Wilkes Alma Mater

Wilkes, our Alma Mater, We pledge our hearts to thee, Honor, faith, and courage, Truth and loyalty, In our work and in our pleasure, Guide us as a friend; We shall always love thee, Loyal to the end. Thou shall lead us onward In search of finer things. May we find the wisdom That thy spirit brings. May our deeds of love and service Ever swell thy fame-Wilkes- we stand to greet thee! Glory to thy name.

President's Message

To the Class of 2005-

As you read this AMNICOLA for 2005, I hope it provides many fond memories of your senior year at Wilkes. If your senior year was anything like mine, it passed all too quickly and was filled with a host of emotions.

This yearbook collects for you in pictures and words the places, events and people that made up your life on campus. As you reflect on all that has happened during your time at Wilkes, I hope you come away with a sense that the University has had a major influence on your ideas, directions, and values.

I urge you to keep in touch with Wilkes. Whether it's returning in-person, reading our alumni magazine - The Wilkes Universe, attending an alumni reception, checking out the University's web site, or, best of all, taking a Wilkes course or graduate program, know that you will always be welcome.

Patty and I send you our very best wishes for a prosperous and happy future.

Sincerely,

Tim Gilmour President

In Memory of

Lauren Theresa Martin January 11, 1980 - March 27, 2004

Lauren was truly a kind, gentle, caring person. She was majoring in psychology and her hope was to help others, especially those suffering with eating disorders. Lauren was curious, adventurous, inquisitive, and had a great sense of humor. Lauren reached out to those less fortunate and was always there to help those in need. Our beautiful daughter loved mountain biking, rollerblading and especially skiing. Lauren showed her strength in many ways, but especially after suffering with an eating disorder for 5 and 1/2 years, was truly recovering. Lauren inspired so many with her courage and determination to beat this horrific illness and unfortunately did not get her chance to enjoy her once happy life, as she so deserved.

Lauren truly appreciated the caring, kind ways of her advisors, Dr. Deborah Tindell and Dr. Diane Polachek as we did, her parents.

Lauren's best friend was her sister, Robyn.

To the Wilkes Family, we want to thank you for being there for our beautiful daughter who will be forever missed and forever loved.

A special thanks to Lenny, Terry, and Robyn Martin for their help with this page.

"Graduation (Friends Forever)" By: Vitamin C http://www.azlyrics.com/lyrics/vitaminc/graduationfriendsforever.html And so we talked all night about the rest of our lives Where we're gonna be when we turn 25 I keep thinking times will never change Keep on thinking things will always be the same But when we leave this year we won't be coming back No more hanging out cause we're on a different track And if you got something that you need to say You better say it right now cause you don't have another day Cause we're moving on and we can't slow down These memories are playing like a film without sound And I keep thinking of that night in June I didn't know much of love But it came too soon And there was me and you And then we got real blue Stay at home talking on the telephone We'd get so excited, we'd get so scared Laughing at ourselves thinking life's not fair And this is how it feels (1) - As we go on We remember; All the times we Had together; And as our lives change Come Whatever; We will still be Friends Forever So if we get the big jobs And we make the big money When we look back now; Will our jokes still be funny? Will we still remember everything we learned in school? Still be trying to break every single rule Will little brainy Bobby be the stockbroker man? Can Heather find a job that won't interfere with her tan? I keep, I keep thinking that it's not goodbye Keep on thinking it's a time to fly And this is how it feels (Repeat 1) La, la, la: Yeah, yeah, yeah La, la, la, la: We will still be friends forever Will we think about tomorrow like we think about now? Can we survive it out there? Can we make it somehow? I guess I thought that this would never end And suddenly it's like we're women and men Will the past be a shadow that will follow us 'round? Will these memories fade when I leave this town I keep, I keep thinking that it's not goodbye Keep on thinking it's a time to fly

Dear Lori, Since the day we were born we have done everything together, now this is the first time in our lives that we will each have our own day to celebrate. I am so glad we decided to go to the same college, even though we had our moments we became the best of friends over the last four years. Now it is time for you to go out on your own and find the job of your dreams with a classroom of your own. You will make such an impact on so many children. You have the patience and compassion for little children that most people envy and wish they had just a piece of. I wish you the best of luck with your future endeavors and I will always be here at your side to share them with you.

