Donkeys Try for Fourth Straight Win

Changes in General Curriculum Proposed by Education Committee

Dr. Harold Thatcher, chairman of the General Education Committee, has announced changes in the general curriculum program of the college that have been drawn up by that body and are being presented to the faculty for its consideration.

Prominent among the changes is the fact that many courses which were required for one semester have now been extended to two semesters. This will provide a greater depth of knowledge of the subjects taken, and at the same time accomplish the purpose of the committee had in mind. This is to provide Wilkes students with a broader liberal education background than they now have. With more of this same background, their knowledge of a variety of subjects would be more nearly equal.

The revisions include a "core program" in General Education. It is as follows: English 101, 102, six hours; English 151, 152, eight hours; history 101, 102, six hours; philosophy 101, 103, six hours; art 101, music 100, (choose one) three hours; math 101, 102, physics 101, 102, biology 101, 102, (choose two) 12 hours; economics 101, 102, political science 101, 102, sociology 101, 102, psychology 101, 102, (choose two) 12 hours; total, 53 hours.

The changes in the Bachelor of Arts program are as follows: art 100, music 100, (choose one) three hours; physics 101, 102, biology 101, 102, math 101, 102, (choose two) twelve hours; philosophy 101, 102, six hours; economics 101, 102; political science 101, 102, sociology 101, 102, psychology 101, 102, (choose two) twelve hours; total 64 hours.

Dr. Francis Michelini is working in conjunction with the heads of the various departments to aid them in fitting these requirements into their programs. In some cases, Dr. Thatcher indicated that the number of required hours for a major might be cut down slightly to facilitate planning, if it was felt that the hours might be more profitably spent taking the liberal arts courses.

Physics Lecture Slated For Stark Hall Next Week

by Mary Alice Gabla

A dual opportunity to chart the stride of physics will be afforded students and faculty alike this Monday and Tuesday when Professor David Lazarus of the University of Illinois visits the Wilkes campus.

Under the auspices of the AIP-NSF Visiting Scientific Program, he will present two lectures—the first at 8 p.m., March 12, covering, in layman's terms, recent developments in physics; the second at 11 a.m., March 13, highlighting such technical aspects as those of Dr. Lazarus' work in solid-state physics.

The area's secondary-school instructors have received invitations to the talks; thus allowing for greater audience participation.

Both talks will be held in Stark Hall, South River Street.

Artists Display Designs

The contemporary design class of the art department, under the direction of Mr. Kent Kirby, will present a "Design For A Dollar Display."

This display will be a unique one in that all thirteen objects shown, including a brush made of nails, will have cost less than one dollar to construct. The work, which is the product of art majors and non-art majors as well, will be displayed in the Conyngham Annex foyer beginning today.

I.C.G. Will Host Regional Convention On Campus Sunday

For the second consecutive year, the campus chapter of the Inter-collegiate Conference on Government will act as host for the Northeast Regional Convention of the ICG to be held on Sunday. Doctor Farley will present the welcoming address to the delegates, and tentative plans have been made that would have both Congressmen Daniel Flood and William Scranton make speeches during the day.

Delegates will come from thirteen colleges in the Northeastern part of Pennsylvania in addition to the local chapter. The schools to be represented include: Cedar Crest College, Keystone Junior College, King's College, Kutztown State College, Lafayette College, Lehigh University, Lycoming College, Hazleton Extension of Pennsylvania State University, University of Scranton, and East Stroudsburg State College.

The delegates will operate in a manner analogous to that of Congress, in that member delegates will submit bills which will be referred to a committee. Pending approval by the committee, the bill will then go to the general session of the delegates where it will be debated and voted upon.

Rick Rees and Estelle Manos are coordinators for the Convention, and Rees, who is the regional publicity director for the ICG, will be nominated as state speaker from this region.

SALINGER'S NOVEL TO BE REVIEWED

Robert Bomboy, junior English major, was elected temporary chairman of the newly organized English Club. At the last meeting of the club, which is under the direction of Dr. William Edgerton, chairman of the English department, members discussed plans for the remainder of the year.

Suggestions for future meetings included films, group discussions, and an investigation of opportunities open to graduates in English.

Several members of the club briefly discussed six contemporary novels, and members voted to read and review Salinger's Catcher In The Rye, at the next meeting.

