

BEACON STAFF LISTED FOR CURRENT YEAR

by Kathy Kopetchne

Maureen Klaproth

Sally Donoho

The editors of the Beacon for the 1970-71 academic year have been announced and approved by the Student Publications Committee. The co-editors for the student newspaper are Sally Donoho and Maureen Klaproth. Other appointees are: Hedy Wrightson, copy editor; Mary Elizabeth Covine, exchange editor; Jim Fiorino, assistant advertising manager; Marlene Augustine, news editor; Pete Herbst, sports editor; Ronnie Lustig, business manager; and George Pagliaro, assistant exchange editor.

Miss Klaproth is a senior English major and has served previously as managing editor of the Beacon. A resident of Dana Hall, Maureen is the daughter of Mr. James J. Klaproth and Mrs. Edward N. Wright of Mechanicsburg, Pa. In the past she has been active in the Young Democrats, tutoring at the Y, and is currently a member of the Inauguration Committee. Following graduation Maureen plans a career in journalism.

Miss Donoho, a resident of Catlin Hall, has previously assumed the duties of copy editor and assistant managing editor. She has been active in the Y-tutorial program and has been a dorm representative in Inter-Dormitory Council. Sally is currently on the Student Publications Committee, a member of the Inauguration Committee, and is a class representative to Student Government. Sally is currently on the Student Publications Committee, and is a class representative to Student Government. Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Donoho of Chelmsford, Massachusetts and plans to attend graduate school after graduation.

Miss Augustine, has served previously as exchange editor and reporter for the newspaper. An active member of the Cue 'N Curtin, Marlene is a senior English major. A resident of Wilkes-Barre, Marlene plans to do free-lance writing after graduation.

Ronnie Lustig, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lustig of Orlando, Florida. A senior business administration major, Ronnie has served as assistant business manager in charge of advertising and plans to enter the business field after graduation.

Jim Fiorino is a sophomore Business Administration major and resides in Bruch Hall. Jim is presently on the President's Committee on Research and Study and has been on Dean's List. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Fiorino of Succasunna, New Jersey.

Psychoanalyst To Speak Here

by Mary Covine

Dr. Rollo May, a famed psychoanalyst in New York and author of the recent book, Love and Will, will speak at the Wilkes College CPA on September 23, at 8 p.m., as the first guest of the Concert and Lecture series for this academic year.

Born in Ohio, Dr. May attended Oberlin College where he received his A.B. and Columbia University where he received his Ph.D.

As well as his role as a psychoanalyst in New York, Dr. May has served as a supervisor and training analyst at the William Alanson White Institute. He is the past president of both the New York State Psychological Association and the William Alanson White Psychoanalytic Society.

Dr. Rollo May

His affiliations also encompass work with the mentally retarded, namely as a member of the board of trustees of the American Foundation for Mental Health and on the board of directors of the Manhattan Society for Mental Health.

Hazing Abolished

by Mary Covine

Beginning this fall the Wilkes College tradition of hazing its freshmen will no longer be practiced.

A survey of the class of '73 was taken last year. Its results, though close, revealed a favorable vote for hazing. Complaints, never-the-less, from neighbors, police, and parents brought about much concern over hazing. Considerable doubt was placed on any worth of the entire hazing program.

This abolition of hazing is by no means a sudden act by any authoritative body at Wilkes. Such a change has been developing for some time. Once, few, if any restrictions were placed on hazing. Within the last few years, restrictive hours have been posted until this year when hazing has been completely eliminated.

Hazing committees at Wilkes in the past, however, failed to bring the freshmen together as was one of its main goals. Instead, freshmen were alienated by constant reminders of class distinction. In many instances freshmen being hazed were compelled to remove personal property from neighbors in the community.

Library Acts To Preserve Book Supply

by Hedy Wrightson

Due to lack of cooperation concerning the checking out and turning of books, the library has incorporated two new policies. The first is a revision of the fine on overdue books and the second is a system for checking the books of people leaving the library.

The fine system is applied to three general classifications of circulating books. The first category is regular books which circulate for three weeks.

The fine for late returns is five cents for each book per day with a maximum of four dollars per book. One and three-day reserve books comprise the second category for which the fine is one dollar for each book per day of lateness. The third category is all other books, usually those placed on special circulation by a professor for research papers. The fine for this category is 10 cents per book per day. Although there is a four dollar maximum fine on regular books there is no total fine for any individual.

Books Missing

The need for a system of checking books as people are leaving the library has long been felt by many students, especially those working on research papers. Very often a student finds that a particular book is neither in the library nor checked out and that it most likely will not be available until sometime after the paper is due. Although some books are missing each year the real problem created by such procedure is that books are not in the library when they are most needed.

The Student Faculty Library Committee working over the past summer considered many checking methods. They first considered mechanical devices none of which were satisfactory. Consequently, Daniel Lewis and Mrs. Margaret Henson have been added to the library staff.

According to the check point system either Mrs. Henson or Mr. Lewis will be seated at a desk by the front exit and will ask to see everyone's books as he or she leaves

Park and Lock Plans Discount Student Rates

Final plans have been made between the Park and Lock on South Main Street, Wilkes-Barre and the College concerning a special student parking rate of $10 for the 1970-71 academic year.