You also did a great job putting together the past few yearbooks as yearbook editor. I sometimes wondered how you found the time to spend with me. Found myself hanging with Jimmy Buffet, Adam Duritz, Jeffrey Gaines, Alana Davis, Carly Simon, James Taylor, Emo Phillips...I don't know it's just incredible to talk to these people because they've helped me to want and expect more from life. Welcome Parents Parent's Weekend is a Wilkes University tradition that brings parents to the campus to experience college life with their son or daughter. The university offers a variety of activities to participate in including a tasty brunch in the cafeteria and then a trip to Ralston Field to watch the many sports activities being played. These athletic activities include football, men's and women's soccer, women's tennis and women's volleyball. If parents did not wish to view these activities, some faculty members offered them an exhibition of students' work featuring different types of media from art work to design projects. After all of these events, families were invited to a celebration at the Riverstreet Jazz Cafe to enjoy fantastic food and drinks. This gave parents a chance to meet their child's friends and their parents. The final event of the day brought everyone back to the Student Union Ballroom to be hypnotized by "The Evasons." Directed by Adam Hill, with set design by Teresa Fallon, Hotel Universe promises an intellectual night of theatre to be loved by all.

The production is set in the French Rivera, where a group of timeless characters are inspired to cast off the chains of the past and pursue a host of hopes and dreams. All are American expatriates, including hostess Ann Field (played by Lauren N. Trovillion), who has put her own life on hold for three years to care for her ailing father, Stephen (played by Carlos Candelario). Her memories are prompted by the suicide of a young boy (played by Robert Shreiber) and the climax brings the inevitable "redemption" of one of the suicidal members of the house party.

During the month of November, Wilkes holds its annual Multicultural Awareness Week. The week runs from Monday November 8th, until Saturday November 13th. Students were able to experience a stimulating African Resurrection, and have the chance to learn about their cultural backgrounds with food, crafts, clothing, etc. They also had the chance to attend motivational and discussional speeches and even hear Coach Daniel Boone of "Remember the Titans" speak about how blacks were integrated into schools, as well as listen to Nick Yam's speak about his freedom from death row.

Hunger and Homelessness Week

The main purpose of the week is to raise awareness and action on the problems of hunger and homelessness, both domestically and internationally. Despite the fact that the United States is the richest country in the world, each year 33 million Americans live with the daily reality of hunger. This week featured the hunger banquet, volunteering at local agencies that help address these problems, and a sleep-out. Photos and write-up courtesy of Kevin Gaughenbaugh.

The 2004 Football team rode a roller coaster of emotion throughout the fall campaign. Following a slow start to the season, the Colonels rallied themselves back into position to be playing for the MAC Championship in a week nine trip to battle undefeated and first place Delaware Valley. Although the quest for the MAC crown would come up short in Doylestown, the Colonels finished the season with a dramatic fourth

Just as the changing colors of the tree leaves suggests winter is soon to come, the beginning of another school term means that field hockey is in full swing at Wilkes University. As the summer dwindled down to the last few days of bliss for many students, the Wilkes University Field Hockey Team was already hard at work. In the three-a-day practices during preseason, conditioning, stickwork, drills, and scrimmages guarenteed lots of sweat and many sore muscles for members of the team. With eight starters returning from last year and a group of very talented freshman, along with all the hard work, the hockey program was determined to perform better than last year.

However, some fierce competition and mishaps along the way posted the team at a finishing record of 9-10. Despite what the record suggests, the Lady Colonels dramatically stepped up the level of play from last year. The games were close, and sometimes luck simply did not fall to Wilkes. Despite the set-backs, the field hockey team continued to persevere and succeeded in claiming a berth in the MAC Championship they so desired, the journey through the season established character in all the girls, friendships, and many memories that will never be forgotten.