Meetings will be held every two weeks on Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Pickering 203. The next meeting will be held on March 20. Membership in the club is open to all interested students.

Shown above are several donkeys similar to the type which will appear on campus next week. The burros will be seeking their fourth consecutive victory on Thursday night at 8 in the gymnasium.

'Manuscript' Seeks Literary Gems, Monetary Gifts to Aid Program

by Barbara A. Lore

Hear ye, hear ye. — All budding literary geniuses and philanthropists, come to the aid of the Manuscript! With blithe confidence in the generosity of the students of Wilkes, the literary society is seeking contributions both literary and monetary.

One-Act Plays Continue Tonight, Tomorrow at Theater

Two one-act plays will be presented by Cue and Curtain tonight and tomorrow night in Chase Theater. The club's first offering for the spring semester will include "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden" by Thornton Wilder and "The American Dream" by Edward Albee.

Emily Weinberg, a sophomore elementary education major, directs "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden" cast which includes Marsha Hefferan, Lynn Maslanka, Sieglinde Vallot, Ray Gleason, Steve Panken, and Walt Dexter. Lighting effects are by Mindy Weinberg.

Directed by Steve Schwartz, a senior English major, the cast of "The American Dream" includes Ruth Friedlander, Joan Pitney, Pat Chapracki, David Fendrick, and David S. Peters. Lighting effects are by Edward Lipinski. Arthur Palencar is art director and Robert Dew and James Stanton are stage managers for both plays.

Student direction will be under the supervision of Mr. Alfred Groh, director of dramatics.

Curtain time has been set for 8 p.m.

Ellington Tickets on Sale

Tickets are now on sale for the Junior Class Jazz Concert, featuring Duke Ellington and his orchestra, to be held in the Wilkes College gym at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, March 31. General admission tickets at $2 and reserved seat tickets at $3.50 can be purchased at the Square Record Shop.

Reservations can be made by calling VA 3-9003 or writing to Conrad Wagner, in care of Wilkes College.

Stiff-legged Dynamite Explodes Thursday As Faculty Meet Students

It will be an evening of thrills and spills at the gymnasium next Thursday when the sophomore class will sponsor an entirely different sports spectacular. This cage game on burros will begin at 8 p.m.

This hilarious match, Donkey Basketball, has split the sides of three previous college audiences, originating in the Spring of '59 when it was introduced to the campus by the Class of '61.

Once again, the Faculty Flashes, led by Dr. Michelini and Dean of Men George Relston, will match their muleheads with those of the Student Stars, captained by Don Eller.

The Flashes are a team of experts on qualities often found in mules. Besides Dr. Michelini and Dean Ralston, the faculty roster includes John Whitby, Robert Morris, Larry Weed, Francis Pinkowski, Al Zawadzki, John Reese, and Girard Gaughan.

Listed among the Student Stars are Rick Rees, Buddy Menaker, and Joe Shamble.

Four members on each team, two forwards and two guards, get set under a basket, using the opposite basket as their goal. The players remain close to their scented burros until the ball is thrown into the middle of the floor. Once he receives the ball, a player must be mounted or holding the reins if he wishes to pass it or shoot a basket. No player is allowed to hold the ball for more than 15 seconds.

Other than these four basic rules, anything goes since there are no out-of-bounds, time-outs, or fouls, and even the mules can exchange players. Jerry Shilanski, experienced muleteer, will give the play by play of the donkey classic.

During intermission, while the mules are giving the players a rest, there will be a few surprises. Jim Jones, general chairman of the jackass extravaganza, is working with the Circle K Club to entertain a group of underprivileged children.

The tickets for adults are 75 cents. Children under 12 will be admitted for 50 cents. Children's tickets will be sold only at the door.

Assisting Jones are Ed Rogalski, publicity; Gail Roberts, Barbara Stevens, Fred Smithson, personnel; Jerry Shilanski, program; Alan Gubanich, technical arrangements; George Evancho, Roger Rymer, ticket sales; Rosemary Hagel, Sally Schoffstall, refreshments.

Class Meetings Scheduled

All classes will conduct compulsory meetings on Thursday at 11 a.m. Students should check the campus bulletin boards for announcements concerning the location of their particular class meeting.

Truth, on Friday, March 16 at 7 p.m. in Stark 116. To further organize plans for both the movie and the forthcoming publication, the staff will meet next Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Pickering 101. All students interested in joining the Manuscript staff are invited to attend this meeting.