All students wishing to secure parking privileges must register with the business office at the College and pay the $10 monthly rate. The list of student names will then be sent to the garage. Only those students on the list will be issued a parking sticker.

For the remainder of September, however, students must go to the garage to register and pay a fee of $5. Thereafter registration and payment will be handled through the Business Office on a monthly basis only.

Students with the parking sticker are entitled to unlimited coming and going privileges at the garage on a 24-hour, seven day a week plan. This includes both day and dorm students.

Concerning car pools, it was confirmed that a 10-coupon book can be purchased for $6. on a monthly basis.

Students are reminded that they must register with the Business Office and that bills must be paid by the 25th of the month.

Former Governor William W. Scranton, chairman of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, will be the principal speaker at the inauguration of Dr. Francis J. Michelini as president of Wilkes College on Saturday, November 21.

Attorney Louis Shaffer, chairman of the Wilkes College Board of Trustees, stated that he had received confirmation from Scranton that the former chief executive of the state would be available for the speaking engagement.

Currently, Scranton is heading a fact-finding commission at the request of President Nixon into the causes of campus unrest on the campuses of the nation's colleges and universities.

Dr. Michelini was named president of the 37-year-old independent college on July 1 of this year. He succeeded Dr. Eugene S. Farley, who headed the institution for 34 years — 10 of them when the school was known as Bucknell Junior College. Wilkes gained its status as an independent college in 1947.

The former Pennsylvania governor will address an audience of guests from a list of over 4,000 invitations which will be sent to friends of the college and other institutions later this month.

In additions, invitations will also be sent to more than 7,000 alumni of the college who are residing throughout the nation and almost a dozen foreign countries.

Thomas Kiley, vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Ralph Rozelle, chairman of the college's Graduate Studies Division, are co-chairmen of the Inaugural Committee, which includes John W. Chwalek, college coordinator for the affair, and more than 20 student, faculty and community representatives.

In accepting the invitation to speak at the inauguration, Scranton did not indicate the nature of his topic, however, it is considered quite possible that he will include in his address some reference to the findings of the presidential commission which he is currently heading.

The event, which will be held in the college gymnasium, will include among the distinguished guests,

Editorial:

The New Year

As the new year unfolds, reflections of past experiences and the previous accomplishments are frequent topics of conversation in attempts to explain Wilkes to new students. Granted, these issues should not be underrated but, at the same time, these things happened last year.

This is not an attempt to take anything away from those individuals or groups who worked hard for reform and change and the betterment at Wilkes. After all, these same individuals and groups worked hard during the summer. For example, the Judicial Court proposal will be presented to the Administrative Council shortly, women on self-regulating hours do have keys, curfews were extended, and there are women Residence Assistants. All products of hard work and initiative.

It seems that whenever anyone speaks of change efforts are channelled toward the social aspect. Why can't these same efforts be channelled toward the intellectual and community service areas, while at the same time incorporating social changes? A good example of this type of effort can be seen with the Freshman Orientation and Summer Reading Programs. Here topics such as drugs and sex were discussed with the freshmen, definitely much more contemporary topics. The intellectual scope was changed to meet social needs and there remains plenty of opportunity to not only continue a drug education program at Wilkes but, within the community.

Attempts could also be made to initiate more student-faculty debates on national issues such as the changes in educational policies, the economy, and world trouble spots. Grading policies could be looked into to find the relevance of a pass-fail system at Wilkes. More community service projects could be started in an attempt to show what Wilkes College can do for the community instead of what the community can do for Wilkes College. It must be remembered, however, that change for the sake of change, can be shallow unless you have intellect and strength behind it.

Make Way For '74!

Upperclassmen attending the recent freshmen picnic observed that this year's freshman class seems to display the best spirit seen around the campus in years.

It's a compliment the freshmen can take proudly—yet one we hope they continue to earn. In recent years, apathy has been more evident than energy in so many phases of campus life. Let us hope that with this year, the pendulum will swing the other way.

With the first pep rally and football game scheduled for next Thursday and Saturday, the best way the Class of '74 can prove their enthusiasm is to turn out en masse to cheer the teams on to victory.

Bookstore Robbery?

It seems that Wilkes College is making a gallant attempt to keep up with the current inflationary prices and lack of controls for the necessary items. By now, we are quite sure that everyone has made at least one trip to our favorite bookstore located in the basement of the New Men's Dorm and has been completely overwhelmed at the book prices. Not only do students need books for classes, but those books must be bought at the bookstore.

To compound the issue, the faculty does not always like or use the books we are told to buy, and in many cases one has a difficult time returning the books.

Let's hope that by spring a more feasible approach can be sought.

Zak Is Back

by Zak Hayes

Hi gang! Remember me? My name popped up in the Beacon a few times last year, tacked-on to a series of so-called "satires" and humorous articles. If you've never heard of me, let me introduce myself.

First of all, don't feel "out of it" if you don't know who Zak Hayes is — nobody does. You see, the name Zak Hayes is a pseudonym. I use it instead of my real name because it's got more of a literary quality. (It also prevents quite a bit of threats and nasty phone calls by readers who have no sense of humor.)

Speaking about people with no sense of humor, many (most?) of my readers unmercifully criticize my column. (Have a heart, people). They claim that my satires are absurd, unbelievable, ridiculous, and naive. But I am very open-minded and understanding. To all these people I say, you're nothing but a bunch of tasteless snots, so there!