The Wilkes University men's soccer team compiled an 8-7-2 regular season record. In addition, the Colonels earned a berth in the Freedom Conference Playoffs, losing to the eventual champions, Drew University in the semi-final round. Early in the season, a significant 2-1, home victory versus Drew, then the second ranked team in the nation, highlighted the play of the Wilkes squad early in the season. The season saw some highs and lows, but the team gelled together and will profit from a resilient nucleus returning next year.

Junior Mike Bridy (7g, 5a), sophomore Steve Uhas (13g, 2a), and freshman Jimmy Thomas (1g, 1a) earned All-Freedom Conference honors for their play throughout the season. All three will be back in 2005 to lead the Colonels' efforts to return to the Freedom Conference playoffs next fall. - Coach Phil Wingert

Wilkes Women's Soccer ended a momentous season having tied the school record with 12 wins in a season and a record of 12-6-1, which is only the second time since the programs 1987 insemination. With a motto started from the very beginning, the team followed it by living it. "Live Strong - Be Strong" formulated all of what Wilkes stood for in the 2004 season. Getting off to a somewhat rocky game of ping-pong, Wilkes went into a win-loss battle in non-conference play. Falling short 2-0 to Lebanon Valley and 2-0 to Elmira College, two respected teams in their conferences, would have put many teams in a slump.

Wilkes Women's Soccer defied everyone's expectations following such losses with two tremendous wins: one over regionally ranked Susquehanna University by a score of 3-1, the other, conference rival Drew University by a score of 1-0. After narrowly escaping Juniata's wrath and coming out on top with a 4-3 win, Wilkes peaked into an astonishing 6 game winning streak. Coach Sumoski stated, "As a team, we are playing very good soccer right now and have had great performances from a multitude of players." Team members Kristi Barsby and Kami Roth added great momentum to the team this year. Roth, a freshman, led the Colonels in goals with 12 this season. Barsby tied the assist record of 12 in one season. Five colonels were named to the All-conference list at the end of the season for their performances. The list includes: Freshman Dana Lehman, Kami Roth, and Bethany Head, as well as sophomore Kristi Barsby and Christina Waldele. Wilkes said goodbye to three outstanding players and teammates this year: Sarah Polacheck, Jill Chiucchi (Qkey) and Katie Green. They brought tremendous energy to the field and will be greatly missed.

As with many teams, this one had a dream at the beginning of the season. Many were disappointed at the end, with a 4-0 loss to Scranton; tears were shed, hugs given out, a dream seemingly ended. The thing that separates this team from other teams though, is their intestinal fortitude, or guts, that hold it together, even through the toughest of losses and the greatest of victories.

The Wilkes University Tennis Team, under the direction of second year Head Coach Chris Leicht, had a very successful season in 2004. The team finished the season with a record of 6-6, which was their best season in recent memory. Wilkes had two big conference wins over Lycoming College and FDU. Also, the women's team recorded wins over Keystone College, Misericordia, Albright College, and PSU-Berks. The season ended with an appearance at the MAC singles and doubles tourney at Drew University.

The team was led by captains Senior Liz Roveda, and Juniors Kelly Leach, and Kristin Kile. These captains were instrumental in the success of the team. Junior Cassie Malone and Freshman Kelly MacDonald tied for the most singles wins this year with nine. Kile had the most doubles wins this year with nine, followed closely by Sophomore Sara Ryder who posted 8 doubles victories.

This Wilkes tennis team has a very bright future, with the entire team returning next year except for Liz Roveda. Wilkes will look to increase their win total, and also compete for the conference championship.

During the 2004 season, the Wilkes University Women's Volleyball team had their share of ups and downs. The team fought hard throughout the season and ended with a record of 15-14 overall.