EDITORIAL—

Decision

President Kennedy's reluctant decision to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere has brought a wide variety of reactions from all corners of the world.

In Japan, the foreign ministry issued a letter urging President Kennedy to "reconsider your present decision to resume testing." Britain and France, who had been consulted in advance by Kennedy, have officially indicated support of the decision. The official Soviet news agency, Tass, called the president's offer "a clumsy attempt to justify himself before the world."

Here in the United States, the decision was also met with a variety of reactions. Many citizens have praised the president's move to resume on the grounds that our nation is falling behind Russia in the field of weaponry. Other groups have criticized Kennedy because of the threat to the health of the nation which may be involved.

The president emphasized the fact that the decision was reached reluctantly and after a great deal of deliberation. Examination of the more than forty tests made by Russia last year revealed many technological advances made by the Soviets.

We as a nation must be prepared to keep the peace, but we cannot allow ourselves to stand idly by while the Soviet Union makes advances in this all-important field. We must proceed cautiously in our efforts to reach a peaceful agreement, but these efforts must not endanger the security which comes as a result of being adequately prepared.

The decision of the president must be evaluated by considering all aspects of the resolution. The question of a possible health hazard has been debated by the nation's scientists for some time. Some feel that it presents a serious threat to the health of our people. Others feel that the effects of the testing would present little or no menace.

In any event, we cannot allow our fears to take possession of our better judgment. Decisions such as the one made by Kennedy are necessary if we are to prove to ourselves and to the world that we are a nation to be respected.

Korean War Orphan Adopted by Compassionate Girls of Sterling

The Korean War of 1950-53 and the years that immediately followed left literally thousands of Korean children homeless, without fathers or mothers, and suffering from starvation and disease.

Yoo Kyung Sook

Obviously such conditions were repulsive to citizens of the United States and other civilized countries. The question was, "What could be done?" Some people merely recognized the dilemma, while others decided to do something about it.

It is because of those, who decided to act instead of shaking their heads in dismay that an eleven-year-old Korean girl, who had lost both her parents, today has not one but 21 young mothers.

Little Yoo Kyung Sook is undoubtedly very grateful to the residents of Sterling Hall who have adopted her and have agreed to help finance her education and life at the People Loving Christian Orphanage in Choonchun City, Korea.

The girls decided a few weeks ago that they would like to do something worthwhile and found that through the Everett Swanson Evangelistic Association, Incorporated, they could sponsor a Korean orphan for as little as $8.00 a month.

This was all the compassionate girls needed and without further delay arrangements were made for (continued on page 4)

KAMPUS KAMERA

What is your opinion of President Kennedy's decision to resume atmospheric nuclear tests?

Pat Rossi, junior, elementary education major

Under the existing world circumstances, I sincerely believe that President Kennedy had no other choice but to resume nuclear testing. I think that the United States has every right to continue nuclear testing, as long as we keep in mind the possible consequences of fallout and world dissension, and attempt to work within certain limited bounds.

Jerome Krasa, senior, political science major

I favored our resumption of atmospheric testing after the Soviet Union did so last Fall and felt that it was only a matter of time before the President would make the announcement he did last week. However, he showed his political skill in the intervening months by winning public support for his stand, even from such former opponents of testing as Dr. Hans Beta of Cornell.

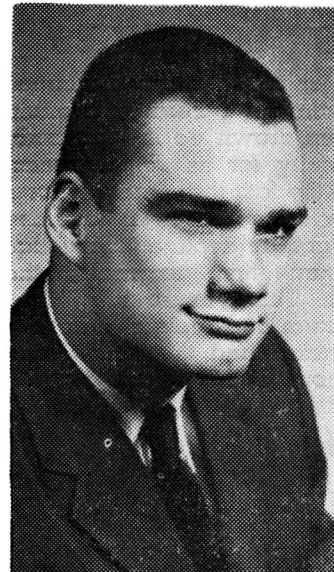

STUDENT SKETCH

Future Chemist Mixes Physics To Broaden Scientific Training

by Gloria Zaludek

This week's subject for the Student Sketch, senior chemistry major David Edwards, certainly has an "electric" personality. He has made, from old radios, speakers, and "junk" around the house, a stereo set that actually works. It is not quite as professional looking as the conventional type since it has six old speakers and wires under rugs; nevertheless, it works.

