Aaron Decker Elementary School Library. Lois was a life-long member of the Butler United Methodist Church in New Jersey, and during the past six years, she actively supported the National World War II Memorial. She performed volunteer work for the Compassionate Care Hospice, Mended Hearts, Butler Museum Commission, and during World War II, with the Aircraft Warning Service. She was preceded in death by her husband, Harmer '32, in 1994.

1957

Paul W. Ord passed away on Nov. 16, 2004.

1962

Murray C. Davis III, M.D., died Sept. 19, 2005.

1970

Beulah (Cohen) Brandstadter passed away on Nov. 22, 2005, in Jackson, N.J. She had been living in an assisted living facility for more than four years. Beulah and her husband, Eugene, were furriers for 40 years in Pennsylvania and New York. Her husband died in 1993, in Scottsdale, Ariz., where the couple lived for 25 years.

1983

Dr. Nancy Mammarella Nagy, 59, of Clarks Summit, Pa., died unexpectedly on March 6, 2006, at the Community Medical Center in Scranton. She was the wife of Attila (Art) Nagy who passed away on March 4. She earned her bachelor's and master's degrees from Wilkes College and a Ph.D. from Temple University. Nancy was a tenured associate professor and the director of the Graduate Reading Program at Marywood University in Scranton. She also was an active member of the Keystone State Reading Association and was a founding member of the Luzerne County Reading Council.

Alumni Association Calendar of Events

2006

- Aug. 26: Alumni sponsor Freshmen Orientation Picnic
- September: Spaghetti Dinner (Date TBD)
- Oct. 6 - 8: Homecoming Weekend
- Oct. 7: Annual Open Alumni Association Board of Directors Meeting (all alumni invited)
- October: Wilkes Visits Boston-area alumni (Date TBD)
- Nov. 18: Alumni Association Trip to New York City
- Nov. 30: Alumni Association Trip (Alpine Christmas Tour). Read more on page 3.

2007

- Mar. 13: Alumni Association trip to Beijing, China. Read more on page 3.

For information on upcoming events, check out the new Colonel Connection online community at: community.collegepress.edu

Homecoming 2006 Preview

- Friday, Oct. 6
- BUJC Reunion at Annette Evans Alumni House with Professor Emeritus Harold Cox
 - The Art of Wine - A Wine Tasting with the Maiolatesi Wine Cellars in the Sordoni Art Gallery
 - Class of 1956 "Golden Colonel" Induction & Reception at President Gilmour's home
 - The Collective in Concert - Dance the night away in the Henry Student Center ballroom with this popular alumni band
 - Tour the new University Center on Main

- Saturday, Oct. 7
- Crew Regatta - Launching at Nesbitt Park, enjoy a full day of Crew festivities surrounding the McAndrew Cup 3,000-meter race
 - Ancestral Colonel Lifetime Career Achievement Award Ceremony and Breakfast
 - NEW 5K Run and Walk benefiting the Alumni Scholarship Fund
 - Football game - Lycoming vs. Wilkes
 - Gatherings for 1966 Football Team, Cheerleaders, Strutters, etc... Classes of 1996, 1966
 - Faculty Reception at the Evans Hall Tent

- Sunday, Oct. 8
- Hall of Fame Induction in the Henry Student Center
 - Comedian Lewis Black (of HBO fame) sponsored by the Programming Board

WILKES UNIVERSITY
Wilkes-Barre, PA 18766