On September 3rd, the Wilkes volleyball team started the season with the King's College Tournament. The team lost against King's College but dominated Keystone College. In the second day of tournament play, Wilkes beat both Marywood University and College Misericordia. For their outstanding performances, sophomore setter Nicole Hahn and junior middle hitter Alicia Vieselmeyer earned spots on the all-tournament team. The following week, Wilkes lost to Marywood in a close fifth game. Alvernia College also defeated Wilkes, but the team came back to win against Ursinus College. On September 14th, Wilkes topped King's College in four games, and sophomore setter Nicole Hahn set a new school record for career assists with 1,162 assists to beat the old record of 1,144. The University of Scranton held its tournament next, and Wilkes beat both Stevens Tech and Montclair State University in day one. The following day, Wilkes lost to the University of Scranton as well as Dickinson College in the match for third place. During the next week, Wilkes beat College Misericordia but was defeated by Lebanon Valley and Rowan University. In their last September game, Wilkes lost to the University of Scranton.

To start off October, the Wilkes volleyball team beat Lehmann College but fell short against Vassar College. The team then edged past Lycoming in five games. Next, Susquehanna University beat Wilkes, but Wilkes earned a victory over Delaware Valley a few days later. On October 16th, the team beat Montclair State University and Neumann College. Wilkes then topped DeSales to earn a berth in the Freedom Conference playoffs. Wilkes then suffered two losses against Baptist Bible and Elizabethtown. Soon after, Wilkes also lost a match against FDU-Florham. After the short string of losses, Wilkes dominated Albright College in three games.

On November 11th, Wilkes entered the Freedom Conference playoffs as the fourth seed, but the team lost to Lycoming in three games, ending their season with a final record of 15 wins and 14 losses.

Most of their games were won or lost by just a basket or two leaving them with a final record of 15-10. Women's Basketball

November 19, 2004

The Wilkes University women's basketball team showed a marked competitive improvement over last year's team, although not indicated in the overall record of the team. Several injuries to key players slowed the team's progress, including a season ending knee injury in the second game of the season to leading returning scorer, senior forward, Andrea DeMaranville, and ankle injuries to junior point guard, Rena Bolin, and freshman shooting guard, Randi Corbo, causing each of them to sit out a couple of weeks worth of games. Despite the injury setbacks, the Lady Colonels were competitive throughout the season with the highlight coming in a thrilling home overtime victory over a FDU team that qualified for the Freedom Conference playoffs. A last second jump shot by Rena Bolin at the end of the overtime period sealed the win for the Colonels.

Inexperience at the center and power forward positions showed throughout the season, but the future looks very bright as starting freshman center, Karyn Perestam, set the school record for blocks in a season and finished 2nd in the Freedom Conference in blocks and 5th in rebounding. Freshman forwards, Lacey Andresen and Katie Cappelloni, showed a lot of potential in the key contributions that each made to the team, after the injury to DeMaranville. Andresen finished 10th in the Freedom Conference in rebounding.

Junior shooting guard, Andrea Kacprowicz, was a consistent shooter, scorer, and a team leader throughout the season, finishing 2nd in the Freedom Conference in 3-point field goals made per game, 3rd in 3point field goal percentage, 3rd in free throw percentage, and 12th in scoring. Backcourt teammate and team captain, junior point guard, Rena Bolin, was voted Second Team All-Conference by the Freedom Conference coaches. Bolin was 10th in the Freedom Conference in scoring, 19th in rebounding, 6th in assists, and 9th in steals. The Lady Colonels Ione senior, starting forward and team captain, Lyndsay Bey, will be missed for her many contributions to the team over her four years and we all wish her the best in her future endeavors

Wrestling

November 6, 2004

Wrestling can be categorized not only as a sport, but as a way of life. During the 2004-2005 season, the wrestling team experienced many hardships over the course of the year. Experiencing setbacks only seemed to make the team stronger and more durable. Each teammate has picked up for those who were weak both mentally and physically, which made us a stronger team. Never give up, never quit and put all your heart into every thing that you do, whether it's in wrestling or life.

This motto has led the Wilkes wrestling team to many great accomplishments, including 5th place in the Mid-Atlantic Conference Championships, ranking 16th in the country as a scholar team with a GPA of 3.177 and one All-American scholar, Kyle Lenio. These accomplishments are not accidental. They have been paid for with the blood, sweat and tears of many dedicated and determined individuals. One may ask what causes a person to put their body and mind through such rigors and abuse. These things are not done because we want to prove ourselves as the toughest or the best, but simply to gain the respect of people we respect most such as our coaches and family. The fear of letting them down drives all of us to succeed in wanting to make them proud.