To tell the truth, I just ignore this type of person. The only people that I'm really interested in are all of my avid readers (that's you Mom).

Policy Statement

Seriously, though, there are a few things that you should know before you get into my satires. Everything I write is blatant, one-sided, exaggerated, irreverent, and funny, I hope. It is meant to be read in the same spirit in which it was written. I sincerely hope that I offend none of my readers (how could I—I can't find anyone who has more faults than I do!)

As I pointed out last year, any ideas expressed in my satires should not be taken as representing my true convictions, for, indeed, I have none. If anyone objects to any statement I make, I am quite prepared not only to retract it, but also to deny under oath that I ever made it!

Another thing to remember—curiosity killed the cat! Don't bust your brains trying to find out who Zak Hayes is (I just know you will!) — my identity is the most well-guarded secret on campus. And don't think you can find out who I am from the Dean or the Beacon advisor—if they knew who I was, they'd have thrown me off the staff long ago.

Nevertheless, if I were you I wouldn't worry to the point of getting ulcers about this matter. Because my true identity will be revealed at the end of the year. Yes, in that cold, bleak month of May, I'll step forth and take my medicine. So, please, people, try to hold out until May.

No Like — No Read!

Meanwhile, if you don't like my satires, then don't read them. But if you think they're fabulous and breathtaking, then you can show your gratitude for my public service by mailing one dollar (American money, no stamps) to the Zak Hayes Sustenance Fund. Your contributions are tax-deductible.

Well, that's about all I have to say for now (my pen's running out of ink). You'll hear more from me next week. But until then, keep smiling—humor is about the only funny thing that we have left in this world.

Peace!

Notice

The Beacon staff welcomes contributions in the form of Viewpoint articles, letters-to-the-editor, poetry, classified ads and notices from any student or faculty member.

All copy (including events to be listed in What-Where-When) must be submitted by noon on the Sunday before publication. Copy can be brought to the Beacon Office on Northampton Street, or to one of the editors. Submitted material need not be typewritten.

The Time

It seems a dream today is easily
With hurried words said hastily
'I haven't got the time.'
Love's tender thoughts could be so grand in candlelight with wine.
If only I could pause — but no
'I haven't got the time.'

Life's simple things mean nothing
if you haven't got a dime.
I can't slow down to see those things
'I haven't got the time.'

Too often we exchange our goals;
the harsh instead of fine.
Neglecting love for better wages—
'I haven't got the time.'

I've lived along so far just hoping a better life I'd find.
When found I know I'll enjoy it unless
'I haven't got the time.'

Involvement Urged

To the Editors,

Again this year the freshman class has been welcomed and urged in the ritualistic speeches to enjoy their years at Wilkes, to get more out of them than just 'booklearning', to be a part of Wilkes, in the same manner as the sophomores, juniors, and seniors were urged when they were freshmen. And again this year, the vast majority will heed only one of those suggestions—that being, to enjoy their years at Wilkes. Being a constructive part of Wilkes and doing something to improve the things everyone complains about will be for the 'other guy' or for Student Government. Enjoying Wilkes comes first.

Understand that I see nothing wrong with 'enjoying Wilkes' in whatever manner is chosen, but something constructive should be done too.

If more of our student body would offer suggestions for improvements in college rules or policy to Student Government members or, if they would even write to the Beacon, maybe progress could be made; however, before progress can be made, someone has to start the ball rolling.

So now, I call on the student body—if you have suggestions or even complaints, DO SOMETHING. Write to the Beacon this weekend. Tommy Yodo was successful last year in using the Beacon to draw attention to some of the poorer aspects of college life. Now I call on the student body to start the ball rolling and do something constructive for Wilkes.

Student Government Summer Meeting

Student Government convened July 25 for their annual summer meeting to report the progress of committees and to discuss plans for the coming year.

At that time, Edward Borkowski, Bob Crawford, and Wesley Sissa reported to SG that the King's College SG would be willing to do joint concerts with Wilkes during the coming year due to a conflict in times with concert schedules. This will be discussed at future meetings.

President Michelini introduced Mr. James Moss as the new Assistant Dean and Dean of Student Activities. Mr. Moss's office is located on the second floor of Weckesser Hall. Dr. Michelini also announced the students who have been appointed to the Student-Faculty Committees for the 1970-71 year. Michelini also added that the ad hoc Educational Policies Committee will be disbanded. He went on to say that new security regulations are being put into the library this year for book check-out procedures.

Michelini reported that efforts are being made to secure a new building so that the use of the YMCA can be eliminated. In response to the letter from SG concerning teacher evaluation, Michelini reported that three awards may possibly be given to the outstanding teachers in the Social Science, Science, and Humanities departments.

A discussion arose concerning political stands that the college might take in the coming election year. Michelini stated that the college will not take any political stands but those who wish to may request absence of classes provided they make up the work.

Dean Joel Rome reported to SG that three mechanized machines called Campus Message Centers will be purchased. These machines will be located in the Commons, Parrish, and the College Dining Hall and will consist of 40 posters which change themselves periodically. These posters will contain advertisements relevant to the college students and will publish notices.