Dave's galvanic interest began when, this year, he assisted Dr. Detwiler of the Physics department, in a research project with electricity in solid state physics including crystals and salts. The research was sponsored by the Air Force and will be a project worked on in the new graduate program within the next two years.

David Edwards

Although his interest in electricity began recently, evidences of Dave's "electric" personality may be found throughout his high school and college years. He was president of his senior class at Meyers High School, and vice-president of its student council.

On campus he has been, for two consecutive years, vice-president of his class and president of the Chemistry Club, and a member of the male chorus. Recently he was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Dave says that he has enjoyed his college years and is looking forward to, after graduation, continuing laboratory work in analytical chemistry. He hopes to do graduate work and perhaps teach on the college level. For this work he believes that he has been well prepared at Wilkes. "I have found that industry," he explained, "is satisfied with the background and experience we receive here. Then language and science backgrounds which I have received at the College are certainly, I believe, comparable to those of any other high-caliber college."

"Wilkes has been experiencing 'growing pains' in several fields," he added. "The science departments, for example, have grown rapidly since my freshman year with the addition of buildings and equipment." Dave enumerated several scientific additions in equipment which will help students become aware of what industry is using: spectragraphs, graph-recording instruments, and x-ray defraction units for crystal study.

Indeed as important, or perhaps more important, than laboratory space and equipment is another advantage of the College: professor-student contact. Dave says that he prefers a small college because one realizes a closer relationship — both academically and non-academically — with his professors.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edwards of Wilkes-Barre, Dave has been making "sparks fly" in the chemistry and physics labs for several years. Who knows? Perhaps he will soon "electrify the world" with some shocking discoveries. He could, for instance, add video to his stereo!

artists of the Town and Gown Concert Sunday afternoon at 3:30 to be held at the Wilkes College gym.

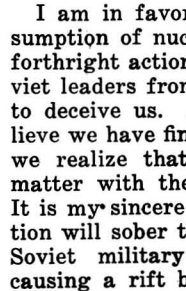

Both programs will feature Mozart's "Serenade No. 11, K. 375" and Dvorak's "Serenade in D Minor, Opus 44".

Members of the ensemble are Donald Jones, oboe; Edward Yadzinski and Robert Kundreskas, clarinet; Robert Eike, bassoon; Donivee Miller, horn; William Zaykowski, trombone; and Ray Nutaitus, tuba.

Messrs. Martin Friedmann and Lawrence Weed, members of the music faculty of Wilkes, will conduct the Orchestra Festival and the Town and Gown Concert, respectively.

Alfonso S. Zawadski, Registrar

I am in favor of immediate resumption of nuclear testing. This forthright action will deter the Soviet leaders from further attempts to deceive us. As a nation, I believe we have finally matured when we realize that to conciliate the matter with the Soviets is futile. It is my sincere hope that this action will sober the thoughts of the Soviet military officials thereby causing a rift between their military and political chiefs concerning aggression.