Alternative Spring Break to Tahlequah, Oklahoma

This year Wilkes University students spent their Spring Break in Tahlequah, Oklahoma to work with school children in a Cherokee Indian Nation. They worked with a Head Start Organization making educational books for the children. They also received a taste of the culture by visiting museums, emersion classrooms where they only speak Cherokee and hearing stories from an Indian storyteller. Other activities included a Rodeo, a visit to the zoo and a visit to Northeastern State University. It was a cultural experience that they will never forget!

Alternative Spring Break to Germany/Poland

This year Wilkes University students spent their Spring Break in Germany and Poland to work on the grounds of the concentration camp Auschwitz. First they spent some time in the city of Berlin, Germany where they received the history of the city, of the Berlin Wall and of World War II. Then they visited Poland and had the opportunity to walk and see first-hand the actual grounds of Auschwitz, the concentration camp and Birkenau, the death camp. They visited a variety of museums and learned of Germany's role in the war, as well other countries involved. They were also able to experience two different cultures. It was definitely an eye-opening experience that they will never forget!

Tune-In Game Show

March 16, 2005

(Sponsored by The Wilkes University Programming Board)

TUNE IN is a high-energy, fast-paced, totally interactive Comedy Game Show played in three rounds with more than 100 exciting questions in twenty categories. TUNE IN is like having a stand-up comic, a game show, and a DJ at the same event. The audience plays along as contestants answering audio questions from radio, television, movies and comedy categories. Everyone has a chance to win until the last five minutes of the show.

-http://www.wilkes.edu

Tune In is like the old television show "Name That Tune," plus a great deal more! If you can hear it...it could be a question. The audience plays along as contestants try to remember names of Popular songs, Commercial jingles, TV theme songs, and Movie sound clips to win cash and prizes. We guarantee a minimum of $250-$500 of cash and prizes every time!

What do you get when you mix comedy, music, movies, a game show, and college students? You get Wilkes University's very own
"Tune-In Game Show." This event took place on March 16 from 8-10 p.m. in the Henry Student Center Ballroom, Jason Narcoonis, freshman business major and Diversity Chair of Programming Board booked the game show after seeing it at the National Association for Campus Activities conference last semester. He said it seemed like a fun event that he thought students would enjoy. The game show is entirely interactive. The questions are similar to those of "Name That Tune."

"Various sound clips from TV, movies, music, comedy, or jingles are played and the contestants, along with the audience, which interacts throughout the game, identify them," Narcoonis said.

According to Stephanie Dickert, senior sociology and criminology major, winners receive cash prizes as well as CDs and DVDs. Programming Board guarantees $250-$500 worth of prizes.

"There are twenty categories with five questions in each. Cash prizes are hidden behind categories on the board. Players win cash and points throughout the game and can't lose them once they win them," explained Narcoonis. The game lasts about an hour and names of audience members who signed up previously are called out throughout the game to participate. -- The Beacon --

Tartuffe

Wilkes University's Department of Visual and Performing Arts presents Molière's Tartuffe, as its final production for the 2004-2005 theatrical season.

Directed by Joseph C. Dawson, with costume design by Stephen Benson, Tartuffe is a romp through the rich imagination of France's most celebrated playwright. Tartuffe is a classic farce in which the title character's (played by senior Benjamin S. Ptashinsky) false piety affects the blind faith of all those he encounters.

A supporting cast of characters, including Orgon (played by junior Thomas D Van Why Jr.) and his wife Elmire (played by Senior Lauren N. Trovillion), are caught up in the web of Tartuffe's machinations which adds to the hilarity of this comedic masterpiece.

The improvement that the Wilkes Lady Colonels have made since they began playing at the Varsity level in 2003 has been remarkable. Personal victories were made by each individual player. A few of these victories stand out such as goals made by Stacey Fimmano, Megan Duke, Bethany Moskevitz, and Kayte Hall. These are only naming a few. Over the course of the 2005 season the Lady Colonels had numerous goals and assists which helped the team build a respectable reputation to be proud of.