Al Crake, social chairman, introduced Peter Polashenski, an employee of Penn Attractions who

The Social Events Committee announced that Blood, Sweat and Tears will definitely perform at the Homecoming Concert on Sunday, October 18, and that 2500 seats have been reserved for Wilkes students under the Penn Attraction contract. No decision has been made yet concerning guests Wilkes students may wish to invite. Students will be able to pick up their tickets with their ID cards. is trying to find a group for the Homecoming Concert. Polashenski reported that a big name group would only perform at Wilkes on a Thursday or Sunday and that the Blood, Sweat and Tears could be secured for Sunday night. A motion was passed that SG make every attempt to get this group for an October 18 concert.

Considerable discussion arose over the abolition of hazing for the coming year. A motion was passed to completely discontinue hazing for the 1970-71 academic year while, at the same time, to establish a more constructive program.

The Judicial Court proposal was presented to SG for the second reading and a few changes were made. These changes include: no restrictions on faculty members and the right of faculty and students to serve more than one term. The proposal was passed and will be submitted to the Administrative Council.

IDC also filed a report with SG concerning certain changes that have been initiated during the summer. A basketball court was constructed along side the bookstore entrance; women on self-regulating hours were issued keys; curfews were extended for freshmen and sophomores; abolition of parental permission forms for overnight absences was accomplished; and women students are serving as residence directors.

Student Government Meeting of September 14

At the recent SG meeting it was announced that the Judicial Court proposal will be presented to the Administrative Council soon. It must go to the College lawyers first, however. It was also announced that a proposal will be submitted to have cigarette machines reinstalled on campus.

Former Graduate New Dean; Prefers Small College Spirit

Dean James Moss

Dean James Moss, a former pastor and 1954 Wilkes graduate, has been welcomed by Wilkes College as the new Assistant Dean and Director of Student Affairs. Dean Moss is filling the position vacated last spring by Arthur Hoover who is now Director of Alumni Relations.

As Director of Student Activities, Moss will coordinate the activities of the students and serve as Advisor to Student Government with Dean Joel Rome. Dean Moss, in connection with Dr. Eugene Hammer of the Education Department, will also serve as an advisor to freshmen and upperclassmen with undecided majors. When asked about his duties as an advisor, Moss added that although he does have his own advisees, he hopes students will take advantage of the Open-Door policy and come in to visit.

Dean Moss is a 1950 graduate of West Wyoming High School and following his graduation from Wilkes, he attended Colgate Rochester Divinity School, where he received his Bachelor of Divinity Degree.

He also spent a year as a full-time student at Oxford University and in 1961 he received his Master of Sacred Theology degree from Union Theological Seminary.

Before coming to Wilkes, he was pastor of the East Penfield Baptist Church in Penfield, N.Y.

Since Dean Moss is a Wilkes graduate, he was asked his feelings about the changes here in the past 15 years. He said the most outstanding is the growth of the school and the variety in courses now being offered. When asked about the influence of social change, he replied that it is too early to tell.

When asked about Wilkes compared to larger schools, Moss

Piano Duo To Perform

Piano Duo — See Story

The exceptionally talented piano duo, Veri and Jamanis, will perform at the Wilkes CPA this Sunday at 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Jamanis and his wife, Frances Veri, are presently on Lebanon Valley College faculty. Both studied at the Juilliard School of Music under the famed artist teacher, James Friskin.

Miss Veri, a native of Pennsylvania, entered the Juilliard School of Music at the age of 16. While there, she won the Mozart Piano Concerto competition and performed with the Juilliard orchestra under Jean Morel.

Mr. Jamanis is formerly of New Hampshire. He made his first public appearance after winning the Statewide Whittemore Piano Competition held in Manchester, New Hampshire at the age of 13. Miss Veri has been noted for her "refreshing style of technical brilliance and interpretive depth." Likewise, Mr. Jamanis is recognized for his "effortless grace and his exceptional technical and emotional gift."

said that the smaller schools have a spirit and allegiance that larger schools do not have. He went on to say that at a smaller school, everyone has a chance to take part. He also feels that this may be the reason for disturbances at larger schools. There, he feels, the students do not feel a part nor do their Administrations care. Moss added that 15 years later, Wilkes is a stronger school because of this allegiance.

Moss was also asked about the relevance of the courses that are being offered today such as World Literature and Western Civilization. He said, "if you don't know where you've been, you won't know where you are going." He went on to say that these courses give a deeper understanding of life in later years.

This 20-year-old show has become a classic in the musical-comedy stage and has been chosen to be the 10th production staged cooperatively by the Wilkes College Center for the Performing Arts and the Wilkes-Barre Kiwanis Club.

The cast of this Damon Runyon show calls for approximately 40 dancers, singers and straight speaking parts. Wilkes students will make up the cast, under the direction of selected production personnel.

Producer-director Al Groh, Wilkes College, has announced his staff. Mr. Herbert Garber will act as musical conductor; Richard Chapline as vocal and choral director. Robert Niznik will conduct the choreography. Murray Popky will undertake the costuming of the entire cast. Klaus Holm, set and lighting director and Miss Myvanwy Williams, dramatic coach, conclude the staff.