Bronis Kaslas, Associate Professor of History

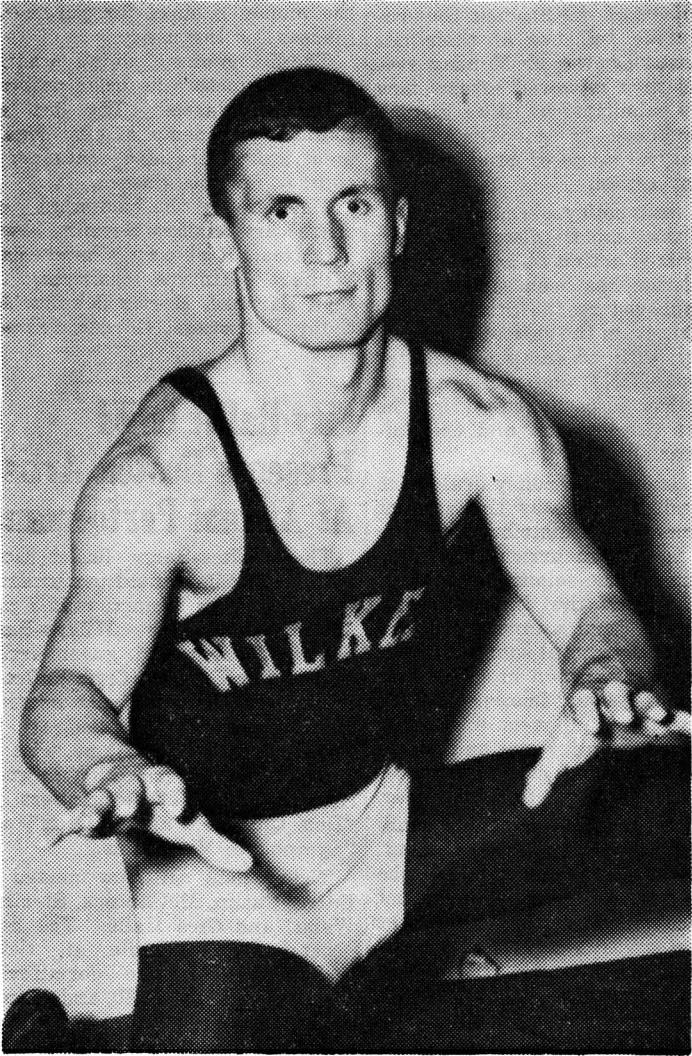

It is regrettable that the United States has to resume the nuclear tests.

The motives, as expressed in the President's speech, for resuming the tests are very serious, and, I believe, that this will contribute to the preservation of peace. Allowing Russia to acquire an absolute superiority in military technology would, I think, increase the dangers of war.

Ted Toluba Registers Four Pins To Capture 167-Pound MAC Title

As a result of his stunning victories to gain the 167-pound championship at the Middle Atlantic Conference Tournament at West Chester last weekend, Ted Toluba has been named Outstanding Wrestler of the tournament.

Ted began his victory skein by pinning Kenny Beaman of Delaware in 4:55. Next came Sam Goldberg of Albright who was disposed of by Ted, using a cradle hold in 1:15. Ben Portinof of Bucknell provided the next challenge for Toluba, but succumbed to the Wilkes grappler's superior speed and ability in 2:04.

TED TOLUBA

The finals found Ted matched with Swarthmore's Al Watler. After leading throughout the bout, Ted applied the clincher in 7:41, and acquired the 167-pound title.

A senior, majoring in Secondary Education, Ted is a graduate of Lehman - Jackson High School where he starred in football and wrestling. He remained undefeated in league meets while captaining the Lakers' wrestling squad to the Rural-Urban League title during his senior year. He also captured the District II 157-pound championship and was runnerup in his class at the PIAA regional finals.

For the past four seasons Ted has been one of the stalwarts of John Reese's wrestling squad. His efforts have contributed a great deal to the outstanding record the Colonels have compiled during his career at Wilkes. His winning of the 157-pound MAC title in 1959 was instrumental in bringing the championship to Wilkes. He has been one of the steadiest performers on the squad.

The Beacon Sports Staff extends congratulations to Ted Toluba for a job done in true Wilkes fashion. It is indeed a fitting way to terminate his collegiate career.

Intramural Hoopsters End Play As Tournament Starts for Title

Tournament time hits intramural basketball next week as the top four squads in the American and National Leagues begin a round-robin schedule to decide the top team on the campus. The play is scheduled to run five evenings with the champion being crowned on March 21.

In late action the hoopsters of Warner Hall captured a cliff-hanging victory over Barre Hall, 51-48, as Bob King tapped in two late baskets for the margin of victory. Barre held a five-point lead at the half but the Warnermen made a major comeback to score the win. Bud Menaker led the victors with 16 points as Gary Einhorn and Bob King combined for 17 points. Bill Douglas led the Barremen with 18 points.

The Playboys kept their winning skein alive in American League play by downing the Hot Ashes, 69-41. Dave Peters led the victors with 19 points as Smith, Fudjack, and Gelli also hit twin figures. Joe Cobleigh led the Hot Ashes with 10 points.

Matt Himlin sent the Shawnees into a romp over the Gunners with a 32-point outburst. The Indians captured a 12-34 runaway over their taller opponents after the teams battled on equal terms for the opening quarter. Bob 'Snuffy' Smith, Stan 'Tosh' Karmilovich, Barry Bryant and John Tensa also hit twin figures for the Plymouth squad. Howie Herring, Walt Prusakowski, and John Evannish collected 32 points in the Gunners' losing cause.