Our season so far has been very successful, both from a team standpoint and individually, as well. We currently have won 26 games, with two games remaining against King's and the playoffs next week. We have a chance to break the all time Wilkes softball record for wins. The current record is 29 One good thing is that we have been getting contributions from everyone on the roster. From seniors down to the freshmen, everyone has helped.

Individually, we have several people having outstanding seasons. Andi Dominick is having a great year at shortstop improving on all of her numbers from last year, both offensively and defensively. Jan Nunemacher has done a superb job catching the pitchers, calling the defenses, and batting clean-up. This is especially noteworthy as she is coming off a serious injury over the winter. Alexis Petite has greatly improved all of her numbers from previous years. She is currently hitting almost 100 points over last year's batting average, while at the same time being on the verge of entering the Wilkes record books. She needs one more home run to break the season record and one more home run to break the career home run record. Nadine Taylor also is hitting appox. 100 points higher than last year, while improving all of her power stats. Her defense in centerfield has been exceptional and she is also a strong candidate for the conference player of the year. Laurie Agresti is having another great year. By the time this is printed she will have gotten her 300th strikeout this season and her 500th for her two year career. She is once again leading the NCAA D-3 in strikeouts and is among the nations leaders in ERA and wins. She too, is a candidate for conference player of the year as well as pitcher of the year

History of Wilkes University

Wilkes at 71: The Origins and Growth of our University.

The first home of BUJC was this

from the YMCA. Over a decade later it would also be the birthplace of King's

College

With the graduation of the class of 2004, Wilkes University marks the 71st anniversary since it was founded as the first independent, non-sectarian institution of higher education in Northeastern Pennsylvania. Its evolution from Bucknell University Junior College to Wilkes University has often been difficult, but no one can accuse it of having been dull.

In 1933, there was little higher education available in Northeast Pennsylvania. The state had established what were then known as "normal schools" in Bloomsburg and East Stoudsburg, but made no effort to venture into the heart of the Northern Anthracite Coal Field. The Catholic Church had established colleges in Scranton in 1888, Marywood College in 1915, and College Misericordia in 1924. However, there was still nothing available in Wilkes Barre

There was little interest in filling the void. A proposal made about 1910 for an independent college in Scranton failed. Local leaders argued that what Scranton needed was better vocational education, not a liberal arts college. Wilkes-Barre community leaders were equally unenthusiastic. It was not until 1933 that Bucknell University opened a branch campus in Wilkes Barre, despite the fact that a Bucknell investigator declared that "no interested citizens...and no civic clubs presented any needs whatsoever to me." control, some good and some bad. The end of World War II brought a brief period of prosperity and grow as a result of students financed by the G. I. Bill of Rights. BUJC had modest beginnings. Its first campus was the rented third floor of the Wilkes-Barre Business College. The following year, it expanded to occupy the entire building.

BUJC initially had no dormitories since it was designed to serve local commuter students. Athletic facilities were provided by the Y. M. C. A. Special events were held at the Sterling Hotel, Irem Temple, and various neighborhood churches.

Eugene Farley, a Bucknell faculty member, became director of BUJC in March 1936. He would become the first President of Wilkes College in 1947 and would continue in that office until 1970. He opened a dialogue with Wilkes-Barre's power elite and between 1937 and 1941 secured the donation of four riverfront mansions which became the new home of the college. These buildings, their garages, and other outbuildings were renovated as offices, classrooms, and laboratories. The Kirby home, now housing the English department, would become the library, The garage behind Chase Hall would house a tiny 90-seat theater - Wilkes-Barre's answer to off-Broadway productions.

By 1940, BUJC had been accepted as a desirable addition to the city and a movement began to expand the institution into a four-year independent college. This process was delayed by World War II, although the Board of Trustees announced its intentions of creating an endowment in 1943 and finally secured a charter for Wilkes College in June 1947.