Within the past years Wilkes College and Kiwanis Club have worked together to present such shows as "Bloomer Girl", "Paint Your Wagon", "Witness for the Prosecution", "Holiday", "Annie Get Your Gun", "The Music Man", "The Sound of Music", "Camelot", and "How to Succeed In Business Without Really Trying". All have proven successful and enabled Kiwanis to continue with its charitable projects. The proceeds from "Guys and Dolls" are earmarked for the Kiwanis charitable fund which includes the internationally known Wheelchair Club.

Kiwanians comprising the committee include Attorney Herbert Winkler, Barry Boyer, Al Groh, Fred Harrison, and Frank Henry, chairman.

The musical "Guys and Dolls" will be presented in the Center for the Performing Arts November 10 to 15. Any students interested in joining the cast or helping with set construction, costuming, make-up or any facet of the production are urged to contact Mr. Groh at the theatre.

CAMPUS WELCOMES FRESHMEN

REPORTER AT LARGE

by Maureen Klaproth

I sit here wondering how to begin the first column of one's senior year—and the thoughts in my head are mixed. The happy thoughts center on being back in the campus swing of things—which include running to classes, buying books which are too expensive, standing in the long call lines, and meeting old friends while making new.

The sad thoughts? Well—for us, there will never be another freshman picnic to crash or chaperone, all the friends who went before are gone—married, working, in the service—mostly out of touch.

We're the "big kids" now, and yet there's not so much pride as poignancy involved. Remember when we were in high school and college seniors seemed so worldly, so big, so old? That's us, gang, and yet, I feel none of these things.

I know this first column should be devoted to freshmen—those lucky, confused, silly, serious kids with a glaze and a gleam in their eyes. In many ways I feel a twinge of envy for them. In other ways, I feel sorry for them—not just because I'll never have to take all those required courses again, but because we seniors have been parts of Wilkes that were both good and bad, but equally unforgettable.

In 1967 we started out with 9:00 curfews, men had to wear coats and ties to meals, and the Hoagie Man was our campus mascot.

We wore our dinks and chanted our class cheer. "We're the class that's lots of fun. We're the class of 7-1" (I don't think I have it right yet!) We practiced for skit night (remember those gross songs?), suffered through the Tribunal, and helped cheer our football team on its way to a glorious winning streak (with the help of George Ralston, of course). Imagine—these frosh will never see Joe Wiendl's number 44 on the field, or Staake, Comstock, PJ Kane, Pepper Merrill, Babuschak and others!

As frosh, we mourned King and Kennedy, and came out of The Graduate ready to change the plastic world. At the same time we weren't sure we should shorten those skirts above the knee. Students lived in Gore, Miner, Hainna Halls, and even the Hotel Sterling. (Men were housed there that year). As far as Neil Armstrong—wasn't he that guy on radio in the old days?

Our sophomore year we knew it all. "Wise fools" perhaps, yet we plunged in to run for class elections, served coke and popcorn at dorm parties, and moved the bookstore. The library no longer was in the musty halls of Kirby—it was new and gleaming—and never so comfortable. In June, a few more faces that had glowed, faded from our minds. (Bill Downey, Paul Wender, Ed Manda).

As juniors, the nagging thoughts that had been conceived in 1968 and nurtured in 1969 burst through. Suddenly there were protests against the war, against pollution, against population, against curfews. The only stable cause was that of Mr. Abate—since we were lowly frosh he has yelled at us about parking stickers! And then, more people left, and our campus is without Dan Kopen, Jay Goldstein, Jack Blannett and Zig Pines.

And here we are—in a world we've helped make that's not quite our own. The frosh aren't hazed, no "Little Sisters-Brothers" are greeted by big ones, housemothers (who are fewer) enforce what few rules there are left, we have a new president for the first time since a freshman has entered these halls, there are no more "Y-guys", Hampton House is now Delaware and Chesapeake, the Infirmary is Doane, 251 is Ross, Emerson is Dana, even the paper this Beacon is printed on is not the same—everything is bigger and better and brighter.

But sometimes, in quiet moments, I find myself missing a few faces more, wishing I could slip into Conyngham Hall—late for Speech class as usual. I wish the football streak was just beginning with all its suspense. I wonder if I really have to lower my skirts, if I ever learned anything in the maze of credits I've collected, if in a year I'll be trying to remember the very faces that are most familiar now.

I wonder, and as I look at these marvelously eager freshmen, the most I can wish for them is what it's been for us...

The annual Sophomore Class outing will be held Sunday, September 20, at Sgarlat Lake from 1 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The price for the outing is $1.00 for all non-class members. Class members will be admitted free with their student ID card. Buses will leave promptly from Chase Hall at 12:30 p.m.

Faculty To Pick Fellows

Twenty-fifth annual fellowship competition of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has been announced by Dr. H. Ronald Rouse, National Director of the Foundation. He observed that at the present time more than 6000 former Woodrow Wilson Fellows are serving on the faculties of more than 900 colleges and universities. The Fellowships were established in 1945 to attract outstanding young people to careers in college teaching.

This year the Foundation will award Fellowships to 250 American and 50 Canadian students. In addition, 700 candidates will be designated Finalists and recommended to graduate schools of their choice for financial aid. These Fellows and Finalists will be chosen from an anticipated 10,000 students who are nominated for this honor by their professors, Dr. Rouse said. The selection is made by 15 regional committees of professors representing a cross-section of colleges in the regions. The committees receive and read the nominee's application materials, interview the most promising candidates, and "choose those who show the greatest promise of becoming outstanding college teachers."