Pairings for the playoff tournament will be announced this afternoon by League Commissioner Ron Musselman.

Aquamen Finish Season At MAC Tournament; Injuries Hamper Team

by Kathy Thomas

The mermen were represented in the MAC tourney at Gettysburg last week, and although they bowed to defeat, the swimmers gave their opponents a struggle never to be forgotten. Colonel aquamen in the tourney were John J. Miller and Ron Masters in the diving competition, and Gary Greaser in the 200-yard backstroke.

In pre-season practice, prospects looked bright for the on-coming year, but during the season, the team was faced with disaster time after time. In the first meet, the mermen were winning when one of the better swimmers was disqualified and this forced Wilkes to a defeat. Gary Greaser, a strong backstroker, suffered a broken bone in his elbow, causing him to miss two important meets. The two team captains were also lost to the squad, due to school averages. Tom Troy, a sure pointgetter, dislocated his knee before the first meet; thus he, too, was lost to the team for the remainder of the season.

The practice schedule of Wilkes' swimmers was restricted because of complications of their practice pool at the YMCA.

These difficulties undoubtedly had some effect on this year's success of the team.

However there were a few bright spots during the season. The team had set three new school records. In the 400-yard relay against Drexel, Gary Greaser, Dick Bender, Roger Rolfe, and John J. Miller lowered the record by two seconds. The time was 5:02.7 and reduced to 5:00.

In the 50-yard freestyle against Harpur College, Jack Barnes cut the record of 25:4 to 25:3.

In the backstroke, Gary Greaser broke the 200-yard recourse twice during the year. In the last meet of the season he reduced the record of 2:58.8 by 5 seconds, making a new time of 2:53.5.

Even though the mermen have not had the successful season expected by all fans, next year's meets might be more gratifying, especially since the team now has three freshmen who stand high in point scoring.

Matmen Dethroned at West Chester; Gardner, Toluba Capture Titles

After five years of domination of Middle Atlantic Conference wrestling, the Wilkes grapplers were dethroned last Saturday by the Warriors of Lycoming College at the MAC tournament at West Chester. The Lycoming wrestlers, whom the Colonels defeated during the season in a dual meet, amassed 70 points to unseat the defending champions.

Although the Colonels came out of the tourney with two individual champions, John Gardner at 147 pounds, and Ted Toluba at 167 pounds, they were able to account for only 37 points and were delegated to a fourth place tie with Hofstra.

John Gardner

Several key factors contribute to the fall of Wilkes from the apex of MAC wrestling. A disabling injury to Bob Ainsworth, 177-pound performer, who had been undefeated this season, created a vacuum in his weight class. It is ironic that the champion at 177 this year was Lycoming's Dave Fortin, whom Ainsworth had beaten soundly in this year's dual meet with the Warriors.

Another factor in the Wilkes defeat was the failure of Brooke Yeager to secure his expected championship. Brooke got to the semi-finals by registering two falls. In the semi-final, however, he was decisively, 8-2, by Don Hannon of Hofstra. The significance of this loss lies in the fact that Brooke defeated Hannon earlier this season.

John Gardner turned in an outstanding effort in winning the 147-pound title. John fashioned his victory through three decisions and one fall. The former West Side Catholic wrestler took a 5-4 time advantage decision from Bernie Coyle of Bucknell in the final to acquire the championship.

Ted Toluba collected the Outstanding Wrestler award in winning the 167-pound title. (See "Athlete of the Week" story, this page.)

West Chester was runnerup in the tourney with 55 points while Bucknell came in third with 44.

Preliminary Results

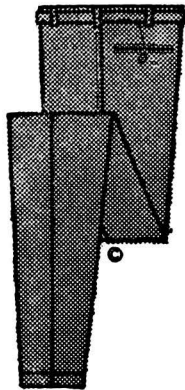

- 123—Yeager (W) pinned Berman, Swarthmore, 4:30, and pinned Breinig, Muhlenberg, 3:30.

- 137—Parlett, West Chester, decisively Gladtko (W), 4-1.
- 147—Gardner (W), decisively Gubbs, Moravian, 8-4, and decisively Mahler, Lebanon Valley, 12-0.
- 157—Gleason, Hofstra, decisively Ziegler (W), 3-2.
- 167—Toluba (W), pinned Beaman, Delaware, 4:55, and pinned Goldberg, Albright, 1:15.