With a small endowment, Wilkes embarked on a journey in which it was in large part affected by circumstances beyond its

As students arrived from farther afield, the first woman's domitory was opened in 1944, and a men's dormitory and a dining hall in 1946. The first new building was a large box, located where Stark 101 and the Stark lobby are today, and opened in the Fall of 1948. This was used for large lecture session and seated over 200. It was followed in 1950 by a gymnasium. The first campus parking lot was established in 1947 on a vacant lot at Franklin and South streets where the Farley Library now stands, beginning a seemingly never-ending effort on the part of the College to produce parking slots faster than faculty, staff, and students could produce cars.

Wilkes fell on hard times in the early 1950s as the supply of veterans was depleted. Once again, the College was saved by an influx of veterans from the Korean War. No sooner was this source exhausted than the Soviet Union came to Wilkes' rescue. The launching of the first successful orbiting satellite by the Soviets in 1957 led the U.S. government to broaden its support of higher education, particularly in science and engineering.

This new flow of financial support and the addition of maturing baby boomers in the mid- to late-sixties brought Wilkes to maturity. Its focus shifted towards the sciences with the first section of Stark Hall being opened in 1957 and a commitment made to develop graduate technical programs. The latter supported bringing a plant of R.C.A. Corporation to Wilkes-Barre. Wilkes was recognized in November 1961 on the "Today" show as a successful new urban college.

The liberal and performing arts also received their due. The Darte Center for the Performing Arts was opened in 1965 and expanded in 1969. A new library, named for President Farley, was opened in 1968. A new dining hall and a large dormitory named Pickering Hall were opened in 1966.

As the 1960s progressed, Wilkes also became known as an athletic power. The wrestling program became nationally known with a multi-year string of conference championships and one national Division III championship. In the late 1960s the football team became equally well-known with a string of 33 consecutive wins over a period of four years.

Unfortunately, hard times were coming. If the 1960s were the best of times, the 1970s proved to be the worst. The end of the baby boom meant that competition for students became more intense and enrollments dropped rapidly. The reservoir was further depleted by the growth of Luzerne County Community College which had been established in the 1960s to provide a less expensive alternative for the first two years of college. Wilkes had been established forty years previously to provide the same service and its competition with King's College had been on a level playing field. Now, for the first time, Wilkes was competing directly with a government-subsidized institution.

The dominant force in the creation of Wilkes College and its growth for nearly four decades was Eugene Farley, director of BUJC from 1936 to 1947, president of Wilkes from 1937 to 1970, and chancellor from 1970 until 1972.

The College suffered devastating losses in the Agnes Flood of June 1972, but received $13 million from the federal government to assist in rebuilding. Unfortunately, as the decade progressed, the college was also confronted by an energy crisis, declining federal support for higher education, and inflationary pressures which increased prices at a rate greater than at any previous time in the 20th century.

The 1970s and 1980s became a time of retrenchment. Only two new buildings were built between 1972 and 1985, an addition to Stark Hall which had been commenced before the flood and which was finished in 1975 and Evans Hall, opened in 1982. Until the 1970s, much of the growth had been unplanned and acquisitions had focused on targets of opportunity, rather than being governed by a coherent long-range acquisition plan. Many of the later buildings acquired were smaller and less distinguished than the grand mansions in which Wilkes had started and were gradually removed, a process further stimulated by the severe damage of the Agnes Flood to many of these structures.

Financial problems and fluctuating student numbers continued to cause problems through the 1990s. Attention now came to focus on the quality of campus life and diversification of programs to stimulate new programs. New constructions projects focused on these goals. A new gymnasium was opened in 1989, replacing the spartan facility which had served Wilkes for 40 years. Other athletic facilities were upgraded as well. Breiseth Hall, a new classroom and office building, was completed in 1995, and the Henry Student Center was completed, consolidating many of the student's non-academic needs in one location for the first time in Wilkes history. Much of Stark Hall was renovated to provide facilities for a new school of Pharmacy, offering Wilkes' first doctoral program.

During the same period, Wilkes recognized its new focus on advanced studies when it was rechristened Wilkes University in December 1989. Today, it has matured, with a more traditional campus environment, a growing enrollment, and optimism for the future.

A special thanks to Dr. Cox for writing and submitting pictures for our History of Wilkes University pages.