Students in the humanities and social sciences are eligible, as are those in the natural sciences and mathematics who demonstrate a clear interest in college teaching. Candidates must be nominated by a faculty member no later than October 31, 1970.

Notice

The Jewish Community Center has offered the use of its bowling facilities (on the lower level of the Center) to Wilkes College Students on Sunday evening from 6-8 p.m. The price is 50 cents per line. Bowling shoes are available for rent, and there is an adequate supply of bowling balls.

Handbooks Revised - Regulations Designated

by Jo Ann Gomer

The 1970-71 Student Handbook has been revised to include the changes which have been made in school policies. The Student Government and Dormitory Handbooks have been combined in an effort to acquaint every student with dormitory regulations.

No articles may be applied to walls, except by suspension from picture rails. Scotch tape, thumb tacks, pins or nails may not be inserted into woodwork or walls. Screws and hooks may not be applied to the insides of closets or wardrobes. All rooms must be kept orderly and clean. To insure the health, safety and welfare of the dormitory, rooms will be checked periodically by a member of the residence hall staff.

Quiet hours begin at 7:00 p.m. in all residence halls. Excessive noise is prohibited, and after two warnings the student will be required to go before the dorm council.

Overnight guests must be approved in advance by the residence director. Guests may be accommodated only if a vacant bed is available. Linen may be secured for the fee of $1.00.

Curfews for upperclass women are 12 midnight Sunday through Thursday and 2:30 on Friday and Saturday. The curfews for first semester freshmen are 11:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday evenings, 2:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday, and 12 midnight Sunday.

Students may sign out for overnight absences at their discretion. They must follow the regulations listed in the handbook. Parental permission is not required for overnight absences.

Teacher Exams Announced

The Educational Testing Service, a nonprofit, educational organization which prepares and administers the National Teacher Examinations has announced four new testing dates. November 14, 1970, and January 30, April 3 and July 17, 1970 are the dates that college seniors preparing to teach school may take the tests which will be given at nearly 500 locations.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations which measure their professional preparation and general cultural background, and a Teaching Area Examination which measures their mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Results of the National Teacher Examination are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations. The school systems and state departments of education which use the examination results are listed in the NTE leaflet entitled "Score Users".

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment or their colleges for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

The Bulletin of Information for Candidates contains a list of test centers and information about the examination, as well as a registration form. Copies may be obtained from college placement offices, school personnel departments, or directly from National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540. The NTE leaflet "Score Users" may be obtained at the same address.

Area Alumni Meet

A recent effort to "revitalize" the campus chapter of the Wilkes College Alumni Association was considered a huge success by officials of the organization and committee aids as approximately 100 local alumni turned out for the first meeting of the new school year at the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Sterling.

Principal speaker of the evening was Dr. Francis J. Michelini, president of Wilkes College, who spoke on the future of the institution. A welcome was extended by Dr. Eugene S. Farley, chancellor and former president. Others who spoke were: Carl Zoolkoski, chairman; Thomas J. Moran, president of the Alumni Association; and Pete Winebrake, chairman of the October 17 Homecoming.

each team. The tournament will be scheduled as follows: The freshmen will play the sophomores and the juniors will play the seniors at 1 p.m. The winners of these two games will play the faculty.

For the girls, there will be volleyball and a Powder Puff football game. Trophies will be awarded for the winners of each game.

Following the intra-mural games, food will be served from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

A dance will be held from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., featuring the 91st Congress. Buses will then return to the college.

SOCCER TEAM OPPOSES ALUMNI SATURDAY

Coach Rokita Makes Debut

by Rich Weinstein

A new Wilkes soccer season is about to be upon us once again. The booters are slated to open the new campaign with a home game against the Alumni tomorrow afternoon at Ralston field. Coach Tom Rokita, a former goalie for Wilkes, will be going for his first win as a coach against some former teammates.

Last year's team compiled a 7-4-1 won, lost, tied mark, and this year's team seems capable of improving on that. With the return of practically the entire starting line, the offense will probably be the team's strongest point. Led by Senior Bill Murphy and Junior Rich Combellack, along with Sophomores Ed Garabedian, Ed Weber and Bill Spence, the line's talented feet should pour quite a few balls into the opponent's net.

As for the defense of the team, quite a bit of changes have occurred. Last year's three starting fullbacks are gone for various reasons, such as graduation and transferring, and as of now the fullback spots are up for grabs. Those who will most likely get the nod will be Drew Gurbanich, a senior, Ron Fritts, also a senior, and freshman Roger Dandbury.

The halfback spots, also marred by graduations of key players, will be in much the same position as the fullback area. However, with Bob Linaberry back as center halfback, along with sophomore Doug Cox and freshman Jeff Fulcoly and Ken Leyhan filling in the other two positions, the halfback problem seems to be solved. Bill Lukridge is also having a good practice.

The strongest position on the team is probably that of goalie. With Chip Eaton returning for his third year in the nets, the knowledge and skill he has picked up over that span should come to full bloom this year. And just in case of an injury Martin Pobutkiewicz, a fine back by trade, can fill in for Eaton.

Coach Tom Rokita, new to the job this year, has had the team going through two-a-day work-outs for three weeks now and everyone should be in fine shape for tomorrow's opener. Rokita commented, "All 22 guys that are out are working real hard. Tomorrow's game is always tough but we'll be ready."

Colonels Seek Victory—And A Quarterback

A powerful running game, a veteran offensive line, a strong secondary and a big question mark at quarterback mark this year's Colonels as they and Head Coach Rollie Schmidt prepare for the 25th year of collegiate competition at Wilkes.

With the season opener against Lycoming a week away, Coach Schmidt is in the process of sorting out the 80 players who turned out for this year's squad, the largest in the school's history. Certainly the most important problem to be solved is selecting the starting quarterback.

Among the possibilities at quarterback is senior Dennis Brew, last year's back-up man for graduated Joe Zakowski. But if Brew doesn't produce, coach Schmidt has four underclassmen who could see action: Jeff Giberson, Mike Barski, Scott Sherdon and Ned Holmes.

But whoever gets the nod at quarterback, he'll get plenty of help from his backs, senior Bob Gennaro and junior Ted Yeager. Last season Gennaro scored seven TD's while Yeager ran for 754 yards.

Jack Clarke, Nate Eustis, Bill Hanbury, and Bill Lazor will probably comprise the offensive line.

Defensively, the Colonels return with eight starters from last season. Led by co-captains, Harry Hoover and Jim Loveland the defense should get support from Pat Ratchford, John Mazur, Tony Cardinale, Frank Galicki, Bob Ashton, and Charles Graziano. The secondary will probably be comprised of Dave Kaschak, Garf Jones, Robert West, and Ron Hillard.

Punting is another problem for the Colonels, who will certainly miss the outstanding punting of Bill Staake. Injuries have not hindered the Colonels so far with the exception of Loveland, who should be ready to go next week.

Coach Schmidt commented, "We're giving everyone a good look. So far the veterans and rookies are coming along faster than we expected. They're aggressive and good."

Assisting the head coach are Jonah Goobic, offensive backs; Charles Adonizio, offensive line;

In addition to some new players, Colonel fans will be seeing three new opponents. They are Alfred, Southern Connecticut, Muskingum College Runners Get Set, Go!

Cross country made its official debut this week on the Colonel athletic scene as the school's 10th intercollegiate sport. Assistant Dean of Men and former Dickinson sports standout Joel Rome has been named to coach the squad in its initial year.

The new coach issued a call to all freshmen and upper-classmen to attend practice sessions which have begun this past Tuesday afternoon at Kirby Park. The team will run the five mile course used by neighboring King's College.

Athletic Director John Reese said, "Depending on the progress of the squad we hope to schedule a few exhibition meets this fall. If the sport is accepted by the student body we will then plan a full intercollegiate schedule next autumn."

Rome is quite optimistic towards the development of a sound varsity squad. "Experienced personnel will be a problem during our first year but I feel there are many athletes on campus not playing football or soccer that would like to try the new sport."

If the Cross Country program is successful there is a strong possibility that a track and field team might be added to the Colonel sports scene in the near future.

The new Cross Country coach,

Under the guidance of first year coach Miss Gay Foster, the Varsity Field Hockey team is anticipating a good season. Miss Foster is a 1970 graduate of Lock Haven State College and played varsity hockey and lacrosse. She also participated in the Central Pennsylvania Field Hockey Association.

At opening practice on Tuesday, September 7, the girls, with eight returning letterwomen, looked eager to start. There are approximately fifteen girls out for the team. The letterwomen are: Jean Adams, Debbie Backensto, Sandy Bloomburg, Candy Cates, Jeanette Click, Sue Ditson, Donna Futchko and Kathy Koterba. Also participating in the pre-season drills are: Kathy Davis, Joanne Gomer, Paulette Leofald, Lorraine Mancuso, Sue Novak, Stephanie Pufko and Marianne Ryan.

Even with the fine turnout during the first couple of practices girls are still needed. Anyone interested in coming out for the team can contact Miss Foster or Mrs. Saracino; their offices are located in Weckesser Annex. Support your athletic teams and come out to the games.

The Sportsfolio

by Pete Herbst, Sports Editor

With a week remaining before the season opener against Lycoming, a big question mark looms over the Colonel football squad. It is not, maintained co-captain Jim Loveland, a question of winning or losing, but rather the personnel involved with winning. "We know we're gonna win," he said earlier this week, "it's just a question of who's going to be playing where."

Punting, pass receiving, and linebacking are all positions that have yet to be determined. But with a week remaining they certainly will be filled. These vacancies are minor, however, compared to the question mark that surrounds the quarterback position.

For after a month of training there are still five players making bids to be the starting quarterback for the Blue and Gold. The list begins with senior Denny Brew and ends with four sophomores. All five have a shot at it. As a back-up man for Joe Zakowski last year, Brew has the edge over the others in experience but after that they are all pretty even. Because Brew has the experience, he has been working out with the first team and started in the scrimmage against Princeton last week.

Sophomore Jeff Giberson was on defense last year but was moved to quarterback this season. According to assistant coach Jonah Goobic, Giberson did a good job against Princeton in moving the club downfield. "But," he maintained, "all the quarterbacks looked good so we're still waiting for one of them to take over."

Giberson, with a quick delivery and exceptional speed said, "I want that starting job and I'm working hard to get it. But I'm having some trouble on certain pass patterns so I'll just have to wait and see. Princeton gave me some confidence and I needed that."

And then there's Mike Barski, a sophomore from Mocoanqua, Pennsylvania who practiced this summer by throwing footballs through a swinging tire suspended from a goalpost. "He's real diligent and he knows football," observed Goobic. Rounding out the competition are sophomores Ned Holmes and Scott Sherdon, both of whom have an outside chance of becoming the number one quarterback.

Coach Goobic said, "There's a lot of pressure on these guys and we're waiting for one of them to take over. None of them has dominated the scene yet, but we've been giving them all equal time. After we see the films of Princeton we'll have a better idea and be able to choose the starter by Monday."

With the departure of Bill Staake, Coach Schmidt is left with the unsatisfactory situation of having safety Dave Kaschak handle the punting, in addition to place-kicking. Staake, who is currently playing with the Bridgeport Jets of the ACFL as a punter, is assisting Schmidt find another punter.

"It's not really fair," Staake felt, "to have Kaschak be a regular on defense and then expect him to enter the game in the fourth quarter in a tight situation and get off a good punt. He could do the job if that's all he did but he's a regular."

So the squad continues to practice with the hopes that in the next week everything will fall into place. The Colonels have the players so its now a matter of putting them in the right places, finding the right combination for victory. With a backfield of Ted Yeagar and Bob Gennaro plus fine receivers like Bill Lazor and Richard Masi and a veteran offensive line the offense should move, provided they get that vital spark, the part that makes it go, which is, of course, the quarterback.

The 1970 Colonels have everything to make it an outstanding season but they won't go anyplace unless one of five competitors takes over and leads them. But, since "Pride and Poise" is the motto of the Colonels, everyone is confident that things will work out. After all, they are one of the top small-college teams in the country.

I suggested rather lightheartedly last year that Bill Staake should try out with the New York Giants who were blessed at the time with the 13 yard punting of Ernie Koy. But now it seems that Staake has an excellent chance of making it in the National Football League within a year or two. He signed a two year contract with the Bridgeport Jets of the ACFL, an affiliate of the New York Jets, and is averaging over 40 yards per punt. Former punters for the Jets have averaged less than 30 yards and league leaders are up in the high 30's or low 40's. Staake commented, "I think I'm just as good as Steve O'Neil (currently punting for the New York Jets). I'll give it one more year. But I think I have a good shot at making it."

Staake observed that the difference playing in college and the pros is that the pros are a lot meaner and nastier since they're playing for money. Also, there's a lot more self-discipline in the pros.

Good luck to an outstanding punter and person.

like his team, is making his debut in the coaching ranks after playing football, basketball, and track at Kingston High School and later four years of varsity football at Dickinson College. He was named to the All-MAC and All-State teams during his senior year at Carlisle. Following graduation from Dickinson in 1965 Rome moved on to Springfield College where he was granted an M.Ed. in Guidance and Psychological Services.

Currently, he is beginning his second year at Wilkes as assistant Dean of Men.

Either Athletic Director John Reese is trying to rebuild his wrestling team with youth or some kid just wised off to him. Actually, he's instructing some youngsters at a wrestling clinic the coach held this summer.

Open Every Nite Til Midnight

Are you still reading the way your parents read?

In the first grade, when you were taught to read "Run Spot Run," you had to read it out loud. Word-by-word. Later, in the second grade, you were asked to read silently. But you couldn't do it.

You stopped reading out loud, but you continued to say every word to yourself.

Chances are, you're doing it right now.

This means that you read only as fast as you talk. About 250 to 300 words per minute. (Guinness' Book of World Records lists John F. Kennedy as delivering the fastest speech on record: 327 words per minute.)

The Evelyn Wood Course teaches you to read without mentally saying each word to yourself. Instead of reading one word at a time, you'll learn to read groups of words.

To see how natural this is, look at the dot over the line in bold type.

grass is green

You immediately see all three words. Now look at the dot between the next two lines of type.

With training, you'll learn to use your innate ability to see groups of words.

As an Evelyn Wood graduate, you'll be able to read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute... depending on the difficulty of the material.

At 1,000 words per minute, you'll be able to read a text book like Hofstadter's American Political Tradition and finish each chapter in 11 minutes.

At 2,000 words per minute, you'll be able to read a magazine like Time or Newsweek and finish each page in 31 seconds.

At 3,000 words per minute, you'll be able to read the 447 page novel The Godfather in 1 hour and 4 minutes.

These are documented statistics based on the results of the 450,000 people who have enrolled in the Evelyn Wood course since its inception in 1959.

The course isn't complicated. There are no machines. There are no notes to take. And you don't have to memorize anything.

95% of our graduates have improved their reading ability by an average of 4.7 times.

Do you want to see how the course works?

Then take a free Mini-Lesson. The Mini-Lesson is an hour long peek at what the Evelyn Wood course offers.

We'll show you how it's possible to accelerate your speed without skipping a single word. You'll have a chance to try your hand at it, and before it's over, you'll actually increase your reading speed. (You'll only increase it a little, but it's a start.)

We'll show you how we can extend your memory. And we'll show you how we make chapter outlining obsolete.

Take a Mini-Lesson this week. It's a wild hour. And it's free.
